

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

Ha

la

HAI R G F

HUD
286
20

HARVARD COLLEGE

CLASS OF 1886

SECRETARY'S REPORT
No. VI
DECEMBER, 1906

NEW YORK
M CM VII

SECRETARY TO THE UNIVERSITY, HARVARD UNIVERSITY,
CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS

CLASS COMMITTEE

THOMAS TILESTON BALDWIN	FREDERIC CLARKE HOOD
WILLIAM COWPER BOYDEN	ALAN GREGORY MASON
AUGUSTUS PEABODY GARDNER	EDWARD HALL NICHOLS
ODIN BARNES ROBERTS

CLASS SECRETARY

JOHN HENRY HUDDLESTON

FOREWORD

TO THE CLASS OF EIGHTY-SIX:

It is with great pleasure that I offer you this Sixth Class Report, the report of twenty years after graduation. The amount of work in the compilation has been unusually large, for greater efforts than ever before have been made to get in touch with every living one of the three hundred and eleven included; and yet though repeated appeals have been made, letters written to other members of the class, and to secretaries of other classes, to reputed friends, and to postmasters, some few have eluded search. A careful attempt with much consequent delay has also been made to record correctly the parentage, the full names of all the family, and the dates important in the history. Errors have nevertheless certainly crept in. Kindly correct them.

The earlier reports are exhausted, and as calls still come from members of '86 who have lost their copies, as well as from libraries and offices entitled to have copies, obituaries and some other matter contained in earlier reports have been given again either fully or in condensed form.

In the early days of this Report I thought I might draw on myself a pleasingly rapid fire of letters from you by adopting reformed spelling, and requested Mr. DeVinne to carry out the idea. The following letter came promptly:

DEAR DOCTOR HUDDLESTON:

Your letter of recent date at hand and in the matter of making the Harvard Class Book conform to the simplified spelling plan we beg to say that this would be a very expensive experiment. There are about 30 galley proofs now in type and we would have to re-read according to the new code and correct. This is all time work.

In future composition we should imagine the increased cost of this new method would be anywhere from 30 to 40 cents per page more than our quotation. You see, the compositors are not familiar with this code and all their work would be very slow, and we would have to pay them extra price for setting the matter.

Pending further advices from you we will do nothing along this line. Kindly let us hear from you at once, and oblige.

Very truly yours,

THEO. L. DE VINNE & Co.

In view of this criticism it seemed hardly worth while to tax the Class fund for a little excitement.

Too many groups have been tested by the application of the Who's Who in America standard for your secretary not to look curiously for the result with '86. The last edition of the famous manual is found to name the following twenty-three as Who's Who in '86. E. H. Babbitt, P. L. Campbell, G. R. Carpenter, H. T. Chase, F. T. Cooper, P. R. Frothingham, J. A. Frye, A. P. Gardner, B. Gunnison, H. Lamont, A. H. Lloyd, C. A. Loeser, F. B. Mallory, W. F. Osgood, T. W. Richards, J. W. Riddle, G. Santayana, D. W. Shea, C. M. Thompson, G. Bradford, Jr., W. R. Hearst, W. V. Judson, and F. B. Taylor.

How many more should be in this list will appear from the pages of this Report.

Finally as always I must express my pleasure and thanks at the receipt of so many cordial letters from you, my delight in the task which makes this correspondence possible, and my kindest greetings and good wishes for you all.

Your Classmate,

JOHN HENRY HUDDLESTON.

CLASS OF 1886.

Everett Vergnies Abbot		††Prince Lucian Campbell
Harry Stephens Abbot		††Gouverneur Morris Carnochan
Henry Ward Abbot		George Rice Carpenter
Benjamin Rush Abbott		Seward Cary
*George Caspar Adams	1900	David Blaisdell Chamberlain
*Herbert Tufts Allen	1892	Harold Taylor Chase
William Lothrop Allen		Stephen Chase
Oliver Ames		Frank Spooner Churchill
Frederic William Atherton		Adams Davenport Clafin
Francis Boylston Austin		David Crawford Clark
*Henry Morton Ayars	1896	Walter Thomas Clark
James Cook Ayer		George Wadsworth Cobb
*†††Dean Richmond Babbitt	1905	Edmund Dwight Codman
†Eugene Howard Babbitt		Frederic Coggeshall
Charles Samuel Babcock		Clinton Collins
Wendell Baker		Robert George Cook
Thomas Tileston Baldwin		David Hill Coolidge
William Woodward Baldwin		Frederic Taber Cooper
William Sanford Barnes		*††Arthur Deloraine Corey
Walter Knox Barton		††Lysander William Cushman
Boylston Adams Beal		Arthur Kehew Day
*Raymond Rodgers Belmont	1887	William Richardson Dewey
Charles Frederick Bigelow		Frank Elliot Dickerman
Ralph Waldo Black		*Hugh Thompson Dickey
Percy Gardner Bolster		Harrison Dike
William Gibson Borland		Henry Hyde Dwight
William Cowper Boyden		*Walter Howard Edgerly
George Gardner Bradford		Arthur Faulkner
John Dorr Bradley		John Charles Faulkner
*William Dade Brewer	1898	†Irving Wetherbee Fay
Charles Albert Brown		*††Samuel Marcus Fechheimer
Crawford Richmond Brown		*Cornelius Conway Felton
William Woodworth Bruner		Ebenezer Hayward Ferry
George Butler Bryant		Sewall Henry Fessenden
Francis Bullard		Frederic Daniell Fisk
*Charles Cutter Burnett	1900	Charles Ruel Fletcher
Thomas Handasyd Cabot		Robert Dumont Foote
Henry Lorillard Cammann		Henry Edward Fraser

* Deceased.

† Joined the Class Sophomore Year.

†† Joined the Class Junior Year.

††† Joined the Class Senior Year.

Frank Ravenel Frost		Alfred Henry Lloyd
*Lewis Pierce Frost	1900	Charles Alexander Loeser
Paul Revere Frothingham		Edward Clark Lunt
James Albert Frye		*Frank Anthony Luques
William Morton Fullerton		Herbert Lyman
Thomas Hovey Gage		Hall McAllister
Augustus Peabody Gardner		††John Franklin McClure
Charles Langdon Gibson		††Maurice McKim
Albert Augustus Gleason		††Loren Benjamin Macdonald
Edward Borden Gray		Henry Waters Magill
Henry Arthur Griffin		Frank Burr Mallory
Courtenay Guild		Alan Gregory Mason
Binney Gunnison		John McKinstry Merriam
†††Francis Raymond Haley		*Henry Cowles Miller
Edward Everett Hamlin		†William Horatio Miller
*Selwyn Lewis Harding	1887	*Charles Lewis Mills
George Balmer Harris		*Charles Henry Minot
Charles Learner Harrison		Francis Joseph Moors
Bertram Curtis Henry		Johnson Morton
Henry Arnold Henshaw		Otis Angelo Mygatt
Le Roy Lincoln Hight		Edward Hall Nichols
Benjamin Thomas Hill		Gilbert Clifford Noble
George Pepperell Frost Hobson		William Fogg Osgood
*Robert Wortley Hogg	1899	†Jesse Maxwell Overton
†††William Harrison Holliday		Henry Ernest Oxnard
Frederic Clarke Hood		†Franklin Sawyer Palmer
Alanson Bigelow Houghton		Joseph Newell Palmer
†Percival Spurr Howe		James Henry Payne
Walter Henry Howe		George Lee Peabody
George Edwin Howes		†Wilmot Grant Peirce
John Henry Huddleston		Spencer Penrose
Charles Otis Hurd		Gilman Nichols Perkins
Frank Edward Hurley		Luis James Phelps
Herbert Bacon Hutchins		Walter Brigham Phillips
Edward Borden Jennings		†Charles Philip Pinckard
George Frank Jewett		Horton Pope
*Samuel Cleaves Jones	1903	Charles Dudley Porter
Frank Alexander Kendall		†Charles Augustus Pratt
Nehemiah Samuel Kenison		Gustave Adolph Pudor
Marcus Morton Kimball		Edward Everett Rankin
*Charles Estus Lamb	1905	*John Henry Rathbone
Hammond Lamont		*Thomas Walter Reynolds
††George Fortuné Lapeyre		Eben Richards
Milton Slocum Latham		*Henry Augustus Richards
Edward Thomas Lee		†††Theodore William Richards
††Charles Lester Leonard		†Hazen Kimball Richardson
*Fred Theodore Lincoln	1889	Jacob William Richardson
*Lowell Lincoln	1906	Myron Wallace Richardson
William Littauer		*Sumner Dow Richardson

Odin Barnes Roberts		Charles Miner Thompson
Robert Fletcher Rogers		John McQuaid Thompson
Edward Cavender Rowse		Charles Hitchcock Tyler
*Henry Edward Salisbury	1902	*Frank Hamilton Underwood	1906
*Thomas Parker Sanborn	1889	Augustus Hugo Vogel
George Santayana		Camillo von Klenze
*†Adolph Thurnauer Scholle	1894	††Hugh Cambell Ward
Samuel Mathewson Scott		John Bell Washburn
Theodore Sedgwick		Walter Bowen Waterman
Daniel William Shea		†††William Grant Webster
Walter Willard Simmons		George Marston Weed
*Joseph Edward Sinnott	1892	†††George Standish Weed
William Henry Slocum		Frederic Coffin Weld
Clarence Wright Smith		Stiles Gannett Wells
Frank Bulkeley Smith		§ Robert Dickson Weston
Frank Warren Smith		Charles Nathan Brooks Wheeler
William Lord Smith		George Rantoul White
Arthur Lincoln Snell		Crosby Church Whitman
Robert Keith Snow		Hubert Granville Wilbur
Shirley Robinson Snow		*Charles Abbot Wilson	1888
*Edmund Nathaniel Snyder	1896	William Reynolds Wilson
George Burbank Somers		††Irvah Lester Winter
Charles Gerard Havens Stephens		Grenville Lindall Winthrop
Charles Brooks Stevens		George Whittemore Woodbury
George Blanchard Stevens		Gordon Woodbury
William Abbott Stone		Edward Clarence Wright
*††Percy Hayes Taylor	1893		—227

Paul Allen ³		†John Purinton Fay ³
Charles Sumner Balcomb ³		Walter Clark Fish ³
*†John Wheeler Bemis ³	1902	*George Herbert Fisk ³	1899
Oliver William Bird ¹		Emlyn Metcalf Gill ³
Harrison Gray Blake ³		††Charles Freeman Gilman ³
Gamaliel Bradford ¹		William Cartwright Gordon ³
John Joseph Brennan ¹		Edwin Eldon Graham ³
Elliott Bright ⁴		*Robert Rawson Grayson ²	1901
Thomas Hepburn Buckler ¹		*Edward Jewett Hall ³	1890
Judd Ellis Buley ³		George Franklin Harding ¹
Ernest Leroy Caldwell ¹		Roland English Hartley ²
*Joseph Bluxome Chadbourn ¹	1903	William Randolph Hearst ¹
††Winthrop Astor Chanler ³		Frank Hitchcock ¹
*William Henry Cole ³	1903	Henry Cutter Holt ³
Sidney Coolidge ¹		Ernest Howard Hosmer ⁴
*Samuel Aldrich Crozer ¹	1898	Thomas Hunt ³
Arthur Mark Cummings ¹		George Platt Hurd ³
William Stapp Ennis ³		Robert William Jennings ³

§ Changed from Robert Dickson Weston-Smith.
The superior figures indicate the year of leaving the class.

Rudolf Jordan ¹	*Samuel Blythe Rogers ¹	1893
William Voorhees Judson ²	Edward Everett Rose ¹
Louis Krumbhaar ³	William Noble Roundy ¹
Charles Oram Lander ⁴	Percy Walker Selby ¹
Charles Thornton Libby ³	Cleveland Houghton Smith ³
Hersey Goodwin Locke ³	Arthur Curtis Sprague ¹
Richard King Longfellow ⁴	Walter Ames Stebbins ¹
Edward Lovering ¹	*Julius Warren Strauss ³	1885
††Manton Maverick ³	Howard Taylor ³
Charles Henry Morrill ²	†Ward Thoron ⁴
†††John Ray Miller ⁴	Horace Paul Thurlow ²
Henry Warrington Ninde ¹	Herbert Timmins ⁴
*William Hall Noyes ¹	Gilbert Tompkins ³
Francis Stanley Parker ²	*Frederick Learned Torrey ⁴	1903
George Richmond Parsons ³	Robert Baxter Upham ¹
Alfred Mead Potter ¹	Hancke Frederick Wagener ¹
William Hubley Potter ²	Edward Ingersoll Wells ¹
Tudor Wolcott Powers ²	Harry Sumner Williams ³
Joseph Langdon Quimby ¹	†Lewis Amasa Wood ²
John Wallace Riddle ³	Franklin Wyman ²
John Jones Roberts ²	William Frederick Zeller ¹
	—78 + 227 = 305
Garrett Droppers	*James Ellis Humphrey	1897
Malcolm Graeme Haughton	George William Leighton
*Roland Hayward	Frank Bursley Taylor

Note.—The first list includes those who received degrees, the second all others who at any time were members of the class and the third those whose social relations have been especially with the class.

RECORD OF THE CLASS TO AUGUST, 1906

EVERETT VERGNIES ABBOT

Born February 3, 1862, at Meadville, Pa.

Father's Name : Francis Ellingwood Abbot

Mother's Maiden Name : Katherine Fearing Loring

Present Address : 12 West 18th St., New York, N. Y.

Business, 45 Cedar St., New York

Present Business : Law. Name of Firm : Keith & Abbot

Degrees : LL.B., and A.M., 1889.

'86 to '89, he was in the Harvard Law School and one of the editors of the Harvard Law Review.

After graduation he settled in New York and has since practised, law in that city. In '95, in conjunction with Roger Foster he wrote "A Treatise on the Federal Income Tax under the Act of 1894." For two years he lectured on legal subjects in the Metropolis Law School, which was afterward consolidated with the law department of New York University.

In 1900 he was Secretary of the Indianapolis convention of the National Party.

'05, wrote: "There is little that I can tell you of my career for the past three years. So far as it has had significance outside of its professional relationships, it lies in the political work that I have essayed to do. Since I have been and am a sound-money, free-trade anti-imperialist, the results, as such results are usually measured, have been scarcely visible. The breed to which I belong is so few in numbers and so generally regarded as too idealistic for a practical world that its influence is of the slightest."

'06, wrote: "I have spent the winter and time and money and patience in drafting election law bills. Most of the reform bills of that class that we introduced into our legislature last winter went through the chemic processes of my brain—and you can prognosticate the result as well as the next man.

" Apart from that, it is with me as with the rest—the same old grind. The world does not appreciate me, and I have to take it out in appreciating myself. What a loss to the world!"

HARRY STEPHENS ABBOT

Born October 20, 1863, at Concord, N. H.

Father's Name: Edward Augustus Abbot

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Elizabeth Thompson

Present Address: Business, 59 Liberty St., N. Y. City

Name of Firm: Lawyers' Mortgage Co.

Marriage: Date, June 4, 1890. Place: Skaneateles, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Alice Rebecca Loney

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Alice Louisa April 16, 1894

'86-'87, traveling abroad.

'87-'94, with the Kings County Elevated R. R. Co.

'94-'97, real estate business in New York.

'97-'99, real estate department of the Bowery Savings Bank, New York.

'99-'01, with the Brooklyn Rapid Transit accounting department.

'02-'02, salesman for machinery.

'02, with the New York Mortgage & Security Co.

'03 to present time, salesman with Lawyers' Mortgage Co.

Is living at Pelham Manor.

HENRY WARD ABBOT

Born June 23, 1862, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Henry Ward Abbot

Mother's Maiden Name: Elizabeth Gair Bradlee

Present Address: Home, Yarmouthport, Mass.

Present Business: Co-trustee

Marriage: Date, May 19, 1898. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife: Isabel Anderson

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Anna Ward March 10, 1899

Elizabeth Bradlee September 12, 1901

Henry Ward August 21, 1904

Since graduation he has lived in Boston and Yarmouthport and has occupied himself chiefly in reading and painting; has travelled to some extent and has amused himself with shooting and fishing.

BENJAMIN RUSH ABBOTT

Born January 3, 1863, at Falls Village, Conn.

Father's Name: Benjamin Rush Abbott

Mother's Maiden Name: Abigail Buell Canfield

Present Address: Harvard Club, 27 West 44th St., New York

Present Business: Teaching

For two years after graduation he was in the Harvard graduate department. Since that time he has been in New York, teaching; was abroad in '93.

*GEORGE CASPAR ADAMS

Born April 24, 1863, at Quincy, Mass.

Father's Name: John Quincy Adams

Mother's Maiden Name: Fannie Cadwallader Crowninshield

Business: Law

Died July 13, 1900

George Caspar Adams was born at Quincy, Mass., April 24th, 1863, and died there of consumption July 13th, 1900.

He was the fourth in descent from President Adams, Harvard College, '55, and third in descent from President John Quincy Adams, Harvard College, '76. His grandfather was Charles Francis Adams, '25, his father was the late John Quincy Adams, '53, and his mother was Fannie C. Crowninshield.

He received his early education at Adams Academy, in his native town, entering Harvard in the fall of 1882. After graduation and a course in the Law School he devoted himself to the care and management of real estate, having his office in Boston, and being also associated in business with C. J. Hubbard, '83, of Kansas City, Mo.

He was a member of the "Somerset," "Eastern," and "New York" Yacht Clubs. In college he belonged to the "Dickey," "Hasty Pudding," and the "A. D." Clubs.

"The class of '86 has suffered a loss little anticipated by those who remember the rugged George Adams of our undergraduate days. At the age of thirty-seven he has left us behind who supposed when he graduated that a long life was before him. It seems almost superfluous to inscribe on mere paper the record of a man whose likeness is so deeply engraved on the minds of his contemporaries. But a short summary of his career should be recorded for the sake of his classmates and friends.

"For four years he played end on the University Eleven, and after that time until his death, year after year he gave his services to his college in the preparation of each successive foot ball team.

"His business was the management of real estate. From boyhood he loved boating, and in the past ten years with his brother, Charles F. Adams, '88, he was among the leading yachtsmen of Boston.

"It is not as a business man, nor as a lawyer, nor as an athlete, nor as a member of the Adams family that George Adams will be remembered by his contemporaries until they join him. He stands to our minds as the type of those young Harvard graduates whose fidelity, and affection for their college are among the controlling forces of their lives. He might almost be called the archetype of this class. With him as a criterion few men can call themselves 'good Harvard men.' Cheerfully he filled his niche in this world. Cheerfully he bore his long illness, and contentedly he laid down his burden and left his friends to mourn. There never was a kindlier man, and there never will be a more honest one."

A. P. G.

*HERBERT TUFTS ALLEN

Born April 14, 1863, at Somerville, Mass.

Father's Name : Benjamin Franklin Allen

Mother's Maiden Name : Hannah Johnson Tufts

Business : Real Estate

Died December 21, 1892

Herbert Tufts Allen, the son of Benjamin Franklin and Hannah Johnson (Tufts) Allen, was born April 14, 1863, in Somerville, Mass. He prepared for Harvard in the High School of his native place. While in college his career as catcher of the 'varsity nine for four consecutive years made him one of the best known men in Cambridge, and his modest bearing and genial disposition won him sincere friends in addition to the enthusiastic admirers gained by his athletic skill. He was a member of the Pi Eta, Beta Theta Pi, and Delta Kappa Epsilon societies. After graduation he travelled for a short time in the West, and then went into the real estate business in Boston. During his business life he did not lose his interest in athletics, and in 1889 he received a prize for skill in fancy skating at the Massachusetts amateur championship contest. In the spring of 1891 he moved to New York, and was there occupied chiefly in the development and sale of New Jersey lands. In December, 1892, he was seized by an attack of appendicitis, which proved fatal on the 21st of the month. His death took place at St. Luke's Hospital.

WILLIAM LOTHROP ALLEN

Born April 2, 1862, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name : William Henry Allen

Mother's Maiden Name : Adeline Amanda Smith

Present Address: Home, Chestnut Hill, Mass.

Business, 85 South St., Boston

Present Business : Leather. Name of Firm : W. H. Allen & Son

Marriage : Date, November 7, 1888. Place, Newton, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife : Margaret Converse

Children : Names, Dates of Birth :

Charlotte	July 19, 1889
-----------	---------------

William Lothrop	November 1, 1891
-----------------	------------------

Margaret	December 20, 1895
----------	-------------------

Henry Converse	November 16, 1897
----------------	-------------------

Immediately after graduation began business life as clerk and salesman with Allen, Field & Lawrence, commission dealers in leather and hides.

'91, he entered the firm.

'94, the firm was dissolved and the firm of W. H. Allen & Son formed.

'98, he was a director in the Atlas National Bank.

'06, wrote: "I am still in the leather business of the firm of W. H. Allen & Son and am a director in the Webster and Atlas banks and a member of the following clubs:—

Union Club, Country Club of Brookline, and Chestnut Hill Club."

OLIVER AMES

Born October 21, 1864, at North Easton, Mass.

Father's Name : Frederick Lothrop Ames

Mother's Maiden Name : Rebecca Caroline Blair

Present Address : Home, North Easton

Business : 96 Ames Bldg., Boston, Mass.

Present Business : Trustee

Marriage : Date, December 3, 1890. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife : Elise Alger West

Children : Names, Date of Birth,

Elise	August 14, 1892
-------	-----------------

Olivia	November 18, 1893
--------	-------------------

Oliver	April 8, 1895
--------	---------------

Richard	August 27, 1896
---------	-----------------

'86-'87, took a trip around the world. Has since lived in North Easton, Mass., and is occupied as a trustee for, and a director in numerous companies: among them the Union Pacific R. R., Western Union Telegraph, Chicago & Northwestern Ry., and General Electric Co. He is a trustee of the Boston Lying-In, and the Boston Children's Hospitals, and the Boston Home for Incurables.

FREDERICK WILLIAM ATHERTON

Born August 6, 1865, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name : William Atherton

Mother's Maiden Name : Mary Edwards Dwight

Present Address : Home, 144 Commonwealth Ave., Boston

Present Business : Trustee

After graduation began at the Harvard Law School, but was forced in '87 to give up that work on account of ill health. In '88 he became associated for a few months with the banking house of Fuller, Harding & Co. Later he traveled in Europe extensively, and has now for about six years been engaged partly as a trustee and partly as a writer of editorials and other articles, especially on financial subjects.

'03, was made one of the executors of the late Arioach Wentworth's will and one of the three trustees who are to administer half the estate, amounting to nearly $3,000,000, to found the Wentworth Institute as a manual training school in Boston.

Member of St. Botolph and Art Clubs in Boston.

FRANCIS BOYLSTON AUSTIN

Born July 24, 1864, at Charlestown, Mass.

Father's Name : Francis Boylston Austin

Mother's Maiden Name : Ellen Louise Whiting

Present Address : Business, 102 North St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business : Iron and Steel

Name of Firm : Austin & Doten

Marriage : Date, (1) February 21, 1895; (2) May 2, 1901. Place, (1) Boston, (2) Brookline, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife : (1) Sallie Wetherell Reed (d. March 2, 1897); (2) Mary Lydia Fisher

Children : Names,	Dates of Birth,
Francis Reed	March 2, 1897
William Mason	September 7, 1902
Kiameche	March 13, 1905

Has been since graduation in the iron and steel business; has been a member of the Puritan, Union and Country Clubs of Boston.

*HENRY MORTON AYARS

Born April 3, 1864, at Germantown, Pa.

Father's Name : Charles Wesley Ayars

Mother's Maiden Name : Amelia Bowman

Business : Law

Marriage : Date, September 3, 1890. Place, Wilbraham, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife : Mary Christine Warren

Child : Name, Date of Birth,

Christine Merrick March 31, 1894

Died April 3, 1896

Henry Morton Ayars was born April 3, 1864, at Germantown, Pennsylvania, and died in Cambridge from sudden heart failure, April 3, 1896. His early education was received in the public schools of Cleveland. In college he led a studious life, but was a member of the Everett Athenæum and the Delta Upsilon. After graduation he studied in the Harvard Law School for two years, and was then admitted to the Suffolk Bar, July 16, 1888. The summer of that year was spent in the office of R. M. Morse, and in September he wrote: "I have hung out my own shingle in the Equitable Building and am pegging away." Two years and a half later he removed to the Sears Building. His work was constant and hard, but he found time to win for his wife Mary Christine Warren, daughter of President Warren of Boston University, and they were married at Wilbraham, Mass., Sept. 3, 1890. In the oleomargarine agitation, in 1891 and 1892, Ayars was prominent and carried several cases to the Massachusetts Supreme Court. In October, 1891, he was admitted to practice in the United States Circuit Court. His wife writes: "His steady and severe application to work in his office and study at home, which latter I sometimes shared, overtaxed his strength, and in 1895 he took a long western trip to recover his health, and in this was partially successful. In October, 1895, he formed a partnership with Franklin T. Hammond, and business was coming in so fast that it was difficult for even the two to attend to it. Mr. Ayars's devotion to his work and his ambition to excel in his profession prevented his entering into any outside work in society or politics, but through these two characteristics he accomplished, entirely unaided, more in his eight years of business life than many do in twice the time. . . . All our friends speak of his great devotion to his family as a marked characteristic, and I know what they say to be true."

JAMES COOK AYER

Born October 13, 1862, at Lowell, Mass.

Father's Name: Frederick Ayer

Mother's Maiden Name: Cornelia Wheaton

Present Address: Home, 31 West 36th St., New York

Present Business: Surgeon

Degree: M.D., Columbia (Coll. Phys. and Surg.), 1895.

After graduation was for some months in the employ of the J. C. Ayer Co.

'88-'92, worked for the Washington Mills Co. of Lawrence, Mass.; first in the wool sorting room of the mill, and later as a traveler for the Company in the eastern part of the United States.

'92, spent six months in Paris and then entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York, where he took the M.D. degree in '95. After graduation he received a surgical appointment on the house staff of Bellevue Hospital, and before and after this service spent some time in European hospitals in Munich, Vienna and elsewhere.

'06, wrote: "The only experience worth mentioning which has happened to me since the last report, and which interrupted the monotonous round of medical practice for a very brief period, occurred last spring, when I shipped as Surgeon on the Schooner Yacht 'Thistle'—Robert E. Tod, owner and master—from New York to Southampton, England.

"The object of the voyage was an attempt to win a cup which was offered by the Emperor William of Germany for the yacht making the fastest time across the Western Ocean.

"The only passenger besides myself was Mr. Poultny Bigelow, of Munich.

"Our ship did not win; but, like the whalers who returned to New Bedford after a three-years' cruise without having sighted a whale, 'We had a damn fine sail.'

"I was back in New York and at work again after an absence of twenty-nine days.

"I hold at present the following hospital and teaching appointments:—Asst. Visiting Surgeon, Bellevue Hospital; Asst. Visiting Surgeon, Woman's Hospital; Consulting Surgeon, Nassau Hospital, Mineola, N. Y.; Assistant Instructor in Operative Surgery, College of Physicians & Surgeons, N. Y.

"I have written articles on various medical subjects for the medical journals."

DEAN RICHMOND BABBITT

Born February 28, 1850, in Warren County, Ohio

Father's Name: Hathaway Babbitt

Mother's Maiden Name: Margaretta Bailey

Business: Clergyman

Marriage: Date, September 13, 1882. Place, Cincinnati, Ohio

Maiden Name of Wife: Adelaide Matilda Karrmann

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Angelica Adelaide	September 29, 1883
-------------------	--------------------

Hildegarde Margaretta	December 28, 1886
-----------------------	-------------------

Dean Richmond	July 10, 1888
---------------	---------------

Gladys Richmond	February 28, 1892
-----------------	-------------------

Reginald Maurice	May 18, 1894
------------------	--------------

Adelaide	April 28, 1899
----------	----------------

Degrees: S.T.B., Episc. Theol. S. Camb. (Mass.), 1886; LL.B., Cincinnati (O.), 1888; LL.D., Univ. Wis., 1888

Died June 21, 1905

Dean Richmond Babbitt, son of Hathaway and Margaretta Bailey Babbitt, was born February 28, 1850, in Cincinnati, O., and died in Brooklyn, N. Y., June 21, 1905. In his early years he edited a newspaper in Tennessee. Then he returned to Cincinnati as an attorney with Stanley Matthews, and in the office of Secretary Taft. After this he entered Harvard and took a course in the Cambridge Theological Seminary, being graduated in 1886. While yet a student, he had a charge at Highland Falls, N. Y. Upon leaving Cambridge he went as a missionary into the Northwest, working in Tacoma and in Spokane, Wash. At the time of his death he was rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Epiphany in Brooklyn. Dr. Babbitt came from old New England stock, and was a descendant of a pilgrim of the Mayflower. He received the degree of LL.B. at Cincinnati in 1888, and that of LL.D. at the University of Wisconsin the same year.

EUGENE HOWARD BABBITT

Born May 8, 1859, at Bridgewater, Conn.

Father's Name : Isaac Babbitt

Mother's Maiden Name : Sarah Cole

Present Address : New Preston, Conn.

Marriage : Date, September 16, 1891. Place, Concord, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife : Mary Brigham King

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Margaret	November 10, 1892
----------	-------------------

George King	October 24, 1893
-------------	------------------

Charles Cole	February 25, 1895
--------------	-------------------

'86-'87, was abroad studying in Berlin and Paris.

'87-'88, was instructor of Modern Languages at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

'88-'89, was abroad studying at Copenhagen and Berlin.

'90-'91, was in New York City tutoring.

'91-1900, was instructor of Germanic Languages at Columbia University, New York.

1900-'03, was professor of Modern Languages at Sewanee, Tenn.

'03-'05, was instructor of German at Rutgers College.

'05-'06, in New York City tutoring.

His summers have been spent at his Connecticut home in the town of Kent. His permanent address is New Preston, Conn.

Has published: "College Words and Phrases," "An Introduction to German at Sight," "Modern Language as a Means of Mental Discipline," and a number of magazine articles. Has been Secretary of the American Dialect Society and was Secretary of the Committee of Twelve of the Modern Languages Association on Modern Language Instruction in the United States. Member of Phi Beta Kappa, and Modern Languages Association of America.

CHARLES SAMUEL BABCOCK

Born December 8, 1863, at Chicago, Ill.

Father's Name : Charles Ferdinand Babcock

Mother's Maiden Name : Helen Mar

Present Address : Home, 2701 Michigan Ave., Chicago

Business, 204 Dearborn St., Chicago

Present Business : Law

Marriage : Date, September 9, 1890. Place, Mt. Carroll, Ill.
Maiden Name of Wife : Clara Dell Melendy

'86-'89 was a law student and in '89 began the practice of law in Chicago. On January, '94, entered into a law partnership with George W. Leighton. January 1, 1900, the firm dissolved partnership, and since that date he has been steadily engaged in active practice alone.

WENDELL BAKER

Born October 19, 1862, at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Father's Name : Francis Baker

Mother's Maiden Name : Esther Goldthwaite Barrett

Present Address : Home, New Preston, Conn.

Business, 15 Dey St., New York

Present Business : Telephone. Name of Firm, American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Marriage : Date, January 1, 1900. Place, New York

Maiden Name of Wife : Jeanne Johnson Held

After graduation was for a few months with Kidder, Peabody & Co. of New York, and in March, '87, went into business with his father, becoming, on January 1, '89, a member of the firm, Francis Baker & Co., Commission Merchants. March, '92, connected himself with the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., and during '92-'93 represented the Company at Chicago. Still regards himself as "a very well behaved member of the Class of '86"—Vide Report 5.

Goes hunting at every spare moment; was in the Rockies in British Columbia in the fall of '05, and got a Rocky Mountain goat. The previous year got a bear in Colorado, and the previous year two more in Nova Scotia.

'06, wrote: "You say you have my promise to write something concerning my hunting trips. Well, I have spent my holidays for several years past hunting the larger game. The best deer hunting I have had was for black-tail along the south fork of the White River, in Routt County, Colorado, where I secured some good heads. I have had good moose hunting, and two years ago, in the upper Musquodoboit country, Nova Scotia, in addition to bringing out the heads, I brought back, in cold storage, by steamer from Halifax, several hundred pounds of the meat, which served for many feasts. I have hunted bear several times and have some good skins, but the only grizzly I ever shot at I did n't get. Last year I camped in the Ice River Valley, altitude 4000 feet, in British Columbia, on the western slope of the Rockies and not far from the head waters of the Kootenay River. I went in after Rocky Mountain goat, and secured three fine specimens, several thousand feet higher than I camped. While not so difficult to hunt as the Big Horn, they are quite shy and a good head is frequently spoiled, for when the goats are wounded they struggle to escape by throwing themselves from the high ledges of rock and often fall several hundred feet. I have a fairly good elk head which I got in Wyoming."

THOMAS TILESTON BALDWIN

Born April 21, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Jacob Baldwin

Mother's Maiden Name: Eleanor Tallman Tileston

Present Address: Home, Chestnut Hill Ave., Boston

Business, 53 State St., Boston

Present Business: Law. Name of Firm: T. T. Baldwin

Marriage: Date, October 24, 1889. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife: Edith Perkins

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Thomas Tileston	August 7, 1890
-----------------	----------------

Eleanor	April 25, 1897
---------	----------------

Francis Tileston	June 11, 1902
------------------	---------------

For two years was in the Harvard Law School. The following year he had to give up work on account of the condition of his eyes, but was admitted to the bar in June, '88. Since that time he has been practising law in Boston. In '91 he traveled in Europe for a year. In recent years has given up general practice to devote his attention to the duties of a trustee. From '01-'04 he was editor of "The Green Bag," but gave up the editorship in January '05.

WILLIAM WOODWARD BALDWIN

Born June 23, 1862, at N. W. Cor. Calvert and Reed streets, Baltimore, Md.

Father's Name: Summerfield Baldwin

Mother's Maiden Name: Frances Cugle

Present Address : Home, Briarcliff Manor, N. Y.

Business : 11 Broadway, New York

Present Business : Law. Name of Firm: Baldwin & Baldwin

Marriage : Date, May 15, 1895. Place, Berlin, Germany

Maiden Name of Wife : Katherine Willard

Child : Name, Date of Birth,
Summerfield III September 4, 1896

Degree : LL.B., Univ. Md., 1888

For two years after graduation was a student in the Law School of the University of Maryland and the following year practised in Baltimore. Since February, '89, has been practising law in New York, at first with the firm of Hornblower, Byrne & Taylor. In '93 he formed a partnership with C. A. Boston. From February 24, '96, to the close of President Cleveland's administration he was Third Assistant Secretary of State at Washington. Has been for several terms President of the Maryland Society in New York.

'05, wrote: "Still living at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. Still practising law at 11 Broadway, New York City. Firm changed to Baldwin & Baldwin, April 1, '01. Wrote most concise exposé of Panama filibuster, sent it to Evening Post where it was promptly rejected by Lamont, '86. Made a few speeches for Parker and Davis. Prophesied land slide. November 9th forgot it. Resumed practice. My family consists of wife and one son, Summerfield Baldwin, III, who is destined for Harvard."

WILLIAM SANFORD BARNES

Born September 1, 1864, at San Francisco, Cal.

Father's Name : William Henry Snow Barnes

Mother's Maiden Name : Mary Mumford Gould

Present Address : Home, 2016 Pine St., San Francisco

Business, 922 Ellis St.

Present Business : Law

Marriage : Date, January 5, 1893. Place, San Francisco

Maiden Name of Wife : Delphine Delmas

Child : Name, Date of Birth,
Sanford Delmas July 17, 1896

January, '88, was admitted to the San Francisco bar and began practising with his father, W. H. S. Barnes.

Took an active interest in politics—in '88 was a member of the Republican State Convention. Was elected District Attorney of the City and County of San Francisco in '90 and re-elected for four terms. From January 28, '98, to February 9, '99, was Captain of Company C, Eighth California U. S. V. Infantry and during four months of this time Judge Advocate to the General Court Martial at the Presidio of San Francisco. Was lecturer for a term at the Stanford University Law School.

May, '06, wrote: "We are all in a terrible turmoil here as yet, and are trying to feel around and discover approximately where we are at. No description that you may have read in the papers can at all equal the days and nights of horror that we have passed through as we fought to save the poor remnant of our home that survives. The recollection of the time from Wednesday to Saturday that we passed among earthquake shocks, conflagrations, falling walls, dynamite explosions and rifle shots—for many a battle was fought in the blazing streets and the bodies thrown into the flames—will remain with me until the day I die—and after. The relief furnished us by the country has been most ample and adequate—without it we would have simply starved—for had one had a million dollars in his pocket he could have bought nothing, for there was nothing to buy. So we all took to the bread-line and mighty glad to get into it. Now comes the hardest time, the fitting oneself, sanely, to the changed conditions. Personally, the fire went through me in great shape. It destroyed the Merchants' Exchange Building where our offices were located and everything went with it. We did not save a single paper, deed, note or anything else, either of our own or those intrusted to us by clients. The Exchange being 'earthquake and fire-proof,' we carried no insurance like the other tenants. Later in the day my house burned. We saved a gripful of foolish things there and the rest of it went. Thank God, however, my wife and boy were unharmed and are now safely at the farm in the Santa Clara Valley, some 45 miles from here. Apropos of that to show you the conditions that prevailed on the day after the shake, when Mrs. Barnes started for the country it took her twenty-five hours to make the trip we make in ordinary times, in an hour and a half. I write this of myself because you asked me to and at the risk of being a bore. I have not seen any of our fellows since the 'troubles' but you may rest assured that they are all right physically, for the lists of killed wounded and missing are now complete and no man of ours is among them. I greatly fear I shall be deprived of the pleasure and privilege of coming to our 20th, for with me, as with so many others, the 18th of April swept away the fruits, such as they were, of twenty years of hard work, and I have to begin again. But we are unterrified and hopeful and will cut our coats according to our cloth. On the day before I had written a letter to Gordon Woodbury at Manchester, telling him that I was coming on and was looking forward so much to seeing the boys. Well, man proposes and something else disposes. Nevertheless, my dear fellow, I trust that you will give the class an affectionate greeting from me. If there is one fine, big drink to be got in this one busted town on the day and hour of our dinner, I will connect with it and drink your health, collectively and separately."

WALTER KNOX BARTON

Born September 7, 1863, at Houlton, Me.

Father's Name : John Quincy Barton

Mother's Maiden Name : Lucy Knox Page

Present Address : Home, Hotel St. Andrew, New York

Business, 141 Broadway, New York

Present Business : Law. Name of Firm : Tyndall & Barton

Degree : LL.B., Columbia, 1889

'86-'88, student at the Columbian Law School in Washington.

'88-'89, student in the Columbia Law School of New York. During his first two years he served on the staff of the Washington Critic and in '89 was for a term in the Pay Corps, U. S. Navy. Till '93 he practised law in Minneapolis and has since then had a law office in New York. Has made some political speeches in presidential campaigns.

Writes: "I am engaged in the practice of my profession at the same place, and under the same general conditions as existed at the time of our last report. It so happens that the lines of life have not placed me in touch with Harvard men to any extent. For one of them, however, I have always had, and have, the most enthusiastic admiration. It is perhaps unnecessary to say that I refer to Theodore Roosevelt. My regard for him has been such as to lead me to support him upon the stump and elsewhere to the extent of my power in all of the recent campaigns."

BOYLSTON ADAMS BEAL

Born June 4, 1865, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name : James Henry Beal

Mother's Maiden Name : Louisa Jane Adams

Present Address : Home, Nahant, Mass.

Business : 60 State St., Boston

Present Business : Law. Name of Firm : Boylston A. Beal

Marriage : Date, October 4, 1893. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife : Elizabeth Sturgis Grew

Child : Name, Date of Birth,

Elizabeth Sturgis July 4, 1899

Degree : LL.B., 1892

'86-'89, attended law lectures in Berlin and traveled in Europe.

'89-'92, was in the Harvard Law School.

'92-'93, was in the law office of J. R. Canet.

October, '93, opened a law office with P. S. Sears '89, and has since continued in practice with occasional periods of some length in Europe.

Writes: "I am afraid my life since the last Class Report would not be of much interest to anyone. I have been living quietly here, practising law in a mild way, chiefly as trustee for several estates. I have been to Europe several times, all of which, however, is, I think, of little interest to anyone. Perhaps the statistics which you asked for will cover all the necessary ground.

"I think that my marriage and the birth of my daughter have already appeared in the reports. There are no other family statistics to send.

"I believe there is also some question about clubs which is generally inserted. If this is necessary, you can put in the Somerset, Tennis & Racquet and Country Clubs of Boston and the University Club of New York.

"However, the shorter such an uneventful account is made, the better, as there will doubtless be many interesting ones to fill your space."

*RAYMOND RODGERS BELMONT

Born July 19, 1863, at Newport, R. I.

Father's Name : August Belmont

Mother's Maiden Name : Caroline Slidell Perry

Died January 31, 1887

Raymond Rodgers Belmont, a younger son of August and Caroline Slidell (Perry) Belmont, was born at Newport, R. I., July 19, 1863. He was fitted for college at St. Mark's School, Southboro, Mass., and for a time previous to coming up for his entrance examinations, was under the instruction of a private tutor.

After Belmont entered college he took great interest in the social life of the class, and made for himself a large circle of friends. He was a member of the Institute of 1870, the Hasty Pudding Club, the Zeta Psi, and the Porcellian Club, and at one time was connected with the Advocate, as business manager. He was also fond of all forms of athletics, especially of polo playing. He was one of the founders of the Harvard Polo Club, and in 1885 was captain of the Harvard Polo team, which at Newport won the championship of America for that year.

Belmont was a man of exceptional brightness, although while in the college he never cared to exert his powers to the utmost. He received his degree with honorable mention in Natural History.

The news of his sudden death, January 31, 1887, was a severe shock to the class, whose members will always remember him as an extremely pleasant companion.

CHARLES FREDERICK BIGELOW

Born February 28, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Milton Burch Bigelow

Mother's Maiden Name: Adaline Ardelia Fursman

Present Address: Home, Providence, R. I.

Business, Box 1535, Providence, R. I.

Present Business: Broker. Also manager of Workingman's Loan Association

Name of Firm: C. F. Bigelow

'86 '87, was in Columbia College Law School. The next year he went West on account of his health and took up a residence in Minneapolis, where he was at first engaged in business with the Law and Collection Department of R. G. Dun & Co.

'89-'91, he was assistant manager of the Warder, Bushnell & Glessner Co. of Chicago.

'91-'92, manager of the Evanston Elevator at Evanston, Ill.

September, '92, went into the fire plate glass insurance business in New York.

Later he became a broker under the firm name of Dart & Bigelow in Providence. While there published "Providence Illustrated" and "Pawtucket Illustrated."

Writes: "Really, dear Secretary, I have little or nothing for that Class Report. Business is the same as for the past eight or nine years — mortgages and loans.

"My 'enjoyments,' not yet complicated by married life, are simple — a pipe and a book, occasionally a game of billiards, now and then an unpretentious trip here or abroad, and always, and ever, a soul-satisfying 'cussing' of all Harvard athletics.

"My chief regret at present is that I shall not be at the anniversary. I expect to be abroad at that time."

RALPH WALDO BLACK

Born July 15, 1862, at Athol, Mass.

Father's Name: George Washington Black

Mother's Maiden Name: Diana Mowry Ballou

Present Address: Home, 14 Park Sq., Boston, Mass.

Degree: A.M., 1904

'86-'87, tutoring and attending lectures at Columbia Law School, N.Y.
'88, went into the fire insurance business at Gardner and continued there until Mutual Fire Insurance interests took him to Boston, where he was during the years '93-'96.

'97, remained at Gardner on business connected with his father's estate.

'98, enlisted for Spanish war in First Regiment, M. V. M.

Since '99, has been living in Boston.

'02-'05, attended Seminaries at Harvard.

Writes: "Philosophical study continues desultory. Future undecided; may resume seminary work next year."

PERCY GARDNER BOLSTER

Born August 20, 1865, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Solomon Alonzo Bolster

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Jane Gardner

Present Address: Home, 217 Norfolk St., Dorchester, Mass.

Business, 161 Devonshire St., Boston

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, January 1, 1894. Place, Dorchester

Maiden Name of Wife: Edith Rebecca Lynch

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Charles Stephen December 20, 1895

Degree: A.M., 1890

The first year and a half after graduation was in the Harvard Medical School and the following two years in the Harvard Law School. Since '90 has been practising law in Boston.

WILLIAM GIBSON BORLAND

Born February 12, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name : John Nelson Borland

Mother's Maiden Name : Madeline Gibson

Present Address : Home, 114 East 36th St., New York

Business, 17 Broad St., New York

Present Business : Stock-broker

Name of Firm : Chas. Head & Co.

Marriage : Date, October 15, 1895. Place, West Roxbury, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife : Lucy Sturgis Codman

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

John Nelson	December 29, 1898
-------------	-------------------

Susan Codman	August 24, 1900
--------------	-----------------

Rosamond	August 29, 1903
----------	-----------------

First year after graduation was with Kidder, Peabody & Co., Bankers, in Boston. Later went into the note-brokering business with J. W. Bowen, '82.

'93-'95, was with the Taunton Dye Works and Bleachery Company at Taunton.

July 1, '95, became a member of the firm of Charles Head & Co., New York, and since then has spent most of his time on the floor of the Exchange.

WILLIAM COWPER BOYDEN

Born April 6, 1864, at Sheffield, Ill.

Father's Name : Albert Wyatt Boyden

Mother's Maiden Name : Ellen Rebecca Webb

Present Address : Home, Winnetka, Ill.

Business, 107 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Present Business : Law. Name of Firm : Matz, Fisher & Boyden

Marriage : Date, April 13, 1893. Place, Chicago

Maiden Name of Wife : Mabel Grace Burlingham

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

William Cowper	April 8, 1894
----------------	---------------

Preston Burlingham	July 5, 1896
--------------------	--------------

Frederick Burlingham	August 14, 1899
----------------------	-----------------

	(d. September 29, 1903)
--	-------------------------

Margaret	July 9, 1903
----------	--------------

Degree : LL.B., 1889

'86-'89, was in the Harvard Law School, when he took the LL.B. degree. Immediately after graduation he went to Chicago, where he has since lived and practised law. At first he was chief clerk in the law office of C. H. Aldridge and later was associated with Frank Hamlin, '84 and John Holland, '85.

'97, he became a member of the firm of Matz, Fisher & Boyden. Has taken considerable interest in reform municipal politics and in charitable work.

'98-'99, was President of the Harvard Club of Chicago.

'99-1900, President of the Associated Harvard Clubs.

In January, '05, wrote: "Since the last report I have continued in the practice of the law in Chicago, as a member of the firm of Matz, Fisher & Boyden, with offices at 107 Dearborn Street. My professional life has been full of hard work, with no sensational successes, but with a steady growth in the quantity and quality of my clients. I am more than ever impressed that in these frenzied days the profession of the law gives unusual opportunity for independence, breadth of experience and a happy and useful life.

"While retaining my interest in politics, especially along the line of municipal reform, I have neither been an office holder nor a candidate for political office. In '03 I was President of the Law Club of Chicago, and in '02 Vice-President of the Chicago Bar Association. Through the indulgence of my clients I have been a director in several Corporations.

"My home continues in Winnetka, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago, and surely one of the most attractive dwelling-places on this continent, for its population includes twenty-five Harvard men and but two Yale men. President and Mrs. Eliot set the stamp of their approval upon the composition of Winnetka's population by visiting our village for three days in February, '03."

October, '05, elected President of the University Club of Chicago.

GEORGE GARDNER BRADFORD

Born August 28, 1863, at Dorchester, Mass.

Father's Name: Martin Luther Bradford

Mother's Maiden Name: Abby Child Gardner

Present Address: Home, 48 Bird St., Dorchester

Business, 40 State St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Assistant Secretary, Union Safe Deposit Vaults

Marriage: Date, April 18, 1899. Place, Dorchester

Maiden Name of Wife: Cornelia Howland Myrick

Children: Names,

Dates of Birth,

Mae

August 10, 1900

Alice

September 26, 1903

'86-'87, was in the employ of the National Exchange Bank of Boston.

'87-'04, with the Mercantile Trust Co.

'05, studying law.

'06, with Union Safe Deposit Vaults.

'88, was one of the movers of the formation of a local Good Government Club. Has been a trustee of Atlanta University and has given considerable time to the study of the education of the Negro.

He originated and carried through an investigation into the excessive mortality among negroes in cities. This work was reported in Bulletin No. 10, United States Department of Labor. Was obliged by press of work to resign the position at Atlanta University in '02.

Writes: "My record for the past year or two has been uneventful. In '04 I felt the need of breaking away from routine office work and resigned my position as Secretary of the Mercantile Trust, and devoted myself for a year to the study of law and investment matters. Last summer I accepted the position of Assistant Secretary of the Union Safe Deposit Vaults and am back in harness again. I resigned as Trustee of Atlanta University in '02, having served for seven years. I have two girls, aged respectively $5\frac{1}{2}$ and $2\frac{1}{2}$ years. It looks now as if my chief claim for distinction would be that of a proud father."

JOHN DORR BRADLEY

Born February 9, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Richards Bradley

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Anne Williams Merry

Present Address: Home, Lake Forest, Ill.

Business, 247 Monadnock Block, Chicago, Ill.

Present Business: Real Estate. Name of Firm: Aldis & Co.

Marriage: Date, September 9, 1896. Place, Chicago

Maiden Name of Wife: Francis Elvira Kales

Children: Names,

Dates of Birth,

Alice Pritchard

January 15, 1899

Eleanor

June 1, 1901

Degree: LL.B., 1890

July, '86, to October, '88, in the mills and offices of the Fairchild Paper Company, Boston and Pepperell, Mass.

'87-'90, in Harvard Law School, where he took his LL.B. degree.

'92, Treasurer of the Fibre Conduit Co. of New York.

'94, went into real estate in Chicago, where he has since remained as a member of the firm of Aldis & Co.

December, '04, wrote: "This past year I built a house in Lake Forest about thirty miles north of Chicago, which is now my home. I have about forty acres of land whereon I hope to farm a bit, with as little expense to myself as possible: for as far as I can make out, farming is almost always an expensive luxury, but not an unhealthy one. I have just returned from a ten days' trip to the Indian Territory, where I have been quail shooting. I only saw two Indians all the time I was there, but plenty of niggers picking cotton."

June, '06, wrote: "The most interesting thing that I have done during that time ('05-'06) was to take my wife and children to Italy for the winter. We sailed from New York to Genoa on Thanksgiving Day and returned here about the 1st of April. We spent a large part of the time at Rapallo on the Italian Riviera about 20 miles south of Genoa. From there my wife and I took a trip to Rome and Perugia and some of the other hill towns, and a month before sailing from Naples we all went to Florence together. Here we all had the grippe, which was extremely uninteresting. But except for this, we had a most enjoyable trip, and the children particularly enjoyed the voyages across the Atlantic and through the Mediterranean.

*WILLIAM DADE BREWER

Born March 31, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: William Dade Brewer

Mother's Maiden Name: Susan Victoria Shattuck

Business: Law

Died October 28, 1898.

William Dade Brewer was born in Boston, March 31st, 1863, and died October 28th, 1898, at Centre Harbor, N. H. He was a Chauncy Hall boy from 1875 to 1881, and in the fall of the latter year entered college with the class of '85. At the end of his freshman year he left the college, and took up the work of the first year of the Law School, but finding that it was a mistake not to finish the college course, he entered '86 in its sophomore year and took his degree of A.B. with that class. After graduation he took up the work of the Law School again, and after completing the course opened an office in Boston for the practice of law.

He was not strong, physically, and was obliged to favor himself on that account in his work. A very severe attack of the gripe weakened him greatly, and was finally the cause of his death.

He was fond of music, and in college composed music for some of the Pi Eta plays. He was also an efficient manager at these functions. The intellectual work of his profession was easy for him, but outside of that he was too reserved to have many intimate friends. Studiois, quiet, hardly seeking companionship, though not declining it, he was little known even by those who saw him most frequently. Appreciation of his kindness and ready sympathy, and general respect for his abilities seem to have been his portion in life.

CHARLES ALBERT BROWN

Born December 29, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: George Bruce Brown

Mother's Maiden Name: Marianna Sprague

Present Address: Home, Framingham, Mass.

Business: Turner, S. D.

Present Business: Mining

'87-'89, with the importing house of Boyd, Sutton & Co., New York. After this date was with the Nobscott Mountain Spring Co. in Boston until 1900. In 1900 became interested in zinc mining in Missouri, and later added gold mining in the Black Hills.

Writes: "Am in the West most of the time."

CRAWFORD RICHMOND BROWN

Born December 31, 1861, at Providence, R. I.

Father's Name: James Crawford Brown

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Richmond Babcock

Present Address: Home, Dedham, Mass.

Business: 147 Court St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Superintendent of Testing

Name of Firm: Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston

Marriage: Date, April 2, 1891. Place, Dedham

Maiden Name of Wife: Grace Esther Cutter

Has been with the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston ever since graduation. In the early years he was in charge of the meter department, and is now in charge of a department called Standardizing and Testing, which he has developed during the past ten years.

Is Secretary of the Board of Library Trustees of the town of Dedham, and for two years, ending in March, '06, was Secretary of the Association of Electrical Engineers of New England.

WILLIAM WOODWORTH BRUNER

Born December 1, 1864, at San Francisco, Cal.

Father's Name: William Happusett Bruner

Mother's Maiden Name: Jane Woodworth

Present Address: Home, Kona, Hawaii

Business, Honolulu, Hawaii

Present Business: Engineer

Marriage: Date, April 3, 1901. Place, Oakland, Cal.

Maiden Name of Wife: Jessie Bradford Crow

Children : Names ,	Dates of Birth ,
----------------------------------	-------------------------

Barbara	June 2, 1902
---------	--------------

Elizabeth	June 26, 1903
-----------	---------------

William Woodworth	September 22, 1904
-------------------	--------------------

Degree: S.B., 1887

Has been chiefly employed in civil engineering.

'94, received the degree of S. B. cum laude in engineering, "as of '87."

He was employed on different railroads for two years after graduation, but has since then been civil engineer for the successive governments of the Hawaiian Islands. His headquarters and address are in Honolulu.

GEORGE BUTLER BRYANT

Born October 29, 1863, at Melrose, Mass.

Father's Name: Napoleon Bonaparte Bryant

Mother's Maiden Name: Susan Brown

Present Address: 16 East 70th St., New York

'86-'87, with Boston Museum Company.

'87-'88, in business in Boston.

'88-'89, Harvard Law School.

'89-'91, Columbia Law School.

Was in a law office for a few years in New York, and has since not been in business, but has been traveling much of the time. Was at the St. Louis Fair, lived in Washington for a time, and has a residence in New York. Was abroad in '91, took a trip to Alaska in '92, and in '94 went to California by way of the Isthmus.

'06, wrote: "I am taking a course in bookkeeping and business forms of 'The International Correspondence Schools,' of Scranton, Pa."

FRANCIS BULLARD

Born January 28, 1862, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: William Story Bullard

Mother's Maiden Name: Louisa Norton

Present Address: 3 Commonwealth Ave., Boston

Since graduation has been essentially a student of philosophy and art. During the early years he traveled in search of health. Spent some time at the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. In '95 he was in Egypt and India. From '96 to 1900 he was at home in Boston taking courses at Harvard in philosophy and history. About this time he became interested in the study of etchings and engravings, and began to make a collection of prints, his chiefest treasures being a very fine set of Turner's Liber Studiorum.

In these last years he has visited Italy several times studying the picture galleries there, and always spending some time in London in the pursuit of art.

*CHARLES CUTTER BURNETT

Born August 28, 1864, at Southboro, Mass.

Father's Name: Joseph Burnett

Mother's Maiden Name: Josephine Cutter

Business: Railroad Superintendent

Marriage: Date, October 24, 1894. Place, Providence, R. I.

Maiden Name of Wife: Ethel Raymond Mason

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Mary	August 21, 1895
------	-----------------

Ruth	July 18, 1897
------	---------------

Died January 17, 1900

Charles Cutter Burnett, the son of Joseph and Josephine Cutter Burnett, was born at Southboro, August 28th, 1864, and died of typhoid fever at Providence, R. I., January 17th, 1900. He was prepared for college at St. Mark's School, and took the gold medal on graduation. While in college he played on the '86 baseball and football teams, was a member of the "Dickey," and of the "Hasty Pudding," and graduated magna cum laude. He then went West, and after five years' training in the operating department of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R., in 1891 was appointed train master in Providence for the Old Colony R. R., and somewhat later becoming agent, retained this position when the Old Colony was leased by the New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R. In 1894, he was made Assistant Superintendent of the Worcester Division, and in June, 1899, he became Superintendent. He married at Providence, October 24th, 1894, Ethel Raymond Mason, and she with his two daughters survives him.

"Charles Cutter Burnett was a man of singularly attractive personality, as all who were acquainted with him will testify. Though not a brilliant thinker, he possessed a mind that was lucid in its processes and quick and firm in its grasp. He gave ample proof of his mental power by his rapid mastery of the intricate problems of railway management, so that in the course of a very few years he rose from the very bottom of the ladder to a position of great responsibility.

"The simplicity and directness of his manners were indicative of his character. He did not content himself with being merely just to all, and scrupulously faithful to his word; for, regardless of social distinctions, he was invariably generous and kindly. His death cut short a career already fruitful, and promising yet more in worldly success and in usefulness to his fellows."

H. L.

THOMAS HANDASYD CABOT

Born January 12, 1864, at Brookline, Mass.

Father's Name: James Elliot Cabot

Mother's Maiden Name: Elizabeth Dwight

Present Address: 232 Newbury St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Musician

Marriage: Date, October 3, 1898. Place, Dublin, N. H.

Maiden Name of Wife: Elise Pumpelly

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Elizabeth	April 1, 1902
-----------	---------------

Pauline	June 1, 1903
---------	--------------

Thomas Handasyd	November 16, 1904
-----------------	-------------------

'86-'89, was in the railroad business, at first with the Boston & Albany, and later with the C. B. & Q. in Iowa. He then became treasurer of the Boston Incandescent Light Company and finally gave up business and described himself in '98 as a violoncellist. Since then he has been a professional musician.

HENRY LORILLARD CAMMANN

Born May 13, 1864, at Dublin, Ireland

Father's Name : Jacob Lorillard Cammann

Mother's Maiden Name : Isabella Apoline Mali

Present Address : Home, Greenwich, Conn.

Business, 83 Worth St., New York

Present Business : Commission

Name of Firm : Henry W. T. Mali & Co.

Marriage : Date, June 8, 1898. Place, Greenwich

Maiden Name of Wife : Grace Huntington Churchill

Ever since graduation has been with the wholesale drygoods commission and importing house of H. W. T. Mali & Co., New York.

'93, was admitted to the firm. Is living at Greenwich, Conn.

PRINCE LUCIAN CAMPBELL

Born October 6, 1861, at New Market, Mo.

Father's Name : Thomas Franklin Campbell

Mother's Maiden Name : Jane Eliza Campbell

Present Address : Home, Eugene, Ore.

Present Business : President University of Oregon

Marriage : Date, September 7, 1887. Place, Forest Grove, Ore.

Maiden Name of Wife : Eugenia Zieber (d. March 20, 1891)

Children : Names ,	Dates of Birth ,
Herbert Morris	May 15, 1889 (d. September 1, 1889)
Lucia Eugenia	January 28, 1891

'86-'89, Professor of Ancient Languages in the Oregon State Normal School.

'89-'92, President of the State Normal School.

May, '92, was elected President of the University of Oregon.

Has delivered numerous educational addresses in various parts of the State. Has been member of State Text Book Commission and of State Library Commission, and has also been Vice President of Polk County Bank.

December, '94, wrote; "The past two years have been most pleasant ones to me. The University is growing rapidly, along with the growth of the State, and we confidently expect great things in the future. The whole world is coming West. I hope to be able to welcome a large number of Harvard men to Oregon next year during the Lewis and Clark Fair. Portland is a delightful summer resort, and the fair is to be the best (of its size) ever."

'06 wrote: "Nothing new since I last wrote. Oregon is growing rapidly, and the University is prospering. I am very busy, and very greatly enjoying my work. I shall be glad to welcome to Oregon any of the '86 men who may come West."

GOUVERNEUR MORRIS CARNOCCHAN

Born September 5, 1865, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: John Murray Carnochan

Mother's Maiden Name: Estelle Morris

Present Address: New City, Rockland Co., N. Y.

Present Business: Farmer

Marriage: Date, October 30, 1888. Place, New York

Maiden Name of Wife: Matilda Grosvenor Goodridge (d. January 4, 1905).

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
John Murray	May 15, 1889 (d. March 19, 1891)
Frederick Grosvenor	August 13, 1890
Gouverneur Morris	June 28, 1892

'86-'93, was with Kidder, Peabody & Co., bankers, of New York.

In March, '93, became a member of the banking firm of Heskyt, Wood & Co., and later of the firm of G. M. Carnochan & Co.

'94-'05, a member of the New York Stock Exchange. He was for many years especially interested in military matters, and his official record is the following: Private, Co. K, 7th Regt., Oct. 29, 1890; Corporal, April 26, 1893; Sergeant, May 15, 1895; Assistant Inspector of Rifle Practice, of the grade of First Lieutenant, 7th Regt., April 28, 1896; Aide-de-Camp, of the grade of Captain, 5th Brigade, Jan. 25, 1901; Inspector of Small Arms Practice and Ordnance Officer, of the grade of Major, April 24, 1901; supernumerary, July 1, 1901; assigned to duty with 1st Brigade, July 1, 1901; Inspector of Small Arms Practice and Ordnance Officer, 1st Brigade, of the grade of Major, Nov. 19, 1901, with original rank. Granted full and honorable discharge April, 10, 1905.

He has maintained a kennel of fox terriers and served as Judge at several bench shows in this country and abroad.

At present, he is Assemblyman from Rockland County in the New York Legislature.

GEORGE RICE CARPENTER

Born October 25, 1863, at Bonne Esperance on the Coast of Labrador

Father's Name: Charles Carroll Carpenter

Mother's Maiden Name: Feronia Rice

Present Address: Home, 137 West 93rd St., New York

Business, Columbia University

Present Business: Professor of Rhetoric

Marriage: Date, June 11, 1890. Place, New York, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Seymour

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Margaret Seymour April 3, 1893

'86-'88, student of Comparative Literature in Berlin on a Rogers Fellowship.

'88-'90, instructor in English at Harvard University

'90-'93, associate professor of English at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Since '93, professor of Rhetoric and English Composition at Columbia University, New York.

Has published : Lives of Longfellow (Beacon Biographies) and Whittier (American Men of Letters Series), and various school and college text books.

Is Trustee, Columbia University Press; Director, Columbia Students' Publishing Company; Secretary, Department of English, Columbia University, and Secretary, Faculty of Philosophy.

Expects to spend '06-'07 in Europe, probably for the greater part of the time in Italy and Greece.

SEWARD CARY

Born January 1, 1862, at Buffalo, N. Y.

Father's Name: Walter Cary

Mother's Maiden Name: Julia Love

Present Address: Home, 615 Delaware Ave., Buffalo

Marriage: Date	July 13, 1887.	Place	Buffalo
Maiden Name of Wife:	Emily Lisle Scatcherd
Children: Names,		Dates of Birth,
Eleanor		April 23, 1888
Phoebe		May 7, 1890
Trumbull		November 30, 1893
John Scatcherd		February, 4, 1898
Jane		March 24, 1899
		(d. June 26, 1903)

After graduation attended for a few months the Buffalo Medical College, and then went into the hardwood lumber business with Scatcherd & Son of Buffalo, and has continued in this business ever since, with considerable recreation in coaching and polo playing.

Writes: "The only addition is the study of mankind and the development of the race through the next generation. It's interesting and absorbing, but hardly elevating!!!"

DAVID BLAISDELL CHAMBERLAIN

Born September 22, 1862, at Hingham, Mass.

Father's Name: Kinsman Stoddard Chamberlain

Mother's Maiden Name: Valentia Lauretta Blaisdell

Present Address: R. 66 Home Life Building, Washington, D.C.

Present Business: Note-broker

Name of Firm: Chamberlain & Co.

'86-'87, in the railroad business in the West.

'87-'88, principal of the Elm St. Grammar School at Hingham, Mass.

'88-'89, general manager of the Crawford Shoe Stores in New York and Brooklyn.

'89-'91, in the novelty business in Boston.

'91-'95, with the Boston Mutual Life Association.

'96-'02, interested in fire insurance.

'02 to May 1, '05, in the appraisal business.

'98-'99, in Boston City Council, and in '99 was the Republican leader.

Nov., '04, wrote: "My company makes it a business to appraise all kinds of manufacturing plants, buildings, machinery, tools, shafting, pipes, benches and tables, office furniture, etc., in fact the whole working plant so that a manufacturer may know from an outside expert disinterested source just how much insurance to carry properly to protect himself, and as the work is done by drawings, floor-plans, etc., in case of fire an accurate proof of loss can at once be furnished the fire insurance companies interested.

"My work is to go through a plant and from my knowledge of the time required by the draughtsmen and machine men I am supposed to quote the manufacturer a price for which our company will make an appraisal.

"Judgment is the most necessary qualification for a man in my line and as I have never given my company a loss I flatter myself that I have at least graduated from the kindergarten school of my business.

"My territory has been the New England States with an occasional run into the States of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.

"When I tell you that during the cold weather of last winter I spent 31 straight nights in 31 different hotels in 31 different towns in New England, you will probably agree with me that my position is not exactly a 'snap.'

"I was very much interested in politics for five or six years but finally came to the conclusion that only two classes of men can successfully play the game, the man of money and the man without it, for they both have nothing to lose.

"You can set it down as an axiom that politics and business do not mix.

"The man in politics has no time for business and the man in business should have no time for politics."

Since May 1, '05, in Washington carrying on business as a "note-broker."

HAROLD TAYLOR CHASE

Born April 13, 1864, at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Father's Name: Edward Henry Chase

Mother's Maiden Name: Elizabeth Taylor

Present Address: Home, 929 King St., Topeka, Kan.

Present Business: Editor of "The Topeka Capital"

Has been ever since graduation in the newspaper business. The first year on the "Wilkes-Barre Daily Record" and since that time in Topeka as editor of "The Topeka Capital."

STEPHEN CHASE

Born January 30, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: George Bigelow Chase

Mother's Maiden Name: Anne Bard Lowndes

Present Address: P. O. Box 297, Dedham, Mass.

Has lived in Dedham since '97. Has acted as Secretary of the Harvard Alumni since Commencement, 1901.

July, '05, wrote: "In putting my desk to rights on the first of the month I find that blank you spoke of on Commencement, asking me to fill it out. So I do so, and return it to you, and much good may it do you and the class. You were so beguiling in your manner last Wednesday that I see now it is useless ever to refuse you anything.

"Not being engaged in business, and being unmarried, there are a number of spaces in the blank left unfilled. But everything that I can fill out I have done. You would hardly call the secretaryship of the Alumni, and the secretaryship to a Convalescent Home in Roxbury as coming under the head of 'Positions of Trust and Honor.'

"I take it you are gunning for bigger game than those for that record."

FRANK SPOONER CHURCHILL

Born August 28, 1864, at Milton, Mass.

Father's Name: Charles Marshall Spring Churchill

Mother's Maiden Name: Susan Elizabeth Spooner

Present Address: 439 North State St., Chicago, Ill.

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, December 31, 1894. Place, West Medford, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Lucretia Mott Hallowell

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Richard Hallowell	January 11, 1896 (d. January 14, 1896)
Lucretia Mott II	November 16, 1898
Winthrop	September 23, 1900

Degree: M.D., 1890

'86-'90, Harvard Medical School.

'90-'91, on the house staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

'91-'92, practising medicine in Calumet, Michigan, for the Calumet and Hecla Mining Company.

Since '92 has been practising medicine in Chicago, and has made a specialty of pediatrics. Has been an instructor in Diseases of Children at Rush Medical College, and was appointed assistant professor of Pediatrics in '05. Is member of Chicago Medical Society and American Pediatric Society; is attending physician Cook County Hospital and assistant attending physician Presbyterian Hospital; has published "Urine in Children," Trans. Am. Pediatrics Soc., '98; "Cyclical Albuminuria in Children," ibid, 1900; "Acute Leukemia in Children," Am. J. Med. Sci., Oct., '04; "The Blood in Typhoid of Children," B. M. and S. J., Oct., '03; "Appendicitis in Children"; "Pneumonia in Children," "Leucocytes in Whooping Cough," Jour. Am. Med. Soc., April, '06; and various articles on infant feeding.

December, '04, wrote: "I am jogging along with the regular daily routine of a city physician, my practice now being limited to children. In summer I go out to Winnetka, 18 miles north on the Lake, full of Harvard men, Bill Boyden among them. I attend the children of various Yale men, and it really is astonishing what good fellows some of them are—away from New Haven! I hope, however, by various 'passes,' 'incantations,' 'vaccinations,' &c., to open the eyes of their offspring so that they will see the light and seek it—at Cambridge!

"I have made a few contributions to medical literature, the most important being 'The Blood in the Typhoid of Children.' I guess that's all."

ADAMS DAVENPORT CLAFLIN

Born February 7, 1862, at Newtonville, Mass.

Father's Name: William Claflin

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Bucklin Davenport

Present Address: Newton Center, Mass.

Present Business: Electric Railways, etc.

Marriage: Date, October 30, 1888. Place, Worcester, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Agnes Walker

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Mildred	November 16, 1889
---------	-------------------

William Walker	December 19, 1899
----------------	-------------------

'86-'87, in Boston Law School.

'87, in partnership with M. M. Kimball in the electric lighting business, acting as the New England agents of the Mather Electric Company.

Electrical interests took him into the construction and management of electric railways, in which business he has continued to the present time.

May, '05, wrote: "Since the last report I have continued in the same business, that of endeavoring to provide the public with transportation facilities with satisfaction to themselves, and always with the hope of profit to ourselves as an incidental item. Our railway system has followed the usual course and has expanded largely, until at the present time we have some hundred and forty-five miles in operation, and connected therewith a gas and electric light company and some amusement enterprises. The number of enterprises in which we are engaged gives a pleasing variety to the duties I am called upon to perform.

" In connection with some of our amusement enterprises we have quite a zoological collection, and I sometimes find myself called upon to decide upon the relative merits of car motors one moment and troops of monkeys the next, with now and then camels added. All this demonstrates the wisdom of the courses as they were arranged in the long ago time when '86 was crowding Shaler's N. H. 8, and other similarly severe courses. Little indeed some of us realized the value of the instruction we were then receiving, and the great practical value it was to be in our future business careers.

" My business career has been broken into for one short automobile trip through France in the spring of '04. That was a most delightful experience. After a few days spent in Paris getting everything in shape, we started south early in April, and following the magnificent national routes, went by way of Dijon, Lyons, Avignon, &c., to Monte Carlo, and then on to Italy, sailing for home from Naples after a most perfect trip. A more enjoyable way of seeing the country cannot be imagined; our only trouble was a lack of time to see all we wished.

" With the above exception my life has gone on about as usual and my business has taken all my energies, and has allowed little time for other things. My family is the same as at the last report, and all its members have been favored with reasonably good health.

" The above will give you perhaps what you need for the report, provided my delay has not made it too late.

" I sincerely hope your own ways have been ways of peace and pleasantness, and here's to you and yours, and may you live long to remind your classmates of their old days of joy and sorrow and U. 5."

June, '06, wrote: "I am still engaged in the electric railway and lighting business, being president of several electric railway companies and of one gas and electric lighting company."

DAVID CRAWFORD CLARK

Born January 23, 1864, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: Luther Clapp Clark

Mother's Maiden Name: Julia Crawford

Present Address: Home, 24 West 39th St., New York

Business, 51 Wall St., New York

Present Business: Banker. Name of firm: Clark, Dodge & Co.

Marriage: Date, April 23, 1889. Place, New York

Maiden Name of Wife: Zelina Keyser

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Zelina Thérèse June 17, 1890

Since 1887 has been a member of the firm of Clark, Dodge & Co., bankers and brokers, New York. Has a summer home near Burlington, Vt.

WALTER THOMAS CLARK

Born October 26, 1861, at Cleveland, Ohio

Father's Name: Thomas Clark

Mother's Maiden Name: Cordelia Almena Richardson

Present Address: 61 Pearl St., Worcester, Mass.

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, February 25, 1891. Place, Portland, Me.

Maiden Name of Wife: Annie Merrill Greely

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Marion December 19, 1893

Degree: M.D., 1890

'86-'89, student in Harvard Medical School.

'89-'90, house officer, Worcester City Hospital.

Since '90 has been practising medicine in Worcester, Mass. He has been chairman since '94 of the Worcester Board of Health; was President of the Worcester Medical Association, '98-1900, and visiting physician to the Worcester Memorial Hospital, '93-'01. He has also been visiting physician Worcester City Hospital, '02 to date; city physician, '94-'05; and associate medical examiner Worcester Co., '98 to present; is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society, Practitioners' Club, and Massachusetts Association of Boards of Health.

'05, wrote: "Aside from this my life has been devoted to the routine of the practice of medicine, with the exception of a month's vacation which I take in the summer, spending my time loafing and fishing on the coast of Maine."

GEORGE WADSWORTH COBB

Born April 2, 1865, at Brookline, Mass.

Father's Name: Albert Adams Cobb

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Russell Chandler

Present Address: Home, Lake Forest, Ill.

Business: 107 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Present Business: Real Estate

Name of Firm: Geo. W. Cobb & Co.

Marriage: Date, October 25, 1893. Place, Henderson, Ky.

Maiden Name of Wife: Elizabeth Soaper Dallam

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

George Wadsworth March 8, 1895

Richard Henderson June 14, 1896

'86-'88, in general importing business in Boston. From May, '88, to the present in real estate and mortgage business in Chicago, at first with the firms of Peabody, Houghteling & Co. and P. E. Stanley & Co., then alone till January, '93, and then of the firm of Mead & Co. until '96.

'96-'02, in business alone.

'02, consolidated with the business of Dunlop, Smith & Co. under the name of George W. Cobb & Co.

EDMUND DWIGHT CODMAN

Born December 2, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Robert Codman

Mother's Maiden Name: Catherine Codman Hurd

Present Address: Home, 141 Beacon St., Boston

Business: 27 Kilby St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, June 21, 1898

Maiden Name of Wife: Anne Messer Briggs

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Dorothea Amory October 3, 1900

'86-'87 at Harvard Law School.

'87-'88 in the offices of the Fitchburg R. R. at Fitchburg, Mass.

'88-'89 in the offices of the same corporation at Boston.

Subsequently practised law in Boston. For three years he was President of the Fitchburg R. R., but his connection with railroading ended on September 25, 1900, when he resigned the presidency upon the lease of the Fitchburg R. R. to the Boston & Maine R. R. Since that time his occupation has been taking care of trust property.

'03, trustee of the Boston City Hospital.

FREDERIC COGGESHALL

Born January 8, 1861, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: George Dilwin Coggeshall

Mother's Maiden Name: Emma Walter

Present Address: 636 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, October 15, 1890. Place, Cambridge, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Louisa Canfield

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Reginald November 18, 1893

Degree: M.D., 1892

'86-'87, studied Zoölogy at Cambridge in the graduate department.

'87-'91, in Harvard Medical School and teaching Greek and Political Economy.

'91-'92, studying in Europe.

Since July, '92, has been practising medicine in Boston.

Member of Boston Society Medical Improvement; Massachusetts Medical Society; American Medical Association; American Academy Medicine; Boston Medical Library; specialist in Diseases of the Nervous System and in Gynecology; is physician Boston Dispensary, Department of Nervous Diseases, and was for some years pathologist of Carney Hospital, Boston.

CLINTON COLLINS

Born November 15, 1863, at Cincinnati, Ohio

Father's Name: Isaac Clinton Collins

Mother's Maiden Name: Emily Ruth

Present Address: Home, 1813 Forest Ave., East Walnut Hills, Ohio

Business, 414 Home St., Cincinnati

Present Business: Printer and Publisher

Marriage: Date, June 1, 1899. Place, Louisville, Ky.

Maiden Name of Wife: Edith Betts

Children: Names,

Dates of Birth,

Clinton February 16, 1901

Francis April 12, 1902

Joseph Betts July 1, 1904

Degree: LL.B., Cincinnati (O.), 1887

'87, Cincinnati Law School.

For a few years practised law in Cincinnati, Ohio, and later edited a weekly paper in Cincinnati.

'98, went into the printing and publishing business.

January 1, '06, became Superintendent of the Health Department, Cincinnati, O.

ROBERT GEORGE COOK

Born August 4, 1864, at Canandaigua, N. Y.

Father's Name: George Cook

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline Bull

Present Address: 242 Alexander St., Rochester, N. Y.

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, June 2, 1892. Place, Rochester

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Belle Strong

Children: Names,

Dates of Birth,

Robert Strong February 11, 1895

Alan Augustus August 17, 1896

George Elmendorf March 10, 1898

Degree: M.D., Columbia (Coll. Phys. and Surg.), 1889

'86-'89, student at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York.

'90-'91, house officer at Roosevelt Hospital, New York.

'91-'95, assistant physician at St. Lawrence State Hospital, Ogdensburg, N. Y.

'93-'94, studying in Europe, on leave of absence.

Since '95 has been practising medicine at Rochester, N. Y.

December, '04, wrote: "In my practice I pay special attention to mental and nervous diseases, but have not given up general work altogether. I have recently been appointed consulting neurologist to the Rochester State Hospital and have for some time been attending neurologist to St. Mary's Hospital and to the out-patient department of the Rochester City Hospital.

"Within the past year I have become a member of the Medical Society of the State of New York, and I have 'held office' in several of the local medical societies.

"Nearly three years ago I removed my residence and office, and now have a fairly central location and a lot over 400 feet deep for my several boys to exercise in. The family census is the same as in the last report, three boys."

'05, appointed consulting neurologist to the Rochester N. Y. State Hospital; attending neurologist St. Mary's Hospital, Rochester; attending neurologist O. P. D., Rochester City Hospital.

Member American Medical Association, N. Y. State Society, Rochester Academy of Medicine.

DAVID HILL COOLIDGE, JR.

Born September 2, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: David Hill Coolidge

Mother's Maiden Name: Isabelle Shurtleff

Present Address: Tremont Building, Boston

Present Business: Landscape Architect

Marriage: Date, November 25, 1890. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife: Harriet Sears Crowninshield

Child: Name, Date of Birth,
Constance Crowninshield January 4, 1892

'86-'87, student at Bussey Institute.

'88-'93, studied landscape gardening with F. H. & J. C. Olmstead.

Since '93 has been a landscape architect in Boston, in the firm of Coolidge & Titus. At present is alone.

Has traveled much abroad.

Mustered in May 9, '98, as Sergeant-Major on non-commissioned staff of Brigadier-General T. R. Matthews. Stationed at Devereux, Massachusetts. Mustered out May 21, '98.

FREDERIC TABER COOPER

Born May 27, 1864, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: Varnum Eugene Cooper

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Hurlbert Taber

Present Address: 36 Hamilton Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.

Present Business: Teaching and Writing

Marriage: Date, November 29, 1887. Place, New York

Maiden Name of Wife: Edith Redfield

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Doris Redfield	December 29, 1890
Helen Taber	November 25, 1893
Marjorie Hurlbert	February 14, 1896
Degrees: LL.B., Columbia, 1887; A.M., Columbia, 1891; Ph.D., Columbia, 1895

'86-'87, student at Columbia Law School, New York, where he received the LL.B. degree.

February '88, admitted to the bar.

'89-'90, traveling abroad for his health.

June, '91, received the A.M. degree from Columbia, and an appointment as Associate Instructor in Latin, a position which he held for three years while completing his work for the Ph.D. In connection with this work he prepared a 300-page thesis on "Word Formation of the Roman Sermo Plebeius," afterwards taken over by Ginn & Co.

June, '95, received the Ph.D. degree.

'06, wrote: "In '96 I was appointed Associate Professor in Latin in the New York University, and later was asked to establish some courses in Sanskrit. My work was practically confined to the post graduate department, and while the work was interesting, the number of students was small; so that, while retaining a nominal connection with the University until '02, I gave more and more time to outside matters. Beginning in '97, I was connected with the staff of the Commercial Advertiser, and was its literary editor from 1900 until the Spring of '04. Then the Advertiser became the Evening Globe, its policy and tone changed, and what had hitherto been an agreeable occupation became at once an impossibility. Since then I have avoided any office position, confining myself to writing such articles as directly interest me.

"I cannot give you a list of publications, for the simple reason that so far my work has not taken the form of books. Literary criticism, essays, biography and fiction, in newspapers and magazines, make up the bulk of it. In the new International Cyclopedia, I had charge of a large part of the Foreign Languages and Literature, including Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, and Hungarian. I did some work for Warner's Library of the World's Best Literature, and for Harper's Classical Dictionary.

"I live very quietly in Yonkers for nine months in the year, and the remaining three find me at New London, in a small cottage, built on a sand-bar, within eighteen feet of high tide. The greater part of the three months, I am either in a canoe or in the water."

*ARTHUR DELORAIN COREY

Born April 13, 1866, at Malden, Mass.

Father's Name: Deloraine Pendre Corey

Mother's Maiden Name: Isabella Holden

Died August 17, 1891

Degrees: A.M., 1887; Ph.D., Berlin, 1891

Arthur Deloraine Corey, the only child of Deloraine Pendre and Isabella (Holden) Corey, was born in Malden, Mass., April 13, 1866. His early education was gained in that city, and he was soon known as a capital student, being the youngest scholar ever admitted to the High School, and the head of his class at graduation. He entered college with '85, and his decided inclination for classical studies became evident the first year. The sophomore year he took highest second year honors in classics. In the beginning of his junior year he had an attack of scarlet fever so severe that he was forced to give up work for the rest of the year. Returning the following fall, he entered '86, but was almost immediately taken down with typhoid fever, and the early part of that year also was lost to study. Still, by extra work, he advanced with '86, and, as a senior, won a Bowdoin prize by an essay on "The Dionysiac Theatre." While in college he was a member of the Total Abstinence Society, the Christian Brethren, and Phi Beta Kappa, and was one of the founders, and for a long time Secretary, of the Classical Club. He graduated with an oration and honors in classics. Illness followed him persistently; the summer of 1886 he had diphtheria. Returning, nevertheless, pluckily to work in the fall, he went through a post-graduate year, and was during this one of the original members of La Conference Française. With his A.M. degree he went abroad, still a student, for seven semesters of hard work in Berlin. Here, besides his lectures and reading, he was interested in and helped found the International Total Abstinence Society of Berlin and an American church. His vacations were spent in Italy, Switzerland, France and England. In June, 1891, he received the doctor's degree, presenting for it a thesis on an archaeological subject, "De Amazonum Antiquissimis Figuris." Returning to America he spent the summer at his home in Malden, was there taken with peritonitis, and died after three days' illness, August 17, 1891.

LYSANDER WILLIAM CUSHMAN

Born November 24, 1860, at Newville, Cal.

Father's Name: Lysander Valentine Cushman

Mother's Maiden Name: Hetty Cummings Booth

Present Address: Reno, Nev.

Present Business: Professor of English

Name of Firm: University of Nevada

Marriage: Date, July 18, 1900. Place, Cambridge

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Reed

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Margaret May 18, 1905

Degrees: A.B., Pierce Christian (Cal.), 1883; A.M. (Hon.), Drake (Ia.), 1890; Ph.D., Göttingen, 1900

'86-'87, post-graduate student at Harvard.

'87-'89, professor of History and Anglo-Saxon in Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa.

'89-'90, professor of Greek and English, Pierce's Christian College, College City, Cal.

'90-'91, principal of Watsonville High School, Watsonville, Cal.

'92-'96, was also City Superintendent of Schools in the same place.

'96-'98, student at Berlin and Göttingen, in English and German Philology. Received Ph.D. from Göttingen.

Since '99 has been professor of English in the Nevada State University.

'06-'07, on leave of absence, studying in Cambridge.

ARTHUR KEHEW DAY

Born September 12, 1862, at Dover, N. H.

Father's Name: Warren Kelsey Day

Mother's Maiden Name: Martha Shackford Brooks

Present Address: 11 South St., Concord, N. H.

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, March 23, 1892. Place, Boston, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Annie Butler Stevens

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Helen Downing July 19, 1893

Philip Stevens September 8, 1894

Robert Brooks March 9, 1896

Degree: M.D., 1889

'86-'87, student in physician's office in Concord, N. H.

'87-'89, student at Harvard Medical School.

Since '89, practising medicine at Concord, N. H.

Is attending physician Margaret Pillsbury Hospital, Concord, N. H.; and member N. H. Medical Society; has published "Pulmonary Tuberculosis; its Early Diagnosis and Treatment"; and "Modified Milk as a Food for Infants."

May, '05, wrote: "My personal history for the past three years is the record of a quiet general practitioner of medicine.

"After a service of two and a half years (April, '01-Oct. '03) in the N. H. State Laboratory of Hygiene, at Concord, as a bacteriologist, which began at the time of our last class report, I gave up the position in order to devote my entire time to general practice.

"My family is the same as at our last report—a wife and three children. Two boys devote a large part of the time to foot-ball and base-ball, and will undoubtedly be keenly disappointed if they are not selected, later in the century, as members of some of Harvard's winning teams."

Mustered in May 10, '98, as First Lieutenant and Assistant Surgeon, First New Hampshire Infantry Volunteers. Stationed at Chickamauga Park, Georgia, and at Camp Hamilton, Lexington, Kentucky. Mustered out August 30, '98.

WILLIAM RICHARDSON DEWEY

Born October 5, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Edward Dewey

Mother's Maiden Name: Almira Hale Hall

Present Address: Home, 232 Franklin St., Newton, Mass.

Business, 34 Oliver St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Manufacturer of Machinery

Name of Firm: Waters Governor Co.

Marriage : Date, February 23, 1892. Place, Newton

Maiden Name of Wife: Margaret Percival Braman

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

William Richardson March 5, 1893

Margaret Braman April 16, 1896

'86-'89 with C. O. Foster & Co., in the raw sugar business, Boston.

January, '90 to January, '98 in partnership with A. M. Barnes, for the transaction of West India business, chiefly molasses and sugar.

January 6, '98, organized and became Treasurer of the Waters Governor Co., a corporation formed for the manufacture of machinery, in which business he has since continued.

FRANK ELLIOT DICKERMAN

Born January 9, 1865, at Charlestown, Mass.

Father's Name: Quincy Elliot Dickerman

Mother's Maiden Name: Rebecca Maria Perkins

Present Address: Home, 47 Craigie St., Somerville, Mass.

Business, 18 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Law

Name of Firm: Hale & Dickerman

Marriage: Date, November 11, 1891. Place, Somerville

Maiden Name of Wife: Minnie Louise Despeaux

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Robert Elliot May 5, 1895.

'86-'88, at Harvard Law School.

'88-'91, with Richardson & Hale.

In May '91, "Mr. Richardson, being appointed Judge of Somerset County by Governor Russell, retired from the firm, and the new firm of Hale & Dickerman was formed, in which connection he has since continued."

Served in Somerville City Council for two years ('90-'91), was President of the Common Council one year, and has served on the School Committee.

Has traveled in Europe several times. Member of the University and Athletic clubs, Boston, and Boston Yacht Club. He has a yacht and an automobile and enjoys himself in them.

Counsel for New England Telephone Co. for fourteen years.

*HUGH THOMPSON DICKEY, JR.

Born December 7, 1863, at Chicago, Ill.

Father's Name: Hugh Thompson Dickey

Mother's Maiden Name: Frances Russell de Koven

Marriage: Date, April 3, 1888. Place, New Haven, Conn.

Maiden Name of Wife: Louise Lawrence Whitney

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Frances de Koven May 15, 1889

Died March 11, 1891

Hugh Thompson Dickey, Jr., son of Frances Russell de Koven, and Judge Hugh Thompson Dickey, was born in Chicago, December 7, 1863. He received his early education in Europe, but prepared for college at Dr. Coit's school in New Hampshire. While in Harvard his health, always delicate, combined with a natural reserve, kept him from making a wide acquaintance, but the few friends he allowed himself recognized the fineness of his mind and valued him highly. After graduation he traveled for a while in Europe, and then entered the Columbia Law School. Ill health continuing, however, he gave up study, and went into a bank for a winter. During this time he met Miss Louise Lawrence Whitney, daughter of Stephen Whitney, of New Haven, Conn., and they were married April 3, 1888. Another trip abroad failed to give him strength, and a year was spent therefore at Colorado Springs, but consumption steadily advanced, and he returned home to die, March 11, 1891. He left one child, Frances de Koven, born May 15, 1889.

HARRISON DIKE

Born March 28, 1865, at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Father's Name: James Prince Dike

Mother's Maiden Name: Hattie Allen

Marriage: Date, March 16, 1898

Maiden Name of Wife: Alice Edna Fitzpatrick

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Harriet Alice	April 16, 1900
Son	June 6, 1901

Since graduation he has been in business in New York City, for a time with Wood, Heustis & Co., bankers, and later with Ladd, Wood & King, bankers. His present business and residence are unknown.

HENRY HYDE DWIGHT

Born July 25, 1863, at Barre, Vt.

Father's Name: Henry Cutler Dwight

Mother's Maiden Name: Fanny Maria Hyde

Present Address: 6 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Architect

Marriage: Date, September 12, 1895. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Alba Webster

'86-'87, traveling in Europe.

'87-'94, with Hartwell & Richardson, architects.

'94-'03, member of the firm of Dwight & Chandler, architects, of Boston.

In '03 he had pneumonia followed by a nervous collapse, and in January, '04 he went to California for his health and has since remained there.

*WALTER HOWARD EDGERLY

Born April 26, 1865, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Charles Brown Edgerly

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Nelson Howard

Business: Stock Broker

Marriage: Date, January 3, 1905. Place, New York, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Nathalie Alice Bloom

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Madeleine

July 12, 1906

(d. January 11, 1907)

Died October 9, 1906

Walter Howard Edgerly, eldest son of Charles B. and Mary Howard Edgerly, was born in Boston, April 26, 1864, and died at his home, at Longwood, Boston, October 9, 1906. He prepared for college at the Cambridge High School, and entered the class of '86 at the beginning of its freshman year, and took his degree, with creditable standing, in the regular course. In his freshman year he played on the Freshman Nine, and in his junior and senior years was a member of the University Nine. During his entire college course he was one of the most valued members of the University Glee Club. His college clubs included the Institute of 1770, DKE and Hasty Pudding.

Upon leaving college he spent a year each in the offices of F. S. Moseley & Co., and Blake Brothers & Co. In 1889 he formed a partnership with J. B. Crocker, '89, under the firm name of Edgerly & Crocker, in the stock, bond and note brokerage business, which partnership continued until his death. For a number of years their offices have been at 53 State Street, Boston. His success in business was marked. Unaided, he became the head of one of the most active firms in their line in Boston. This success naturally followed his industry, keen business sense, high ideals and wonderful capacity for enlisting the confidence and affection of those with whom he came in contact. His classmates will rejoice that it has been often said of him that there was no more popular man "on the Street."

After graduation, he was well known in Boston as an excellent tenor singer, and was a member of the Apollo Club and the Harvard Musical Society. Of a most sociable nature, he numbered among his clubs the University, Tennis and Racket, Exchange, Massachusetts Automobile Club of Boston and the Country Club of Brookline and the Harvard Club of New York.

On January 3, 1905, he was married to Nathalie Alice Bloom, a niece of his friend and classmate, William R. Dewey. A daughter was born to them July 12, 1906.

Walter Edgerly was a rare, fascinating personality. His wit and sense of humor were delicious and always at command, but there was in them nothing but kindness. He had the very genius of sociability. No one ever saw enough of him. At the Class Dinners and Reunions, no one's laugh rang out so cheery and infectious as his, and when he led in song, his magnetism made everyone sing better than he knew. He loved the College and the Class, and delighted to serve upon anniversary committees of the Class. His friends will always remember his devotion to his widowed mother, his unfailing courtesy, kindness and generosity, the manliness and courage with which he faced the discouragements of life and his fatal illness. He combined with aggressive, nervous energy the sympathetic refinement of a good woman. When the Class meets in the years to come, no one will be more missed, and his memory will be dear to many of us while memory lasts.

W. C. B.

ARTHUR FAULKNER

Born October 2, 1862, at Keene, N. H.

Father's Name: Francis Augustus Faulkner

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline Handerson

Present Address: Home, Keene

'86-'97, in the Citizens' Bank, Wichita, Kansas, beginning as book-keeper and rising to the position of cashier and vice president. He was also interested in various corporations with their headquarters in Wichita. On his return to his home in Keene, N. H., he became treasurer of the Trinity Cycle Manufacturing Co., and later a builder of automobiles. At present he is living in Keene, but is not in business.

JOHN CHARLES FAULKNER

Born February 23, 1861, at Keene, N. H.

Father's Name: Charles Stearns Faulkner

Mother's Maiden Name: Eliza Eames

Present Address: Keene

Present Business: Treasurer Faulkner & Colony Mfg. Co., Woolen Manufacturer

Name of Firm: Faulkner & Colony Mfg. Co.

Marriage: Date, June 6, 1888. Place, Keene

Maiden Name of Wife :	May Lena Barrett
Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
John Charles	March 2, 1889
Margaret Barrett	December 16, 1890
Wintrop	December 9, 1891
James	November 29, 1893 (d. November 29, 1893)
Helen	September 25, 1905

Ever since graduation, has been in the firm of Faulkner & Colony at Keene, N. H. Is now treasurer of the corporation.

Takes his fun in golf.

February, '06, wrote: "If you can overlook my seeming gross indifference to requests from you last fall for contributions to the next '86 Report, and if this report is not yet too far advanced with the publishers, I should like to have you add to the list of my children the name of Helen Faulkner, born the 25th of last September.

"I am very sorry I cannot give you any further personal news, but the fact is there has been no excitement up here in New Hampshire for the past three years that I have been mixed up in, and with the exception of Miss Helen, whatever of a personal nature I might hand in would be merely a repetition of my contribution, if I made any, to the last report."

IRVING WETHERBEE FAY

Born November 30, 1861, at Natick, Mass.

Father's Name : Gilbert Park Fay

Mother's Maiden Name : Laura Sophia Brigham

Present Address : Home, 357 Ocean Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Business, Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn

Present Business : Professor of Chemistry

Marriage : Date, August 18, 1897. Place, Athens, Ohio

Maiden Name of Wife : Elizabeth Schuefel

Child: Name,	Date of Birth,
Ernestine	August 4, 1898

Degree : Ph.D., Berlin, 1896

'86-'87, instructor in Science, Montpelier Seminary, Montpelier, Vt.
'87-'93, instructor in Physics and Chemistry, Belmont School, Belmont, Cal.

'93-'94, student in Heidelberg University.
'94-'96, student in Berlin University.
'95-'96, Parker Fellow of Harvard.
'96, instructor in Chemistry, University of Maine.
'96-'97, professor of Chemistry, Ohio University.
From '99, lecturer in Chemistry, Brooklyn Institute.
From '97, professor of Chemistry, Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn.

SAMUEL MARCUS FECHHEIMER

Born July 10, 1864, at Rogersville, Ky.

Father's Name: Marcus Fechheimer

Mother's Maiden Name: Narni Thurnauer

Present Address: Home, 699 Gholson Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio

Business, 820 Sycamore St., Cincinnati

Present Business: Shoe manufacturer

Name of Firm: Krohn, Fechheimer & Co.

Marriage: Date, February 20, 1896. Place, Cincinnati

Maiden Name of Wife: Alice Stix

Children : Names ,	Dates of Birth ,
Marcus	October 16, 1897
Nathan Stix	October 5, 1900

Degree: A.M., 1887

'86-'87, student at Harvard in the Graduate Department.

'87-'90, in the employ of M. & L. S. Fechheimer & Co., wholesale dealers in woolens and manufacturers of clothing.

'90 to present time, in the shoe manufacturing business, at first with the Sachs Company and later with Krohn, Fechheimer & Co.

*CORNELIUS CONWAY FELTON

Born December 29, 1863, at Newbury, Mass.

Father's Name: Samuel Morse Felton

Mother's Maiden Name: Maria Low Lippitt

Business: Law

Degree: LL.B., Univ. Pa., 1888

Died August 20, 1890

Cornelius Conway Felton was the youngest child of Samuel M. Felton, born at Newbury, Mass., a resident of Philadelphia, Pa., and a graduate of Harvard, of the class of '34. His mother was Maria L. Lippitt, of Providence, R. I. Felton was born December 29, 1863. His early education was obtained in Philadelphia. At the age of about fifteen years he was sent to Mr. Knapp's boarding school in Plymouth, Mass., where he prepared for St. Paul's School at Concord, New Hampshire. Leaving St. Paul's in 1880, he entered the class of '82 at Phillips Academy at Exeter, N. H., where he was prepared for Harvard.

While in college he was on the Lampon, and was member of the Art, Chess, and Hasty Pudding Clubs, and the Historical Society.

Immediately after graduation he entered the law office of the Hon. Wayne MacVeagh, of Philadelphia, at the same time attending lectures at the University of Pennsylvania Law School. He was admitted to the bar in 1888, and in the autumn after his admission began the practice of law in Philadelphia. During the summer of 1890, in which he died, he resided in Philadelphia, making weekly trips to Bay Head, N. J., where his mother's cottage was located.

On one of these trips he was attacked by rheumatism in the knee, and upon reaching the cottage was entirely crippled. The disease traveled rapidly, and about ten days later reached the heart. At this critical point, pneumonia, due, the physician said, to the rheumatism and the enfeebled condition in which it had left him, set in. From this complication his death resulted three weeks after the day of his first attack.

"Mention the name to his intimates of the class and a feeling of unspeakable sadness settles on them like a cloud. The announcement of his death may, without exaggeration, be said to have shocked the whole class. Stoics though we be, we cannot hear of the passing away of some strong, manly, generous classmate without a feeling akin to awe at the intense reality of death—always impressive, dignified, composed, touching impartially the rich and poor alike, the foolish and the wise, the strong and the weak. And so on a day death came to our classmate Felton, and we realized that he was no longer one of us. Howsoever much our laughter may ring out at the class reunions, his voice will take no part. His reminiscences of college days will play no part with ours in the years to come. He is dead, in his youth, in his great strength of early manhood.

"His memory to many of us, to all that knew him, is and will always be wholly pleasant. To those of us who met him daily, one and all, the recollection of him comes bringing, indeed, grief that we should have lost him, but joy that, amid all the falsity, vainglory and selfishness about us in the present, we can number among the unalloyed joys of the past an intimate acquaintance with him, 'so gentle and so generous and so true.' "

W. W. B.

EBENEZER HAYWARD FERRY

Born June 14, 1864, at Peterborough, N. H.

Father's Name: Charles Brace Ferry

Mother's Maiden Name: Ella Matilda Hayward

Present Address: Hanover National Bank, New York, N. Y.

Present Business: Vice President of Hanover Bank

Marriage: Date, February 14, 1889. Place, Northampton, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Amelia Olmstead Parsons

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Harriet May 8, 1891

'86-'87, National Bank of Redemption in Boston.

'87-1900, with the Bay State Trust Company of Boston, being during the latter years, secretary of the company.

1900-'07, vice president of the National Shawmutt Bank of Boston.

'07, elected vice president of the Hanover Bank, of New York City.

Writes that he was in San Francisco in the spring of '06 and saw Somers there.

SEWALL HENRY FESSENDEN

Born January 25, 1865, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Sewall Henry Fessenden

Mother's Maiden Name: Louisa Green Bursley

Present Address: Home, Chestnut Hill, Boston

Business: 50 Congress St., Boston

Present Business: Note-broker

Name of Firm: F. S. Moseley & Co.

Marriage: Date, October 22, 1889. Place, Brookline, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Caroline Haskell Lee

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Caroline Lee January 8, 1893

Harriet Lee October 22, 1896

Louisa June 4, 1900

Rose Lee July 12, 1901

Sewall Henry October 16, 1904

'86-'87, in the office of Luce & Manning, commission wool merchants, in Boston.

Fall of '87 in the office of Tower, Giddings & Co., bankers and brokers.

From January '88 to present time, with F. S. Moseley & Co., note brokers in Boston. Since '92 has been a member of the firm.

Is a member of the Somerset, Tennis and Racquet clubs in Boston, and the Country Club in Brookline. He is especially interested in country life and hopes to retire to that.

FREDERIC DANIELL FISK

Born August 12, 1864, at Cambridge, Mass.

Father's Name: James Chaplin Fisk

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Grant Daniell

Present Address: Home, Riverbank Court, Cambridge

Business, 15 State St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Caring for Family Property

'86-'93, in the Boston office of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

'93 to the present time, has the care and management of family property, real estate in Cambridge and cotton mills. Has been a worker in Cambridge politics.

'05, wrote: "The last three years with me have been entirely uneventful so far as anything which would be of even the slightest interest to my classmates, is concerned. Business has taken all of my time, and would have taken more if I had had it to give. I have succeeded in keeping out of all public office and public notice (including the police court). I am still the treasurer of the Cambridge Home for Aged People, which, strange to say, continues to prosper even under this handicap.

"The death of my mother more than a year ago, resulted in breaking up my home and I am now one of those most miserable creatures, a homeless old bachelor."

CHARLES RUEL FLETCHER

Born May 4, 1865, at East Cambridge, Mass.

Father's Name: Ruel Hasseltine Fletcher

Mother's Maiden Name: Rebecca Caroline Wyman

Present Address: Home, 25 Rector St., Perth Amboy, N. J.

Business, 1 High Street, Perth Amboy

Present Business: Manager Ashland Mills

Name of Firm: Ashland Emery & Corundum Co.

Marriage: Date, May 24, 1888. Place, Chelsea, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Bertha Agnes Holway

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Ruth Bradstreet April 7, 1889

Wesley Holway September 23, 1893

'86-'88, taught, did some clerical work, and was for a time astronomical computer in the employ of Dr. B. A. Gould.

'88-'89, superintendent of the Speare Wheat Starch Factories at Watertown, Mass.

'89-'92, superintendent of the Crystal Springs Manufacturing Company at Watertown, Mass.

'92-'93, superintendent of the Huron Milling Co., Harbor Beach, Mich.

Since '93, manager of the Ashland Mills, of the Ashland Emery & Corundum Co.

ROBERT DUMONT FOOTE

Born July 19, 1862, at Cincinnati, Ohio

Father's Name: John Taintor Foote

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Swords Dumont

Present Address: Morristown, N. J.

Present Business: Banker. Name of Firm: National Iron Bank

Marriage: Date, July 7, 1886. Place, Madison, N. J.

Maiden Name of Wife: Marie Gilmour Hopkins

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Marie Natalie October 23, 1887

Alice Dumont August 25, 1891

Marianne Lathrop November 10, 1894

Robert Dumont July 31, 1897

John Taintor July 30, 1902

Was not in business until '98, when he became vice president of the National Iron Bank of Morristown, N. J., a position he has since retained.

Has interested himself to a considerable extent in local politics, and has been Common Councilman and Alderman of Morristown, and Fish and Game Commissioner of New Jersey.

He is also the father of the first-born '86 child.

HENRY EDWARD FRASER

Born January 28, 1861, at East Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Charles Leonard Fraser

Mother's Maiden Name: Jeanette Clow Cowan

Present Address: Home, Trinity Court, Boston

Business, 110 Meridian St., East Boston

Present Business: Druggist

'86-'87, taught in the Harvard School at Chicago.

'87-'96, teacher in A. W. Hale's School for Boys in Boston.

'96-1900, teacher in Boston Latin School.

1900-'06, undertook the direction of private investment funds.

'04, wrote: "Sincerely hoping that I may have the pleasure of reading, in your 'Report,' characteristic returns from every member of '86 appealed to, I gladly offer my bit of personal history, in spite of a feeling that it is sadly lacking in interest.

"In the fall of 1900 I resigned my position as junior master in the Boston Latin School, to devote my entire attention to the stock market. The unprecedented panic of '01 (May 9), found me in the arena, where I then discovered the true nature of sand. My eight backers remained friendly, but the appalling liquidation that followed, in '03, as a natural sequence of the panic, disheartened the entire country, and my supporters were no exceptions to the rule.

"With more leisure than capital I plunged into financial statistics with the enthusiasm of a maniac, studying as I had never dreamed of studying even during the most pressing 'emergency occasions' at college. Result, an elaborate set of chart records plotted on cross-section paper, which I like to think cannot be duplicated in New York nor elsewhere; also, a sudden perception of the unspeakable value of a broad perspective in deciding the best levels of investment and speculation. My study included exhaustive investigation of about eight hundred scale systems applied absolutely to the courses of leading stocks for a decade past. Perhaps a dozen reams of paper as large as a desk blotter have been used up in exact calculations along this line.

"To conclude: I am now reputed, hereabouts, a quasi-expert, highly theoretical in my analyses. Several brokers pay me well for statistical and advisory work. All my old backers have returned, with upward of one hundred more, men and women, enabling me to open an office at 31 State Street, and to assume sole management of a public 'Investment Account' on the co-operative plan. It goes under my own name, and has paid about 102 per cent. in dividends in its thirteen months of existence. Having always taken myself more seriously than even my closest friends care to, I naturally feel pleased with the above showing, especially as the capital employed was only a part of the whole, the rest being deposited elsewhere as an emergency reserve — not yet drawn upon.

"Twice in the dark periods of '01-'03 I practically dropped out of sight, not to say life, pretty close to mental collapse from undue concentration and humiliation. Present success is every inch an uphill fighting attainment, based on dogged determination to win and hold recognition where pity and sneers previously held sway."

At present, in the drug business in East Boston.

FRANK RAVENEL FROST

Born October 17, 1863, at Society Hill, S. C.

Father's Name: Elias Horry Frost

Mother's Maiden Name: Fanny Ravenel

Present Address: Charleston, S. C.

Present Business: Law. Name of Firm: Smythe, Lee & Frost

Marriage: Date, April 18, 1900. Place, Morristown, N. J.

Maiden Name of Wife: Celestine Huger Preston

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Elias Horry February 18, 1901

John Preston December 9, 1903

'86-'88, studying law in Charleston, S. C.

Since '88 has practised law in that city.

Since '96 has been a member of the law firm of Smythe, Lee & Frost.

'05, wrote: "I wish that there existed information about myself of a character worth stating and which would be interesting to the class. The most interesting events in my life are my marriage and two children, but I think this information has been contained in former reports.

"I am still practising law and hope that years and experience will combine to increase my knowledge and skill in my profession.

"Last summer my family and I passed some time on the Rhode Island Coast and from there I went to Boston and met some of my class and was delighted with them, and with their hospitable reception of me. I think, since I left college, I have never enjoyed company so much as I did on several occasions last summer when I was with my classmates and friends made at college.

"Not infrequently, men I knew at college come to Charleston and call on me and in this way, I keep in touch with what the members of our class are doing.

"Two years ago, Professor Hart with his family, passed some of the winter months in Charleston and delivered a lecture on the Monroe Doctrine. I had the pleasure of seeing something of him when he was here.

"Mustered in May 10, '98 as private, Heavy Battery, South Carolina Volunteer Artillery; June 29th received Commission as Captain, Company F, Third United States Volunteer Infantry. Served in the eastern part of Cuba. Mustered out January 1, '99."

*LEWIS PIERCE FROST

Born January 1, 1866, at Belmont, Mass.

Father's Name: Varnum Frost

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Russell

Business: Law.

Marriage: Date, April 20, 1893. Place, Boston, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Ruth Read Gage

Degree: LL.B., 1889

Died March 11, 1900

Lewis Pierce Frost, the son of Varnum and Sarah Russell Frost, was born at Belmont, January 1, 1866, and died of typhoid fever in Chicago, Ill., March 11, 1900. He was prepared for college at the Arlington High School, and entered so early that he was then the youngest member of '86. After graduation he spent three years in the Harvard Law School, and the following five years in the practice of law in Boston. On account of ill health he then removed to Los Angeles, and later somewhat improved, returned to Chicago, where he obtained the position of Assistant Civil Service Examiner. He held this office until January, 1900, when he became Chief Examiner, and at the same time renewed to some extent his legal work. April 20, 1893, he was married in Boston to Ruth Read Gage, who survives him.

PAUL REVERE FROTHINGHAM

Born July 6, 1864, at Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Father's Name: Thomas Bumstead Frothingham

Mother's Maiden Name: Anne Lunt

Present Address: 294 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Clergyman, Arlington St. Church

Marriage: Date, June 14, 1892. Place, New York

Maiden Name of Wife: Anna Clark Clapp.

Degrees: S.T.B. and A.M., 1889

'86-'89, student at Harvard Divinity School.

'89-1900, minister of the First Congregational Society of New Bedford.

Since October 14, 1900, minister of the Arlington St. Church in Boston.

'99-'01, University Preacher at Harvard.

'04, elected Overseer at Harvard.

In '05, wrote: "For more than four years I have been settled in the Arlington Street Church here in Boston, and the life has been full of activities and interests. I find myself deeply involved in the management of benevolent institutions of one kind and another. The days, in short, are all too brief for the manifold duties which have a claim upon me. There is little time left for writing, and I have published nothing except a few sermons and a small volume on William Ellery Channing."

JAMES ALBERT FRYE

Born May 5, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: James Nichols Frye

Mother's Maiden Name: Sabina Thompson Bacheler

Present Address: Home, Hotel Westminster, Boston

Business, P. O. Box 1612, Boston

Present Business: Administrator and Trustee.

Marriage: Date, October 29, 1891. Place, Keene, N. H.

Maiden Name of Wife: Kate Colony

'86-'89, special student at Harvard Law School.

'89 to present, with brief period in business, engaged in writing, having published four books, and numerous magazine and newspaper articles.

Since '90, in military service either of the State or of the United States. Served in First Mass. Infantry as sergeant-major, second lieutenant, and first lieutenant and regiment adjutant, '90-'97; in First Mass. Heavy Artillery (now the Mass. Corps of Coast Artillery) as major, and later colonel, having commanded the regiment from 1900 to '06, and participating with it in the U. S. Army and Navy manoeuvres in the Artillery District of Narragansett in '02, and in the Artillery District of Portland, Me., in '03. Served on the staffs of Governors Wolcott and Crane as inspector general of rifle practice, with rank as colonel, '97-'1900. Served as major of artillery, U. S. Volunteers, 26 April to 14 November, '98, with station at Fort Warren, Boston Harbor, commanding 3d Battalion, First Mass. Heavy Artillery, U. S. V., and second-in-command defenses of Boston Harbor. Appointed by Governor Guild as adjutant general and chief of staff, Jan. 4, '06. Feb., '07, retired with rank of major-general. Delegate from Mass., to coast defence convention at Tampa, Fla., January, '96, and later served as secretary of National Defence Association. Serving as member National Board of Promotion on Rifle Practice (War Department) by appointment of Secretary Root, since '03. Member board on revision of Mass. military code, 1900; of Mass. board of military examiners, '05; of special board on armory laws, and chairman of Mass. armory commission, '96. Member Mass. delegation to Nashville Exposition, '97. Former vice-president and director, Mass. Rifle Association, and former director National Rifle Association. Past-Commander, '93-'04, Commandery of Mass., Naval and Military Order of Spanish-American War, and member of national council. Companion of Military Order of Foreign Wars. Member St. Botolph Club, Papyrus Club, and Mass. Military Historical Society, Boston, and of Army and Navy Club, Washington, Associate Member Military Service Institution of the United States, and of the United States Naval Institute. Decorations for long and faithful service, M. V. M., and for expert and distinguished marksmanship.

'06, resigned chairmanship of '86 Class Committee, after twenty years' service.

WILLIAM MORTON FULLERTON

Born September 18, 1865, at Norwich, Conn.

Father's Name: Bradford Morton Fullerton

Mother's Maiden Name: Julia Ball

Present Address: 2 Chaussée d'Antin, Paris, France

Present Business: Foreign Staff of London "Times"

'86-'88, literary editor of the "Boston Daily Advertiser."

'88-'89, abroad, with headquarters in London.

'89-'91, on "The London Times."

Since '91, representing "The London Times" in Paris, associated with M. de Blowitz until the latter's death.

'03, correspondent of "The London Times" at Madrid.

Has been editor of the European part of the literary supplement of "The London Times."

'05, wrote: "I should gladly send you 'some personal news' if I had anything to send. I cast conscientiously about me in search of some, but nothing looms on the horizon big enough for me to point it out to my friends. I published the other day in French, and directly written in that language by myself, a book entitled: Terres Françaises, which seems to have 'caught on' here. That is personal, but not very interesting. All our personal matter would seem likely soon to be merged in one vast cataclysm of individual interests for the German Emperor is becoming méchant, and the best information that I can obtain in high quarters is that some big and terrible things are shortly to be feared."

THOMAS HOVEY GAGE

Born January 13, 1865, at Worcester, Mass.

Father's Name: Thomas Hovey Gage

Mother's Maiden Name: Annie Maria Lane

Present Address: Home, 61 William St., Worcester

Business, 314 Main St., Worcester

Present Business: Law. Name of Firm: Smith, Gage & Dresser

Marriage: Date, June 8, 1898. Place, Worcester

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Alice Chase

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Mary Hovey November 29, 1901

Degrees: LL.B. and A.M., 1889

'86-'89, in the Harvard Law School.

'89-'90, at Washington as private secretary of George F. Hoar.

'90-'91, in the law office of Rice, King & Rice in Worcester.

Since January 1st, '92, has been practising law in Worcester.

Has been director of the City National Bank and secretary of the Worcester Art Museum.

In January, 1900, formed a partnership with Frank Bulkeley Smith and W. B. S. Hopkins, under the name of Hopkins, Smith and Gage.

January, '02, firm became Smith, Gage & Dresser.

Assistant treasurer of Clark University; trustee of the Worcester County Institution for Savings, and public administrator for the County of Worcester.

AUGUSTUS PEABODY GARDNER

Born November 5, 1865, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Joseph Peabody Gardner

Mother's Maiden Name: Harriet Sears Amory

Present Address: Hamilton, Mass.

Present Business: Public Official

Marriage: Date, June 14, 1892. Place, Nahant, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Constance Lodge

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Constance October 17, 1894

'86-'88, Harvard Law School.

'88-'97, in the employ of George A. Gardner, Boston.

1900-'01, State Senator.

'02-'06, Representative in Congress. Is specially interested in legislation for the restriction of immigration.

Mustered in May 12, 1898, as Acting Assistant Adjutant-General, with rank of Captain, United States Volunteers. Assigned to First Division, First Army Corps, on staff of Major-General James H. Wilson. Served at Chickamauga Park, Georgia, and in Porto Rico. Mustered out December 31, 1898.

CHARLES LANGDON GIBSON

Born May 5, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Charles Langdon Gibson

Mother's Maiden Name: Margarette Carter Smith

Present Address: 8 East 58th St., New York

Present Business: Physician

Degree: M.D. 1889

'86-'89, in the Harvard Medical School.

'90-'91, house officer in St. Luke's Hospital, New York.

'92, was abroad studying.

Since '93, practising medicine in New York. Is attending surgeon to St. Luke's and the City Hospitals, consulting surgeon to the Vassar Brothers Hospital, Poughkeepsie; professor of Clinical Surgery in the Cornell University Medical College, New York City.

Belongs to the New York State Society; the New York Academy of Medicine; the Medical and Surgical, the Clinical and the Surgical Societies; also the American Surgical Association; the American Association of Genito-Urinary Surgeons; the American Society of Clinical Surgery; corresponding member of the Association Française d'Urologie; member of the University, Century and Harvard Clubs, the Society of Colonial Wars, the Sons of the Revolution.

'05, wrote: "My status is about the same as in the last report, a good deal of routine work and increasing responsibilities. My principal hospital work continues to be done at St. Luke's Hospital. Of recent years I have taken up surgical teaching with much profit to myself.

"I get away for short trips for shooting in the South during the winter, and always have the vision of a European trip, a reality last year and a hopeful probability in '06."

'06, wrote: "In '06 I took a long vacation trip that I can strongly recommend. Starting in March on a White Star liner I disembarked at Algiers, spending three weeks pleasantly in the North of Africa ending up at Tunis, a most attractive place. An eighteen hour sea trip took me to Palermo, the starting point of a delightful round trip of Sicily,—particularly a week spent at wonderful Taormina. Then a leisurely journey northward toward Florence. Then a month's excursion automobiling in Central Europe, winding up with some brief weeks in Paris and London, brought me home late in July greatly rested and with a fresh store of enthusiasm for my work which is only possible after a proper break in one's accustomed routine."

ALBERT AUGUSTUS GLEASON

Born October 10, 1863, at Milford, Mass.

Father's Name: Zelotes Gleason

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Adelaide Scott

Present Address: Home, 149 West Canton St., Boston, Mass.

Business, 60 State St., Boston

Present Business: Law

Degree: LL.B., 1889

'86-'89 in the Harvard Law School.

'90 to the present time, has practised law in Boston.

'96, went abroad with the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

Has been president of the Lincoln Republican Club of Boston and the New England Club of Delta Upsilon, and is a 32nd degree Mason.

Now in partnership with J. J. Higgins, '91, under the firm name of Gleason & Higgins, at 60 State St., Boston, Mass.

'05, wrote: "I am plugging away at the law at the same old stand. I am still a commissioned officer in Battery K, First Massachusetts Artillery, and have the pleasure of serving under our genial classmate, Col. James A. Frye. With the uniform off, however, we throw military courtesy aside and call him, as you all do, plain 'Jim Frye.'

"I wish more Harvard men might enter the militia; it is a patriotic duty, and the time may come when Uncle Sam will need a well equipped and thoroughly trained reserve force. Then we want to see Harvard men to the front, holding military commissions of high rank, demonstrating anew the patriotic ardor of Old Harvard, and showing conclusively that the true Harvard spirit is patriotic to the core. Frye's work has been of the highest order, and he deserves merited recognition from the state for the time, money and labor that he has put into his work.

"At the close of the Spanish-American War, I joined the Naval and Military Order of that war, composed of commissioned officers who had served therein. The comradeship between its members is worthy of emulation by other bodies.

"Since the last report, I have become a life member of 'Kinsley Associates,' connected with Edward W. Kinsley Post No. 113, Grand Army of the Republic, which will endeavor to keep alive the memories of that army long after its members have answered the last roll call.

"Two years ago, I was Judge Advocate on the Staff of the Commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and during the various 'strenuous campaigns' which that organization has made, have met many Harvard men, and have always received from them a most hospitable welcome, showing that the true Harvard spirit is omnipresent.

"I maintain an active interest in Masonic bodies, being a Knight Templar and thirty-second degree Mason, and it is gratifying to meet in such bodies many Harvard and other college men, and if the latter could foresee the real pleasures and great advantages resulting from membership therein, they would petition for membership without delay.

" Finding physical exercise necessary, I have joined the Boston Athletic Association, where I meet many Harvard men, and a number of our class. Here we periodically don our 'gym duds,' and accompanied by mayors, judges and aspiring politicians, pull chest weights, canter round the running track, and do other stunts with pleasure, which we considered a 'demnition grind' while in college.

" In closing, I would like to impress on all the desirability of keeping in closer touch with the life in Harvard. That is comparatively easy for those living near Cambridge, but I still think those living at a distance would find it worth their while to come to the 'Shrine of Fair Harvard' as often as possible. I know of no keener pleasure than that of being in sympathetic touch with young men seeking a college education. It keeps you in communion with an ever increasing number of youth, brings new friends and new joys, besides stimulating your interest in the welfare of your Alma Mater. We need the companionship of these choice spirits to keep us young and up-to-date.

" I might also add, that we Harvard men should take a deeper interest in the schools where we prepared for Harvard. Many desirable fellows are lost to Harvard, mainly because of apparent neglect on our part, to return to our 'prep' schools, interest ourselves in the students' welfare, and let them feel that Harvard is the proper college to attend. By meeting 'Harvard Grads,' they often acquire a better knowledge of Harvard's splendid opportunities than by any other means."

Is First Lieutenant, 2nd Company of the Corps of Coast Artillery of Massachusetts, member of Legion of Spanish War Veterans, Roger Wolcott Camp, No. 26, Life member of Harvard Union, Aleppo Temple A.: A.: Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and vice-president of the New England Alumni of the Phillips Exeter Academy.

War record: Mustered in May 9, 1898, as First Lieutenant, Battery K, First Massachusetts Heavy Artillery Volunteers. Stationed at Fort Warren, and at Stage Fort, Gloucester, Massachusetts. Mustered out November 14, 1898.

EDWARD BORDEN GRAY

Born July 11, 1863, at Tiverton, R. I.

Father's Name, Edward Gray

Mother's Maiden Name : Irene Pierce Borden

Present Address : Home, Fair Haven, Mass.

Business, New Bedford, Mass.

Present Business : Teacher

Marriage : Date, October 25, 1887. Place, New Bedford

Maiden Name of Wife : Hattie Myra Carpenter

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Mildred Eleanor	October 7, 1889
-----------------	-----------------

Irene Borden Carpenter	March 10, 1895
------------------------	----------------

'87-'92, member of the firm of Gray Bros., New Bedford, Mass.

'88-'90, teacher in Smith Academy, St. Louis, Mo.

'93-'96, principal of High School, Wallingford, Vt.

'96-'01, Superintendent of Schools at Fair Haven, Mass.

'01-'05, principal of John H. Clifford Grammar School in New Bedford, Mass.

'06, principal of H. M. Knowlton Grammar School in New Bedford.

HENRY ARTHUR GRIFFIN

Born November 17, 1864, at Winchester, Mass.

Father's Name : Charles Henry Griffin

Mother's Maiden Name : Cecilia Wyman

Present Address : Lawrence, L. I.

Present Business : Life Insurance

Marriage : Date, September 19, 1894. Place, Islip, L. I.

Maiden Name of Wife : Helen de Forest

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Helen de Forest	July 14, 1895
-----------------	---------------

Kate Wyman	March 14, 1897
------------	----------------

Degree : M.D., Columbia (Coll. Phys. and Surg.), 1889.

'86-'89, studying in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York.

'90-'91, house officer of the New York Hospital.

'91-1900, practising medicine in New York.

Since 1900, on the medical board of the New York Life Insurance Company.

COURTENAY GUILD

Born December 6, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name : Curtis Guild

Mother's Maiden Name : Sarah Crocker Cobb

Present Address : 26 Mt. Vernon St., Boston

'86-'87, traveling abroad.

'87-'93, with Brewster, Cobb & Estabrook of Boston, bankers.

'89-'06, has been a member of the Executive Committee of the Republican Club Committee of Boston, except for three years while he was in office.

'94, was abroad for five months.

1900-'01, was appointed Collector of Taxes of the City of Boston by Mayor Hart.

Is treasurer of the Arlington St. Church.

Has kept up his interest in rowing, and took part in all the theatrical performances of the First Corps of Cadets from '89 to 1900.

Served as an active member of the Corps during the six years ending in December, 1900.

Wrote: "In May, '02, a Democrat succeeded me as Collector of Taxes of the City of Boston, and I went back to active politics as Chairman of Ward eleven Republican Committee.

" My interest in rowing has continued, and the Metropolitan Rowing Association of Boston and vicinity has elected me president in '04 and '05.

" I have rowed no races since '03, when I had rather good fortune on the water, but spent some time in coaching the class crews at Wellesley last spring.

" The Apollo Club, that has for many years been in the front rank of musical organizations of Boston, elected me as its president in June, '04, and the concerts of the season just ended have been most successful, leaving a good surplus in the treasury in place of the usual deficit.

" Perhaps my connection with musical clubs brought me the invitation, that I accepted, to take a leading part in the performances of 'The Mikado' recently given by graduates of Radcliffe and Harvard for the benefit of Radcliffe Library.

" A few months ago I received my first initiation in Masonry and have recently attained the 32nd degree.

" In Arlington Street Church (Unitarian), where our classmate Paul

Frothingham is making a great success as minister, I have served as treasurer for several years; and much of my time is taken up by my duties as treasurer of a Methodist chapel, trustee of a savings bank, director of the Benevolent Fraternity of Churches, chairman of the Unitarian Festival Committee and other similar positions.

"My address is still 26 Mt. Vernon St., Boston. I have the misfortune of remaining a bachelor.

"It may interest you to know that at the Metropolitan Regatta in Boston July 28, I rowed stroke of the Boston Athletic Association boat that won the race for Senior Double Sculls.

"In Washington on the Potomac, at the Middle State Regatta on Labor Day, I rowed with Frank Greer, who was champion sculler of America in 1903-'04-'05, as my partner. After he had won the race for senior singles and also the quarter-mile dash, we went out and won the senior doubles. With such a partner the race was an easy one for me.

"As you are collecting statistics of the class, I hope you will not think me too egotistical in sending this account of my recent success on the water. At our age there is a great satisfaction in defeating the younger men in athletics."

BINNEY GUNNISON

Born December 20, 1863, at Erie, Pa.

Father's Name : George Washington Gunnison

Mother's Maiden Name : Harriet Louisa Boynton

Present Address : Home, 23 Duke St., Mattapan, Wellington Hill, Mass.

Business, 19 Pierce Bldg., Copley Sq., Boston, Mass.

Present Business : Teacher, Andover Theological Seminary

'86-'89, studying in the Newton Theological Institute.

'90-'93, assistant pastor of the People's Church in Boston.

'93, teaching in the Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn.

'94, teaching in the School of Expression, Boston.

'95, had Bell's paralysis, and was obliged to rest for a few months.

'96, taught in Worcester Academy, and since '97 has given a certain amount of teaching in the Theological Seminary, and during the past year has been also instructor in Public Speaking in the Harvard Law and Divinity Schools.

'05, wrote: "I teach theological students two days a week at historic Andover. The rest of my time is spent at the School of Expression in Boston. My snips of sleep are mostly at home in Mattapan.

"It will be some years yet before I can astonish the world with my theories of education through expression. So I say little about it."

FRANCIS RAYMOND HALEY

Born August 24, 1862, at Yarmouth, N. S.

Father's Name: William Haley

Mother's Maiden Name: Adelaide Robbins

Present Address: Home, Wolfville, N. S.

Business, Acadia College

Present Business: Professor of Mathematics

Marriage: Date, September 28, 1893. Place, Norwich, Conn.

Maiden Name of Wife: Elizabeth Kenyon Wilcox

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Francis Bissell	October 14, 1898 (d. January 29, 1899)
Harriet Elizabeth	January 13, 1901

'86-'88, instructor in Mathematics in the Freehold Institute, Freehold, N. J.

'88-'90, instructor in Mathematics in Free Academy, Norwich, Conn.

'91-'92, took a course at the University of Leipsic.

'93 to the present time, teaching in Acadia College, at first as professor of Physics, and since '97 as professor of Mathematics.

'05, wrote: "To the present report there is very little that I can contribute. I am still teaching in Acadia College, on whose staff are now to be found a number of Harvard graduates.

"Two years ago I received an appointment as High School Examiner for the Province of Nova Scotia. A portion of my spare time is devoted to the interests of a local golf club."

EDWARD EVERETT HAMLIN

Born April 3, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Edward Sumner Hamlin

Mother's Maiden Name: Anna Gertrude Conroy

Present Address: Home, 187 Bay State Road, Boston

Business, 30 Congress St., Boston

Present Business: President Metropolitan Coal Co.

Name of Firm: Metropolitan Coal Co.

Marriage: Date, (1) December 31, 1888; (2) January 16, 1904.

Place, (1) Bangor, Me.; (2) Winchester, Va.

Maiden Name of Wife: (1) Helen Hamlin (d. January 4, 1902);

(2) Katharine Brooke Conrad

Children: Names,

Elinor Cutting

Helen

Dates of Birth,

March 14, 1892

February 28, 1905

'86-'88, clerk in his father's coal business in Boston, and on his father's death in February, '88, formed a partnership under the firm name of E. S. Hamlin & Co., wholesale and retail coal dealers; has continued in this business to the present time.

For six or seven years has been president of the Metropolitan Coal Company of Boston. Is a member of the Union University, and County Exchange Clubs of Boston, and of the Eastern Yacht Club. He is chiefly interested in "outdoor life."

*SELWYN LEWIS HARDING

Born April 22, 1864, at Everett, Mass.

Father's Name: William Penn Harding

Mother's Maiden Name: Abby Moore

Died January 7, 1887

Selwyn Lewis Harding, the son of William Penn and Abby (Moore) Harding, was born at Everett, Mass., April 22, 1864. He died at his home in Cambridge, in January, 1887, after a short illness.

Harding was a man of unusual ability, and the record he made in school and college was a brilliant one. He received his preparation for Harvard at the Boston Latin school, where he was known as one of the hardest working scholars in his class. He graduated from the school with high honor, and received a Franklin Medal for distinguished excellence in scholarship. Upon entering college Harding at once took a place among the leading scholars of the class. In his freshman year he was one of those upon whom Detours were conferred. In the second-year honor examinations of his sophomore year he was awarded highest honors in mathematics, and in his senior year he won honors in physics. He was a Bowdoin prizeman, receiving this distinction for his essay on "The relations of Forest to Rainfall and the Water Supply." At graduation he received his degree "summa cum laude," obtaining also honorable mention in Physics, Mathematics, and English Composition. He was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa, and of the Delta Upsilon societies. At the time of his death he was engaged in the study of advanced physics, in which he had obtained remarkable results.

Owing to his devotion to his work Harding was, perhaps, not brought into contact with a large number of the class, but those who were fortunate enough to be numbered among his friends knew him as a thoroughly manly fellow and a pleasant companion. In his death the class met with an irreparable loss, for in his life he had shown the promise of a useful and honorable future.

GEORGE BALMER HARRIS

Born January 8, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: George Ropes Harris

Mother's Maiden Name: Margaret Elizabeth Balmer

Present Address, Home, 87 Seaver St., Brookline, Mass.

Business, 84 State St., Boston

Present Business: Banking and Brokerage

Name of Firm: Blake Bros. & Co.

Marriage: Date, April 22, 1891. Place, Salem, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Mariana Thayer Margati

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Margaret Bancroft February 9, 1892

George Margati February 18, 1893 (d.)
April 18, 1894)

José Calderon October 31, 1894

Dorothy April 28, 1897

Barbara May 23, 1900

Virginia December 18, 1903

'86-'91, lived in Salem; since in Brookline. Has been with Blake Bros. & Co., bankers and brokers in Boston.

December 31, 1900, entered a new firm which will carry on a business under the old name of Blake Bros. & Co.

'05, wrote: "The most important things that have happened, as well as I can remember, are as follows:

"In the fall of '01 I bought a small house in Brookline and have lived there since.

"My family spent the summer of '02 in Tamworth, N. H. An '85 friend has a house there and has invited seven or eight college friends to celebrate Washington's Birthday with him on his farm the last two years. It is one of the chief events of the year for some of us, for the combination of mountains and woods, snow and clear air, with snow-shoes, skis, good companions and a delightful host, is hard to beat.

"I have become a member of the Brookline Country Club and of the Warren Farm Golf Club, and more recently of the Longwood Tennis Club. I had the proud distinction of winning (with a partner) the tennis championship in doubles of Kenberma this last summer.

"My wife and I had a very enjoyable trip in October last, visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Harrison, in Cincinnati, going with them to St. Louis and from there to Chicago to see Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Boyden and family at Winnetka.

"The last and most important event was the marriage of W. H. Edgerly on January 3rd, in New York, with the assistance of Dr. Wm. Lord Smith of Persia and '86."

'06, wrote: "Both business and recreation continue to be uneventful, although I have succeeded my father as trustee in a few instances, and have had to give up tennis, for the present at least, owing to a bad knee."

CHARLES LEARNER HARRISON

Born February 10, 1864, at Cincinnati, Ohio

Father's Name : Learner Blackman Harrison

Mother's Maiden Name : Frances Goodman

Present Address : Home, East Walnut Hills, Ohio

Business, First National Bank Building, Cincinnati

Present Business : Manager Father's Estate

Marriage : Date, April 17, 1894. Place, Cincinnati

Maiden Name of Wife : Bertha Bradshaw Webster

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Charles Learner March 29, 1895

Edmund Webster March 28, 1904

Since graduation has been in business in Cincinnati, Ohio.

In the early years with a tannery, then with the Cincinnati Ice Manufacturing and Cold Storage Company, and later managing real estate for his father.

December, '04, wrote: "In reply to yours can say not much more than that I have been watching my job and acquiring my share of worldly goods and pleasure. Since the last class report I have had an addition to my family in the shape of a fat boy, now nine months old. He promises, like the older one who is nine years, to be his dad's chum.

"I have been managing my father's estate, which consists in a great measure of real property, and have been improving and building up as rapidly as is consistent. Am interested in a number of corporations though an officer in very few. This fact, however, does not prevent my taking quite an active part, principally in a large tannery and in the First National Bank of this city, in the large increase of capital and the later combination with another bank, and the building of whose new eighteen story office building, I have had quite an active part, though being simply a member of the Board of Directors. In the tannery in question I am the Chairman of the Executive Committee and have a hand in the guidance of all new and general matters. Outside of these I help run an Insurance Company, two Traction Companies and a number of smaller interests, so I have not time to get into much mischief.

"For pleasures, I am still faithful to horse-back riding and now have not only my wife as a companion, but my big boy who rides like an Indian, and says he is going to Harvard and that his little brother is also to go. His contempt for Yale would please the heart of any Under Graduate enthusiast.

"In a musical way, the Apollo Club is about my only active dissipation, but am always pleased to get to New York during Opera season, especially for the 'Ring.'

"The Harvard enthusiasm in this section of the country takes form in an annual meeting of Harvard Clubs from a number of cities meeting alternately at the different places. This year it was Indianapolis, but I was unable to go on account of business reasons. The year before it was in St. Louis and had a very large attendance. We took a preliminary view of the Fair Grounds which was quite a help for the real trip which I made in October."

BERTRAM CURTIS HENRY

Born October 26, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: John Jay Henry

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Augusta Fitch

Present Address: 92 Brook St., Wollaston, Mass.

Present Business: Music Teacher

Marriage: Date, June 22, 1898. Place, Burlington, Iowa

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Lucille Donnohue

'86-'91, was engaged in studying, teaching, and occasionally writing, music.

'91-'92, in Munich studying music.

'92-'93, teaching in Detroit, Mich., and organist of the First Unitarian Church.

'93-'97, in charge of the Music Department, Burlington Institute, Burlington, Iowa.

'97-'98, director of the Carleton College School of Music at Northfield, Minn.

'93 to present time, in Boston, part of the time on the faculty of the Faelton Pianoforte School, and for the past three years teaching in Quincy Mansion School, Wollaston.

Has published the following: "A Ditty"; "A Widow Bird Sat Mourning"; "The Sea Hath Its Pearls"; "Praise The Lord, O My Soul"; "Te Deum"; "Romance in A Flat"; "Bagatelle in D"; "Arethusa" and other piano pieces; and several articles in Music.

HENRY ARNOLD HENSHAW

Born February 8, 1858, at Woburn, Mass.

Father's Name: Thomas Arnold Henshaw

Mother's Maiden Name: Susannah Clemson

Present Address: 129 Salem St., Woburn, Mass.

Present Business: Principal Goodyear School

Degrees: A.M. 1887; S.T.B. and A.M. 1890.

'86-'87, graduate student of Philology at Harvard.

'88-'90, Harvard Divinity School.

'90-'92, private tutor.

Since '92, principal of the Goodyear School, Woburn, Mass.

LE ROY LINCOLN HIGHT

Born November 27, 1864, at Saco, Me.

Father's Name: Horatio Hight

Mother's Maiden Name: Clara Ellen Milliken

Present Address: Home, 503 Cumberland St., Portland, Me.

Business, 36 Exchange St., Portland

Present Business: Law. Name of Firm: L. L. Hight

Marriage: Date, November 24, 1887. Place, Portland.

Maiden Name of Wife: Clara Webster

Children : Names ,	Dates of Birth ,
William Webster	November 26, 1888
Le Roy Sumner	April 6, 1892
Richard	November 2, 1900

'86-'92, read law in Portland, admitted to bar in 1892.

'87-'99, teacher of Classics in Portland High School.

'99 to the present time, practising law. Has become a specialist in the legal relations of the Grand Trunk Railroad.

'05, wrote: "I have no more names of children to add to the list. I have published nothing and do not intend to. I hold no position of trust or honor that I consider worth mentioning. I think you have somewhere a memorandum of the fact that I am treasurer of the Harvard Club of Maine, but on the chance that you have not I will put that in as a nucleus for further accumulation of such titles of reverence and respect. If you think it should be done you can also add the fact that I am and have been for five or six years a member of the Superintending School Committee of Portland.

"The fact is, for anyone living way down East, life is so very Arcadian that the world and its honors, as you know them in the metropolis, cut no figure. We simply listen to the god Pan and dance to his piping except the nine or ten months of the year when we wear ulsters and heavy rubbers,—clothing which interferes somewhat with graceful dancing.

"Why don't you come on here and explore this part of the country? I cannot show you as much that is bad as you can show us in New York but we have a great deal that is delightful, especially in the summer time. I think you had better journey this way next summer and put in a couple of weeks under the prohibition law. I fancy it would be a great moral and physical good."

BENJAMIN THOMAS HILL

Born March 22, 1863, at Worcester, Mass.

Father's Name: Jonathan Henry Hill

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Bruce Jenkins

Present Address: Home, 111 Salisbury St., Worcester

Business, 314 Main St., Worcester

Present Business: Law

'86-'89, student at Harvard Law School.

'89 to the present time, practising law in Worcester, Mass.

GEORGE PEPPERELL FROST HOBSON

Born August 10, 1861, at Wiscasset, Me.

Father's Name: Isaac Townsend Hobson

Mother's Maiden Name: Frances Ellen Brewer

Present Address: Home, 195 Kingston Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Business, Boys' High School

Present Business: Teacher of Latin

Marriage: Date, November 25, 1904. Place, Augusta, Me.

Maiden Name of Wife: Helen Topliff Wilder

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Wilder February 18, 1906

'86-'89, was with the lumber firm of Isaac T. Hobson, Wiscasset, Me.

'87, city editor of Council Bluffs Globe, Iowa.

'89-'90, clerk of the Courts of Lincoln County, Me.

'90-'93, associate teacher in the Brooklyn Latin School.

'93-'98, teacher in the Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn.

'98 to the present time, teacher in the Boys' High School, Brooklyn.

In '06, wrote: "First, I humbly apologize to you for not answering your letter of November 8, in which you urged me to contribute something to the Class Report. Next, I wish to express my regret at not being among the favored hundred odd members of our class who are to join hands around the festal board tomorrow night, and wake the echoes once again with 'Fair Harvard.'

"My theory of life has always been largely in accord with that of the illustrious biographer of Patrick Henry, of whom, I understand, it is said that his ambition was to add an acre and a child each year to his possessions. While this has been my theory, be it said, yet it has remained to my beloved and honored chum, John Merriam, to put it most truly into practice. John follows the plough (with his eye) as it turns up the rich loam o'er moorland and lea on his Sabine farm; while I'm looking up a flat for next year (seven rooms and a bath).

"John can point with pride and satisfaction to his numerous progeny, while I must confess to only one. But it is that one, a small boy of four months, whose birth in this twentieth year of our departure from college, makes the anniversary an especially noteworthy one to me. Wishing to express my personal feeling of sincere appreciation for the many efforts put forth by the 'Boston men' for the joy and edification of the 'Outlanders,' and trusting that the celebration will be one of great pleasure to all attending, I am as ever."

*ROBERT WORTLEY HOGG

Born August 4, 1864, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: John Douglass Hogg

Mother's Maiden Name: Emma Elizabeth Whiting

Died October 30, 1899

Robert Wortley Hogg was born August 4, 1864, in New York, N. Y., and died at St. Nazaire, France, October 30, 1899. In college he was a member of the Institute and of the Hasty Pudding. After graduation he spent a year traveling in Europe, and then entered the employ of A. C. McClurg & Co., publishers, in Chicago. While there he lived for two years with F. S. Churchill, '86. His health was poor, and he was compelled at times to give up all employment for a considerable period. Churchill writes : "A more kind-hearted, considerate fellow I never knew—qualities which came out noticeably when our first baby died ; always willing and even anxious to save any trouble or to oblige in any way possible. He played the piano with much feeling, but carelessly, and with no effort, reading his music as I would read a novel. His love of books was another marked trait, and he was thoroughly conversant with the best English and French literature. If there had only been the will to use and develop the talents too plainly lying dormant! It was a sad sight to see him just drifting—drifting—drifting—his life perfectly aimless. His temperament was essentially an artistic one, and had he but applied himself with energy to his music, he could have accomplished much. As it was, it was one of the most sad and pathetic in its weakness I have ever seen."

WILLIAM HARRISON HOLLIDAY

Born July 27, 1863, at St. Louis, Mo.

Father's Name: Samuel Newton Holliday

Mother's Maiden Name: Maria Fithian Glasby

Present Address: Home, Angelus Hotel, Los Angeles, Cal.

Business, Los Angeles

Present Business: Cashier. Name of Firm: Merchants' National Bank.

Marriage: Date, October 30, 1889. Place, Los Angeles

Maiden Name of Wife: Flora Adaline Baldwin

Child: Name, Date of Birth,
Marie Louise August 20, 1890 (d. April 11, 1902)

'86-'87, student in the Eastman Business College at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

'87 to the present time, banking in California, for a few months with the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Los Angeles, and later with the Southern California National Bank of Los Angeles.

At present, cashier of the Merchants' National Bank.

FREDERIC CLARKE HOOD

Born March 11, 1865, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: George Henry Hood

Mother's Maiden Name: Henrietta Janvrin

Present Address: Home, Warren St., Brookline, Mass.

Business, 99 Bedford St., Boston

Present Business: Treasurer. Name of Firm: Hood Rubber Co.

Marriage: Date, November 24, 1891. Place, Providence, R. I.

Maiden Name of Wife: Myra Tucker

Child: Name, Date of Birth,
Donald Tucker February 13, 1893

'86-'89, secretary of the Boston Rubber Company.

'96 to the present time, treasurer of the Hood Rubber Co., which he organized in '96.

Is member—and secretary of the Country Club, Brookline, '02-'05.

Is a member of the Massachusetts Automobile Club.

Enjoys out-of-door life, plays golf and tennis and runs his machine (a Pierce-Arrow).

The class remembers what he does not state that he ran the 15th and 20th '86 celebrations.

ALANSON BIGELOW HOUGHTON

Born October 10, 1863, at Cambridge, Mass.

Father's Name: Amory Houghton, Jr.

Mother's Maiden Name: Ellen Ann Bigelow

Present Address: Corning, N. Y.

Present Business: Second Vice President

Name of Firm: Corning Glass Works

Marriage: Date, June 25, 1891. Place, Corning

Maiden Name of Wife: Adelaide Louise Wellington

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Eleanor Wickham April 13, 1896

Amory III July 27, 1899

Quincy Wellington September 17, 1901

(d. November 10, 1906)

Matilda June 24, 1904

'86-'88, in Europe, traveling and studying in Göttingen, Berlin and Paris.

'88-'89, studying and writing, at home, in Corning, N. Y.

'90 to the present time, with the Corning Glass Works, of which he is vice president.

Has been trustee of the Willard State Hospital.

'04, was chosen a Presidential Elector.

PERCIVAL SPURR HOWE

Born January 26, 1863, at Brookline, Mass.

Father's Name: Thomas Howe

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Fisher

Present Address: Home, 66 Berkley St., West Newton, Mass.

Business, 50 Congress St., Boston

Present Business: Note-broker

Name of Firm: P. S. Howe

Marriage: Date, January 7, 1889. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife: Blanche Thorn Perry

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Percival Spurr April 12, 1895

'86-'87, traveling in Europe and the West.

'87-'88, clerk with W. L. Garrison of Boston.

'89 to the present time, Commercial Paper and Investment Securities.

Has traveled widely for pleasure. Is living in West Newton; has taken up nature studies and is in much better health than formerly.

In '05, wrote: "I have done nothing worthy of distinction unless it is that I have not missed a Class Dinner. I am now away on my winter vacation, the time I usually take a short trip somewhere on the water."

WALTER HENRY HOWE

Born June 6, 1864, at Lowell, Mass.

Father's Name: Henry Chadwick Howe

Mother's Maiden Name: Fanny Hudson

Present Address: 315 Sumner St., Lowell

Present Business: Trustee and Real Estate

'86-'88, with a boot and shoe manufacturing house in Boston.

'89-'93, in the lumber business in Lowell, Mass.

'93 to the present time, in the real estate business and trustee of various interests in Lowell.

Is a member of the Yorick and Country Clubs, Lowell.

Is a director in the Lowell Hosiery Co., and in the Traders and Mechanics' Insurance Co.

Is also trustee of the Merrimac River Savings Bank, secretary of the Old Men's Home and director of the Ayer Home.

Runs an automobile.

'06, wrote: "I am living in Lowell as usual, and am interested in the care of some property belonging to my relatives and friends. I am also interested somewhat in local business enterprises and charities—and in our Harvard Club, of course."

GEORGE EDWIN HOWES

Born August 27, 1865, at Reading, Mass.

Father's Name: Andrew Howes

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Susan Vose

Present Address: Williams College, Williamstown, Mass.

Present Business: Professor of Ancient Languages

Marriage: Date, December 27, 1887. Place, Boston, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Sarah Knowlton Dillaway

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Alan Dillaway July 16, 1888

Ralph Edwin (d. September 10, 1889)

Marjorie May 28, 1895

Degrees: A.M. 1890; Ph.D. (Philol.) 1895.

'86-'87, taught in a boarding school in Stamford, Conn.

'87-'92, teacher in Boston Latin School.

'92-'95, studying Classical Philology in the graduate school at Harvard.

'95-'05, professor of Greek in the University of Vermont; also secretary of the Faculty and Chairman of the Athletic Committee.

'02-'03, professor of Greek Language and Literature at the American School of Classical Studies at Athens.

June, '05, elected Garfield Professor of Ancient Languages at Williams College, Williamstown, Mass.

July to August, '06, teaching in Columbia Summer School, New York.

'06, wrote: vide appendix.

JOHN HENRY HUDDLESTON

Born July 11, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Charles Henry Huddleston

Mother's Maiden Name: Susan Elizabeth Matthewson

Present Address: 126 West 85th St., New York

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, September 18, 1894. Place, Raymond, N. H.

Maiden Name of Wife: Mabel Parker Clark

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Margaret Susan August 8, 1896

Carrol Hyde January 19, 1899

Jean Fuller August 23, 1905

Degrees: M.D. and A.M. 1891.

'86-'90, student at Harvard Medical School.

'89-'91, in various hospitals in Boston.

Since March, '92, in the practice of medicine in New York.

Is secretary of New York Academy of Medicine; member of Harvard Medical Society, County and State Medical Societies, New York Pathological Society; Society Internal Medicine; Hospital Graduates' Club; National Association Prevention of Tuberculosis; American Association Military Surgeons; American Public Health Association; Secretary American Delegation of 14th International Medical Congress; ex-chief-of-clinic University and Bellevue Medical School; ex-visiting physician Workhouse and Almshouse Hospital; ex-bacteriologist St. Vincent's Hospital; visiting physician Gouverneur Hospital and Riverside Sanitarium; entered the National Guard as Private Co. A., 7th Regiment, March 16, 1894; was appointed Assistant Surgeon, of the grade of Captain, 7th Regiment, November 6, 1895; has published various medical papers, among them: "Discussion of the Composition of Cream," N. Y. Med. Record, Sept. 11, '97; "Value of Schumberg Method of Purification of Water," N. Y. Med. News, Dec. 29, 1900; "The Freezing Point of Urine," Phil. Med. Jour., June 29, '01; "Tetanus and Vaccine Virus," Medicine, Dec., '03; "Carpenter Lecture on Physical Chemistry in Medicine," Trans. Acad. Med., '02.

Is a member of the Century, Harvard and Barnard Clubs.

'06, wrote: "The personal thing I may say for the Report relates perhaps chiefly to the sense I have of the delight of living and to my keen enjoyment of the work and of the pleasures which have fallen to my lot. To speak of the solid satisfaction coming from a family has little novelty for those provided, and little use for those desolate. My own fortune has been good. Study and some slight experimental work along medical lines have been interspersed daily after the manner of medical men with social observations, both bringing interesting acquaintances and valued friends. Rather by accident than otherwise my public work has latterly been in touch with measures for the prevention of tuberculosis, and the progress of this work has been a matter for rejoicing. Some of the brightest points in retrospect, however, are a few summers when neither medicine nor social relations were considered. There stand out some short journeys on the other side, or in the west as last summer, when I went through the Yellowstone Park and numberless Colorado canyons, and first saw in city and on ranch what western enthusiasm for a western state meant. The thought of these experiences is still tonic. The fly in the amber is with me I think, simply the feeling of a little too rapid movement (is it New York, or 1906, or 42 years?) so that I cannot quite see the forest for the trees, and sometimes not even the trees very distinctly. I can however see '86, it looms large, but I cannot see often what I should so like to see, those who make '86."

CHARLES OTIS HURD

Born November 4, 1862, at Ayer's Village, Haverhill, Mass.

Father's Name: Orrin Prescott Hurd

Mother's Maiden Name: Angeline Merrill

Present Address: 244 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Journalism

Name of Firm: "Boston Globe"

'86-'88, on "The Boston Advertiser."
'89-'94, editor "Lowell Daily Citizen."
'94-'98, city editor of the "Worcester Telegram."
Oct. 15, '02, joined the staff of the "Boston Herald."
'04-'06, on the "Boston Globe."

FRANK EDWARD HURLEY

Born April 28, 1865, at Hanover, Mass.

Father's Name: John Hurley

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Greene

Present Address: Home, Baldwin, N. Y.

Business, 350 Fulton St., Jamaica, N. Y.

Present Business: Law

Name of Firm: Title Guarantee & Trust Co.

Marriage: Date, September 30, 1890. Place, New York, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Kathryn Eilees MacCarthy

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Eugene Redding	April 29, 1893
----------------	----------------

Edgar	May 1, 1894
-------	-------------

Mildred	September 23, 1895
---------	--------------------

Grace	July 14, 1897
-------	---------------

Frank Edward	May 26, 1899
--------------	--------------

John Eldon	December 15, 1903
------------	-------------------

'87-'89, with Hastings & Gleason, attorneys, New York.

'89-'91, attorney for Title Guarantee & Trust Co., Brooklyn.

'91-'05, manager of Closing Department with the above firm.

Since November, '05, manager of the Queens County Branch of the Title Guarantee & Trust Co.

HERBERT BACON HUTCHINS

Born July 6, 1863, at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Father's Name: Hiram Hutchins

Mother's Maiden Name: Anna Bacon

Present Address: Old Mystic, Conn.

Present Business: Clergyman

Marriage: Date, July 14, 1896. Place, Woonsocket, R. I.

Maiden Name of Wife: Clara Etta Sherry

Degrees: S.T.B. Yale 1890; A.M. Brown 1901

'86-'87, teacher at the Trinity Military Institute at Tivoli-on-Hudson, N. Y.

'87-'90, student at Yale Divinity School, B.D., Yale '90.

'90-'93, pastor of Emanuel Baptist Church, Sacramento.

'92-'93, studying at the University of Chicago.

'93, acting pastor of the First Baptist Church, Pittsburg.

'93-'94, living in Cambridge.

From July, '94, to February, '96, in charge of the Second Baptist Church, Brooklyn, E. D.

February, '96, to October, '98, pastor of the Pleasantview Baptist Church, Pawtucket, R. I.

'98 to '02, pastor of the Baptist Church at Pawtucket, R. I.

June 19, '01, received A.M. degree from Brown University.

'98 until his resignation in the fall of '01, pastor of the Baptist Church at Pawtucket, R. I.

'01-'02, associate pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church in Providence.

Since November, '02, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Groton, Conn., the oldest Baptist church in Connecticut.

Writes: "Here I have remained, enjoying a very happy, though quite uneventful life."

EDWARD BORDEN JENNINGS

Born November 5, 1864, at Portsmouth, R. I.

Father's Name: William Henry Jennings

Mother's Maiden Name: Anne Borden Chase

Present Address: Home, 547 High St., Fall River, Mass.

Business, Valley Falls, R. I.

Present Business: Treasurer Samoset Co., and Agent Allen Printing Co.

Marriage: Date, November 22, 1893. Place, Fall River, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Anne Lucinda Francis

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Edward Borden July 5, 1896

Prescott December 11, 1897

Since graduation has been in business in Fall River in connection with various cotton mills.

'86-'88, clerk in the office of the Merchants Manufacturing Company.

'89-'92, book-keeper with the Barnard Manufacturing Company.
Nov., '92, became book-keeper of the Merchants Manufacturing Company.

Feb. 20, '93, became treasurer of the Crescent Mills.
May 22, '94, became treasurer of the Algonquin Print Works.
'96, became treasurer of the Globe Yarn Mills, but gave up this position in '01.

Since '01, treasurer of the Samoset Company, Valley Falls, R. I., and agent of the Allen Printing Company of Providence, R. I.

GEORGE FRANK JEWETT

Born March 19, 1858, at Pepperell, Mass.

Father's Name: Charles Frank Jewett

Mother's Maiden Name: Georgiana Shipley Loring

Present Address: Newton, Mass.

Present Business: Principal Mt. Ida School for Girls

Marriage: Date, June 8, 1882. Place, Fremont, Ohio

Maiden Name of Wife: Abigail Burgess Fay

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Edith Mehetable May 20, 1883

Edward May 20, 1883 (d. July 4, 1883)

Helen Fay November 5, 1888

'86-'87, master in Cambridge Latin School.

'87-'88, principal of Marlborough High School.

'88-'89, head master of Rutgers College Grammar School, New Brunswick, N. J.

'90-'92, principal of Putnam High School, Putnam, Conn.

'92-'02, principal of Rayen School of Youngstown, Ohio

'02-'03, principal of Lasell Seminary, Auburndale

'03 to present time, principal of Mount Ida School, Newton, Mass.

'06, wrote: "After graduation I taught in High School work in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut, Louisiana, Kentucky, and Ohio. In Youngstown, Ohio, I was principal of the Rayen High School for ten years, making the school one of the best preparatory schools west of the Alleghanies.

"From Ohio I came to Newton and during the past four years have established this school, which prepares for any college and also offers a general course. Since graduation I have spent one year in study and travel in Europe. We are most pleasantly situated in this beautiful city and shall probably always remain here. It seems good to be at last 'fixed.'"

*SAMUEL CLEAVES JONES

Born December 6, 1863, at Roxbury, Mass.

Father's Name: Daniel Jones

Mother's Maiden Name: Emma Cleaves

Business: Dyestuffs and Chemicals

Died October 30, 1903

Samuel Cleaves Jones, son of Daniel and Emma Cleaves Jones, was born in Roxbury, Mass., December 6, 1863, and died there October 30, 1903. He prepared for college at the Roxbury Latin School, then one of the leading fitting schools in New England. He entered Harvard in the fall of 1882, and graduated in regular course in June, 1886.

His frank and pleasant, though quiet, manners won him a wide acquaintance among his classmates, many of whom, as they came to know him intimately, found in him a friend to love and respect for his sterling qualities and his good fellowship. In college affairs he felt a healthy interest, and in various fields of undergraduate life he took active part. He was a member of the Institute of 1770, and the Hasty Pudding—taking part in the Club theatricals, and the Art Club.

After graduation he entered the employ of Messrs. J. A. and W. Bird & Company, of Boston, dealers in dyestuffs, and remained with them until his death, with the exception of three months in 1888 when he was clerk in the Bank of Redemption. For several years he took an active part in local politics, serving on ward and city committees, and being secretary of the Republican Ward and City Committee of Boston in 1897. In 1895, 1896, 1897 and 1898 he was a member of the Boston Common Council, in which body he did excellent work. In his last year of service in the Council he was the Republican candidate for president of that body.

His interest in his class and in his classmates remained strong through life. In all class gatherings—until ill-health forbade—he was a constant and welcome participant. His long illness was borne with a quiet and cheerful courage characteristic of the man.

FRANK ALEXANDER KENDALL

Born February 12, 1865, at Framingham, Mass.

Father's Name: Edward Francis Kendall

Mother's Maiden Name: Isabella Morris Heard

Present Address: Home, Framingham

Business:, 53 State St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Architect. Name of Firm: Peabody & Stearns
Marriage: Date, June 27, 1894. Place, Framingham

Maiden Name of Wife: Blanche Newell Esty

Child: Name, Margaret Morris Date of Birth, July 13, 1903

'86-'90, draughtsman in the office of W. G. Preston, architect.

'91-'92, with McKim, Mead & White, architects; and Longfellow, Alden & Harlow, architects.

'93 to the present time, with Peabody & Stearns, architects. Has his office in Boston, and lives in Framingham.

NEHEMIAH SAMUEL KENISON

Born December 19, 1864, at Allenstown, N. H.

Father's Name: Nehemiah Kenison

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Barron Flint

Present Address: Home, 3631 McRee Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Business, 413 Commercial Bldg., St. Louis

Present Business: Chiropodist

Name of Firm: N. Kenison & Sons

Marriage: Date, October 28, 1891. Place, Boston, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Bardwell Jones

Child: Name, Roderic Batchelder Date of Birth,

August 1, 1895

Degree: M.D. 1889.

'86-'89, student in Harvard Medical School.

Since '89, has been a surgeon and chiropodist,—at first in Boston and since June, '01, in St. Louis, Mo.

In '05, wrote: "I fear that I can add to the 'statistical information' on the card nothing that would be of interest to the members of the great class of '86. Since June, '01, I have had my home in St. Louis. The change of habitation was a considerable change for a stay-at-home 'Down Easter,' and, while I have become fairly well accustomed to living here, I am still inclined to agree with the old lady who (in that time-honored joke) qualified her appreciation of Heaven with the remark: 'But, after all, it's not Boston.' I don't feel myself sufficiently a St. Louisan to make any boasts about the 'greatest of World's Fairs,'—will leave that for Rowse or Eben Richards. Merely remarking, in passing (and professionally) that it certainly did seem to have a marked effect on the sum total of aching feet."

MARCUS MORTON KIMBALL

Born April 17, 1865, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Moses Day Kimball

Mother's Maiden Name: Susan Tillinghast Morton

Present Address: Home, 343 Beacon St., Boston

Business: 23 Central St., Boston

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, April 6, 1892. Place, New York, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Jeanie Lawrence Perkins

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Day	January 16, 1893
Lawrence	October 24, 1900

'86-'87, in the Harvard Law School.

'87-'98, in the electrical lighting business with the firm of Clafin, Kimball & Company.

Since '98, practising law in Boston.

*CHARLES ESTUS LAMB

Born October 10, 1863, at Forestdale, R. I.

Father's Name: Augustus Farnham Lamb

Mother's Maiden Name: Freelove Delilah Baker

Marriage: Date, October 31, 1899. Place, Paris

Maiden Name of Wife: Jeanne Marie Françoise Voillemier

Died August 23, 1905

Charles Estus Lamb was born October 10, 1863, at Forestdale, Rhode Island. His preparation for college was received at Rev. Charles Miller's school in Providence. During his four college years as a member of '86, he was chiefly interested in art courses, and this interest he maintained throughout his life. He was not a member of any college society and did not mingle much with his fellows. After graduation he spent a year in the Harvard Law School and then went abroad. Relieved by a sufficient income from the necessity of steady work, he spent his life in the pleasantest surroundings he could find, especially in Italy and along the Riviera, studied art, and enjoyed himself. On October 31, 1899, he was married in Paris, France, to Jeanne Marie Françoise Voillemier. There were no children. His visits to this country were rare, but it was on one of these visits to his home in Providence that he was overtaken by a fatal cerebral hemorrhage, and died August 23, 1905. He was buried in the cemetery at Auteuil, Paris.

J. H. H.

HAMMOND LAMONT

Born January 19, 1864, at Monticello, N. Y.

Father's Name: Thomas Lamont

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline Deuel Jayne

Present Address: Home, Englewood, N. J.

Business, 206 Broadway, New York

Present Business: Editor

Name of Firm: The Nation

Marriage: Date, May 14, 1891. Place, Nyack, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Lillian Mann

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Mann October 25, 1892

(d. October 27, 1892)

Gordon December 28, 1893

Katharine March 6, 1898

Degree: A.M. (Hon.) Brown 1900.

'86-'87, tutoring in New York.

'87-'88, reporter on the Albany Morning Argus.

July, '88, assistant city editor of the Argus.

Oct., '88, city editor of the Albany Evening Union.

Dec., '88, city editor of the Albany Morning Express.

Sept., '89, assistant editorial writer for the Albany Evening Journal.

Jan., '90, reporter in the Lower Branch of the New York Legislature for the Albany Express, Albany Journal, and New York Associated Press.

May, '90, on the staff of the Ledger in Tacoma, Washington.

'90-'92, on the Seattle Post Intelligencer.

'92-'95, instructor in English in Harvard.

'95-1900, professor of Rhetoric at Brown University.

1900-'06, managing editor of the New York Evening Post.

'06, editor of the Nation.

'04-'05, delivered courses of lectures on English composition at the University of California.

June 20, 1900, was made an honorary A.M. by Brown University.

Editor of Specimens of Exposition—Burke's Speech on Conciliation. Author of English Composition. Text-book English Composition, Charles Scribner's Sons, May, '06.

GEORGE FORTUNÉ LAPEYRE

Born October 18, 1864, at New Orleans, La.

Father's Name: Martial Lapeyre

Mother's Maiden Name: Angéline Avegno

Present Address: Home, 3924 St. Charles Ave., New Orleans

Business: 1021 Hibernia Bank Bldg., New Orleans

Present Business, Law

Marriage: Date, April 23, 1890. Place, New Orleans

Maiden Name of Wife: Jeannette Waugh

Degree: LL.B. Columbia 1889.

'86-'88, Harvard Law School.

'88-'89, Columbia Law School.

Since '90, living and practising law in New Orleans.

Has spent much time in traveling in Europe and Eastern countries.

MILTON SLOCUM LATHAM

Born January 9, 1863, at Sacramento, Cal.

Father's Name: James Hoge Latham

Mother's Maiden Name: Henrietta Marshall

Present Address: Home, 128 East 34th St., New York, N. Y.

Has been in business since graduation; at first on a fruit ranch in California.

'88-'90, in Chicago with McClurg, publishers, and later associated with Seward Wyatt, '84, in the Flax Fibre business. Since that time has been interested in various enterprises with headquarters in New York.

EDWARD THOMAS LEE

Born October 17, 1861, at Hartford, Conn.

Father's Name: Thomas Lee

Mother's Maiden Name: Jane Marnell

Present Address: Home, 5615 Monroe Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Business: 107 Dearborn St., Chicago

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, November 29, 1894. Place, Greenwood, Ind.

Maiden Name of Wife: Margaret Wishard Noble

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Noble Wishard	August 27, 1896
Edward Noble	July 3, 1901
Margery	April 27, 1906
Degree: LL.B. Columbian (D. C.)	1894.

After graduation spent a few months in the Harvard Law School; was then in the office of the Pratt & Whitney Manufacturing Company in Hartford, Conn.

'87-'93, clerk to the Senate Committee on Territories.

'93-'95, secretary to Senator O. H. Platt of Connecticut.

'95-'97, practised law in Buffalo.

'97, moved to Chicago, and has continued the practice of law there.

Since '99, has taught in, and been secretary of, the John Marshall Law School in Chicago. June 18, '06, the school graduated thirty-three.

CHARLES LESTER LEONARD

Born December 29, 1861, at Easthampton, Mass.

Father's Name: Moses Hayden Leonard

Mother's Maiden Name : Harriet Elizabeth Dibble

Present Address: 112 South 20th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Present Business : Physician

Marriage : Date, July 24, 1893. Place, Carlisle, Eng.

Maiden Name of Wife: Ruth Thornthwaite Hodgson

Child: Name _____ Date of Birth _____

Catherine Henrietta Lawson August 9, 1801

Degrees: M.D. Univ. Pa. '80; A.M. Univ. Pa. '92

Degress. M.D. Univ. Tex. 89; A.M. Univ. Tex. 92.

'86-'89, in the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania and has since practised medicine in Philadelphia; has been assistant instructor in Medical Surgery in the University of Pennsylvania, and has been for several years especially engaged in developing the Röntgen X-ray method of diagnosis in medicine and surgery.

'04-'05, president of the American Röntgen Ray Society, and the official delegate of the American Medical Association to the Röntgen Decennial in Berlin in '05.

Feb., '05, wrote : "I have published many medical papers, some of which have been read before the State Societies of New York, New Jersey, and Maryland by invitation, besides others by invitation before societies in New York, Brooklyn, Baltimore and other cities and towns."

June, '05, wrote: "I had the honor of making the speech for the foreign delegates at the opening exercises of the Röntgen Decennial in Berlin, and also read scientific papers.

"I also read papers by invitation before the medical and general sections of the British Röntgen Society on my way home."

*FRED THEODORE LINCOLN

Born April 26, 1863, at Taunton, Mass.

Father's Name: Theodore Gerry Lincoln

Mother's Maiden Name: Ellen Sally Lothrop

Business: Teaching

Marriage: Date, April 13, 1888. Place, Raynham, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Helena Evelyn Wilbur

Died May 17, 1889

Fred Theodore Lincoln was born April 26, 1863, in Taunton, Mass. He began early to support himself, and had been a factory hand and general workman before entering college. His preparation was gained in the Taunton High School. During the college years he earned by outside work enough to pay his expenses at Cambridge, yet the Freshman year he rowed on the class crew, and throughout the college course his standing was good. In his "Class Life" he wrote: "I have paid my way through college. Was away in the West during my junior year to get money to pay my senior year's expenses." After graduation he became a clerk on the Union Pacific Railroad, and later became a teacher, at first in the Evening High School and later in the Bristol Academy at Taunton. April 13, 1888, he was married in Raynham, Mass., to Helena Evelyn Wilbur, daughter of Silas Everett and Emily Adelaide Wilbur. He died in Taunton, May 17, 1889, of diphtheria.

*LOWELL LINCOLN, JR.

Born December 15, 1865, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Lowell Lincoln

Mother's Maiden Name: Clara Amanda Lothrop

Business: Note Broker

Marriage: Date, November 24, 1896. Place, New York, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Anna Jackson Steward

Children : Names,	Dates of Birth,
Mary Anna Ludlow	August 18, 1897
Lowell Lothrop	July 4, 1899
Jackson Steward	February 28, 1902
Died September 19, 1906	.

Lowell Lincoln, Jr., was born in Boston on December 15, 1865, and died September 19, 1906, in his forty-first year. His family in all its branches was of old New England stock. His father, who had been a merchant in Boston, came to New York some thirty years ago to make it his home, and Lowell himself prepared for college at a private school in the latter city. On entering Harvard he at once took one of the more prominent positions in the class, both by reason of his kindly disposition and his happy nature, and also by reason of his interest in athletics. He was respected by all, and loved by those who knew him well. His standing in the class was so successful that he was graduated with high honors.

Upon graduation he went into the office of Blake Brothers in New York, and took charge of their note-brokerage department. After being there for some years, he joined the note-brokerage firm of Charles Hathaway & Company as one of their partners. He remained a member of that firm until his death.

In November, 1896, he married Miss Anna Steward of New York City, and she and three children survive him. His life in New York during the twenty years which succeeded his graduation was the typical life of a young and successful New York man. His business and social connections were gradually extending, and the same qualities which he had first shown at college, united to a character of the utmost uprightness and integrity, were bringing him further and further ahead all the time in his subsequent career. He was always an enthusiastic devotee of his college, and followed its fortunes with unflagging interest.

A year or so ago he broke down, largely as a result of overwork. It was expected that rest would better his condition, but the hope did not bring the realization. He gradually grew worse; and, finally, some four or five months before he died, he had to give up active work. He will be mourned by all who knew him as a delightful companion and a warm and faithful friend.

H. T.

WILLIAM LITTAUER

Born June 29, 1865, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name : Nathan Littauer

Mother's Maiden Name : Harriet Sporburg

Present Address : Belwood, New York

Marriage: Date, September 18, 1899. Place, New Haven, Conn.

Maiden Name of Wife: Catherine Maria Manice

Child: Date of Birth,

Louise August 18, 1901

'86-'87, was with Latham in California.

'87-'89, in business in New York; later became vice president of the Fonda, Johnstown & Glovers Railroad Company and director of the Fulton County Coal Company.

In '01 he was an aide on the staff of Major-General Charles F. Roe.

'06, wrote: "I spend all my spare time at my country home 'Belwood' in the Genesee Valley, where I am Master of the Livingston County Drag Hounds. Am a director of the United States Fastine Company and Parkes Machine Company, and am president of the Johnstown, Gloversville and Kingsboro Railroad Company. I served on Theodore Roosevelt's staff with rank of Captain, during his term as Governor of New York State. Next June, I will have exactly doubled my number of years since '86, which is my greatest achievement since graduation."

ALFRED HENRY LLOYD

Born January 3, 1864, at Montclair, N. J.

Father's Name: Henry Huggins Lloyd

Mother's Maiden Name: Anna Mary Badger

Present Address: Home, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Business, University of Michigan

Present Business: Professor of Philosophy

Marriage: Date, December 28, 1892. Place, Springfield, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Margaret Elizabeth Crocker

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Alice Crocker December 9, 1893

Frederick Thurston November 3, 1894

Anna Mary May 26, 1896

Daniel Putnam Crocker October 9, 1899

Degrees: A.M. 1888; Ph.D. (Philos.) 1893

'86-'87, taught in the Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass.

'87-'89, was studying in the Harvard Post-Graduate Department.

'89 to '91, he was abroad as a Walker Fellow, studying at Göttingen, Berlin and Heidelberg.

'92, he received a Ph.D. from Harvard. He then became instructor of Philosophy at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and since June, '98, has been junior professor of Philosophy.

'05, wrote: "My work remains about what it was when I last gave account of myself, except that in addition to keeping up the usual labors of a teacher I have been the secretary of the Graduate School for the past three years and ex-officio am chairman of the School's administration committee.

"My publications, not hitherto reported, include the following: 'Professor Fullerton on the Doctrine of Space and Time,' Philosophical Review, '02; 'A Study in the Logic of the Early Greek Philosophy—Being, not-Being and Becoming,' Monist, '02; 'Münsterberg's Grundzüge der Psychologie,' Psychological Review, '01; 'Some Unscientific Reflections upon Science,' Science, '01; 'The Social Will,' American Journal of Sociology, '02; 'Relativity and Reality,' Journal of Philosophy, Psychology and Scientific Methods, '04; 'History and Materialism,' American Historical Review, '05; 'The Institution and its Original Sins,' International Journal of Ethics, '05; 'Ethics and its History,' American Journal of Sociology, '05.

"It may be of some interest if I mention that our Ann Arbor faculties include at this time seventeen Harvard men. Some years there have been even more than this. Ann Arbor is thus not a benighted place, and it is gratifying to see that Harvard is well in the lead among the colleges represented here. A Michigan Harvard Club was organized at Detroit last December with a bounteous flow of enthusiasm and under most favorable auspices generally.

"It has always been a matter of much regret to me that my trips East in the summer have usually had to be too late for Commencement and the '86 functions, but whatever may be possible June next, in '06 I intend to be on hand in defiance of all local obligations.

"With warmest regards to you personally and officially and with the hope that in this letter I have not shown the garrulousness of old age."

CHARLES ALEXANDER LOESER

Born January 11, 1864, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: Frederick Loeser

Mother's Maiden Name: Matilda Dinkelpiel

Present Address: Home, 11 Via Lambertesca, Florence, Italy

Degree: A.M. 1887

'87-'88, studying philosophy at Harvard.
'88-'89, studying in Berlin.
'90-'02, lived chiefly in Italy. Has published some notes on historical and archæological subjects.

'04, wrote: "Since my last report to you my life has moved along the same silent and uneventful round. I am yet unmarried; nor has my bachelorhood been productive of any 'statistical' matter to interest my class-mates. As to the other things of a 'personal nature' these, in our dawning middle-age, are no longer a subject for print, but had best be kept for conversation on a sunset walk along one of our Tuscan hill-sides."

RICHARD KING LONGFELLOW

Born March 1, 1864, at Portland, Me.

Father's Name: Alexander Wadsworth Longfellow

Mother's Maiden Name: Elizabeth Porter

Present Address: Home, 12 Mt. Vernon St., Boston, Mass.

Business: Tremont Building, Boston

Present Business: Architect

Name of Firm: A. W. Longfellow

After leaving college studied architecture at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and since '89 has been practising architecture in Boston.

June, '06, received B.A. degree from Harvard "as of '86."

EDWARD CLARK LUNT

Born March 1, 1863, at Malden, Mass.

Father's Name: Andrew Frank Lunt

Mother's Maiden Name: Amanda Maria Clark

Present Address: 97 Cedar St., New York

Present Business: Law

Name of Firm: Fidelity & Casualty Co.

Marriage: Date, January 1, 1891. Place, Hyde Park, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Clara May Lang

Degree: A.M. 1887

'86-'88, took a postgraduate course at Harvard and was assistant in American History.

'88-'89, gave a course of lectures on American History in Buffalo.
'89-'90, was in Washington, one year as private secretary to Senator W. C. Squire of Washington, and the next year as secretary to Senator George F. Hoar of Massachusetts.

'91, was in the office of Carter, Dinsmore & Company, manufacturers of Carter's Inks, Mucilage, etc.

'92-'95, was a member of the firm.

'95-'97, was managing editor of a work entitled "Men of New York," issued by George E. Matthews & Company of Buffalo.

'97-1900, superintendent with the New York house of Fayerweather & Ladew, manufacturers of Hoyt Leather belting.

1900, went to the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company as assistant to the president.

'99-1900, owned and conducted the "Mining and Metallurgical Journal of New York and Los Angeles."

In January, '01, bought an export trade journal called "The Foreign Buyer."

October 15, '01, became assistant superintendent, and later superintendent, with the Fidelity & Casualty Company of New York.

In October, '02, was appointed an assistant secretary of the Company.

Since February, '05, has been superintendent of the Bonding Department.

'05, wrote: "My work here is largely concerned with the law, and in an unhappy moment I conceived the idea of equipping myself to pass the bar examination and be regularly admitted to the bar. I worked up the subject in two years of midnight oil, and passed the bar examination in January, '05."

*FRANK ANTHONY LUQUES

Born December 3, 1863, at Biddeford, Me.

Father's Name: Samuel White Luques

Mother's Maiden Name: Hannah Maria Child

Business: Artist

Died August 8, 1895

Frank Anthony Luques, the son of Judge Samuel W. and Hannah M. Luques, was born December 3, 1863, in Biddeford, Maine, and was drowned in the Saco River, August 8, 1895. He was prepared for college at Phillips-Exeter, and after graduation worked steadily to gain the power of expressing himself as an artist. At first a member of the Students' Art League in New York, he later entered the Academie Julian in Paris. After his return to America in the summer of 1890, he had a studio in Boston for two years, but at the end of that time went abroad again, and continued his studies in Paris and Rome. In the fall of 1894 he opened a studio in New York, and had really entered upon his professional career at the time of his death.

"Luques had come to that point in his development where he was about to express in the terms of his art what he had in him to say. Long years of patient study in the ateliers of Paris and Rome and in his Boston studio had given him the needed grasp of technique, and at last he had been turning his mind to the painting of pictures rather than studies of color or light and shade. As he was not forced to seek the pretty and so salable, he had held himself firmly to that work which seemed to him likely to lead him forward to truest expression and the deepest grasp of his art. Had he lived it seems probable that he would have joined the ranks of the impressionists.

"His last trip abroad in 1894-95 was given over to study for a large picture, which he was to call 'The Feast of Glaucus.' Two studies for this remain. One has the Pompeian interior as he painted it in carefully on the spot. The other is a more advanced study of the figures. He hoped to do much with this picture.

"The rest of his work, which is owned in and about Boston or by his family in Biddeford, Me., consists of a few landscapes in oil, many sketches at home and abroad in water and oil, figure studies, and some charming work in pen and ink, sketches, or studies for illustration.

"His was a soul of singular purity and gentleness and a mind of fortitude and strength. He was a good son and a loyal friend. To those of us who were nearest him, his sudden passing beyond brought an abiding sense of loss."

H. H. D.

HERBERT LYMAN

Born May 17, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Arthur Theodore Lyman

Mother's Maiden Name: Ellen Bancroft Lowell

Present Address: 26 Marlborough St., Boston

Marriage: Date, April 26, 1906. Place, Brookline, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Ruth Bowman Whitney

'86-'88, spent chiefly in traveling abroad.

'88-'99, treasurer of the Hadley Company of Holyoke.

1900, had charge of the business of the American Thread Company in Boston.

In 1900 severed this connection and was in Japan, China, Manila and London for nearly a year. Since then has not been in active business.

'05, wrote: "The only item of any interest that I have to report for the period since our last Class Report is that during the winter of '02-'03 I was manager of a guaranty fund which was subscribed by a few citizens of Boston for the benefit of other citizens who might be in especial want on account of the coal famine. During my work in this business I received much friendly help from our classmate, Edward Hamlin, and could not fail to admire his business ability and character."

HALL McALLISTER

Born February 27, 1863, at San Francisco, Cal.

Father's Name: Hall McAllister

Mother's Maiden Name: Louise Hermann

Present Address: Lambs' Club, 128 W. 44th St., New York, N. Y.

Present Business: Actor

Marriage: Date, February 26, 1891. Place, Boston, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Laura Henshaw

'86-'88, student in the Harvard Law School.

'88-'89, studying law in San Francisco.

'89-'95, practising law in San Francisco.

August, '93, became a member of the firm of Allen, McAllister & Frohman.

About 1900 came east and went on the stage. In the fall of '06 he appeared in "The Two Mr. Wetherbees" at the Madison Square Theater, New York. He is at present unoccupied and has headquarters in New York.

JOHN FRANKLIN McClURE

Born November 17, 1858, at Clough Mills, Ireland

Father's Name: Thomas McClure

Mother's Maiden Name: Elizabeth Gaston

Present Address: Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.

Marriage: Date, December 10, 1898. Place, Washington, D. C.

Maiden Name of Wife: Helen Hayes

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Margaret February 18, 1901

'86-'87, in business with S. S. McClure & Company, New York.

'87, real estate broker in Kansas City, Mo.

'87-'93, traveled in Europe.

Since then has been associated with the S. S. McClure Company, publishers of McClure's Magazine.

Until within a few years has done much traveling in the South and West, but for some years has been unable to travel on account of his health.

MAURICE McKIM

Born March 18, 1864, at Milford, Del.

Father's Name: John Leighton McKim

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Rodney

Present Address: Care of Rev. J. L. McKim, Milford, Del.

Degree: LL.B. Univ. Ore. 1893

After leaving college studied law at the University of Pennsylvania. '88-'93, in Portland, Ore., where he held the position of deputy clerk of the United States District and Circuit Court and also studied law, with Hon. M. P. Deady and at the University of Oregon.

'93, received his degree and was law clerk in the office of Cox, Teal & Minor for a year.

'94-'03, practising law in Portland.

'03-'06, in a real estate office in Philadelphia.

'06, became connected with copper investments in Sonora, Mex., and expects to make his home there.

LOREN BENJAMIN MACDONALD

Born January 21, 1858, at Newport, N. S.

Father's Name: Edward MacDonald

Mother's Maiden Name: Matilda Orinda Mosher

Present Address: Concord, Mass.

Present Business: Clergyman

Marriage: Date, June 7, 1905. Place, Cambridge, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Josephine Bygrave

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Gordon Bygrave July 8, 1906

Degree: S.T.B. 1881

Has been in the ministry since July, '82.

'86-'88, in the Unitarian Church in Shirley, Mass.

'88-'91, in the Unitarian Church in Wolfeboro, N. H.

'91-'93, pastor of the New South Church of Boston.

Since '94, pastor of the First Parish Unitarian Church at Concord, Mass.

During the Spanish war was with the army for awhile in Porto Rico, not in official capacity.

'05, wrote: "It is nearly ten years since I took charge of the First Parish in Concord, and since they have the old-fashioned habit here of settling a minister for life, it looks as if I might spend the rest of my days under these not unpleasant conditions. During the last three years we have dedicated a new and beautiful meeting-house, to take the place of the old historic structure burned in 1900. In these years, the parish has lost by death many honored members, among them being Mr. Samuel Hoar, one of the Corporation of Harvard University, a devoted member of this parish, and a kind friend to his pastor. It was my sad duty, moreover, to officiate at the funeral service in Concord of Senator George F. Hoar whose body lies among the illustrious dead in Sleepy Hollow. This famous cemetery has now gathered to itself four members of this grand old New England family who ten years ago were still among us, Judge E. R. Hoar, and Sherman Hoar, having both passed away during that time. It is a source of no little sorrow for the minister of a parish who remains long in one charge to see men like these take their departure, leaving both the town and the parish to mourn their loss.

"Three years ago I showed a disposition to remain in the town by building a rather attractive residence in a beautiful location by the river in the western part of the village. Since coming to Concord death has removed all the members of my family. Within a few weeks a beloved niece, who for twenty-five years has made her home with me, and for the last ten years has been my housekeeper, died very suddenly leaving me entirely alone. I am very happy to say, however, that though rather belated, I became engaged last summer to Miss Mary Bygrave of Belmont, Massachusetts. We are to be married in June, at which time we start for a four months' trip abroad. After October first we expect to be in the house by the river, and would be very glad to see any members of the class of '86 who might want to visit our interesting old town.

"With the exception of occasional published sermons and short articles in the religious press, I have no literary achievements to report. In addition to the Concord parish I have had charge of the Unitarian Church in Bedford for the last six years, and the care of the two parishes is quite sufficient to occupy all my time and energies."

*HENRY WATERS MAGILL

Born July 11, 1863, at Cincinnati, Ohio

Father's Name: Henry Mervyn Magill

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Ellicott

Business: Insurance

Died December 11, 1906

Henry Waters Magill, a son of Henry Mervyn and Sarah Ellicott Magill, was born July 9, 1862, at Cincinnati, Ohio. He prepared for college at White & Sikes' Preparatory School, at Walnut Hill, Cincinnati; entered Harvard College with the Class of '86 and took his degree with credit, in the regular course.

Upon leaving college, he went immediately into the fire insurance business at Chicago, and after a few years became district manager, at Chicago, of the Phoenix Insurance Company of Hartford, which position he held until his death. It may be fairly said that he was one of the most successful and respected men in his line of business in Chicago. At one time treasurer of the Chicago Board of Fire Underwriters, he also served upon many Committees of said Board. In all his business relations he was a man of the strictest integrity, and stood for the most honorable methods.

He never married. He lived for several years prior to his death, in the winter, at the Lakota Hotel, in Chicago, and in the summer, at the Onwentsia Club, at Lake Forest, Illinois. In addition to the Onwentsia Club, he belonged to the University Club, the Harvard Club and the Chicago Athletic Association, all of Chicago.

Harry Magill was unusually modest and retiring, and only those who were privileged to know him well appreciated his clear mind and fine qualities. It is a pleasure to recall that, in spite of his modesty, he succeeded in his business because of his industry and sterling character. His untimely death will be sincerely mourned by all his classmates. He died December 11, 1906, at Pasadena, California, where he had gone in search of health.

W. C. B.

FRANK BURR MALLORY

Born November 12, 1862, at Cleveland, Ohio

Father's Name: George Burr Mallory

Mother's Maiden Name: Anna Faragher

Present Address: Harvard Medical School, Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Associate Professor of Pathology, Harvard Medical School.

Marriage: Date, August 31, 1893. Place, Chautauqua, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Persis McClain Tracy

Children: Names,

Tracy Burr

George Kenneth

Degrees: M.D. and A.M. 1890

Dates of Birth,

September 26, 1896

February 14, 1900

'86-'90, in the Harvard Medical School.

'90-'91, practising medicine in Boston, and during '90 taught in the department of histology in the Harvard Medical School.

'91-'92, assistant in Pathology at the Harvard Medical School.

'93, studying at Prague and Freiburg, Germany.

'94-'96, instructor of Pathology in the Harvard Medical School.

'96-'01, assistant professor, and since '01, associate professor, of pathology.

'01, assistant visiting pathologist to the Boston City Hospital.

Has published: "Sacrococcygeal Dimples, Sinuses, and Cysts," Am. J. Med. Sciences, '92, vol. 103; "Ueber die Verbreitung der Osteomyelitis Variolosa im Knochensystem," Zeitschr. f. Heilkunde, '94, Bd. 15, S. 235; "Ueber gewisse eigenthümliche Farbereactionen der Neur-oglia," Centralbl. f. Allg. Pathologie u. Path. Anat., '95, Bd. VI. S. 751; "A Case of Actinomycosis," Boston Med. and Surg. J., '95, vol. CXXXII, p. 296; "A Contribution to the Study of Calcareous Concretions in the Brain," J. Path. & Bact., '96, vol. 4, p. 110; "On Certain Improvements in Histological Technique," J. Experimental Med., '97, vol. II, p. 529; "A Histological Study of Typhoid Fever," J. Exper. Med., '98, vol. III, p. 611-638, 8 pl.; "A Contribution to Staining Methods," J. Exper. Med. 1900, vol. 4, p. 15; "Proliferation and Phagocytosis," J. Exper. Med. 1900, vol. V, p. 1; "Necroses of the Liver," J. Boston Society of Med. Sciences, '01, vol. VI, p. 264; "Three Gliomata of Ependymal Origin," J. Med. Research, '02, vol. 8, p. 1; "A Hitherto Undescribed Fibrillar Substance Produced by Connective-Tissue Cells," J. Med. Research, '03, vol. 10, pp. 334-341; "Scarlet Fever. Protozoön-like Bodies Found in Four Cases," J. Med. Research, '04, vol. V, pp. 483-492; "A Contribution to the Classification of Tumors," J. Med. Research, '05, vol. XIII, pp. 113-136; Wright, J. H. & Mallory, F. B., "Ueber einen pathogenen Kapsel-bacillus bei Bronchopneumonie," Zeitschr. f. Hygiene, '96, Bd. XX, S. 220; Councilman, W. T. & Mallory, F. B., "A Study of Lesions in Selected Autopsies," Med. & Surg. Reports of the Boston City Hospital, '96, vol. 7, p. 216; Mallory, F. B. & Wright, J. H., "Pathological Technique," Text-book, First edition, '97, Third edition, '04; Councilman, W. T., Mallory, F. B., & Wright, J. H., "Epidemic Cerebrospinal Meningitis," a monograph published as A Report of the State Board of Health of Massachusetts, '98; Councilman, W. T., Mallory, F. B., & Pearce, R. M., "A Study of the Bacteriology & Pathology of Two Hundred and Twenty Fatal Cases of Diphtheria," Monograph, J. Boston Society of Med. Sciences, 1900, vol. V, p. 139.

Is a member of American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists, Association of American Physicians, American Medical Association, Boston Society of Medical Sciences, Boston Society of Medical Improvement, Massachusetts Medical Society, American Social Science Association, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Deutsche Pathologische Gesellschaft and St. Botolph Club.

'06, wrote: "I have been waiting in hopes that I might remember something that was worth telling about, but the past is barren except for much dull and uninteresting routine; at least it is that when you think of writing about it. Still I have had a great deal of pleasure and satisfaction in it.

"For the last eight years I have had full charge of the pathological department of the Boston City Hospital. There I constantly have under me four medical graduates, two on salary and two as internes, who do most of the pathological and bacteriological work connected with the hospital. Each one stays with me from one to three years. They are selected from Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Dartmouth, University of Pennsylvania; wherever I can find a good man. Every six months one man leaves and a new one comes on. The result is that I have a training school for men interested in pathology. The best of the men are taken into the pathological department at the Harvard Medical School. The others have no difficulty in obtaining positions elsewhere; in fact, I find it hard to train enough men to meet the demand. All the men are encouraged and expected to do original work; as a consequence several good papers are produced from the laboratory each year.

"My work at the school, aside from teaching, has been largely on committees in connection with the new medical school buildings and with extensive changes in the course of study.

"This winter I have tried the experiment of revisiting the scenes of my youth. My family has been in Florida, so I have occupied a suite in Craigie with two of the instructors in pathology, and have found the experience rather pleasant."

ALAN GREGORY MASON

Born September 7, 1861, at Cambridge, Mass.

Father's Name: Henry Mason

Mother's Maiden Name: Helen Augusta Palmer

Present Address: 39 Newbury St., Boston, Mass.

'86-'89, was with Mason & Hamlin, organ builders. His health being poor he retired from business, but after an interval entered and spent two years in the Harvard Medical School. Since then his health has not permitted him to do any active work.

'05, wrote: "I read a good deal of medicine, in which I take more interest than in anything else, but am doing no regular practical work at present.

"I have saved one life,—so Dr. Porter, '87, kindly told me,—and have been of more or less assistance to quite a number of others. My career seems to have been somewhat unfortunate however."

JOHN McKINSTRY MERRIAM

Born September 20, 1862, at Southbridge, Mass.

Father's Name: Adolphus Merriam

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline McKinstry

Present Address: Home, 60 Union Ave., South Framingham, Mass.

Business: 99 State St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Law. Name of Firm: Merriam, Hooper & Hilton

Marriage: Date, February 4, 1888. Place, South Framingham

Maiden Name of Wife: Annie Chapman Davenport

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Paul Adams	January 10, 1889
------------	------------------

Emily Davenport	May 5, 1891
-----------------	-------------

Constance Elizabeth	September 3, 1892
---------------------	-------------------

Joseph Chapman	September 20, 1894
----------------	--------------------

Caroline McKinstry	October 4, 1898
--------------------	-----------------

Degree: A.M. 1888

'86-'87, in the Harvard Law School.

'87-'90, private secretary of Senator George F. Hoar.

Since '90, has been practising law in Boston and South Framingham.

Was a representative in the General Court in '97.

Has been trustee of the Framingham Public Library and of the Westborough Insane Hospital.

Was appointed by Governor Walcott a member of the Archive Commission to succeed Justin Winsor.

Is a member of the American Antiquarian Society and of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

'05, wrote: "There is very little for me to add to my report contained in the last edition of your periodical publication. In number, 'we are seven,' the same as heretofore reported to you. Our oldest boy is an upper middler at Phillips-Exeter Academy, and will be a candidate for admission to Harvard in the Class of '10. I think that he may be the first representative of the sons of '86 to appear in the University Catalogue. In a business way, I have made some progress, and now have associated with me two younger men, under the firm name of Merriam, Hooper & Hilton, with law offices in Boston and at South Framingham.

"No political honors have been thrust upon me, which probably accounts for my increasing avoirdupois and my continued good nature. I am more and more interested in farming, and take increasing delight in tilling my acres, and caring for my flocks at Merryfields, our summer home at Sherburn."

HENRY COWLES MILLER

Born March 19, 1867, at Chelsea, Mass.

Father's Name: John Miller

Mother's Maiden Name: Arethusa Kellogg Littlefield

Business: Physician

Degree: M.D. 1891

Died February 22, 1896

Henry Cowles Miller was born March 19, 1867, in Chelsea, Massachusetts. His parents moved to Melrose in 1868, and the son attended the Melrose schools, and entered Harvard with '86. After graduation with honors in modern languages he went to Europe and began the study of medicine in Paris, but returned home in six months on account of the illness of his father. In 1887 he received the appointment of Professor of Modern Languages in the Cathedral School at Garden City, Long Island. He held this position for two and a half years, and then entered the Harvard Medical School. In November, 1891, he received the appointment of Medical Examiner in the Pension Office in Washington, but returned to Boston the following June, passed the examinations and received the M.D. degree. In January, 1893, he had an attack of pneumonia from which he never recovered. The following May he went to Asheville, where he remained eight months, part of that time acting as assistant physician at the "Wenya Sanitarium." From there he went to Santa Barbara, California, and so far recovered his health that he began practice, but soon broke down again, and after a last trial for improvement on the plains of Texas, came back to his mother's birthplace in Kennebunkport, Maine, where he died February 22, 1896.

Henry Miller's constant, cheery good temper, his quiet persistence in thinking for himself, and acting as he thought, won him hearty respect and liking from all who knew him. By that sturdy, though vain, three years' fight for his health his qualities were tested to the utmost, and never before had they rung more true. His letters from the West were constantly hopeful and plucky, and when far from well he never was wanting if he could give a helpful word to another.

J. H. H.

In the death of Henry C. Miller the class of '86 has suffered a loss which will be felt most keenly by those who knew him best, but which is common in a certain sense to all members of the class. His career would have been so distinguished as to enhance the prestige of the class, and his example would have been increasingly stimulating to all of us. The splendid promise of his youth was already redeeming itself in a life full of good works when he was stricken down by a merciless, wasting disease. His fortitude and strength of will were strikingly shown thereafter, as, unflinchingly and uncomplainingly, he held death at arm's length for many months. Dr. Miller was not so widely known during our college days as some other members of the class, because he did not live in Cambridge throughout the course, and because his scholastic zeal outran his social bent. He made many warm friends, however, and every one was attracted by his brilliant mental powers and his engaging personality. One of the wittiest of men, he was at the same time one of the kindest, and he had a woman's delicacy and thoughtfulness for others in even the smallest things. His nature was as lovable as his character was noble, and few men have combined in richer measure such graces of mind and heart and intellect.

E. C. L.

WILLIAM HORATIO MILLER

Born November 20, 1864, at Cleveland, Ohio

Father's Name: William James Miller

Mother's Maiden Name: Honora Elizabeth James

Present Address: Home, 88 Handy St., Cleveland

Business: Society for Savings Bldg., Cleveland, Ohio

Present Business: Law. Name of Firm: W. H. Miller

Marriage: Date, August 3, 1904. Place, West Newton, Ohio

Maiden Name of Wife: Rhoda Dunlop

'86-'87, read law with Boynton & Hall in Cleveland, Ohio.

'87-'88, in the Harvard Law School.

Since '88, has been practising law in Cleveland.

Is a 32nd degree Mason, and a member of several republican clubs.

*CHARLES LEWIS MILLS

Born June 3, 1864, at Corning, N. Y.

Father's Name: Ellsworth Daggett Mills

Mother's Maiden Name: Eliza Amelia Wellington

Business: Law

Died June 7, 1890

Charles Lewis Mills was born at Corning, N. Y., June 3, 1864, and died there of consumption June 7, 1890. His early education was received at the Corning Free Academy. After graduation at Harvard he began the study of law in Corning. In February, 1887, he was elected Justice of the Peace, and was said to be "the youngest incumbent of that office the county ever had." He served as Justice, at the same time pursuing his legal studies, and was admitted to practice as an attorney and counsellor-at-law in all the courts of the State in January, 1888. His subsequent life was a struggle for health.

"Mills died June 7, 1890. In the early autumn of 1888, after brilliantly passing his law examinations, he was compelled by his failing health to go South, where he remained, at Aiken and Asheville, with the exception of a few weeks spent at home, until January, 1890. His condition meanwhile grew steadily worse. It was determined, as a last resort, to take him on a long sea voyage. He started late in January, but made no improvement. He reached home again in April, and there he lingered on until early in June, when he fell quietly asleep.

"I hardly know what to say about him. In one sense his life seems wholly unfinished. And yet it is not quite so. For in the little time he had among his own people he developed remarkably. He gave evidence of ability of no common order, and he earned the unaffected respect of the entire community in which he lived. He did enough, at any rate, to show that his future was assured. And if this seems but little to those who knew him best it is only because they alone know how great was his ability, how strong and fine and sweet his character, and how splendid the possibilities that apparently lay within his grasp.

"Accomplishment alone, however, is a poor measure of a man's life. Courage, strength, loyalty, generosity, self-command are of some value. Character is something. But what Mills' early life had only shadowed forth his long illness brought out in clear relief. During those weary months he exhibited perfect self-command. He never faltered, never complained, never lost courage. He faced his fate with perfect knowledge and serenity. And when the end came he died as he had lived, thinking to the last so much of others that he forgot himself."

A. B. H.

CHARLES HENRY MINOT, JR.

Born November 9, 1862, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Charles Henry Minot

Mother's Maiden Name: Maria Josephine Grafton

Died November 30, 1887

Charles Henry Minot, Jr., the son of Charles Henry and Maria Josephine (Grafton) Minot, was born in Boston, November 9, 1862, and died at his home on Marlborough St., on November 30, 1887, after a very short illness, from typhoid fever.

Minot was fitted for college at the preparatory school of Mr. Hopkinson in Boston. Both in school and college he was deservedly popular, and he was abundantly endowed with those qualities which go to make the companionable man. Among the college societies of which he was a member were the Institute of 1770, the Hasty Pudding Club, the Alpha Delta Phi, and the A. D. Club. He also sang with the Glee Club for several years.

After graduation Minot entered the Harvard Law School, in which, at the time of his death he was a member of the second-year class. Here he made many new friends. On receiving the news of his sudden death his class in the school met and appointed a committee to take appropriate action. This committee reported the following resolution:—

“In behalf of the members of the second-year class in the Harvard Law School, we wish to give expression to the regret felt at the sudden death of Charles Henry Minot, Jr.

“His loss will be a severe one to the many friends he had made by his unfailing courtesy and kindly disposition.

“To the members of his family we extend our most sincere sympathy in their deep affliction.”

G. C. ADAMS.
S. G. WELLS.
G. L. WINTHROP.

FRANCIS JOSEPH MOORS

Born January 23, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Joseph Benjamin Moors

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Buckminster Jones

Present Address: Home, 166 Bay State Road, Boston

Business: 111 Devonshire St., Boston

Present Business: Banker. Name of Firm: J. B. Moors & Co.

Marriage: Date, January 24, 1903. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife: Marjory Standish Devlin

Ever since graduation has been in the foreign banking house of J. B. Moors & Company; has traveled abroad quite extensively.

Lives in Cohasset from Christmas until summer time and is interested in country sports there. Is secretary of the Golf Club of Cohasset. Was in London in the spring of '06.

JOHNSON MORTON

Born July 8, 1865, at Pawtucket, R. I.

Father's Name: Lloyd Morton

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Jane Johnson

Present Address: Puritan Club, Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Magazine Writer

'86-'87, read law in Providence.

'87-'89, student in Boston University Law School.

'89-'93, practised law in Boston.

'93-'07, editor of "Youth's Companion."

'07, resigned from "The Youth's Companion" and is devoting himself to writing fiction for the magazines.

OTIS ANGELO MYGATT

Born June 6, 1863, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: Jared Potter Kirtland Mygatt

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Matilda Robertson

Present Address: Home, 311 West 74th St., New York

Business: 15 East 32d St., New York

Name of Firm: Holophane Glass Co.

Marriage: Date, August 6, 1902. Place, Glion, Switzerland

Maiden Name of Wife: Elisabeth McClellan Greene

'86-'87, in Egypt.

'87-'88, in the United States.

'88-'91, in Peru interested in a mining enterprise.

'91-'96, traveling in Europe.

'96, interested in patents in an office in New York.

Since '96, engaged in developing Holophane glass patents in the United States and Europe.

EDWARD HALL NICHOLS

Born January 6, 1864, at Reading, Mass.

Father's Name: Edward Childs Nichols

Mother's Maiden Name: Abbie Susan Hall

Present Address: 294 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Assistant Professor Surgical Pathology, Harvard Medical School

Marriage: Date, October 3, 1894. Place, Cambridge, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Edith Walker Judd

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Hall July 14, 1895

Edith Greenleaf November 21, 1902

Degrees: M.D. and A.M. 1892

'86-'90, student at the Harvard Medical School.

'90-'92, in hospitals in Boston.

'92-'94, executive assistant and assistant superintendent at the Boston City Hospital.

'94-'99, practising medicine in Boston.

'96-'99, assistant pathologist, Harvard Medical School.

'97-'01, demonstrator in Surgical Pathology.

'99-'05, director of the Cancer Laboratory, Research Croft Fund, in Boston.

'01-'04, instructor in Surgical Pathology, Harvard Medical School.

'04 to present, assistant professor in Surgical Pathology, Harvard Medical School.

Since '05, again in private practice in Boston.

Has had charge of the Nine for the last eight years.

For the past three years has been a member of the Athletic Committee.

Is a member of the Committee appointed by the Athletic Association of Harvard Graduates to consider changes in football to meet the objections urged against the game.

Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society; the American Association of Pathologists and Bacteriologists; the Society of Clinical Surgery and the American Medical Association.

Has published: "The Anatomy of Congenital Club Foot," Bost. Med. Surg. Jour., '95, vol. 136, p. 150; "Tubercular Disease of Bones and Joints," Trans. Am. Orthop. Assn. Phil., '98, vol. ix, p. 353; "First Annual Report of Work on the Etiology of Cancer," Bost. Soc. Med. Sci. 1900, vol. 5, p. 34; "The Surg. Anat. of Congenital Dislocation of the Hip Joint," Am. Jour. Med. Sci., 1900, vol. 119, p. 629; "The Relation of Blastomycetes to Cancer," Jour. Med. Research, '02, vol. 7, p. 312; "Acute, Subacute and Chronic Infectious Osteomyelitis," Jour. Am. Med. Assn.

'05, wrote: My oldest is a boy nine years old, a strapping youngster, who has heard athletics at home a good deal, and of whom I hope to make a ball player.

"I was made graduate member of the Athletic Committee at Harvard a year ago, and was reappointed this year. The work requires quite a bit of time, but is very interesting. Personally, I am greatly interested in college athletics, as you know, and I am glad to have a chance to do a little to help straighten out some of our athletic troubles. I can't help feeling however, with all of my own enthusiasm for the games, that at present the athletic question is all out of perspective, but the difficulty of getting sports into their true place is great. The hardest thing to get is concerted action from all the colleges, as each is doubtful of the good faith of the other, and it seems to me that many of the evils will persist until concerted action is taken.

"I was appointed last June assistant professor of Surgical Pathology at the Harvard Medical School. That probably sounds better than it really is. I have been teaching at the school for some years, and this title does not mean any change in duties, but simply means that I am now a member of the Faculty, i.e., the appointment is a permanent one, and that I have some share in the administration and policy of the school.

"Some five years ago I was made the head of the so-called 'Cancer Commission,' appointed under the terms of the Croft Fund, to investigate the cause of cancer. In connection with that work I went abroad for a short time to investigate the work of some English and Italian investigators, and after my return I worked on the subject several years and the result of the work has been published in a series of reports published from the Medical School. A year ago I decided that neither my mental nor business interest would enable me to continue longer in that line, and not quite a year ago I began surgical practice which I had given up when I began the study of the cancer question. As regards the cancer question, it is certain that we know nothing regarding the cause of the disease, and in my opinion we shall know the cause at the same time we know what life is. My work at the hospital, i.e., as visiting surgeon at the Boston City Hospital, I still keep up."

GILBERT CLIFFORD NOBLE

Born January 7, 1864, at Westfield, Mass.

Father's Name: James Noble

Mother's Maiden Name: Andelucia Loomis

Present Address: Home, Yonkers, N. Y.

Business, 31-35 West 15th St., New York

Present Business: Publisher. Name of Firm: Hinds, Noble & Eldredge

Marriage: Date, January 7, 1892. Place, New York, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Lizzie Adams

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Lloyd Adams	November 23, 1892
Gladwyn Kingsley	September 20, 1894
James Kendrick	April 11, 1896
Constance	July 27, 1904
Stanley	October 5, 1905

Ever since graduation has been with Arthur Hinds in the book business in New York. Since '94 has been a member of the firm.

WILLIAM FOGG OSGOOD

Born March 10, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: William Osgood

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Rogers Gannett

Present Address: 74 Avon Hill St., Cambridge, Mass.

Present Business: Professor of Mathematics, Harvard University

Marriage: Date, July 17, 1890. Place, Göttingen, Germany

Maiden Name of Wife: Therese Ruprecht

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
William Ruprecht	April 17, 1895
Frieda Bertha Ruprecht	May 24, 1897
Rudolf	October 12, 1901

Degrees: A.M. 1887; Ph.D. Erlangen 1890.

'86-'87, post-graduate student at Harvard.

'87-'90, studying mathematics abroad, first on a Harris Fellowship and later on a Parker Fellowship.

'90-'93, instructor in mathematics at Harvard.

'93-'03, assistant professor of mathematics.

Since '03, professor of mathematics at Harvard.

'04, member of the Natural Academy of Science in Washington.
Has written a "Lehrbuch der Funktionen Theorie," of which the first volume appeared in '06, and has also written various monographs on mathematical subjects.

'05, elected president of the American Mathematical Society.
'05, wrote: "Perhaps the facts that I was appointed professor of Mathematics at Harvard in '03 and was elected last month to the presidency of the American Mathematical Society may save a 'vacat' under my name, and also the secretary a further two cent stamp."

JESSE MAXWELL OVERTON

Born July 25, 1863, at Pulaski, Tenn.

Father's Name: John Overton

Mother's Maiden Name: Harriet Virginia Maxwell

Present Address: Station B., Nashville, Tenn.

Present Business: Coal. Name of Firm: Bon Air Coal Co.

Marriage: Date, November 10, 1891. Place, Nashville

Maiden Name of Wife: Saidee Gladys Williams

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Elizabeth Williams June 14, 1893

John October 10, 1894

Harriet Virginia Maxwell October 31, 1897

Ever since graduation has been in business in Nashville, Tenn.

Since '97, has been general manager of the Bon Air Coal, Land & Lumber Co.

HENRY ERNEST OXNARD

Born October 21, 1863, at Portland, Me.

Father's Name: Edward Preble Oxnard

Mother's Maiden Name: Sara Illsley Warren

Present Address: 40 Bridge St., Newton, Mass.

Present Business: Clergyman, North Congregational Church

Marriage: Date, April 17, 1900. Place, Lawrence, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Evelyn Stanwood Fletcher

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Bradford Fletcher November 16, 1901

Miriam Stanwood April 16, 1905

Degree: LL.B. 1889

'86-'89, in the Harvard Law School.
'89-'91, practised law in Boston.
'91-'94, in the Andover Theological Seminary.
'94-'95, acting pastor, Congregational Church in North New Portland, Me.
'95-1900, pastor of the Riverside Congregational Church at Lawrence, Mass.
Since 1900, pastor of the North Congregational Church at Newton, Mass.

FRANKLIN SAWYER PALMER

Born September 8, 1865, at Boxford, Mass.
Father's Name: Jacob Peabody Palmer
Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Anne Kimball
Present Address: 602 W. 146th St., New York, N. Y.
Present Business: Physician
Marriage: Date, October 12, 1899. Place, San Francisco, Cal.
Maiden Name of Wife: May McKinney
Child: Name, Paul Samuel McKinney Date of Birth, December 24, 1900
Degree: M.D. 1890

'86-'88, at the Harvard Medical School and assistant to Dr. R. H. Stedman at Forest Hills.

'88-'89, ship surgeon going to the Azores and the Mediterranean.

'89-'90, at the Harvard Medical School.

'92-'97, practising medicine in Seattle, Wash.

'92, appointed assistant Health Officer of Seattle.

'93, appointed Health Officer of Seattle.

'97-'99, practising medicine in New York.

'99-'01, practising medicine in San Francisco.

'01-'02, physician of the Oriental Consolidated Mining Co. in Korea.

'02-'03, traveling and studying in Siberia, Russia and Europe.

For the past three years has been a life insurance examiner in New York.

Was with the Equitable Life Insurance Society until the spring of '06, and has since been Medical School Inspector for the Board of Health of New York and is also with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

'05, wrote: "After practising medicine in Seattle and San Francisco for ten years, I went to Korea as physician at the American Gold mines, where I remained over a year performing the duties of that position and incidentally observing the characteristics of the Chinese, Japanese and Koreans. Visiting Japan again after leaving Korea, I went by steamer to Port Arthur and there took the Trans-Siberian train which brought me after an extremely comfortable journey to Moscow. I spent the winter in Paris and in the spring returned to New York via Italy. At present am in New York and make a specialty of making medical examinations for life insurance. Am also organist of All Saints' Church, which contains a very large fine organ."

JOSEPH NEWELL PALMER

Born January 1, 1865, at Newton, Mass.

Father's Name: Albert Palmer

Mother's Maiden Name: Martha Ann Newell

Present Address: Home, Lombard St., Newton

Business: 50 State St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Law. Name of Firm: J. N. Palmer

Marriage: Date, June 1, 1898. Place, Newton

Maiden Name of Wife: Isabel Newell Cole

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Albert	January 7, 1899
--------	-----------------

Stephen	December 21, 1900
---------	-------------------

Wilson	February 22, 1902
--------	-------------------

Degrees: LL.B. and A.M. 1889

'86-'89, at Harvard Law School.

Since '89, has been practising law in Boston.

JAMES HENRY PAYNE, JR.

Born November 13, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: James Henry Payne

Mother's Maiden Name: Harriet Maria Whittier

Present Address: Home, New Algonquin Club, Boston

Business: Navy Department, Washington, D. C.

Present Business: Passed Assistant Surgeon, U. S. Navy

Degree: M.D. 1889

'86-'89, student at Harvard Medical School.

'89-'90, studying medicine in France and England.

'90-'98, practising medicine in Boston.

Since '98, surgeon in the Navy.

July-Oct., 1900, medical officer, Fifth Battalion United States Marines, served at Tientsin, No. China.

Oct., 1900-Feb., '02, on duty in the Philippines. Has been on duty at the United States Naval Hospital, Boston; Mare Island, Cal.; Tientsin, No. China; Cavite, Philippine Islands; Newport, R. I.; San Juan, Puerto Rico.

'03, was transferred from the Naval Hospital, Newport, R. I., to the U. S. S. Wabash, Charlestown Navy Yard.

Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society; the British Medical Association; the Association of Military Surgeons, United States.

'05, wrote: "At the time of writing for the last Class Report I was in the wilds of Mindanao and am pleased now to be able to write from a more civilized place. During '01 I cruised among the Philippine Islands in the U. S. S. Isla de Cuba, spending several months at Cebu in the Visayan group.

"In '02, I served two weeks on the U. S. S. Manila, and in February, '02, joined the U. S. Flagship Brooklyn to sail at last for New York after sixteen months of continuous service in the Philippines.

"The return trip was a delightful one and I visited Singapore, Colombo, Suez, Ismaila, Port Said, and Gibraltar. I was fortunate enough to make a trip to Kandy in the interior of Ceylon, and to picturesque Ronda in Spain.

"After arriving at New York, the Brooklyn was ordered to Havana for the function of May 20, when the Cubans became an independent nation. We brought General Wood to the North with us, and found him a delightful shipmate.

"In June we were ordered to Annapolis to convey the body of the recently deceased British Ambassador, Lord Pauncefote, to England.

"On our return to the United States from Southampton we were busily engaged in manoeuvres until the Brooklyn went out of commission in September.

"I was ordered to the Naval Hospital at Newport, R. I., for five months, and then to the U. S. R. S. Wabash in Boston, where I had the great pleasure of renewing old friendships and of realizing that I was at last at home after my wandering around the world.

"In September I passed my examination for promotion and became a Passed Assistant Surgeon in the Navy, with rank of Lieutenant.

"In January, 1904, I received telegraphic orders to proceed to San Juan, Puerto Rico, and was on duty at the Naval Hospital there till May, when I was ordered to the U. S. S. Marietta, one of the four vessels of the South Atlantic Squadron. We sailed to Teneriffe in the Canary Islands, and then proceeded to Tangier to use our moral influence in securing the return of Perdicaris who had been abducted by Raisuli and his Moorish brigands. When arrangements had been made for Perdicaris' return we sailed to Gibraltar, and I had the fortune to secure a few days' leave for travel in Spain. I saw the bull fight in Algeciras and then visited Granada with its exquisite Alhambra.

"We then made a cruise in squadron down the west coast of Africa stopping at the Canary Islands, Sierra Leone, Liberia, Portuguese Southwest Africa, and Cape Town. From there I made a magnificent trip into the interior with Admiral Chadwick and other officers, visiting the diamond mines at Kimberly, the gold mines of Johannesburg, the battlefield of Magersfontein, and other places of interest. We traveled in private cars and were royally entertained from start to finish.

"From Cape Town we sailed to St. Helena, where we had an opportunity to visit Napoleon's former house and tomb, and then proceeded to Santos, Brazil, Montevideo, Uruguay, and Buenos Aires, Argentine Republic.

"At Buenos Aires I was one of the Admiral's party at the inauguration of the new President of the Argentine Republic.

"I remained three weeks in Buenos Aires, a beautiful modern city of one million people. In November we returned to Montevideo and sailed for Ilha Grande Bay, Brazil, where we had target practice, arriving at Rio de Janeiro the day after the insurrection there. A few days later we sailed to Bahia and then to Port of Spain, Trinidad. Here the Marietta was detached from the squadron and ordered North to go out of commission. We stopped at St. Lucia one day, passed close to ill-fated St. Pierre, Martinique, and arrived at League Island, December 31.

"The Marietta goes out of commission in a few days, and I am awaiting my next orders with interest.

"I have greatly enjoyed my life in the Navy, and I find that the inevitable hardships and discomforts of going to sea enable one to appreciate as never before all the delights of civilization."

'06, wrote: "In answer to your request I send you a statement of my service in the U. S. Navy; I was commissioned Assistant Surgeon, with the relative rank of Ensign, U. S. N., June 29, '98; commissioned Assistant Surgeon, with the rank of Lieutenant, Junior Grade, June 7, 1900; commissioned Passed Assistant Surgeon, with the rank of Lieutenant, June 7, '03.

"I have served on the following ships: U. S. S. Marcellus, August 9, '98 to March 6, '99; U. S. S. Indiana, May 8, '99 to Jan. 3, 1900; U. S. S. Isla de Cuba, March 21, '01 to Jan. 30, '02; U. S. S. Manila, Jan. 30, '02 to Feb. 13, '02; U. S. F. S. Brooklyn, Feb. 13, '02 to Sept. 22, '02; U. S. S. Marietta, May 4, '04 to Jan. 21, '05; U. S. S. Pennsylvania, March 9, '05 to July 19, '05; U. S. S. Nashville, August 8, '05 to July 23, '06; U. S. S. Arkansas, July 27, '06 to Sept. 12, '06.

"I was present at the battle of Puerto Plata, Santo Domingo, January 2, 1906, and organized a Red Cross Hospital to care for the wounded. For my services on that occasion, the Common Council of Puerto Plata sent me a vote of thanks, through the U. S. Navy and State Departments. The last few months of my cruise were in home waters on the Arkansas, visiting Newport, New London, Annapolis, Washington and Oyster Bay. I am now on shore duty at the Recruiting Station, Providence, R. I., and am enjoying the comforts of civilized life after my three years at sea."

GEORGE LEE PEABODY

Born May 16, 1865, at Salem, Mass.

Father's Name: Samuel Endicott Peabody

Mother's Maiden Name: Marianne Cabot Lee

Present Address: Home, Wenham, Mass.

Business: 44 State St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Banker. Name of Firm: Lee Higginson & Co.

Marriage: Date, June 4, 1891. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife: Elizabeth Copley Crowninshield

Ever since graduation has been with Lee, Higginson & Co. in Boston.

'88, was a member of the Common Council in Salem.

WILMOT GRANT PEIRCE

Born November 7, 1863, at Green Valley Farm, Chester County, Pa.

Father's Name: Joshua Neil Peirce

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline Strode

Present Address: Home, Tulpehocken St., Germantown, Pa.

Business: 708-9 Commonwealth Bldg., 12th and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, April 18, 1894. Place, Cincinnati, Ohio

Maiden Name of Wife: Jeannette Newton Trevor

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

John Trevor October 6, 1897

Wilmot Grant May 5, 1902

Degree: LL.B. (Univ. Pa.) 1888

'86-'88, in the law office of Biddle & Ward, Philadelphia.

'89-'98, practising law in St. Paul, Minn.

'94-'96, took a trip around the world.

Since '98, practising law in Philadelphia.

SPENCER PENROSE

Born November 2, 1865, at Philadelphia, Pa.

Father's Name: Richard Alexander Fullerton Penrose

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Hannah Boies

Present Address: Colorado Springs, Col.

Present Business: Mining and Metallurgy

Marriage: Date, April 26, 1906. Place, London, Eng.

Name of Wife: Julie Villiers Lewis McMillan

Ever since graduation has been in business; was at first with the firm of Edelston & Penrose, commission merchants, at Las Cruces, New Mexico, and was also interested in mines. Later he was with the firm of Tutt & Penrose at Cripple Creek, Colo., and was interested in mines, ore reduction and real estate.

For several years he has been living in Colorado Springs, being interested in gold and copper mining, and the extraction of these metals, also in the raising of sugar beets, and the manufacture of beet sugar.

'05, wrote: "My address is still Colorado Springs. I am not married and have no reasons to expect to be. My business is still the same, namely, Mining and Metallurgy. The most important positions I hold are as follows: secretary-treasurer of United States Reduction and Refining company; secretary-treasurer, Granite Gold Mining Company, Colorado; secretary-treasurer, Utah Copper Company, Utah; director of Colorado Title & Trust Company, Colorado Springs. All the above companies have their main offices at Colorado Springs.

"I am also interested in several other mining companies and other banking institutions."

GILMAN NICHOLS PERKINS

Born May 12, 1865, at Rochester, N. Y.

Father's Name: Gilman Hill Perkins

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline Erickson

Present Address : Home, 270 Culver Road, Rochester

Business: P. O. Box 382, Rochester

Marriage: Date, October 20, 1887. Place, Rochester

Maiden Name of Wife: Jessie Fassett Powers

Child: Name, Date of Birth.

Gilman Craig August 5, 1888

'86-'98, was in the Union Bank of Rochester, N.

Since '98, has been interested in real estate.

'86-'98, was in the Union Bank of Rochester, N. Y.

Since '98, has been interested in real estate.

'05, wrote: "I keep busy most of the time, with an occasional month off for shooting and the like.

"As I have written you before several times, my most noteworthy accomplishment was in being the father of the first boy in '88 — now almost ready himself for college — I had hoped he would get something to show for it, in the shape of a tin mug, and still have hopes that the class will remember my prowess.

"At a small dance here lately I realized for the first time that '86 was a long time ago, for I saw my boy, in his first evening clothes, dancing with Seward Cary's girl—our class baby—who was dressed up like a young lady."

LUIS JAMES PHELPS

Born October 10, 1864, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name : Charles Phelps

Mother's Maiden Name: Isabel Marguerite James

Present Address : Home, 69 East 82nd St., New York

Business: 34 Nassau St., New York

Present Business : Law. Name of Firm : Olin, Clark & Phelps

Marriage: Date, (1) October 5, 1892; (2) March 18, 1901. Place,

(1) New York; (2) New York

Maiden Name of Wife : (1) Mary Cecilia Roe (d. April 10, 1898);
(2) Christina Nichols

Children : Names,	Dates of Birth,
Charles Walcott	July 22, 1893
Christina	February 9, 1902
Acosta Nichols	May 29, 1904

'86-'88, at the Columbia Law School, New York.

'88-'89, traveling.

Since '89, has been practising law in New York, for the last ten years in association with Stephen H. Olin, George L. Rives, and John C. Clark.

Military record: Private, Company K, Seventh Regiment, October 5, '86; Warranted Quartermaster Sergeant, October 6, '93; Full and Honorable Discharge, November 29, '97.

WALTER BRIGHAM PHILLIPS

Born April 2, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name : Elijah Brigham Phillips

Mother's Maiden Name : Rebecca Ayling

Present Address : Home, 141 Grant Ave., Newton Center

Business : 50 Congress St., Boston

Present Business : Stock-broker

Marriage : Date, October 2, 1890. Place, Danvers, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife : Gertrude Eleanor Spring

Children : Names,	Dates of Birth,
Eleanor	October 27, 1891
Morgan Brigham	October 22, 1894
Roger Spring	September 5, 1901

Ever since graduation has been in the banking and brokerage business.

'86-'87, with Potter, Lovell & Co. in Boston.

'88-'90, with Brewster, Cobb & Estabrook.

'90-'91, with E. A. B. Turner & Bro.

Since '91, alone.

CHARLES PHILIP PINCKARD

Born September 4, 1864, at Covington, Ky.

Father's Name: Valentine Orson Pinckard

Mother's Maiden Name: Tillie Stockwell Hudnut

Present Address: Home, Chicago Beach Hotel, Chicago, Ill.

Business, Columbus Memorial Bldg., Chicago

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, (1) April 29, 1896; (2) April 25, 1903. Place,
(1) Boston, Mass. (2) Chicago, Ill.

Maiden Name of Wife: (1) Edith Augusta Brown (d. February 10, 1897); (2) Mary Losey Graff.

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Charles Philip, Jr. January 1, 1906

Degree: M.D., 1889.

'86-'89, student in the Harvard Medical School.

'89-'91, house officer at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

Since '91, has been practising medicine in Chicago as a specialist in Ophthalmology.

Is a member of the Chicago Medical Society and the American Medical Association. Is professor of Ophthalmology at the Chicago Post-Graduate Medical School; attending ophthalmologist at the Michigan Reese Hospital, the Michigan Reese Dispensary and the Home for Crippled Children.

Has published "Ectopia Lentis"; "Tetanus and Eye"; and "Diabetes and Eye."

HORTON POPE

Born November 14, 1864, at Milwaukee, Wis.

Father's Name: John Pope

Mother's Maiden Name: Clara Pomeroy Horton

Present Business: Law

Present Address: Denver Club, Denver, Colorado

Degree: L.L.B., Washington (Mo.), 1888

'86-'88, student in the St. Louis Law School.

'88-'93, practising law in St. Louis, Mo.

'93-'05, practising law in Pueblo, Colo.

Since July 1, '05, practising law in Denver.

CHARLES DUDLEY PORTER

Born August 27, 1863, at Haverhill, Mass.

Father's Name: Dudley Porter

Mother's Maiden Name: Susan Goodrich

Present Address: 14 Maple Ave., Haverhill

Present Business: Lumber

Name of Firm: D. D. Chase Lumber Co.

'86-'93, was connected with the Glen Manufacturing Company of Berlin Falls, N. H., at first as paymaster and later as superintendent.

'93-'94, traveling abroad.

'95-'96, engaged in gold mining in Central City, Colo.

Since '96, has been in the lumber and coal business in Haverhill, Mass.

CHARLES AUGUSTUS PRATT

Born October 23, 1862, at North Easton, Mass.

Father's Name: Hiram Augustus Pratt

Mother's Maiden Name: Louise Caroline Dean

Present Address: 60 Orchard St., New Bedford, Mass.

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, April 12, 1899. Place, New Bedford

Maiden Name of Wife: May Louise Denison

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
John Denison	February 24, 1900
Louise	January 4, 1902
Charles Augustus, Jr.	August 16, 1905

Degrees: M.D. and A.M. 1891

'86-'90, at the Harvard Medical School.

Since '91, has been practising medicine in New Bedford, Mass. Is visiting physician to St. Luke's Hospital, New Bedford.

Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society; the American Medical Association; and the Harvard Medical Alumni Association.

'05, wrote: "As my constant presence is demanded here I make few short excursions away, but try and get off for a month each year as a rest from eleven months of pretty exhausting work. Last September, Mrs. Pratt and I spent camping in the woods of northern Maine getting some very good photographs of moose, deer, etc., which we saw in abundance.

I make it a point to go to the annual class dinner every year and it seems strange to me that more of the fellows don't attend as it is about the only means we have left of keeping up our class spirit.

GUSTAV ADOLF PUDOR

Born August 31, 1864, at Portland, Me.

Father's Name: Johann Ferdinand Pudor

Mother's Maiden Name: Amalia Lucia De Fries

Present Address: 134 Free St., Portland

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, August 3, 1897. Place, Heligoland

Maiden Name of Wife: Marie Margareta Besig

Degree: M.D. 1892

'86-'89, at the Harvard Medical School.

Since '89, has been practising medicine in Portland, Me.

'97, studied in Berlin.

Since '97, has been a specialist in Dermatology.

'03 to present, instructor in Dermatology in Bowdoin College Medical School.

Is a member of the Maine Medical Society. Has published "Notes on Dermatological Medication."

'04, wrote: "I am sorry not to be able to add to the gaiety of nations by a lengthy and interesting report of my doings—and being done. I am still at the old stand practising on my patients with the usual success that comes to the average M.D. Whether my patients are satisfied I have little means of knowing, but I am so far and that is of very material importance to me and my family. The latter consists, as some years back, of a wife and myself. I have the fortune of not being in politics, although I did make a little plunge some years since, but it was cold and I got out with only chilly feet. I also have been fortunate in being appointed lecturer in dermatology at the Medical School of Maine, and have several hospital appointments, thanks to the fact that I am the only man in my line in the state. Contrary to my usual habit I have not spent my substance in travel but have been at home most of the time during the past few years. A three months' trip to the West Indies, especially Martinique, is about all I have done during that time.

"Statistics I have none to give. I am as I was at graduation, although perhaps a little fatter now than then. I am older and have an indefinite number of gray hairs."

EDWARD EVERETT RANKIN

Born May 11, 1865, at Springfield, Mass.

Father's Name : Edwin Everett Rankin

Mother's Maiden Name : Emma Mansfield

Present Address : Home, Brighton Road, Ben Avon, Pa.

Business : 602 Park Bldg., Pittsburg, Pa.

Present Business : Manager Branch Office

Name of Firm : Cluett, Peabody & Co.

Marriage : Date, July 25, 1888. Place, Deerfield, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife : Sallie Abercrombie Fuller

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Helen Emily May 8, 1889

Howard Mansfield September 18, 1898

Edward Fuller August 31, 1903

'86-'87, principal of Deerfield Academy, Deerfield, Mass.

'87-'92, instructor of Mathematics and Physics in Washington University, St. Louis.

'92-'94, teacher of Mathematics and Physics at Smith Academy, St. Louis.

'94-96, master of Sciences, Penn Charter School, Philadelphia.

Since '96 has been in charge of the Pittsburg office of Cluett, Peabody & Co.

*JOHN HENRY RATHBONE

Born February 28, 1863, at Albany, N. Y.

Father's Name : John Finley Rathbone

Mother's Maiden Name : Mary Allen Baker

Business : Secretary Oxnard Sugar Co.

Marriage : Date, July 9, 1890. Place, Louisville, Ky.

Maiden Name of Wife : Harriet Cowling

Died November 16, 1900

John Henry Rathbone died at Oxnard, Cal., November 16, 1900. He was born at Albany, February 28, 1863, and fitted for college at St. Paul's School. In college he was a member of the "Dickey," "Pudding," and "A. D." clubs. From 1886 to 1888 he was with Rathbone, Sard & Co., stove manufacturers, in Albany. In 1890, after a year's travel, he went to Chicago, and became a stock-broker.

At the time of his death he was secretary of the Oxnard Sugar Company. He married July 9, 1890, Harriet Cowling of Louisville, Ky.

*THOMAS WALTER REYNOLDS

Born June 19, 1859, at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Father's Name: Thomas Reynolds

Mother's Maiden Name: Olivia Watson

Marriage: Date, May 20, 1889. Place, Switzerland

Maiden Name of Wife: Lily Verena Stark

Children: Names ,	Dates of Birth ,
Mary Olivia	August 6, 1890
Ethel	July 13, 1891
Katherine	June 23, 1893
Thomas	November 9, 1897

Died June 2, 1905

Thomas Walter Reynolds, the son of Thomas and Olivia (Watson) Reynolds, was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., January 19, 1859. He was fitted for college at the Polytechnic in Brooklyn and had traveled a good deal abroad before entering college with the class of '86, so that he was somewhat older than the average of his class. His studies in college were chiefly in language. He had a rather rare gift for sociability, and was known for a quaint and quizzical speech, and a ready and overflowing kindness for his associates which won him warm liking, in college and throughout his subsequent life. In his senior year he was a member of the Signet.

After graduation he planned to do journalistic work, but soon went abroad, married in 1889 in Switzerland, and during the rest of his life lived in Switzerland, France and Italy.

His tastes were simple and domestic; he read a little, walked a good deal, speculated more or less on philosophical problems, and enjoyed life. In Switzerland he made his home chiefly in Kandersteg, a small village on the Gemmi Pass. On his way from that place to Italy with his family in May, 1905, he caught a severe cold which ran a rapid course and terminated fatally in June. He was buried at Montreux. A widow and four children survive him.

EBEN RICHARDS

Born January 10, 1866, at St. Louis, Mo.

Father's Name: Eben Richards

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline Beckwith Maxwell

Present Address: Home, temporarily, Tuxedo, N. Y.

Business: 25 Broad St., New York, N. Y.

Present Business: President and General Counsel Mexican Central Railway Co.

Marriage: Date, April 15, 1896. Place, St. Louis

Maiden Name of Wife : Perle Pierce
Children : Names, Dates of Birth,
 Eben July 10, 1897
 Minnie August 22, 1899
Degree : LL.B. Washington (Mo.) 1888

'86-'88, at the St. Louis Law School.

Since '88, has been practising law in St. Louis.

In April, 1900, formed a partnership with John D. Johnson under the firm name of Johnson & Richards. Has been instructor in "Damages" at the St. Louis Law School, and for two years was professor of Medical Jurisprudence at the Marion Sims Medical College. '99-'03, was a member of the City Council.

At present, president and general counsel of the Mexican Central Railway Co.

'04, wrote: "There is nothing new with me except that my business as counsel for the Mexican Central Railway Company keeps me most of the time in New York and I can generally be found at No. 25 Broad Street. I have almost entirely cut loose from St. Louis, going there only at infrequent intervals, although I am still a member of the law firm of Johnson & Richards and have made no formal break in my connections there; but I am living for the winter at Tuxedo, N. Y., and, as heretofore, my family has been spending the summers at Prides Crossing, Massachusetts. We have only two children, a boy and a girl, but our health is good and I am meeting with a fair share of success, so we are happy."

'06, wrote: "I still continue to live at Tuxedo, New York, as my business keeps me almost entirely in the City of New York, although I still retain my St. Louis connections and a legal residence there, and I am still a member of the law firm there, the name of which has recently been changed to that of Johnson, Allen & Richards."

•*HENRY AUGUSTUS RICHARDS

Born February 28, 1865, at Weymouth, Mass.

Father's Name : Augustus Jacob Richards

Mother's Maiden Name : Mary Turville Clapp

Business : Coal and Grain

Marriage : Date, April 26, 1893. Place, East Weymouth

Maiden Name of Wife : Lydia Charlotte Lovell

Died October 8, 1895

Henry Augustus Richards was born in Weymouth, February 28, 1865, and died there of typhoid fever October 8, 1895. He was educated at the Weymouth public schools and at Adams Academy, Quincy. After graduation he entered into active business life, relieving his father of much of the responsibility of their coal and grain business. He was a member of the First Corps Cadets, M.V.M., the Orphan's Hope Lodge, F. & A. M., the Pentalpha Royal Arch Chapter, and the South Shore Commandery. He was also a director of the Union National Bank and of the Weymouth and Braintree Publishing Company. He served the town upon several important committees and for a number of years was a member of the Republican Town Committee.

"When our secretary asked me a few days ago if I would not write something about H. A. Richards for the class report, it brought back again very vividly the shock I had felt on reading his name among those who had died.

"I did know 'Richie,' as we always called him, very well; and, although I had not seen much of him since 1886, owing to the separation of distance, I knew that he was happily married, was carrying on a successful business in his native town, where he was besides occupying places of honor and trust in the local government. He was doing, in fact, precisely what those who knew him best had expected of him. I had in thinking of him that satisfying sense common to most of us of feeling that one's friends are well, happy and successful. The news of his untimely death came to me as a keen shock of personal loss, as it must have come to others of his classmates.

"Most of us, I imagine, are beginning to feel ourselves so far removed from our college days that we see Harvard through the blue haze of memory, Harvard as it was when we were there, the yard peopled with all the old familiar forms and faces; our old college rooms filled with the laughing, happy faces of our friends. It is thus I always see Richards. Poor 'Richie!' so true to his friends, so intensely patriotic in his love of '86 and old Harvard; feelings that he chose to conceal under a pessimistic expression of opinion, which deceived none of those who really knew him and his sterling qualities.

"Why he should be taken away when he was fulfilling the promise of his youth is part of that inscrutable mystery which we, mercifully, can not solve until our own time comes.

"Death has been busy in our midst during these last twelve years, and very many of us have to mourn empty places in our circle of college friends. We have lost another comrade, many of us another friend, but we have left us the satisfaction of knowing that to the last he played his part manfully and well. May he rest in peace."

C. N. B. W.

THEODORE WILLIAM RICHARDS

Born January 31, 1868, at Germantown, Pa.

Father's Name: William Trost Richards

Mother's Maiden Name: Anna Matlack

Present Address: 16 Follen St., Cambridge, Mass.

Present Business: Chemical Research, and Chairman Chemical Department, Harvard College

Marriage: Date, May 28, 1896. Place, Cambridge

Maiden Name of Wife: Miriam Stuart Thayer

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Grace Thayer February 1, 1898

William Theodore March 24, 1900

Greenough Thayer October 17, 1905

Degrees: S.B. Haverford (Pa.) 1885, Ph.D. and A.M. (Phys.) 1888

'86-'88, graduate student and assistant in chemistry at Harvard on a Morgan Fellowship.

'88-'89, studying chemistry in Germany, especially at Göttingen and Dresden, on a Parker Fellowship.

'90, director of the Harvard Summer School of Chemistry.

'91, instructor at Harvard in Chemistry department.

'92, member of the faculty of Arts and Sciences.

'93, made chairman of the division of Chemistry at Harvard.

'94, appointed assistant professor of Chemistry at Harvard.

'95, studying physical chemistry in Leipzig and Göttingen.

'01, offered Research professorship of chemistry at Göttingen.

'01, appointed full professor in the chemical department.

June 28, '05, received honorary degree of Sc.D. from Yale.

'06, designated as Harvard's visiting professor at the University of Berlin next year. He was selected by the German Government from a list of available professors offered by the Corporation. His term of service will fall in the second half year; his courses will be in exact chemical research.

In the last four years his time has been spent almost exclusively in chemical research at Harvard. The results have been published in about one hundred and fifty different communications to scientific periodicals.

Is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the American Philosophical Society, American Association Advancement Science, American Chemical So-society, Washington Academy of Sciences, British Association, Oakley County Club, and Chapoquoit Yacht Club.

'06, wrote: "In '02, I was one of the first Advisors of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. In '05 for several months I was acting Director of the Chemical Laboratory of Harvard College.

"I am now associate editor of the following periodicals: 'Zeitschrift für physikalische Chemie'; 'Zeitschrift für anorganische Chemie'; 'Physikochemisches Centralklatt'; 'Journal de chimie physique.'

"For two years I have been president of the Physico-chemical Club of Boston and Cambridge ('04-'06). During the preceding two years ('02-'04) I was vice president."

HAZEN KIMBALL RICHARDSON

Born September 11, 1861, at Middleton, Mass.

Father's Name: Benjamin Peters Richardson

Mother's Maiden Name: Eliza Ann Symonds

Present Address: Middleton

Present Business: Farmer

Has not since graduation answered any letters or circulars, but is reported to be living in Middleton, Mass., and to be engaged in farming.

JACOB WILLIAM RICHARDSON

Born April 1, 1864, at South Scituate, Mass.

Father's Name: George Lewis Richardson

Mother's Maiden Name: Lucy Turner

Present Address: 29 Pine St., Hyde Park, Mass.

Degree: LL.B. Boston Univ. 1889

September, '86—April, '87, teacher in a private school in Elizabeth, N. J.

April, '87—June, '87, private tutoring in Boston.

'87-'89, student in the Boston University Law School.

Since '89, has been in poor health; for several years was unable to do anything, but in recent years is able to read and write a little daily.

'90, admitted to Massachusetts bar and opened law office in Boston.

'91-'97, health severely broken down; unable to do any work.

'97-1900, health somewhat improved, and began to take up literary work.

1900-'04, engaged in journalism to some extent.

'04-'06, health much worse again. Unable to work since April, '04.

'05, wrote: "My delay in answering your call for my contribution to the class report has been due partly to physical disability and partly to the fact that I have little or nothing to contribute, and not, I assure you, to any lack of interest in '86 matters. For several years past my health has been breaking down again with a series of acute troubles and with new developments of chronic troubles. Until April, '04, I was still able to continue my work of writing editorials with some regularity, but since then I have been quite severely laid up. I trust that the worst of my illness is now over, but the physicians do not give me any very definite hope of material improvement, so that it is not at all likely that I shall be able to participate in the grand class celebration next summer.

"If I get able to work again I shall probably resume journalistic writing, as I found it very fascinating work, but of course at present my plans are necessarily unsettled, and it is a pretty bitter pill to be so useless when the rest of '86 are serving the world so efficiently."

MYRON WALLACE RICHARDSON

Born October 29, 1862, at Woburn, Mass.

Father's Name: Jeduthan Richardson

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Elizabeth Locke

Present Address: 67 Brookdale Road, Brighton, Mass.

Present Business: School teacher

Marriage: Date, June 24, 1891. Place, Omaha, Neb.

Maiden Name of Wife: Helen Howell Hall

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Helen Elizabeth	June 16, 1892
Mary Leonice	December 12, 1893
Dorothy Rose	December 12, 1893

'86-'87, postgraduate student at Harvard.

'87-'88, in Omaha office of the Union Pacific Railroad.

'88-'92, teacher of Omaha High School.

'92-'98, principal of High School at Lincoln, Neb.

'94-1900, superintendent of schools at Milton, Mass.

'98-1900, in the employ of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., publishers.

'01-'06, teacher in the South Boston High School of Science and Mathematics, and head master of East Boston Evening High School.

At present teacher in Roxbury High School.

*SUMNER DOW RICHARDSON

Born December 15, 1864, at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Father's Name : Stephen Francis Richardson

Mother's Maiden Name : Ellen Dow

Marriage : Date, February 28, 1889. Place, Brooklyn

Maiden Name of Wife: Elizabeth Walpole Gedney

Died August 24, 1895

Sumner Dow Richardson, son of Stephen F. and Ellen Dow Richardson, was born in Brooklyn, E. D., December 15, 1864, and died of mesenteric tuberculosis at Lenoir, Caldwell County, North Carolina, August 25, 1895. He prepared for college in the High School at Portland, Maine, was admitted to the class of '86, and completed his course, regularly taking his degree. Although not widely known, he was widely respected, and had the sincere affection of all who were fortunate to enjoy his intimate acquaintance. During his course he was a valued member of the Signet and O. K. Societies, and of the Lampoon Board. Upon graduation he began work as a reporter for the New York Sun, with which paper he remained a short time; he then took a position on the New York Times, where his sterling qualities and unquestioned abilities speedily made for him an honorable place. September 8, 1891, he accepted the position of assistant night city editor offered him by the New York Herald, with which paper he was associated until July, 1893, when he left work on account of illness, and went first to Virginia and later to Florida and North Carolina. February 28, 1889, he was married in Brooklyn, to Elizabeth Walpole Gedney.

"As one to whom his friendship was very dear for more than twenty years, and to whom his memory will be dear while memory lives for me, I write these few words for his friends in our class. His face is before me now as I knew it in the old days: clear-eyed, alert, with a manly gravity that we all knew so well in the after years, and with the merry flashes that illumined all. If ever there was one who bound together the mature wisdom of the man with the wayward enthusiasm of the child, it was he. Swift of foot, strong of arm, and so a leader in the play, he was no less a counselor, and in the charmed hours when we lay beneath the trees and talked as boys do of the world and the life before us, his was the wiser prophecy. To the pipings of our boyish fancies the sturdier purpose that was in him sounded a true diapason.

"His Sovereign was Truth, and honest manly endeavor was the tribute he paid; through all his life he did the best he could. None knew better than he the pleasures of ease, and none could have drawn from them a keener or a nobler delight; but though he knew and loved the kindly Phaeacians, he kept his swift ship headed for the purple seas. And in the last sad days there were deeds to be done, which the strength of his spirit faced after the strength of his arm had failed.

"He pursued the course of his life as a philosopher, and met the obstacles that it presented with a sturdy determination, but smilingly withal, and hopefully always. Of innate refinement and courtesy, of wide reading and information, and of a disposition most happily adaptable to the temperament and taste of those with whom he associated, he was an honor to the name of gentleman, a name which he bore in the thought of all who knew him.

"True as steel, unselfish to a fault, earnestly solicitous for the welfare of those near him, entering heartily into their joys, and with a manly consolation and sympathy for their sorrows, he will be remembered by many of us as one of the most dear of the old friends who made up for us the ever-dearer circle of college friendship."

L. L. H.

ODIN BARNES ROBERTS

Born January 22, 1867, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: George Litch Roberts

Mother's Maiden Name: Hinda Barnes

Present Address: Home, High St., Dedham, Mass.

Business: Delta Bldg., Post Office Sq., Boston

Present Business: Law

Name of Firm: Roberts & Mitchell

Marriage: Date, April 19, 1897. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife: Ada Mead

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Sumner Mead	January 25, 1898
Lloyd Garrison	November 16, 1902 (d. October 3, 1903)
Frederick Mead	October 2, 1905

Degrees: S.B. Mass. Inst. Tech. 1888; LL.B. and A.M. 1891

'86-'88, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

'88-'91, student in the Harvard Law School.

Since '91 has been in the practice of patent law in Boston; specialty patent causes.

'91-'98, in partnership with James H. Lange.

1900 to '02, with Robert Cushman, '02 to present the firm has been Roberts & Mitchell.

Is a member of the University and Harvard Clubs of New York, St. Botolph, Norfolk County, Eastern Yacht and Papyrus Clubs of Boston.

'04, wrote: "The events of the last three years that concern me most intimately are:

"Nov. 16, '02 my boy, Lloyd Garrison Roberts, was born; on October 4, '03, he died. The cause of his death was obscure: he began his little life heartily, but some infection bearing analogy to typhoid (by some believed to be typhoid) attacked him in the late summer of '03, and resulted fatally.

"March 1, '02 with Oliver Mitchell and Robert Cushman, I formed the law firm of Roberts & Mitchell. Starting with a good business we have improved our condition steadily and begin the year '05 with excellent prospects.

"In March, '04, I went to England for a few weeks, to rest and repair myself. The results were all I could wish and my present condition justifies no complaint."

Oct. 3, '05, wrote: "Last evening Frederick Mead Roberts was born, under perfectly normal conditions. He weighed eight pounds and six ounces and yelled eighty-six times, then went to sleep. His mother is doing splendidly."

ROBERT FLETCHER ROGERS

Born August 14, 1865, at Erie, Pa.

Father's Name: Henry Chauncy Rogers

Mother's Maiden Name: Matilda Fletcher

Present Address: Home, 499 Fifth Ave., New York

Business: 45 Broadway, New York

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, January 20, 1890. Place, London, Eng.

Maiden Name of Wife: Clara Hutchins (d. July 13, 1892)

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Mildred November 10, 1890

Degree: LL.B. Columbian (D. C.) 1889

'86-'87, fourth assistant examiner in the United States patent office.

'87-'90, student in the Columbian University Law School at Washington.

Since '90 has been in the practice of patent law in New York.

Has been abroad several times for long periods in the interests of clients.

Has continued in patent law and corporation work. Has not been abroad for several years. Describes himself as a "crank on exercise." Says that his work forces him into a rather humdrum, though financially successful, life.

Is a member of New York Athletic Club and Engineers Club of New York.

His daughter is at the Gilman School at Cambridge and expects to enter Radcliffe.

'05, wrote: "I am still plugging at the law in a mild and rather obscure way and devote myself almost entirely to patent and corporation matters. My travels consist of frequent business trips to the principal cities of this country and occasionally abroad. I hold some few positions of trust, although perhaps not of honor, but these are simply rather uninteresting business matters. I am sorry to admit further that I cannot specifically mention any publications worthy to be noted except my briefs, some of which require more creative ability than others!"

EDWARD CAVENDER ROWSE

Born May 12, 1866, at St. Louis, Mo.

Father's Name: Edward Smarden Rowse

Mother's Maiden Name: Ann Eliza Rogers

Present Address: Home, Oakwood Ave., Webster Groves, Mo.

Business: 518 Fullerton Bldg., St Louis

Present Business: Lumber

Name of Firm: Southern Mill & Land Co.

Marriage: Date, March 7, 1894. Place, Boston, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Katharine Laura Green

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Edward July 26, 1896

Roger Cushing October 30, 1899

Until '04 was in the real estate and loan business in St. Louis, '86-'94 as clerk under his father, '94-1900 in partnership, and 1900-'04, alone.

Since '04 in the lumber business. Is secretary of the Southern Mill and Land Company.

'92-'95, was trustee of the St. Louis public library.

'05-'06, was a member of the Webster Groves School Board.

*HENRY EDWARD SALISBURY

Born November 5, 1864, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: Henry Salisbury

Mother's Maiden Name: Frances Caroline Bulkley

Marriage: Date, April 25, 1888. Place, New York

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Josephine Wood

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Madelaine May 11, 1893

Henry Wood December 20, 1894

Died July 14, 1902

Henry Edward Salisbury was born in New York November 5, 1864, and entered Harvard with the class of '86. While in college he roomed with H. L. Cammann, '86, and was a member of the Bicycle Club and the St. Paul's Society. On graduation he spent a half year studying law at Columbia and in the office of E. Ellery Anderson of New York, and then was called upon to act as executor of his father's estate. In the second half of '87 he went to California by the Panama route, returned after some months and was married in April, 1888, to Miss Mary Josephine Wood of New York. After a summer abroad he returned and entered on a business career in connection with the Whiting Manufacturing Company of New York. This continued his occupation until 1892, and during this time he was a member of the Larchmont Yacht Club and the Harvard Club of New York. Beginning with '92, however, his health failed and he was abroad almost continuously, living in Nice in the winter and in the Alpine heights in the summer. In Nice he was president of the Lawn Tennis Club. Cheered by the constant companionship of his wife and son and daughter, he lived a quiet life given entirely to the struggle against his tubercular infection. Shortly before his death he wrote: "The life of an invalid provides little of which to write, but occasional meetings with old friends of '86 have been among the pleasantest breaks in the quietness." He died at Davos, Switzerland, July 14, 1902.

*THOMAS PARKER SANBORN

Born February 24, 1865, at Concord, Mass.

Father's Name: Franklin Benjamin Sanborn

Mother's Maiden Name: Louisa Leavitt

Business: Writer

Died March 2, 1889

Thomas Parker Sanborn was born at Concord, Mass., on the 23rd of February, 1865, in a cottage near the "old Mapse" beside the Concord battle-ground. His school days were passed mainly in his native town, although he went to school also at Springfield, and during the winter of 1880-1881 was at Phillips Academy in Exeter.

Studious tastes and poetic sensibility were born and bred in Sanborn; no doubt the peculiar influences of Concord helped to develop that literary gift for which he was distinguished in the class. Already, while at college, he looked forward to journalism as his future profession, and gave his attention chiefly to history and political economy, although his tastes might have led him rather to the classics and to "belles lettres." He was active in college literature, and became an editor of the "Advocate," one of the founders of the "Monthly," and president of the "Lampoon." He was class odist, and was selected to read poems on many other social occasions. The grace and humor of his verse are familiar to the class; what is perhaps not so generally known is that he wrote not only comic verse, but poems which, without being less graceful, are full of delicate feeling and genuine love of nature. It is to be hoped that these poems will some day be given to the public.

After graduating, Sanborn went on the staff of the Springfield "Republican," and soon became literary and dramatic sub-editor. He also wrote for "Puck" and "Life." In the spring of 1888 his health, never very good, became impaired. He remained in Springfield until the autumn when he grew worse and returned to Concord. He continued to write for the "Republican" every week, and also helped his father in the preparation of several volumes. His health somewhat improved; but he began to suffer from melancholia, and his mind became subject to delusions before the last crisis came. He died on the 2nd of March, 1889.

GEORGE SANTAYANA

Born December 16, 1863, at Madrid, Spain

Father's Name: Agustin Santayana

Mother's Maiden Name: Josefina Borras

Present Address: 75 Monmouth St., Cambridge, Mass.

Present Business: Professor of Philosophy

Degrees: Ph.D. and A.M. (Philos.) 1889

'86-'88, studying abroad at Göttingen, Berlin, and Oxford, the second year on a Walker Fellowship.

'88-'89, at Harvard, and writing a thesis on "Lotze."

Since '90 has been teaching at Harvard, at first as an instructor in Philosophy, and since 1900 as an assistant professor of Philosophy. Has published "Sonnets and Other Verses," Duffield & Co., N. Y.; "Sense of Beauty," Scribner; "Lucifer," a theological tragedy, Duffield & Co., N. Y.; "Interpretations of Poetry and Religion," Scribner; "The Hermit of Carmel and Other Poems," Scribner; "The Life of Reason," in 5 volumes, Scribner.

'01, Phi Beta Kappa Poet.

'05-'06, Hyde lecturer in France.

'06, resumed work at Cambridge. Has been lecturing in Brooklyn.

*ADOLPH THURNAUER SCHOLLE

Born June 11, 1865, at San Francisco, Cal.

Father's Name : William Scholle

Mother's Maiden Name : Rosa Thurnauer

Business : Banker

Marriage : Date, March 25, 1890. Place, New York, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife : Pauline Edith Scholle

Child : Name, Date of Birth,

Gertrude Edith March 31, 1891

Degree : A.M. Columbia 1888

Died December 10, 1894

Adolph Thurnauer Scholle, son of William and Rosa Thurnauer Scholle, was born in San Francisco, June 11, 1865. His early education was obtained in the schools of that place. After graduation he spent three years in the Columbia Law School, and then went into business in New York with the banking firm of which his father was the head. He was a member of the New York Athletic, Grolier, Republican and Manhattan Clubs of New York, and the Union League of Philadelphia. March 25, 1890, he was married in New York to his cousin, Pauline Edith Scholle, and March 31, 1891, a daughter, Gertrude Edith, was born. In 1892 his health began to fail, and though he sought strength in the Adirondacks and elsewhere, he died of pulmonary tuberculosis December 10, 1894. Scholle's tastes were all quiet. Of old books, fine bindings, and of paintings, he was something of a connoisseur, and in this knowledge he had profited by considerable travel in Europe. His chief care outside of the banking business consisted in the oversight of several charitable societies, in the work of which he took a deep interest. His habits were domestic; he made a happy home. An intimate friend said: "Adolph did nothing wonderful, but he was a mighty good fellow."

SAMUEL MATHEWSON SCOTT

Born October 7, 1863, at Montreal, Can.

Father's Name : George Stuart Scott

Mother's Maiden Name : Rebecca Lavens Mathewson

Present Address: 488 St. Nicholas Ave., New York
Marriage: Date, May 1, 1900. Place, London, Eng.
Maiden Name of Wife: Frances Glen Warrington, née Glen

'86-'88, in the banking house of Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., New York.

'89, building an electrical railway in Tacoma, Washington.

'90-'94, in Peru, South America, associated with Mygatt, '86, in the London & Pacific Petroleum Company. While there he took an interest in Inca antiquities and carried on excavations in the Chira Valley, which produced the only collection of antiquities ever made in the northern part of Peru. This collection is now in the University of Pennsylvania. During his first year in Peru he discovered a pass connecting the Pacific with the head of navigation of the Amazon which proved to be one of the lowest passes in the Andes suitable for railway purposes.

'95-Nov., '01, in England as managing director of Holophane, Ltd.

In the Boer War took charge of the Equipment Department of Paget Horse until the corps departed for Africa in March, 1900, and for this service he received a presentation of plate from the Paget Horse Committee consisting of The Duke of Somerset, General Cook, Colonel Hill and Major Paget.

Since resigning from Holophane, Ltd., has lived partly in America, partly abroad. He is not engaged in business.

'06, was at Vesuvius at the time of the eruption.

THEODORE SEDGWICK

Born August 2, 1863, at Stockbridge, Mass.

Father's Name: Henry Dwight Sedgwick

Mother's Maiden Name: Henrietta Ellery

Present Address: 533 Portland Ave., St. Paul, Minn.

Present Business: Clergyman, Church of St. John the Evangelist

Marriage: Date, May 4, 1903. Place, St. Paul

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Aspinwall Bend

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Theodore, Jr. May 4, 1904

Edith Ludlow January 6, 1906

'86-'87, in the passenger department of the C. B. & Q. R. R. at Chicago.

'87-'90, in the Berkeley Divinity School at Middletown, Conn.

'90-'94, clergyman, stationed at St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church in New York City. Spent much time in Europe, studying social conditions in the East Side of London.

'94-1900, clergyman of St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church at Williamstown, Mass.

Since 1900, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, St. Paul, Minn.

'05, wrote: "I have had no account to give of myself until this report. I never did anything before."

"On the fourth of May, '03, I married Mary Aspinwall Bend, of St. Paul and the next event, on the fourth of May, '04, Theodore Sedgwick, Jr., was born. He is a fine husky boy.

"My work continues as rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, St. Paul.

"I have been appointed by the last General Convention of the Episcopal Church on the Board of Missions which governs the entire missionary work of the Church.

"This brings me on to New York every so often when I hope I shall meet some of the men of '86."

DANIEL WILLIAM SHEA

Born November 27, 1859, at Portsmouth, N. H.

Father's Name: Timothy Shea

Mother's Maiden Name: Margaret McCarthy

Present Address: Home, Greenland, N. H.

Business: Catholic University, Washington, D. C.

Present Business: Professor of Physics

Name of Firm: Catholic University of America

Degrees: A.M. 1888; Ph.D. Berlin 1892

'86-'88, member of New Hampshire House of Representatives, and studying in post-graduate department at Harvard.

'88-'89, student in the graduate department, Harvard, holding the Tyndall Scholarship for Physics.

'89-'92, studied at Berlin, doing research work under Von Helmholtz.

'92-'94, assistant professor in Physics at University, State of Illinois.

'94-'96, professor at the same University, in charge of the departments of Physics and Electrical Engineering.

Since '96, professor of Physics in the Catholic University of America at Washington; '96-'05, was general secretary of the University, and since May, '06, dean of the Faculty of Sciences. Has written a number of articles in scientific magazines.

'05, wrote: "Although Harvard is well represented in Washington, at the White House, and in public and private life, I am rather lonesome as an '86 man, since there seem to be only four resident here, and I am not acquainted with three of them. Gardner has done us credit as Congressman.

"Harvard men have taken an active part in the establishment of the University Club of Washington, which has recently celebrated its first anniversary, after a year of prosperity. The names of about fifty Harvard men appear in the club list, but there is only one '86 man.

"The United States Senate has very wisely put the venerable Edward Everett Hale between itself and Divine wrath. Dr. Wiley is winning fame for Harvard in his endeavors to prevent wholesale poisoning of the people of this country.

"I have little to relate concerning myself for the last three years. Helping to build up a university in these days when there seems to be scarcely anybody honest, if large sums of money are concerned, is a very difficult job. Two years ago I visited Albany, especially to call on Stone, and found him happy and doing good work. I have seen more of Coggeshall than of any other member of the class, and I have much to thank him for. I have been a vice-president of the Washington Harvard Club, have represented this University at the meetings of the Association of American Universities, and was a member of the Reception Committee for the last Inaugural Ball. Mr. Roosevelt on his arrival addressing the committee said: 'It is the finest Inauguration that any President of these United States ever had.'"

WALTER WILLARD SIMMONS

Born February 19, 1865, at Allston, Mass.

Father's Name: Edward Miller Simmons.

Mother's Maiden Name: Louisa Maria Willard

Present Address: Home, Manchester, N. H.

Business: Stark Mills, Manchester

Present Business: Paymaster, Clerk of the Corporation

Name of Firm: Stark Mills Division Consolidated Cotton Duck Co.

'86-'87, studied at home.

'87-'89, in the Boston office of Henry W. Peabody & Company, Australian shipping merchants.

'90-'93, with the Boston Manufacturing Company at Waltham, Mass.

Since '93 has been paymaster of Stark Mills at Manchester, N. H. '06, wrote: "I have resigned as president of the Unitarian Society here, and as president of the Manchester Philharmonic Society, but I am still active in the affairs of both societies. Out-of-door life is so pleasant to me, that, when work is finished at the mill, I am off to the Country Clubs here and at Lowell for exercise.

"With trips South every year, and shorter outings around New England by automobile, I manage to enjoy and get a great deal out of country life in New Hampshire."

*JOSEPH EDWARD SINNOTT

Born April 13, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Joseph Francis Sinnott

Mother's Maiden Name: Annie Emily Rogers

Business: Journalist

Died July 21, 1892

Joseph Edward Sinnott, eldest son of Joseph Francis and Annie E. Rogers Sinnott, was born at Boston, Massachusetts, on April 13, 1864. When about a year old his parents returned to Philadelphia, and he attended Professor Roth's Academy until he was fifteen, when he went to a Jesuit College at Tullamore, Ireland. On his return he was prepared for Harvard by Henry Hobart Brown and Professor Chase, and entered at the age of eighteen. After four years he graduated with his class in 1886. He was a member of the Art Club and of the Hasty Pudding Club. During four trips abroad he saw much of Europe, and during his stay at college in Ireland he spent his vacations on the Continent with his tutor. After graduating he entered the law office of Hon. Wayne MacVeagh, but as the legal profession was not to his taste, he abandoned it after a year's trial and became a journalist. After four years in the editorial department of the "Philadelphia Times," he became assistant city editor, and this position he held until May, 1891, when his health gave out from the constant night work and a severe attack of la grippe. After some months he obtained a position in the Reading Railroad which he occupied at the time of his death, July 21, 1892. In June he revisited his Alma Mater and remained during commencement week. He was taken ill while at the Maine lakes and returned home to die a week later from a tumor on the brain. He was unmarried.

WILLIAM HENRY SLOCUM

Born December 21, 1863, at West Roxbury, Mass.
Father's Name: William Henry Slocum
Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Elizabeth Williams
Present Address: Home, Pond St., Jamaica Plain, Mass.
Business: 15 State St., Boston, Mass.
Present Business: Banking. Name of Firm: Estabrook & Co.
Marriage: Date, October 10, 1894. Place, Jamaica Plain
Maiden Name of Wife: Ellen Louise Austin

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Margaret	October 14, 1896
Ruth	November 19, 1897
Elizabeth	September 24, 1902

Ever since graduation has been with Brewster, Cobb & Estabrook, since changed to Estabrook & Co., bankers, in Boston.
Is a member of the Union and the Country Clubs.
Spends his vacations in hunting, chiefly in the South.

CLARENCE WRIGHT SMITH

Born July 25, 1865, at Greenfield, Mass.
Father's Name: Sidney Smith
Mother's Maiden Name: Emeline Fanny Wright
Present Address: Home, 276 Harvard St., Cambridge, Mass.
Business: 120 Milk St., Boston, Mass.
Present Business: Steam Engineering
Name of Firm: Sidney Smith
Degree: S.B. Mass. Inst. Tech. 1888

'86-'88, student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.
'88, went to Germany to investigate the manufacture of paper by the sulphite process.
'88-'90, chemist of the York-Haven Paper Company at York-Haven, Penn.
Since '90 has been in business in Boston, interested in a patent method of boiler setting.
Is a member of the Boston Athletic Association. Takes his amusement chiefly in bicycling.

FRANK BULKELEY SMITH

Born August 25, 1864, at Worcester, Mass.

Father's Name: Charles Worcester Smith

Mother's Maiden Name: Josephine Caroline Lord

Present Address: Home, 34 Elm St., Worcester

Business: 314 Main St., Worcester

Present Business: Law

Name of Firm: Smith, Gage & Dresser

Marriage: Date, June 5, 1890. Place, Worcester

Maiden Name of Wife: Nancy Hacker Earle

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Bulkeley	July 3, 1891
Willard	September 25, 1892
Earle	February 9, 1895
Nancy Earle	May 27, 1898
Frank Grosvenor	January 9, 1906

Degree: A.M. 1888

'86-'87, traveled in Europe.

'87-'88, in the Harvard Law School.

'88-'89, in the law office of Hopkins & Bacon, Worcester, Mass.

From '90 to 1900 was a member of the firm.

1900-'02, was in a new partnership under the name of Hopkins, Smith & Hopkins.

'02, firm changed to Smith, Gage & Dresser.

Is executor and trustee of the will of Horatio N. Slater, and treasurer of the Providence, Webster and Springfield Railroad.

'03, was appointed one of the receivers of the Norcross Company, which had on hand building contracts amounting to about $9,000,000, among them the contract for building the new Harvard Medical School.

'04, wrote: "It is a comfort, now and then, to hear from you, as you always seem to take an interest in those who are even losing interest in themselves.

"I do not know that there is anything about my life for the last three years that would in any way interest any of my classmates. I have tried to live a rational life, quietly and comfortably, and avoid any unnecessary work. My disposition as to laziness has not changed and I am hopeful as to the future."

FRANK WARREN SMITH

Born August 18, 1863, at Corry, Pa.

Father's Name : William Henry Leland Smith

Mother's Maiden Name : Esther Willard

Present Address : Los Gatos, Cal.

Present Business : Chemist

Name of Firm : California Powder Works

Degree : A.M. 1887

'86-'89, student of chemistry at Harvard.

'88, studying in Paris.

'89-'93, mainly employed on railroads in Mexico.

Since '95, employed by the California Powder Works.

WILLIAM LORD SMITH

Born February 9, 1863, at Worcester, Mass.

Father's Name : Charles Worcester Smith

Mother's Maiden Name : Josephine Caroline Lord

Present Address : 397 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business : Physician

Degree : M.D. 1892

'86-'89, student at the Harvard Medical School.

'90-'91, house officer at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

'92, studying medicine in Vienna.

'93-'98, traveling in Europe and in the East.

Since '98, practising medicine in Boston.

'02-'04, abroad, for the greater part of the time in Persia.

'04, was physician extraordinary to the Shah of Persia.

'04, wrote: "Will give you a rough sketch of where I traveled but we had better leave the tales until we meet which I hope will not be far away.

"Landed in Japan where I passed nearly a month; looked in on Port Arthur and Dalmy, over to Peking and from there up to the old Chinese wall and back; then to Corea where I was lucky in killing some of the long-haired tigers of the Peninsula.

"I was by the way anxious to make a collection of tigers from different parts of Asia, North, South, East and West and to see if there were any scientific differences to be made out in markings, anatomy, etc.

"These little shooting trips in a word were my relaxation from beaten tracks and freshened me up to attack the regular path again.

"From Corea I went to Amoy, Central China, where I killed a cave tiger, and then over to Formosa to see the most northern head hunters in the world. After Singapore came Java where another tiger was added to the list.

"Lived in the Jungle six weeks—delightful time; ran through Java — was hospitably entertained by Dutch on a tea plantation, and visited the many interesting Buddhist ruins.

"Then by boat I visited New Guinea and the adjacent islands, a delightful trip. The savages are really a semi-civilized people well worth the seeing. The Papuans in New Guinea were also head hunters. A fine race.

"Back to Java, then to Ceylon, Burmah, and through India, and finally to Persia, making my way from the Persian Gulf to the Caspian Sea ; on this journey I saw Persepolis, the tomb of Cyrus the Great, and many other interesting monuments. Perhaps the best of this Persian trip was the time passed in southern Persia with the Baktian tribes, a nomadic people, the aborigines of the country, whose wealth consists in flocks and herds, and who wander from place to place.

"Being a doctor I had exceptional advantages. Was received everywhere in a kindly way, often had a vigorous medical practice for which I had armed myself with drugs, etc., and was also allowed to visit the harems or women's apartments, and received presents of Persian rugs, tents, etc.

"Then after two months spent in shooting in the Mazanderan Jungle on the shores of the Caspian, over to Europe by Beku, to Tiflis, over the Dariel Pass through the Caucasus and so to Berlin, Paris, London and home."

ARTHUR LINCOLN SNELL

Born April 7, 1865, at Lawrence, Mass.

Father's Name : Smardus Fitson Snell

Mother's Maiden Name : Ardelia Maria Nickles

Present Address : Fitchburg, Mass.

Present Business : Clergyman

Marriage : Date, October 15, 1889. Place, Lawrence

Maiden Name of Wife : Annie Maria Clifford

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Helen Beatrice	March 5, 1891
Christine Frances	January 21, 1894
Ruth Ardelia	December 11, 1895
Arthur Lincoln, Jr.	September 16, 1903

'86-'89, studying theology at the Newton Theological Seminary.

'89-'91, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Foxboro, Mass.

Oct. 1, '91-Oct. 1, 1900, pastor of West Somerville Baptist Church, Somerville, Mass.

Since Oct., 1900, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Fitchburg, Mass.

Has been president of the Boston Conference of Baptist Ministers, and is a trustee of the Newton Theological Institution.

'05, wrote : "Well, I am at work here in Fitchburg just the same, as the minister of the First Baptist Church. Whatever positions of trust outside I hold are mainly in connection with our denomination. I am, and have been for some years, on our State Board of Directors, and am also a member of the Executive Board of our State S. S. Organization. For some years I have been a member of the Board of Trustees of the Newton Theological Institution, the New England denominational seminary, and last June was elected for another series of four years.

"Recently I have been selected as one of two delegates from our Massachusetts ministry to our National Representative Convention to be held in New York.

"However, life for me consists largely in steady, persistent working out of duties in my field here.

"On September 16, '03, a candidate for a Harvard Class in the twenties came to my home—Arthur Lincoln Snell, Jr."

ROBERT KEITH SNOW

Born August 1, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Henry Curtis Snow

Mother's Maiden Name: Lavinia Taft Kimball

Present Address: 27 Newbury St., Boston

Present Business: Editorial Writing

For some years after leaving college was in Boston doing literary work, and for a year in a stock-broker's office.

'95-'96, became one of the editors of the "Cosmopolitan" and was at Tarrytown, N. Y., and later went on the "Youth's Companion" for a few months.

Since 1900 has been writing for the stage and contributing to magazines while living in Boston.

'04, wrote: "I am still alive, in spite of being domiciled in Boston: still unmarried, in spite of the threatened tax on bachelors. As you know, I was in Europe in '01, remaining there for nearly nine months—a happy trip to Egypt, up the Nile to Assouan, and later, in the spring-time, through Italy. The summer was spent in Wiesbaden and Switzerland, ending up with Aix-les-Bains and Paris. In the winter of '01-'02 we took a house in Santa Barbara, where we had a delightful season, and in the following spring I sailed for Bremen. From there to Berlin and then a trip through the pretty Harz mountains, visiting the quaintest, most fascinating towns of Thale, Wernigerode, Hildesheim, Bad Hapsburg, and Goslar, a seven weeks' trip in all, including ten days at Lucerne, and the trip over and back. I am still writing plays or shall I say, writing still plays, for with the exception of 'Butterfly Baronet' produced successfully by the Kingdon-Courteneay Co. at Albany in the spring of '03, nothing of mine has yet tickled the ears of the dear public.

"However 'while there's life, there's hope,' and always the hope of pulling 'that nodder feller' off the top of the ladder."

'06, wrote: "Have sold 27 Newbury St., and am living at Walpole, N. H., till December. No other home yet. But 27 Newbury St. letters will always be forwarded.

I am going to live in the country eventually when I find the right place."

SHIRLEY ROBINSON SNOW

Born March 13, 1863, at Auburn, N. Y.

Father's Name: Benjamin Bradford Snow

Mother's Maiden Name: Elizabeth Robinson

Present Address: 267 Alexander St., Rochester, N. Y.

Present Business: Physician and Surgeon

Marriage: Date, June 26, 1889. Place, Cayuga, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Katharine Stevenson

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Elizabeth January 2, 1891

Jennie Warren January 27, 1892

Shirley Robinson, Jr. August 23, 1897

Degree: M.D. Columbia (Coll. Phys. and Surg.) 1889

'86-'89, student in the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York.

'89, house officer of the Presbyterian Hospital.

Since '90, practising medicine in Rochester, N. Y. Is attending surgeon to the Rochester Homeopathic Hospital.

'05, elected president of the Western New York Homeopathic Medical Society.

'05, wrote: "I have been watching for some great event to happen that I might chronicle it but it has not turned up as yet. I have been interested in seeing the notoriety of other members of the class and am more convinced than ever that '86 was and is a great class."

"My life for the past few years may be summed up in the three words—Health, Happiness and Prosperity—the greatest of which is Health."

*EDMUND NATHANIEL SNYDER

Born March 25, 1863, at St. Louis, Mo.

Father's Name: Joseph Snyder

Mother's Maiden Name: Christine Chiron

Business: Professor of Languages

Marriage: Date, July 11, 1894. Place, Cleveland, Ohio

Maiden Name of Wife: Sarah Maud Scovell

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Adèle Christine October 25, 1896.

Degree: Ph.D. Leipsic, 1890

Died October 1, 1896

Edmund Nathaniel Snyder was born March 25, 1863, at St. Louis, Missouri, and died at Denver, Colorado, of tuberculosis, October 1, 1896. When a small boy he was brought by his parents, Joseph and Christine Snyder, to Cleveland, where he thenceforward lived, except during the years he spent at Harvard and in Germany. He attended the grammar and high schools at Cleveland, and was, of course, valedictorian at graduation. At college he devoted himself especially to classical subjects, and graduated with highest honors in classics and at the head of his class. He immediately went to Germany on a Rogers Fellowship, studied there four years, and took his Ph.D. degree at Leipsic. In 1890 he returned to America and taught one year in Vassar College. During the year that followed, the University School of Cleveland was opened, and he was selected as professor of German and French. Miss Sarah M. Scovell, a Cleveland girl, was associated with him in this work, and on July 11, 1894, they were married. In March of 1896, on account of failure of health, it became necessary for him to secure a year's leave of absence. He stayed in Cleveland, however, until July, and then went alone to Denver; there for two or three months he gave evidence of considerable improvement, but toward the end of September he failed rapidly, and died suddenly, away from his family, on the first of October. Two weeks later a little daughter was born.

He was a member of the Delta Upsilon, the Iris Masonic Lodge, and the American Oriental Society. His most notable publication was "Der Commentar und die Textüberlieferung des Mahavamso," a translation of writings in the Pauli language from the original text in the British Museum.

Such is a brief account of the notable facts in Snyder's life. Meager indeed they are, and utterly fail to tell what a man he was. In the first place he was a born student, to whom persistent mental application was easy and habitual. Gifted with a marvelous memory, and with an omnivorous, insatiable appetite for learning, the career that he followed until his return from Germany seemed the natural and perhaps the inevitable one. His powers as a student are so well known that one may be excused for saying far less of them than they deserve, but he was a many-sided man, and other characteristics which many, perhaps most, of his classmates did not know, were his consideration for others, his cordiality, his good humor, and his enjoyment of outdoor life. With all his work, he kept himself in such excellent physical condition that he competed honorably in vaulting at more than one of the winter meetings. E. H. Babbitt, who knew him well, says: "He never would hurt another's feelings in any way, and in spite of his almost uncanny quickness of attainment he was essentially modest. Some may not know, too, that he was a good deal of a ladies' man, a remarkably good dancer, a good talker, and a good listener on a thousand and one subjects that interest the fair sex, and so evidently a real man behind all his unobtrusiveness that he never failed to please." Though he knew his mental strength, he was too modest in its assertion, and his reputation as an educator and scholar is less in consequence. Most of us sighed to see him spending himself on the work he did after his return. Secondary education here profited, indeed, but what a loss to higher education!

GEORGE BURBANK SOMERS

Born August 4, 1862, at San Francisco, Cal.

Father's Name: William James Somers

Mother's Maiden Name: Kate Burbank

Present Address: 2662 Vallejo St., San Francisco

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, November 8, 1900. Place, San Francisco

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary McIntyre Hooper

Children : Names,	Dates of Birth,
Stanwood Wetherbee	August 3, 1901 (d. August 28, 1901)
Burbank Hooper	May 27, 1903
George Willard	July 28, 1906
Degree: M.D. Cooper Med. Coll. (Cal.) 1888

'86-'87, in the Harvard Medical School.

'87-'88, in the Cooper Medical College, San Francisco.

'89, resident surgeon of the Southern Pacific Railroad Hospital.

Since '90, practising medicine in San Francisco.

'92-'95, was police surgeon in charge of the City Receiving Hospital

'99, spent a year abroad studying gynecology.

Since 1900 has been professor of Gynecology in Cooper Medical College.

'05, wrote: "Have been working along peacefully during the last three years, in the fond hope that there was still something for me to accomplish. But recently Dr. Osler's clarion voice has rudely awakened me to the realization that I am past 40 and therefore past the age of usefulness. This is sufficient explanation of my inability to record anything of importance for the triennial report. There are compensations however, for one's declining years, and one of them not yet recorded in the class archives is Burbank Hooper Somers, born May 27, 1903.

"Am still holding down the chair of Gynecology in Cooper Medical College. The many details of college work in my department are pleasantly shared among five or six assistants, so that I have considerable time for special work. General practice I have given up for the more interesting field of hospital and clinic work.

"Recently I had a very pleasant reminder of our Medical College days, by receiving a visit from our beloved Professor Bowditch, who was visiting the coast for the first time. He seemed but little changed though I understand that he has retired from active work."

'06, wrote: "Your note received yesterday. San Francisco is in ruins and many of us have lost everything but none of us feel crushed. Have seen no despondency, no despair. We are going to unite in a mighty effort to make the town bigger and better than ever.

"My residence happening to be on the outskirts of the city was saved. My office and all other interests were destroyed. The calamities were remarkably few. One physician of my acquaintance was killed by a falling wall but most of the other fatalities occurred in cheap lodging houses that fell at the time of the earthquake. As a matter of fact however, the earthquake was as nothing compared to the destruction wrought by fire. The extent of the disaster we ourselves can hardly realize.

"Have not seen any of the Harvard men since the fire as I have been very busy at the Army Hospitals in caring for refugees. The presence of the United States troops was a Godsend in the emergency. The army organizations in both hospital and police work straightened out matters very quickly. A tented city sprang up in a day under guidance of the troops, and a well ordered camp life began at once.

"Supplies came in abundance from all quarters and I have yet to hear of any cases not comfortably quartered and fed.

"Come out and see us in a year or so and you will not know that anything has happened."

CHARLES GERARD HAVENS STEPHENS

Born October 20, 1864, at Erie, Pa.

Father's Name: Edgar William Stephens

Mother's Maiden Name: Nancy Amelia Wildey

Present Address: 117 East 6th St., Jamestown, N. Y.

'86-'88, in the Harvard Law School.

Since '88, ill-health has prevented any active professional work.

CHARLES BROOKS STEVENS

Born October 11, 1864, at Haverhill, Mass.

Father's Name: George Stevens

Mother's Maiden Name: Harriet Lyman Brooks

Present Address: Lowell, Mass.

Present Business: Treasurer.

Name of Firm: U. S. Bunting Co.

Marriage: Date, June 17, 1896. Place, Lowell

Maiden Name of Wife: Edith Ames

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Ames	May 31, 1897
Edith	January 23, 1899
Harriet	July 19, 1900
Charles Brooks, Jr.	December 20, 1902

'86-'89, working in worsted mills, at first in Lowell, and later in North Andover.

'89-'90, in England.

'90-'93, in business in Providence, R. I.

Since '93, has been treasurer of the U. S. Bunting Company of Lowell, Mass.

GEORGE BLANCHARD STEVENS

Born April 25, 1865, at Gloucester, Mass.

Father's Name: Joseph Lowe Stevens

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline Foster

Present Address: 16 Bellevue Ave., Gloucester

Present Business: Teacher of Music

Marriage: Date, February 7, 1900. Place, Gloucester

Maiden Name of Wife: Alice Perkins Davis

'86-'92, studying music.

'92-'94, director of the Musical Department of Wells College at Aurora, N. Y.

Since '94, has been a professional musician, and given Chamber Concerts. His work has been partly in Boston, and partly in Gloucester, Mass.

WILLIAM ABBOTT STONE

Born October 16, 1860, at Bucksport, Me.

Father's Name: John Wooster Stone

Mother's Maiden Name: Abbie White White

Present Address: 35 Congress St., Boston, Mass., care of Merrill, Oldham & Co.

Present Business: Master in Mathematics and Science

Marriage: Date, September 18, 1899. Place, Melrose, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Flora Ernst

'86-'87, assistant in Physics at Harvard.

'87-'88, instructor in Mathematics and Physics at the Cambridge Latin School.

'88-'99, instructor in Physics in the Phillips Exeter Academy.

'97, wrote "Experimental Physics," published by Ginn & Co.

'99-1900, in Harvard Medical School and abroad.

1900-'06, in charge of the Mathematics and Science Courses in the Albany Academy, Albany, N. Y.

At present with Merrill, Oldham & Co. of Boston.

*PERCY HAYES TAYLOR

Born August 28, 1857, at Baltimore, Md.

Father's Name: William Way Taylor

Mother's Maiden Name: Ellen Blois Hayes

Business: Teaching and Writing

Degree: A.M. 1890

Died May 22, 1893

Percy Hayes Taylor was born in Baltimore in 1857. He was of Quaker descent, and was a nephew of Bayard Taylor. His early education was received from tutors at his home. Before going to college he traveled a year in Europe, and on his return studied two years at Johns Hopkins. Here he devoted himself mainly to the study of languages, and showed remarkable facility in their acquisition. This gift for language, a family inheritance, was demonstrated by his learning to read, write and speak Chinese. He organized the first Chinese Sunday School in Baltimore, and translated selections from the Scriptures into that language. Leaving Johns Hopkins in 1884 he entered the junior class at Harvard, and there, while keeping up his special study, took courses in music and political economy. He was a member of the Conférence Française. After graduation he began teaching as a profession, and in the next few years wrote a number of articles on methods. He tutored and had schools in Cambridge and New Haven. In 1889-90 he was again a student at Harvard, and received the A.M. degree and the Shattuck Scholarship at the end of the college year. In 1891 he taught in a private school in New York, and the following year held the chair of Greek and Latin at the Catholic College of St. Thomas Aquinas. In the spring of 1893 he became ill with typhoid fever and died of peritonitis May 22d.

CHARLES MINER THOMPSON

Born March 24, 1864, at Montpelier, Vt.

Father's Name: George Robinson Thompson

Mother's Maiden Name: Serafina Taplin

Present Address: Home, 161 Brattle St., Cambridge, Mass.

Business: "Youth's Companion," Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Associate Editor "Youth's Companion"

Name of Firm: Perry Mason Co.

Marriage : Date, April 28, 1898. Place, Cambridge, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife : Isabella Wayman Carr

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Isabella December 3, 1899

Lovell September 8, 1902

'86-'87, employed in the Vermont Mutual Fire Insurance Co.: later assisting the Hon. G. G. Benedict in preparing his work on "Vermont in the Rebellion."

'88-'93, on the "Boston Daily Advertiser," at first as a reporter, and later as literary editor.

'94 to the present time, editor of the "Youth's Companion."

JOHN MCQUAID THOMPSON

Born January 29, 1862, at Dudley, Mass.

Father's Name : William Thompson

Mother's Maiden Name : Helen McQuaid

Present Address : 134 Huntington Ave., Boston, Mass.

Present Business : Physician

Marriage : Date, April 8, 1890. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife : Therese Josephine Gorman

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Katherine Dorothy January 8, 1892

Mildred Helen March 30, 1894

Degree : M.D. 1889

'86-'89, student in the Harvard Medical School.

Since '90, practising medicine in Boston. Is a specialist in genito-urinary surgery.

Since fifteenth anniversary has contributed to the "Medical Record" (N. Y.) a paper on "Some Chronic Pathological Processes seated in the Deep Urethral Region. Involving the Male Sexual Function and Nervous System" (August 16, '02); also one on "Chronic Discharge in Organic and Functional Disorders of the Deep Urethra"; "Diagnosis and Therapy," (December 30, '05).

The following have been accepted for publication :

"A case of Prostatic Calculus with Remarks on Its Aitiology and Treatment"; "The Nargal Bougie as a Remedial Agent in Subacute and Chronic Urethritis."

June, '06, was admitted to membership in the American Medical Association.

CHARLES HITCHCOCK TYLER

Born October 11, 1863, at Cambridge, Mass.

Father's Name: Joseph How Tyler

Mother's Maiden Name: Abby Little Hitchcock

Present Address: Home, 83 Bay State Road, Boston, Mass.

Business: 77 Ames Bldg., Boston

Present Business: Law

Degree: LL.B. Boston University, 1889

'86-'89, student in the Boston University Law School.

'90 to the present time, practising law in Boston.

Has been lecturer on the Law of Landlord and Tenant at the Boston University School of Law.

*FRANK HAMILTON UNDERWOOD

Born April 6, 1863, at Milford, Mass.

Father's Name: George Dwight Underwood

Mother's Maiden Name: Faustina Aurena Gove

Business: Teaching

Marriage: Date, November 22, 1892. Place, Buffalo

Maiden Name of Wife: Fanny Harriet Ball

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Harold Ball	May 11, 1894
Florence	September 23, 1895
Orison	November 25, 1896
Guernsey	April 1, 1898 (d. May 24, 1902)
Margaret	June 21, 1899
Dwight	March 17, 1905

Degree: A.M. 1888

Died April 3, 1906

Frank Hamilton Underwood was born at Milford, Mass., April 6, 1863, and died of consumption, at Buffalo, N.Y., April 3, 1906. Entering Harvard with '86 he followed the life of a quiet, hard student and devoted much of his time to mathematics in which he took second-year and final honors. During the year after graduation he taught in a private school at Brickfield, Conn., and the following year returned to Harvard for a post-graduate course and took the A.M. degree in 1888. His subsequent life was devoted entirely to teaching in Buffalo. For about ten years he was connected with the Heathcote School and then founded the Underwood School which grew under his care until his death.

While a hard worker, he was interested in botany, whist and chess in college days and these interests he kept up to the end. In Buffalo he was a member of the Buffalo Chess and Checker Club and had considerable reputation there for success in meeting several opponents in simultaneous chess.

In November, 1892, he married Fanny Harriet Ball and had six children.

AUGUSTUS HUGO VOGEL

Born December 16, 1862, at Milwaukee, Wis.

Father's Name: Frederick Vogel

Mother's Maiden Name: Augusta Herpich

Present Address: 2629 Clybourn St., Milwaukee

Present Business: Leather

Name of Firm: Pfister & Vogel Leather Co.

Marriage: Date, February 16, 1892. Place, Milwaukee

Maiden Name of Wife: Anita Hansen

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Augustus Hansen	January 5, 1893
-----------------	-----------------

Theodore Frederick	November 23, 1895
--------------------	-------------------

Hugo Corte Real	January 18, 1897
-----------------	------------------

Rudolph Emerson	April 30, 1899
-----------------	----------------

Elizabeth Anita	November 9, 1902
-----------------	------------------

Ever since graduation has been vice president and secretary of the Pfister & Vogel Leather Company, Milwaukee, Wis.

Has been president of the University Club in Milwaukee; president of Voter's League in Milwaukee; president of Wisconsin College of Physicians and Surgeons.

Has written a number of articles on the Tariff question, especially as related to free hides.

CAMILLO VON KLENZE

Born March 22, 1865, at Freiburg, Switzerland

Father's Name: Eugene von Klenze

Mother's Maiden Name: Clara Anders

Present Address: Brown University, Providence, R. I.

Present Business: Professor of German Literature

Marriage: Date, June 18, 1906. Place, Chicago

Maiden Name of Wife: Henrietta Becker

Degree: Ph.D. Marburg, 1890

'86-'89, studying in Berlin.

'90-'93, instructor in German at Cornell.

'93-'06, taught in the Chicago University, and since '96 was assistant professor of German Literature there.

'06, appointed professor of German at Brown University.

'05, wrote: "I have published a goodly number of reviews and articles in American and German periodicals. In '02 I wrote 'The Interpretation of Nature in the Works of Nikolaus Lenau.' I am one of the editors of 'Modern Philology,' a quarterly devoted to the scientific study of modern languages and literatures."

HUGH CAMPBELL WARD

Born March 10, 1863, at Kansas City, Mo.

Father's Name: Seth Edmund Ward

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Frances Harris

Present Address: Home, 52 Summit St., Kansas City

Business, Commerce Bldg., Kansas City

Present Business: Law

Name of Firm: Ward, Hadley & Neel

Marriage: Date, October 26, 1898. Place, Kansas City

Maiden Name of Wife: Vassie James

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Hugh Campbell	September 26, 1899
---------------	--------------------

James Crawford	May 5, 1901
----------------	-------------

Frances	September 8, 1903
---------	-------------------

Degrees: A. M. Wm. Jewell (Mo.); LL.B. Washington (Mo.), 1888.

'86-'88, studying law in the St. Louis Law School.

Since '88, has been practising law in Kansas City, Mo.

Has been a member of the House of Representatives of the Missouri Legislature, and in '98 was appointed Police Commissioner of Kansas City.

'94-'98, was receiver of the Mastin Estate, valued at $3,000,000.

'97-1900, was appointed trustee of the assets of the Metropolitan National Bank of Kansas City.

'06, attorney for Kansas City Home Telephone Company, Commerce Trust Company, Kansas City Mexico & Orient Ry. and other corporations.

JOHN BELL WASHBURN

Born September 28, 1865, at Marysville, Cal.

Father's Name: John Washburn

Mother's Maiden Name: Elizabeth Ann Freeth

Present Address: Plymouth, Mass.

Present Business: Register of Deeds, Plymouth County

Marriage: Date, September 27, 1890. Place, Plymouth

Maiden Name of Wife: Annie Rice Churchill

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Martha Seaver December 5, 1891

John Mason January 14, 1900

Since graduation has been living in Plymouth, Mass.; since '87 employed in the County Registry of Deeds, of which he has been register since July 1, '01.

WALTER BOWEN WATERMAN

Born December 29, 1864, at Roxbury, Mass.

Father's Name: Dependence Sturtevant Waterman

Mother's Maiden Name: Georgiana Howard

Present Address: 41 Waumbeck St., Roxbury

Present Business: Private Tutoring

Degrees: S.T.B. and A.M. 1891

'86-'88, studying in Europe, especially in Berlin.

'88-'91, studying in the Harvard Divinity School.

Since '91, has been studying and teaching.

'01-'04, teaching in the Stone School in Boston.

In the fall of '04 opened an office for private tutoring in Boston.

WILLIAM GRANT WEBSTER

Born February 24, 1860, at Kingston, Ill.

Father's Name: Calvary Morris Webster

Mother's Maiden Name: Ann Catherine Parker

Present Address: 1540 17th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

Present Business: Law

Degree: L.L.M. Columbian, (D. C.) 1888

'86-'87, law student in the office of P. S. Webster, Dubuque, Iowa; and editorial writer on Dubuque Daily Times.

'87-'88, studying law in the Columbian University, Washington, D. C., and holding a position in the Bureau of Labor, Washington, "To be accurate, I was appointed in August, '87, to a position in the 'Bureau of Labor, Interior Department.'" This continued to be the Bureau of Labor until June 13, '88, when it became, by Act of Congress, the "Department of Labor," an independent department, whose head, called "Commissioner of Labor," was not, however, a member of the President's Cabinet. (Late in '03 or early in '04, the "Department of Commerce and Labor" was organized, whose head was and is a member of the Cabinet, Secretary of Commerce and Labor). He continued with the Department of Labor until June, '89, when he was transferred to the Interior Department.

'88, admitted to District of Columbia bar.

'93, admitted to United States Supreme Court bar.

'88-'93, in the United States Civil Service, Interior Department.

'93, practising law in the office of the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln of Chicago.

'94-'95, practising law in Chicago.

'96, resided in Washington, D. C.

'97, organized Cleveland Law School and was for one year president and dean.

'98, organized the Rhode Island Law School at Providence, R. I., and was for three years president and dean.

'99, organized the John Marshall Law School of Chicago, and became dean.

The John Marshall Law School was transferred to E. T. Lee, '86, and Webster continued as dean of the Rhode Island Law School.

'05, wrote: "In the early summer of '02 my name was presented to the republican convention of the 3rd congressional district of Chicago, and I was voted for on six ballots and until one of my rivals was nominated. He was subsequently elected. Later in the same summer I made another trip to Europe, traveling as far as Vienna. I toured Germany and Austria principally, but visited also parts of Belgium and England that I had not seen before. I visited nearly all the famous art galleries and universities on the continent, and I was struck with the insignificance of the latter in comparison with American universities of standing so far at least as concerns their buildings and grounds."

GEORGE MARSTON WEED

Born September 14, 1864, at Bangor, Me.

Father's Name: Alonzo Shaw Weed

Mother's Maiden Name: Esther Ann Marston

Present Address: Home, 19 Bennington St., Newton, Mass.

Business: 113 Devonshire St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, July 18, 1903. Place, Newton, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Lilla Atwater Calhoun, née Atwater

Degree: LL.B. Boston Univ., 1889

'86-'89, student of the Boston University Law School.

'90 to the present time, practising law in Boston.

'90-'93, was in the Common Council of Newton.

1900, Master in Chancery for Middlesex County.

Is a member of the American Alpine Club and was in the Canadian Rockies in '98, and in '02 and '04.

GEORGE STANDISH WEED

Born February 13, 1862, at Plattsburg, N. Y.

Father's Name: Smith Mead Weed

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline Leslie Standish

Present Address: Clinton St., Plattsburg.

Present Business: Law

Name of Firm: Weed, Conway & Cotter

Marriage: Date, May 20, 1891. Place, Plattsburg

Maiden Name of Wife: Frances Henrietta Ross

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Caroline Standish April 28, 1893

Catryna Ten Broeck December 8, 1897

Since graduation has been practising law in the firm of Weed, Smith and Conway, Plattsburg.

'86-'88, member of the Assembly.

'90, Judge of Clinton County.

'93, was appointed Collector of Customs for the District of Champlain, N. Y.

FREDERIC COFFIN WELD

Born September, 12, 1864, at Jamaica Plain, West Roxbury, Mass.

Father's Name: Aaron Davis Weld

Mother's Maiden Name: Anne Warren Coffin

Present Address: Littleton, Mass.

Present Business: Chemist

Name of Firm: Avery Chemical Co.

Marriage: Date, June 19, 1902. Place, Lowell, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Margaret Jessie Chase

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Helen

February 27, 1904

'86-'87, student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology

'87-'89, student in Göttingen, Germany.

'89-'90, Magnolia Plantation, Lawrence, La.

'90-'91, Ingenio Toledad Guantanamo, Cuba.

'91-'92, Ran an analytical laboratory, Savannah, Ga.

'92-'93, American Glucose Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

'93-'94, Caffrey Central Sugar Refining and R. R. Co., Ltd.,

Franklin, La.

'94-'97, Merrimac Mfg. Co., Lowell, Mass.

'97-'99, No steady employment.

'99-'05, Avery Chemical Co., Littleton, Mass.

'05, and at present, Lowell Bleachery, Lowell, Mass.

In every case served as chemist.

'05, wrote: "In spite of the fact that the last three years have been of more importance to me than any previous period of a like length, I have very little material beyond statistics.

"During the winter of '01-'02 I bought about seven acres of 'sprout' land in this town and early in the spring of '02 broke ground for a house.

"June 19, '02, I took to wife Margaret Jessie Chase, of Lowell, and after spending a summer, which, owing to delays in building, extended through October, in Concord, Mass., we moved to Littleton, where we now live.

"I still hold a position as chemist of the Avery Chemical Co., and am one of the directors of said company.

"Of course my chief interest in life is the baby, but you can hardly expect me to lay my callow enthusiasms before a gang of men, some of whom, to judge by past reports, must have quit naming and taken to numbering their offspring.

"My chief amusement has been an endeavor to produce on my little farm, a decent front lawn, a profitable vegetable garden and a successful flock of hens. As yet I have not been so successful as to feel that I can lay down my hoe and rest on my laurels nor on the other hand have I failed.

"My books, if I kept any, would show no profits and no losses.

"To sum myself up, I may say that if Pastor Wagner describes 'The Simple Life,' as being different from mine he does n't know his business."

*STILES GANNETT WELLS¹

Born December 7, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Samuel Wells

Mother's Maiden Name: Catherine Boott Gannett

Business: Law

Died February 18, 1907

On December 7, 1864, at No. 10 Boylston Place, Boston, was born to Samuel Wells and Catherine Boott Gannett, his wife, a son, their first-born. The boy was christened, in honor of his maternal grandfather, Stiles Gannett Wells. He grew as boys grow; was fitted for college at the Boston Latin School and at the William Nichols private school; and entered Harvard in the class of '86. While in college he distinguished himself in athletics, winning the 440 yards at the intercollegiate meets of 1886, 1887, and 1888. After graduation he was for two years at the Harvard Law School, and then entered the law firm of Bangs and Wells, in which his father was a partner. Here he quickly came to hold an important place, the more that his father broke down in health, so that to a large extent the responsibility came upon his shoulders. After the death of his father in 1903, his work went on under circumstances peculiarly trying. The testimony which is borne by many of the ablest and most upright men in Boston to the integrity, the ability, and the courage with which Gannett Wells handled the business would in itself, constitute a nobler epitaph than it is the good fortune of most men to deserve. He was twice abroad; first in 1899, and second in 1904. On the latter trip he was so-called "graduate advisor" of the Harvard men when the Harvard-Yale team went over to meet Oxford and Cambridge. The last years of his life were darkened by ill health and by business complications for which he was not responsible; and both he met with unfailing intrepidity and manliness. He made a gallant fight for life, and he handled the exacting and perplexing worries of business with unflinching courage and inflexible integrity. Not a little of the strength which he needed for his fight against disease he knowingly used for the protection of clients whose trust seemed to him to give them claims of greater weight than his own instinct to spare himself. He died of acute pneumonia, February 18, 1907.

¹ A memorial sketch by Professor Arlo Bates of the Massachusetts Institute, written for a private purpose, and here printed, through his kindness, with some omissions.

A memorial sketch in this place surely need not be either formal or elaborately biographical. Chiefly should it be concerned with those traits of character in the man commemorated which have directly affected his relations with his fellows. At the same time the human interest in all that throws light on the growth and development of a human being tempts us to touch at least upon whatever may make clear the origin whence those traits of character may have sprung. Without meaning to go too deeply into vexed questions of heredity and of mental inheritance, I cannot help commenting a little upon the ancestral traits which seem to have left in his personality records so deeply graven. I hardly feel that I should be exaggerating if I should say that we knew not only Gannett Wells, but in some sort also his Puritan forebears.

A number of marked New England strains were united in his blood. Among the ancestors on the father's side were Governor Wells, of Maine, and the old Appleton stock. President Ezra Stiles, of Yale, was his maternal great-great-grandfather; while his maternal grandfather was the Rev. Ezra Stiles Gannett, one of the most distinguished Unitarian divines of his day. Dr. Gannett was Unitarian at a time when Unitarianism preserved much of the stern spirit of Puritanism; when, indeed, it was in a way more severe than early Puritanism, in that it demanded of man that by his own power he produce the miracle of personal perfection which in Calvinism is held to be possible only by the direct grace of God. Dr. Gannett, spiritual, sternly upright, almost unhumanly unselfish, was of the household in the days of Gannett's childhood, and his personal influence was added to the tendencies of heredity. A child whose very cradle has been rocked according to a law of conscience must bear the marks of such a Puritan influence through life. Moral indifference must be forever impossible; and perhaps equally impossible would be perfect freedom from self-consciousness.

The temper of the boy is illustrated by an incident which happened when he was eight. The poet Longfellow came to the house, and the lad was presented to him. "Mr. Longfellow," said Gannett, "I had to recite one of your poems at school yesterday, but I did not like it." The New England conscience is not unlikely to beget a feeling that honesty is to be fearlessly followed, even if the social conventions get somewhat damaged in the process.

With the New England heritage, with such a lineage and such traditions, with a childhood so influenced, the boy grew to youth, and through a youth softened by warm home love but surrounded by a moral atmosphere which to a child of modern times must have seemed somewhat cold, developed into the man we knew. He was of an uprightness so complete as to be practically instinctive; of an integrity so high and fine that it might almost seem to have been handed down from sterner days and times morally more heroic. With it went a self-tormenting doubt, as a shadow may lurk behind the noblest monument. No soul ever lived more loyal to his friends; but to himself he could be pitiless with the self-cruelty of an early ascetic plying the scourge upon his own shoulders. Sometimes a manner purposely made uncouth was meant to conceal feeling, but no one could ever doubt the tenderness of his heart, as no one could possibly fail to feel his flawless honesty. Those who knew him best, loved him best; and we look back upon his life with the assurance that the implacable balance of Death's accounting richly justifies our respect and our friendship. The fact which in our remembrance of him stands out most strongly is that whatever limitations he shared with all humanity, Gannett Wells had in an unusual degree that fine and noble quality which is perhaps most fully expressed in the single high word—CHARACTER.

ROBERT DICKSON WESTON

Born May 8, 1864, at Newton, Mass.

Father's Name: Robert Dickson Smith

Mother's Maiden Name: Paulina Cony Weston

Present Address: Home, 6 Fayerweather St., Cambridge, Mass.

Business: 70 State St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Law

Name of Firm: Davis, Weston & Walcott.

Marriage: Date, October 4, 1888. Place, Cambridge

Maiden Name of Wife: Anstiss Walcott

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Robert	December 21, 1889
Charles	September 25, 1891
Melville	December 22, 1893
Anstiss	March 27, 1895

'86-'88, in the Harvard Law School and student in his father's law office.

Since '88 has been practising law in Boston. Of late years he has sat frequently as auditor and as master by agreement of partner.

Summer of '86, he assumed the additional surname of Weston. October 1, '06, name was changed from Weston-Smith to Weston.

1900-'06, was in partnership in the firm of Weston, Walcott, Peabody & Brown.

October 1, '06, firm was changed to Davis, Weston & Walcott.

Since '03 has been a member of the Council of the Bar Association of the city of Boston, and is a trustee of the Social Law Library, and a director of the Legal Aid Society.

Is a member of the Union Club, of the Oakley Country Club, of the Manchester Yacht Club, of the Massachusetts Colonial Society, of the New England Historic Genealogical Society, and is a craftsman-member of the Society of Arts and Crafts.

CHARLES NATHAN BROOKS WHEELER

Born August 23, 1865, at Leominster, Mass.

Father's Name: Charles Augustus Wheeler

Mother's Maiden Name: Christine Nancy Hersey

Present Address: Home, 117 Mackubin St., St. Paul, Minn.

Business, 25 N. Dale St., St. Paul

Present Business: Teaching

Name of Firm: St. Paul Academy

Marriage: Date, September 10, 1891. Place, Duxbury, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Etta Eldredge Bartlett

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Christine September 6, 1893

'86, teaching in Hubbardston, Mass.

'87, in the Boston office of the Union Pacific Railroad Company

'87-'90, instructor in languages in the Powder Point School at Duxbury, Mass.

'91-'92, instructor of German at Bowdoin College

'92-1900, principal of the Barnard School for Boys in St. Paul, Minn.

Since 1900, principal of St. Paul Academy at St. Paul

'05, wrote: "I always make it a point to answer your triennial appeal, not that I have anything in particular to say, but because I have a feeling that it may not be the easiest job in the world to extract any information from a lot of more or less busy men scattered all over the civilized world.

"As for what you term the 'necessary statistics' I am not sure that I remember just what they are, but I 'll do the best I can. I have n't died, am still married, have n't had any more children. It may or may not be an item of interest that I 've lost enough hair to be eligible to the 'bald-headed row.' I have n't written any books, made any speeches, held any offices nor received any degrees, nor am I in any danger of doing any of these things.

"I am happy to say that my school has prospered. Last year we were able to erect a school building of our own, a very comfortable brick and stone structure situated in the best part of the town. The number of boys we send to college increases all the time; next fall we shall send twenty, the majority, alas, to Yale, only two to Harvard. In time we hope to do better than that.

"I don't think of anything further that I have done. Now Sedgwick has accomplished a great deal. He has built a fine church, about doubled his congregation, has done and is still doing a vast amount of good work such as is possible only to an earnest, hard-working clergyman. He is very much beloved here and I can only hope that he will continue to stay with us indefinitely; we need such a man."

GEORGE RANTOUL WHITE

Born September 17, 1864, at Needham (now Wellesley), Mass.

Father's Name: George White

Mother's Maiden Name: Frances Mary Edwena Noyes

Present Address: Rock Ridge Hall, Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Present Business: Principal, Rock Ridge School

Marriage: Date, September 12, 1899. Place, Wellesley Hills

Maiden Name of Wife: Irma May Clapp

Degrees: A. M. 1887; Ph.D. (Chem.) 1896

'86-'89, assistant in Organic Chemistry at Harvard.

'90-'98, instructor in Chemistry at Exeter.

'99-1900, in Europe.

Since 1900 has been principal of Rock Ridge School, a new school or boys at Wellesley Hills, Mass.

CROSBY CHURCH WHITMAN

Born March 23, 1863, at Benicia, Cal.

Father's Name: Bernard Crosby Whitman

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Elizabeth Church

Present Address: 20 rue de Lubeck, Paris, France

Present Business: Physician

Degrees: M.D., Univ. Paris, 1894; M.D., Columbian (Wash., D.C.) 1896.

'86-'95, studying medicine in France and Germany.

'95-'97, was Dr. Osler's assistant at Johns Hopkins, Baltimore.

Since '01, medical director in charge of the Paris Office of the Equitable Life Insurance Company, and engaged in private practice.

HUBERT GRANVILLE WILBUR

Born December 18, 1859, at Pembroke, Me.

Father's Name: Benjamin Wilbur

Mother's Maiden Name: Ruth Wilbur

Present Address: 292 No. Main St., Fall River, Mass.

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, November 24, 1891. Place: Boston, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Evangeline Susan Ward

Children: Names,

Dates of Birth,

Hubert Ray

April 20, 1893

John Cotter

March 1, 1896

Degree: M.D., 1890

'86-'89, student at the Harvard Medical School.

'89-'90, house officer of the Boston City Hospital.

Since '90, practising medicine in Fall River, and has been surgeon of the Union Hospital since '96, and surgeon of St. Ann's Hospital since '05.

During '99-1900, practised medicine in Denver, Colo., on account of his wife's health, and while there was assistant instructor in Clinical Medicine at the Denver University Medical School.

Is a member of the American Medical Association; Boston Society of Psychiatry and Neurology; and the Fall River Medical Society.

Has published: "Medical Treatment of Gastric Ulcer," read at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Medical Society, June 9, '03, and "Preventive Medicine," read at the South Bristol Massachusetts Medical Society, '95.

'05, wrote: "It might be interesting to know that, having run a gasolene car for the past two years, I have recently changed to a steam carriage. I find the new auto much more efficient in my practice. It has more speed and will take the hills much more quickly. It is more convenient, since all the bother in cranking is saved. It does not vibrate and does not make so much noise. It has more power than the gasolene machine, is lighter and therefore does not wear on the tires so much. The expense for repairs is much less, since there are no chains, sprockets, transmission gears to break and get out of adjustment and no sparking device to go lame. The engine is geared directly to the axle and the speed whether slow or fast is regulated by the one throttle-valve. To be sure, the Stanley has its drawbacks; one must watch the steam pressure and the water gauge; but these require only a second's time and after a week's practice they require no attention and running the car is a pleasure. It requires only ten minutes to get up steam in the morning and the pilot-light does the work for the rest of the day.

"As for what has happened during the past three years I am still practising medicine and incidentally doing all the surgical work I can get. I invade the domain of the throat specialist by cutting out tonsils and adenoids. I also do ear and eye work when not too complicated. I take whatever of surgical work I can from the surgeon specialist, and whatever of pelvic surgery seems to offer a fair prospect of easy solution from the gynecologist.

"I play golf as often as is consistent with my professional work. I often wonder if any of the members of '86 feel themselves growing old. I am aware that 18 holes at golf is quite enough exercise for me now, whereas twenty years ago I could have played 36 holes or played all day on occasion, as I used to play tennis, without getting tired at all."

*CHARLES ABBOT WILSON

Born November 15, 1865, at Washington, D. C.

Father's Name: Nathaniel Wilson

Mother's Maiden Name: Annie Edwards Hutton

Business: Law

Died August 28, 1888

Charles Abbot Wilson, the eldest son of Nathaniel and Annie Edwards (Hutton) Wilson was born in Washington, D. C., November 15, 1865.

He was prepared for college at Emerson Institute, Washington, D. C., by Professor Charles B. Young. Upon his graduation from the Institute in June, 1882, he had the valedictory and the medal for highest scholarship.

This excellent scholarship Wilson maintained while in College. He had great reserved powers which were called forth in his senior year. He had been ill during most of the junior year and was obliged to absent himself from college. All this lost time he made up in his senior year, and graduated, with credit, with his class.

He entered the Harvard Law School in the Autumn of 1886 and remained there until June, 1887. From that time until November, 1887, he was in the office of his father, Nathaniel Wilson, in Washington.

Early in November, 1887, he went abroad with friends and travelled through England, France and Spain, and along the Mediterranean to Constantinople. He went thence to Venice and Rome, where he passed some time with his classmate Charles Lamb. He returned home in May, 1888. Intending to resume his studies at the Law School in October, he again entered his father's office where he continued at work until August, when he joined his family at York Harbor, Maine. On his arrival there he was attacked by malarial fever, from which he seemed recovering, but died suddenly on the morning of August 29, 1888, from embolism.

Wilson was of a particularly happy disposition and was never known to be gloomy. He was popular among all his fellows at college and he especially endeared himself to the members of his society, the Pi Eta. In his death his class had a great loss.

W. G. W.

WILLIAM REYNOLDS WILSON

Born October 31, 1863, at Philadelphia, Pa.

Father's Name: Ellwood Wilson

Mother's Maiden Name: Hannah Paul Shallcross

Present Address: 1709 Spruce St., Philadelphia

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, June 10, 1896. Place, Chillicothe, Ohio

Maiden Name of Wife: Ida Wyeth Smith

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Charles Grenville	September 28, 1897
James Cornelius II	May 27, 1899
William Reynolds, Jr.	May 27, 1899
Henrietta McDonald	June 26, 1901

Degree: M.D., Jefferson Med. Coll., 1888

'86-'88, student at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

'89-'90, house officer in the Philadelphia Hospital.

'90-'91, studying abroad at Munich.

Since '91, has been practising medicine in Philadelphia.

Visiting physician to Philadelphia Lying-in Charity.

'05, wrote: "I am waiting for the dinner next year to tell what I think of things in general. I have four children and I am prospering to the extent of being not quite able to pay all my bills, which is as much as any one of us may expect I suppose."

IRVAH LESTER WINTER

Born December 26, 1857, at New Braintree, Mass.

Father's Name: Roland Winter

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Elizabeth Crawford

Present Address: Home, Hubbard Park, Cambridge, Mass.

Business: Harvard University

Present Business: Teaching

Marriage: Date, April 28, 1906. Place, Baltimore, Md.

Maiden Name of Wife: Rebecca Fenton Clark

'86-'98, instructor in History and English Literature at the Michigan Military Academy, Orchard Lake, Michigan.

'98-'99, head master of the Kenyon Military Academy, Gambier, Ohio.

'99-'03, instructor in Elocution at Harvard.

Since '03, assistant professor in charge of Department of Public Speaking at Harvard.

'05, wrote: "This year I am on leave of absence from my duties at the University, and am taking a trip across the Continent, stopping at places of interest on the way. In the spring I shall probably return East and take a trip to Europe for the summer."

GRENVILLE LINDALL WINTHROP

Born February 11, 1864, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: Robert Winthrop

Mother's Maiden Name: Kate Wilson Taylor

Present Address: Home, Lenox, Mass.

Business: 40 Wall St., New York

Marriage: Date, June 2, 1892. Place, Yonkers, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Tallmadge Trevor (d. Dec. 1, 1900)

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Emily	March 10, 1893
Kate	December 9, 1899

Degree: LL. B. 1889

'86-'88, student in the Harvard Law School.

'88-'91, student in the law office of John E. Parsons, New York.

'91-'96, member of the law firm Ludlow, Phillips & Winthrop.

At present not practising.

GEORGE WHITTEMORE WOODBURY

Born June 26, 1865, at Gloucester, Mass.

Father's Name: David Elwell Woodbury

Mother's Maiden Name: Susan Mansfield Whittemore

Present Address: Home, Gloucester

Business, 3 Winthrop Sq., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Mercantile Agency

Name of Firm: R. G. Dun Mercantile Agency

'86-'89, in the headquarters of the Union Pacific Railroad Company—the first year in Boston, and later in Omaha and Columbus, Neb.

'90-'93, with the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Company in Lincoln, Neb.

'94-'95, with the Griswold Seed Company, Lincoln, Neb.

Since '95, has been with the R. G. Dun Mercantile Agency in Boston.

GORDON WOODBURY

Born September 17, 1863, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: Freeman Woodbury

Mother's Maiden Name: Harriet Ann McGaw

Present Address: 48 Hanover St., Manchester, N. H.

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, April 18, 1894. Place, Methuen, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Charlotte Eliza Woodbury

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Martha Riddle	July 19, 1895 (d. January 27, 1896)
Eliza Gordon	August 9, 1897
Peter	October 24, 1899
George	May 28, 1903
Margaret Orr, Jr.	January 19, 1905 (d. January 20, 1905)

Degrees: A.M. and LL.B. Columbia 1888

'86-'88, in the Columbia Law School, New York.

'88-'89, managing clerk for the firm of Miller, Peckham & Dixon of New York.

Since '90, practising law in Manchester, N. H.

During '06, was for a few months one of the editors of the "New York Journal." Later went on the "Boston Herald."

Has been representative to the General Court of New Hampshire, and from '95 to '06, managed a newspaper there. During this time he also engaged extensively in farming.

'05, wrote: "You ask what has happened to me within the past three years worthy of publication, and the answer is very easy—nothing. What could happen to the editor of a country newspaper worthy of publication, within three years or thirty-three for that matter?

"At times life has seemed monotonous, void of incident, tame. But as I grow older I find that most of the men of my age complain of the same experience. Perhaps as all of us get along toward middle age the characteristic is steady, even monotonous work with but little left of the exhilarating novelty that once seemed to color life every day. At any rate the past three years have been years of much reading, some writing for my newspaper, much attention to the management of a large farm which being in New Hampshire naturally inspires the enthusiast to raise but one rock where two grew before. One boy has been added to my family within these three years. He had a sister born last month but she lived only a day, and so my family consists of two boys and a girl. You speak of publications made. I have not yet been guilty although there is something in my newspaper from my pen almost every day. You speak of travels. I have made none, not even to Cambridge, and so in the hope that some of the boys have had more eventful and exciting lives to record than mine, I wait with much interest to see their 'returns' in order to follow where they lead."

'06, wrote: "I was a delegate to the Democratic National Convention of 1896, bolted it together with all the others from my state, assisted in organizing the so-called Gold Democratic movement and was delegate to its convention at Indianapolis in '96. Was also a member of its National Executive Committee. Was a member of the New Hampshire Constitutional Convention of '01 and am a trustee of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts. In November '06, I sold the Manchester Union which I had owned for ten years and am now to be classed as a farmer, pure and simple.

"Have been fairly successful in various enterprises in which I have been engaged but feel more interested in agriculture and in special editorial work than in anything else."

EDWARD CLARENCE WRIGHT

Born October 16, 1863, at Cambridge, Mass.

Father's Name: William Wright

Mother's Maiden Name: Ellen Bruman

Present Address: Home, 2828 Campbell St., Kansas City, Mo.

Business, 309 Fidelity Bldg., Kansas City

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, June 16, 1891. Place, Kansas City

Maiden Name of Wife: Annie Glines Porter

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Edward Clarence	October 14, 1892
-----------------	------------------

Ellen	December 6, 1893 (d. December 4, 1905)
-------	--

Chandler Porter	November 15, 1895
-----------------	-------------------

William	May 21, 1898
---------	--------------

Porter	April 1, 1905
--------	---------------

Degree: LL.B. 1889

'86-'89, in the Harvard Law School.

Since '90 has been practising law in Kansas City. Is devoting all his time to real estate and corporation law.

TEMPORARY MEMBERS

PAUL ALLEN

Born September 4, 1863, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: Timothy Field Allen

Mother's Maiden Name: Julia Bissell

Present Address: 3 East 48th St., New York

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, June 5, 1889. Place, Baltimore, Md.

Maiden Name of Wife: Martha Rankin Duvall

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Duvall February 2, 1895

Paul September 10, 1899

Degree: M.D. Homeop. Med Coll. (N. Y.) 1889

'84-'85, student at the Johns Hopkins University Medical School.

'86-'89, student at the New York Homeopathic Medical College.

Since '89, has been practising medicine in New York City, and has been lecturer on Toxicology and Pharmaceutics, and more recently adjunct to the Chair of Materia Medica at the New York Homeopathic Hospital.

Was assistant surgeon at the New York Ophthalmic Hospital for nine years.

Since '03, professor and head of Department of Materia Medica, New York Homeopathic College and Hospital; visiting physician, Flower Hospital; and consulting physician, Out-Door Department, Flower Hospital.

CHARLES SUMNER BALCOMB

Born November 8, 1862, at Salem, Mass.

Father's Name: Henry Watkey Balcomb

Mother's Maiden Name: Elizabeth Jane Sanborn

Present Address : 8 Ocean Ave., Salem

Present Business : Assistant on General Records in Electrical Department of the Boston Elevated R. R. Co.

'88, taught in Williamsburg Academy in Kentucky mountains.

'89, catalogued Lawson-McGhee Library in Knoxville, Tenn.

'90-'93, draughtsman in the civil engineering and motive power departments of E. T. V. & G. R. R. now part of Southern Railway System.

'94, Boston & Maine R. R. civil engineering department (draughtsman).

'95-'97, draughtsman, Rice & Evans, Civil & Hydraulic Engineers, Boston.

'98 to present time, with Boston Elevated R. R., in the civil engineering, wires and conduits electrical department.

*JOHN WHEELER BEMIS

Born September 21, 1863, at Charlestown, Mass.

Father's Name: Jonathan Wheeler Bemis

Mother's Maiden Name: Lucy Coolidge Wyeth

Business : Architect

Marriage : Date, June 1893. Place, Weston, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife : Leslie Fisher

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Leonora December 14, 1894

George Fisher April 17, 1899

Died November 25, 1902

His early education was received in the Cambridge public schools. In college he was especially interested in football, playing quarter-back on the University Eleven in his senior year. He took his A.B. degree in 1885. Until 1891 he studied architecture with Allen & Kenway, in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, with Hartwell & Richardson in this country, and at the École des Beaux Arts in Paris.

On his return he practised his profession in Boston. His health first broke down in 1891-'92, but during 1893-'95 he was assistant instructor in the department of architecture at Harvard. He was obliged to give up work in 1900 when he went South, and later to the Sanitarium at Liberty, N. Y., but during the year preceding his death he lived in Weston, Mass.

OLIVER WILLIAM BIRD

Born December 22, 1862, at New York City

Father's Name: Oliver William Bird

Mother's Maiden Name: Clara Raphaella Fellows

Present Address: 50 Fulton Ave., Hempstead, Long Island, N. Y.

Present Business: Real Estate

Name of Firm: Pease & Elliman

Marriage: Date, February 6, 1889. Place, New York City

Maiden Name of Wife: Clara Sutton Gautier

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Oliver William, Jr.	November 20, 1889
Claire	February 24, 1892
Dudley Gautier	July 14, 1896
Marie Louise	June 20, 1901

Since leaving college has been living a country life, hunting, playing polo and generally enjoying himself. He is a member of the Knickerbocker, Racquet and Tennis, Turf and Field, Meadowbrook (Long Island) and the Metropolitan (Washington) clubs.

HARRISON GRAY BLAKE

Born January 26, 1864, at Woburn, Mass.

Father's Name: Ebenezer Norton Blake

Mother's Maiden Name: Harriet Cummings

Present Address: 512 Main St., Woburn

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, February 19, 1890. Place, Woburn

Maiden Name of Wife: Lizzie Batchelder Dodge

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Dorothy	April 4, 1891
Margery	January 1, 1893
Harrison Gray, Jr.	February 21, 1901
Clarence Dodge	January 17, 1904

Degree: M.D. 1888

'85-'88, student at the Harvard Medical School.

Since '88, has been practising medicine in Woburn, Mass. Is medical examiner for the 4th Middlesex district of Massachusetts.

Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society and the Massachusetts Medico-Legal Society.

GAMALIEL BRADFORD, JR.

Born October 9, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Gamaliel Bradford

Mother's Maiden Name: Clara Crowninshield Kinsman

Present Address: Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Present Business: Writer

Marriage: Date, October 30, 1886. Place, Wellesley Hills

Maiden Name of Wife: Helen Hubbard Ford

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Gamaliel III	June 18, 1888
--------------	---------------

Sarah Rice	July 1, 1892
------------	--------------

Since leaving college, has been reading, writing and doing some lecturing. Has published: "Idealism in Literature," "Andover Review," '87; "Emerson," "Princeton Review"; "Walter Pater," "Andover Review," '88; "Types of American Character," '95; "The Private Tutor," '04; "A Pageant of Life," '04; and "Between Two Masters," '06. Is a frequent contributor to "The Atlantic Monthly."

'05, wrote: "The years since 1900 have been, for me, a time mainly devoted to the slow recovery of health, after a very severe attack of neurasthenia. Those who have not been through such an experience can hardly understand what it means. I hope they never may. Quiet life in the country, a few friends, a few books, a little golfing, a little canoeing—such a monotonous record hardly bears the writing down. I have been able to do a little work occasionally, contributing to 'The Atlantic Monthly' articles on Anthony Trollope and other literary subjects; and quite recently Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have published for me a novel, dealing with American life in Rome, and entitled 'The Private Tutor.'"

JOHN JOSEPH BRENNAN

Born November 23, 1863, at Milford, Mass.

Father's Name: Thomas Brennan

Mother's Maiden Name: Ann Madden

Present Address: 20 Portland St., Worcester, Mass.

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, February 16, 1887. Place, Worcester

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Elizabeth Horgan

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Nellie	April 21, 1888 (d. May 6, 1890)
Mildred	August 25, 1889
John Horgan	May 21, 1892
Frederick	January 29, 1896

Degree: M.D. 1886

'83-'86, student at the Harvard Medical School.

Since '86, has been practising medicine in Worcester, Mass.

Is a member of the Massachusetts Medical Society and the Harvard Medical Alumni Association.

ELLIOTT BRIGHT

Born April 21, 1863, at Northampton, Mass.

Father's Name: Henry Bright

Mother's Maiden Name: Louise Mower

Present Address: 309 E. Water St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Marriage: Date, May 10, 1899. Place, Fort Atkinson, Wis.

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Louise Pratt

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Eleanor Pratt	March 4, 1901
Anna Williams	December 3, 1905 (d. April 24, 1906)

'86-'87, proof-reader with Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

'88-'89, with the Edison Electric Light Co. Later was in business, at first in Tacoma, Wash., and then in Boston. Subsequently he took a position in Philadelphia with the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. which he gave up May 1, '02, when he began business as secretary and treasurer of Budden & Bright Co., coffees, teas and spices in Milwaukee, Wis.

THOMAS HEPBURN BUCKLER

Born October 5, 1865, at Baltimore, Md.

Father's Name: Riggan Buckler

Mother's Maiden Name: Isabel Magruder

Present Address: 1201 St. Paul St., Baltimore

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, February 5, 1896. Place, New York, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Marion Stevenson

Child: Name, Marion Hepburn Date of Birth, December 27, 1896

Degree: M.D. Univ. Maryland 1888

Took B.A. degree at Johns Hopkins University in '86.

'86-88, student at the University of Maryland School of Medicine.

Since December, '88, has been practising medicine at Baltimore during the winter months, and at Narragansett Pier, R. I., during the four summer months.

JUDD ELLIS BULEY

Born September 25, 1860, at Waverly, N. Y.

Father's Name: James Davis Buley

Mother's Maiden Name: Harriet Ellis

Present Address: Home, 302 Marshall St., Syracuse, N. Y.

Business: Wieting Block, Syracuse

Present Business: Real Estate and Insurance

Name of Firm: Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co.

Marriage: Date, February 28, 1889. Place, Danville, Pa.

Maiden Name of Wife: Lizzie Hunter Angle

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Beatrice Thornton	March 8, 1890
Dorothy Angle	July 14, 1894
Madeline Ellis	December 7, 1897

'87-'89, with the Elmira branch of the Swift Chicago Beef Co.

Since '89, general manager at Syracuse of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. In the past few years has also been identified with the "Craftsman," and with the National Biscuit Company.

'05, wrote: "Did you think, 'old fellow,' that I had forgotten you, or lost interest in 'Eighty-Six?' Well, No! A thousand times 'No!' My long delay in 'accepting' your cordial and much appreciated invitation to 'attend' your biennial 'show-up' of old 'Eighty-Six' has been caused by a diligent and exhaustive search to find something about myself to report to your kind self that would 'glorify' the records of the class.

"In vain have I sought 'high and low' for my name in public print in some 'high-sounding' connection. The only places I succeeded in finding the name of 'Buley' in print, were in the telephone directory, and on my office door. Furthermore, I hesitated, somewhat, to write you because a man's letters sometimes 'get into print' when they are not intended for such a purpose, and 'make a monkey out of him' when he least expects it. This fact was conclusively proven by some epistolary evidence brought out in a recent prominent divorce case in this city.

"Well, 'old man,' my address is 'Wieting Block,' Syracuse, N. Y., the same 'old place,' where I am 'doing the same old thing, in the same old way.'

"My progeny remains, numerically speaking—in-statu-quo—no more, no less, i.e. three daughters, Beatrice Thornton, Dorothy Angle, and Madeline Ellis, respectively, fourteen, ten and seven years old.

"I am willing to promise, if forgiven for my dereliction this time, to do my 'prettiest' to forward you promptly something more interesting, concerning my family and myself, to record when the next 'show-up' time comes 'round.

"With a heart full of pride for the privilege of being numbered with 'Eighty-Six.'"

ERNEST LEROY CALDWELL

Left Harvard at the beginning of the freshman year and went to Yale.

*JOSEPH BLUXOME CHADBOURN

Born October 27, 1861, at Wilmington, N. C.

Father's Name: James Harmon Chadbourn

Mother's Maiden Name: Annie Bluxome

Marriage: Date, January 21, 1891. Place, Whiteville, N. C.

Maiden Name of Wife: Elizabeth Stanly

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Arthur Stanly December 4, 1892

Died October 24, 1893

Joseph Bluxome Chadbourn left college at the end of his freshman year and went immediately into business in Chadbourn, N. C., in charge of the general stores of the Chadbourn Mill & R. R. Company. He was in active business with extensive interests until his health broke down, about 1896.

During his active life he was auditor, and general freight and passenger agent of the Wilmington, Chadbourn & Conway R. R., manager of the Orneth Cotton Mills, agent of the Atlantic Coast Line, agent of the Southern Express Company and manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company.

During the years 1886-1896 he was Mayor of Chadbourn. In 1897 he wrote: "After ten years of the most confining work, writing and figuring with no vacation excepting one week at the seashore my eyes gave out and the result was a severe case of nervous prostration."

In 1896 he gave up business and retired to a farm where he recovered fair health, but his health broke down again in 1900 and the last three years of his life were spent in a hospital.

WINTHROP ASTOR CHANLER

Born October 14, 1863, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: John Winthrop Chanler

Mother's Maiden Name: Margaret Ward

Present Address: 120 Broadway, New York

Marriage: Date, December 16, 1886. Place, Rome, Italy

Maiden Name of Wife: Margaret Terry

Children: Names,

Dates of Birth,

Laura Astor	September 30, 1887
John Winthrop	August 28, 1889 (d. 1893)
Margaret Mary Beatrice	August 21, 1890
Hester Marion	April 22, 1893
Marion Winthrop	August 24, 1895
May Margaret Gabrielle	May 20, 1897
Herbert Winthrop	September 27, 1900
Theodore Ward	April 29, 1902

Since graduation in '85 has been living in this country and abroad; was in Italy '97-'01, and since the latter date has divided his time between New York and Newport.

*WILLIAM HENRY COLE

Born November 2, 1864, at Sheboygan, Wis.

Father's Name: George Cooper Cole

Mother's Maiden Name: Martha Anne Murchison

Marriage: Date, September 20, 1894. Place, Los Angeles, Cal.

Maiden Name of Wife: Alexandra Wells Chase

Children : Names,	Dates of Birth,
Annette Chase	October 2, 1895
George Gordon	July 31, 1898
Died April 8, 1903

After leaving college was for a few years doing work on various newspapers in Boston, and later spent some years in the Hawaiian Islands.

SIDNEY COOLIDGE

Born March 8, 1864, at Boston, Mass.
Father's Name : Algernon Coolidge
Mother's Maiden Name : Mary Lowell
Present Address : Home, Concord, Mass.
Business, Lowell, Mass.
Present Business : Treasurer. Name of Firm : Lowell Bleachery
Marriage : Date, August 13, 1890. Place, St. Joseph, Mo.
Maiden Name of Wife : Mary Colt

Children : Names,	Dates of Birth,
Mary Lowell	December 9, 1891
Sidney	November 9, 1894
Edmund Jefferson	April 13, 1899
Thomas Buckingham	July 2, 1901
John Lowell	December 17, 1902
Helen	May 24, 1904

The early years after graduation he was in St. Joseph, Mo., in the employ of the Kansas City, St. Joseph and Council Bluffs railroad. Later was treasurer of the Stark Mills, Manchester, had an office in Boston and lived in Concord. Since '04 has been with the Lowell Bleachery at Lowell and living in Concord.

*SAMUEL ALDRICH CROZER

Born August 16, 1864
Father's Name : Samuel Aldrich Crozer
Mother's Maiden Name : Abby Cheney
Marriage : Date, October 8, 1895
Maiden Name of Wife : Lucy Rockwell

Children: Names,	Dates of Birth,
Marion Aldrich	August 5, 1886
	(d. June 30, 1887)
Samuel Aldrich	May 6, 1888

Died August 23, 1898

After leaving college was in the iron business for six years, and later president of the Edison Electric Light and Power Co. of St. Paul, Minn., treasurer of the Crozer Coal and Coke Co., Elkhorn, W. Va., and vice-president and treasurer of the Chester Rolling Mills, Thurlow, Penn.

ARTHUR MARK CUMMINGS

Born May 15, 1863, at Essex, Conn.
Father's Name: Mark Andrews Cummings
Mother's Maiden Name: Jane Asenath Park
Present Address: 21 Pierce Street, Malden, Mass.

Graduated with '87. Has sent in no recent report either to the Secretary of '86 or of '87.

After graduation studied law in Cambridge and did some newspaper work, especially with the "Boston Transcript."

WILLIAM STAPP ENNIS

Born April 25, 1864, at Decatur, Ill.
Father's Name: William Henry Ennis
Mother's Maiden Name: Louisa Harrison
Present Address: Decatur, Ill.
Present Business: Manager Ennis Estate
Marriage: Date, June 29, 1904. Place, Decatur
Maiden Name of Wife: Margaret Jessie High
Children: Names, Dates of Birth:

William Harrison	May 13, 1906
Lambert High	June 7, 1907

After leaving college went into farming in central Illinois.

JOHN PURINTON FAY

Born August 1, 1861
Father's Name: Joseph Bridgham Fay

Mother's Maiden Name : Sarah Houghton Purinton
Business : Law
Marriage : Date, January 2, 1899. Place, San Francisco, Cal.
Maiden Name of Wife : Alice Isabel Ober

Children : Names ,	Dates of Birth ,
Dorothy Wheaton	January 5, 1890
Alice Ober	March 31, 1891
Temple	January 9, 1895
John Purinton, Jr.	June 8, 1896 (d. Nov. 12, 1904)
Jean Bradford	April 22, 1904

Is practising law in Seattle, Wash.; has large mining interests in Alaska. Was formerly president of the Board of Regents of the University, State of Washington.

WALTER CLARK FISH

Born August 25, 1865, at Taunton, Mass.
Father's Name : Frederick Fish
Mother's Maiden Name : Mary Jarvis Perry
Present Address : Lynn, Mass.
Present Business : Manager. Name of Firm : General Electric Co.
Marriage : Date, August 4, 1890. Place, Taunton
Maiden Name of Wife : Martha Brewster

Children : Names ,	Dates of Birth ,
Marjory Church	May 31, 1891
Nathalie Jarvis Wyeth	November 24, 1893
Eleanor	September 25, 1903

'84-'87, student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.
'87-'94, electrical engineer with the Thomson Electric Welding Co., Bernstein Electric Co., Thomson-Houston Electric Co., and General Electric Co.

Since '94, manager of the Lynn works of the General Electric Co.

*GEORGE HERBERT FISK

Born June 24, 1861, at Boston, Mass.
Father's Name : George Robert Fisk
Mother's Maiden Name : Louisa Merrill Tyler
Died May, 1898

'85-'86, Harvard Medical School.
'86-'87, in Australia.
'87-'89, in California, in the land business.

EMLYN METCALF GILL

Born March 21, 1862, at Walpole, Mass.
Father's Name: John Gill
Mother's Maiden Name: Ellen Maria Metcalf
Present Address: 140 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y.
Present Business: President Gill Engraving Co.

After leaving college did newspaper work for some years. Is at present president of the Gill Engraving Co. Has been recently elected to the Harvard Club of New York.

CHARLES FREEMAN GILMAN

Born January 12, 1862, at Charlestown, Mass.
Father's Name: John Folsom Gilman
Mother's Maiden Name: Mehitable Leavitt
Present Address: Newton, Mass.
Marriage: Date, June 16, 1887. Place, Boston, Mass.
Maiden Name of Wife: Alice Stevens Clark
Children: Names, Dates of Birth,
Robert Conant January 28, 1889
Grace May 10, 1891
Charles Francis May 17, 1893
Lucy Clark August 20, 1901

Graduated with '85. Is in the Boston Custom House.

WILLIAM CARTWRIGHT GORDON.

Born November 15, 1863, at New Orleans, La.
Father's Name: William Alexander Gordon
Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Cartwright

Left college in the sophomore year and has not communicated with the Secretary since that time.

EDWIN ELDEN GRAHAM

Born February 28, 1864, at Philadelphia, Pa.

Father's Name: Archibald Hunter Graham

Mother's Maiden Name: Eliza Jane Sampson

Present Address: 1713 Spruce St., Philadelphia

Present Business: Physician

Marriage: Date, January 2, 1894. Place, Milwaukee, Wis.

Maiden Name of Wife: Lorraine Goodrich

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Lorraine Goodrich May 15, 1898

Gertrude Ann February 25, 1903

Degree: M.D. Jefferson Med. Coll. 1887

'87, graduated from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

'87-'88, resident physician at the Philadelphia Hospital.

'88-'89, studying medicine in Germany.

Since '89 has been practising medicine in Philadelphia. Is Professor of Pediatrics in Jefferson Medical College.

ROBERT RAWSON GRAYSON

Born January 17, 1866, at Red Bluff, Cal.

Father's Name: George Washington Grayson

Mother's Maiden Name: Eliza Jane Baker

Died July 26, 1901

Robert Rawson Grayson was born in Red Bluff, Tehama County, Cal., in 1866, and died of heart disease in San Francisco, July 26, 1901. During the freshman and sophomore years he was with '86, but in 1888 he went abroad. A year later he returned to San Francisco, and lived there until his death. His business was managing mining properties. He was a member of the Pacific Union and several other clubs, and was greatly interested in athletics. He was unmarried.

EDWARD JEWETT HALL

Born September 30, 1863, at No. Chelsea, Mass.

Father's Name: William Oliver Hall

Mother's Maiden Name: Lydia Wheeler

Died April, 1890.

Graduated with '88.

GEORGE FRANKLIN HARDING

Born October 18, 1862, at Dorchester, Mass.
Father's Name: George Warren Harding
Mother's Maiden Name: Harriet Mighells Russell
Present Address: 419 Boylston St., Boston, Mass.
Present Business: Physician
Marriage: Date, June 18, 1890. Place, Newton, Mass.
Maiden Name of Wife: Elizabeth Simpson Clarke
Children: Names, Dates of Birth
Dorothy February 14, 1895
Marjorie April 7, 1900
Degree: M.D. 1889

For two years after leaving college was convalescent.
'86-'89, in the Harvard Medical School.
Since '89 has been practising medicine in Boston, specializing in dermatology.

Is a member of the Boston Society Medical Improvement; Boston Society Medical Sciences; American Dermatological Society, and the American Medical Association. Is dermatologist to the Boston City and Carney Hospitals.

ROLAND ENGLISH HARTLEY

Born April 21, 1863, at Sacramento, Cal.
Father's Name: Henry Hare Hartley
Mother's Maiden Name: Eliza Madison English Present Address: 697 Haight St., San Francisco, Cal.
Present Business: Physician
Marriage: Date, August 21, 1888. Place, San Francisco
Maiden Name of Wife: Maimie McDermott
Children: Names, Dates of Birth,
Roland English, Jr. June 18, 1889
Gladys Marie January 17, 1892
Victor Worthington, Jr. October 18, 1898
Marian Maude April 18, 1903
Degree: M.D. Cooper Med. Coll. (Cal.) 1889

On leaving college in '84 began the study of medicine at the Southern Pacific Railroad Company's Hospital.

'84-'85, clerk in the State Treasurer's office.

'87-'89, student at Cooper Medical College, San Francisco, Cal.

Since '89, has been practising medicine at Middleton, Cal., and in San Francisco where his address until the earthquake was 21 Powell St.

'06, wrote: "Since my graduation from Cooper Medical College, this city, on November 12, '89, I have been practising; first in Lake County, Cal., from January, '90 to August, '95, then spent six months in the London hospitals and since that time have been located here. For about five years I was connected with the Emergency Hospital service of the San Francisco Board of Health. Have a wife and four children (two pair) the eldest of whom will, I trust, in a couple of years enter dear 'Old Harvard.'"

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

Born April 29, 1863, at San Francisco, Cal.

Father's Name: George Hearst

Mother's Maiden Name: Phoebe Elisabeth Apperson

Present Business: Journalism

Present Address: Care of New York American, New York, N. Y.

Marriage: Date, April 28, 1903. Place, New York

Maiden Name of Wife: Millicent Willson

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

George Randolph April 23, 1904

'86, became the editor and proprietor of the "San Francisco Examiner."

'95, purchased and became the editor of the "New York Journal," afterward the "New York American."

'96, established the "New York Evening Journal."

1900, founded the "Chicago American."

'02, founded the "Chicago Examiner."

'03, founded the "Los Angeles Examiner."

'04, founded the "Boston Examiner."

He is also proprietor of "Das Morgen Journal," a German morning newspaper published in New York City.

He is president of the National Association of Democratic Clubs and chairman of the State Committee of the Independence League of New York.

He was elected to the fifty-eighth Congress and re-elected to the fifty-ninth Congress.

'05, ran for Mayor of New York on the Municipal Party ticket and polled 224,925 votes, 3472 short of McClellan who was elected.

'06, ran for Governor of New York on the Democratic Independence League ticket and polled 691,105 votes, 57,897 short of Hughes who was elected.

FRANK HITCHCOCK

Born May 24, 1862, at Youngstown, O.

Father's Name : William James Hurd

Mother's Maiden Name : Mary Peebles

Marriage : Date, June 2, 1896. Place, Utica, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife : Bertha Rockwell Cowles

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Katharine October 5, 1897

Frances September 19, 1899

After leaving college went in business in Youngstown, Ohio, with Andrews & Hitchcock, manufacturers of pig iron.

HENRY CUTTER HOLT

Born February 17, 1866, at Winchester, Mass.

Father's Name : Stephen Abbott Holt

Mother's Maiden Name : Nancy Wyman Cutter

Present Address : Home, Winchester

Business, 15 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business : Architect. Name of Firm : Wales & Holt

Marriage : Date, September 11, 1892. Place, Winchester

Maiden Name of Wife : Elizabeth Eastham Gray

Children : Names, Dates of Birth,

Stephen Willard May 14, 1894

Helen Thompson October 26, 1895

Willard Gray April 17, 1897

Henry Cutter September 20, 1899

Sylvia December 2, 1903

'86-'89, studying architecture with Wheeler & Northend in Lynn, Cabot & Chandler, and H. Langford Warren in Boston and at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

'91-'92, studying architecture abroad.

Since '93, has been practising architecture in Boston as a member of the firm of Wales & Holt. Is lecturer in the history of architecture at Wellesley College, and has been twice Selectman of the town of Winchester.

ERNEST HOWARD HOSMER

Born December 12, 1862, at Bedford, Mass.

Father's Name: Thomas Baldwin Hosmer

Mother's Maiden Name: Hannah Heald

Present Address: Bedford

'86-'87, at the Harvard Divinity School.

'87-'88, at the Harvard Medical School.

Since '88 has been living in Bedford, Mass.; has delivered some addresses, but has been prevented by poor health from engaging in active work.

'06, wrote: "Since the last report I have been living at my home in Bedford, Mass., where I have been engaged chiefly in caring for my aged father. I am occupied to some extent in insurance business. I continue to serve as chairman of our school committee and as a member of a committee on school affairs common to several towns, and I hold a few other local offices. I am organist of the local church, where, fortunately for the society, our classmate, Macdonald, preaches, as well as in his Concord church. I often see certain '86 men and take great pleasure in my association with them, and I wish my opportunities of meeting other members of the class were more frequent."

THOMAS HUNT

Born September 8, 1866, at New Orleans, La.

Father's Name: Carleton Hunt

Mother's Maiden Name: Georgine Cammack

Present Address: Home, 44 Mt. Vernon St., Boston, Mass.

Business, 70 State St., Boston

Present Business: Law. Name of Firm: Gaston, Snow & Saltonstall.

Marriage: Date, June 19, 1894. Place, New York, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Carrie Speiden

Child: Name,

Date of Birth,

Carleton

July 23, 1904

'87-'90, student at the Harvard Law School.

Since '90, has been practising law in Boston; of recent years in association with the firm of Gaston, Snow & Saltonstall.

'05, wrote: "I became a member of the above firm on August 1, '02; on July 23, '04, my son Carleton was born, and on October 1, '04, I moved my residence to Mt. Vernon St., Boston. I continue in the active practice of the law, chiefly in the courts, with my office at the address given above."

GEORGE PLATT HURD

Born May 9, 1863, at Newark, N. J.

Father's Name: Theodore Clarence Hurd

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Platt

Present Address: Box 628, Holbrook, Mass.

Present Business: Physician

Degree: M.D. Dartmouth Med. Sch. 1887

On leaving college became a student at Dartmouth Medical School, where he received his degree.

'87-'88, at the Long Island College Hospital in Brooklyn. Was for a time resident physician at Kings County Hospital, and later prison physician at the House of Correction, East Cambridge, Middlesex Co., Mass., and has since been practising medicine in Marion Brookline, Boston and Holbrook.

ROBERT WILLIAM JENNINGS

Born November 10, 1864, at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Father's Name: Robert William Jennings

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Wyche Evans

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, December 16, 1896. Place, Port Townsend, Wash.

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Ada Pugh

Child: Name,	Date of Birth,
Cordelia Elizabeth	November 9, 1897

After leaving college studied law at the Georgetown Law School, Washington, D. C.

'85-'87, held a position in the office of the Chief Engineer of the War Department.

'87, admitted to the bar in the District of Columbia.

'87-'89, was living in Washington, D. C., and in February, '89, began the practice of law in Seattle, Wash., as a member of the firm of Jennings & Noyes.

He later removed to Port Townsend, Wash., where he was appointed city attorney.

'92, he was prosecuting attorney of Jefferson Co.

RUDOLF JORDAN, JR.

Born April 24, 1863, at San Francisco, Cal.

Father's Name : Rudolf Jordan

Mother's Maiden Name : Maria Rosaline Drenckhahn

Present Address : 2563 Washington St., San Francisco, Cal.

Present Business : Real Estate

After leaving college he spent twelve years in Napa, Cal., studying the development of vines and managing a vineyard, and during this time he also gave great attention to the study of gait in horses. For the past nine years he has been in the fire insurance business.

At present, he is in the real estate business.

'06, wrote: "The making of dry wines is practically my vocation and I hope to return to it in the near future. In this city (San Francisco) I have been engaged in the fire insurance line. Since, however, our awful conflagration of seven to eight square miles has devastated insurable localities, there will be little to do in that line of business until the city is rebuilt on those definite plans by which our citizens hope to make it a model city. That will probably take a couple of years. Meanwhile only one-story wooden buildings are allowed to be erected so as to keep up business. As to its ultimate destiny, this city is going to be finer in its appearance than before."

"Incidentally I may mention that my great hobby has been for years the investigation of the two gaits of our American breed of horses, namely the standard trotter and pacer. I am not a sportsman, but I do love a good horse beyond anything, and I pretend to be able to tell a good one. My investigation is to establish certain practical ends regarding shoeing. It is my intention to write a manual, and I believe I can, by my way of measuring the strides of a horse in motion and computing the various averages of the four foot-prints, establish the cause and effect of an imperfect gait. Should I do so, my work will redeem me from the obligation toward our Alma Mater to do something original."

WILLIAM VOORHEES JUDSON

Born February 16, 1865, at Indianapolis, Ind.

Father's Name: Charles Edward Judson

Mother's Maiden Name: Abby Voorhees

Present Address: Home, 258 Knapp Street

Business, Federal Building, Milwaukee, Wisconsin

Present Business: Light-House Engineer, Lake Michigan; in charge of Harbor Improvements, West Shore of Lake Michigan; and of Wisconsin Rivers

Maiden Name of Wife: Alice Carneal Clay

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Sidney Clay Judson February 6, 1892

June 15, '84, cadet at Military Academy.

'88, graduated at West Point.

June 11, '88, Additional Second Lieutenant, Engineers.

'89-'91, stationed at United States Engineer School.

'91-'94, in local charge of the Mississippi River improvements between the Missouri River and Clarksville, Mo., river and harbor work on Lake Erie, and at Galveston, Texas, and vicinity.

October 11, '92, First Lieutenant, Engineers.

'94-'98, First Lieutenant and Adjutant; stationed at Willett's Point, N. Y.; recorder of the Board of Engineers stationed in New York City; chief engineer of the Department of Porto Rico; River and Harbor improvements, Pensacola, Florida, and vicinity; member of Rivers and Harbors Board, Washington, D. C.; instructor of Civil Engineering in United States Engineer School at Washington, D. C.; military attaché with Russian army in field during the Russo-Japanese War; now on light-house and river and harbor duty at Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

July 5, '98, Captain, Engineers.

January 1, '06, Major, Engineers.

LOUIS KRUMBHAAR

Born October 5, 1861, at Paris, France

Father's Name: George Douglass Krumbhaar

Mother's Maiden Name: Susan Margaret Cooper

Present Address: care Solvay Process Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

Marriage: Date, November 10, 1892
Maiden Name of Wife: Anna Conyngham Stevens
Child: Name, Date of Birth,
George Douglas II January 28, 1904

Is in business in Syracuse, N. Y., in connection with the Solvay Process Co.

CHARLES ORAM LANDER

Born May 3, 1863, at Liverpool, Eng.
Father's Name: Charles Oram Young
Mother's Maiden Name: Eliza Waldron
(Adopted by Mrs. Jean Margaret Lander.)
Has been an actor, on the stage in England and this country.

CHARLES THORNTON LIBBY

Born September 28, 1861, at Portland, Me.
Father's Name : Matthias Libby
Mother's Maiden Name : Eliza Gookin Thornton
Present Address: Home, 275 Cumberland St., Portland
Business, 193 Federal St., Portland
Present Business : Publisher
Name of Firm : Libby & Smith
Marriage: Date, September 7, 1899. Place, Woolwich, Me.
Maiden Name of Wife : Annie Reed

After leaving college, read law in the office of Symonds & Libby, Portland, Me. Admitted to the bar in '88. Since '91 has been engaged in the publication of weekly newspapers.

HERSEY GOODWIN LOCKE

Born August 19, 1863, in Oldham County, Ky.
Father's Name: Joseph Henry Locke
Mother's Maiden Name: Fannie Buckingham Churchill
Present Address: 517 E. Genesee St., Syracuse, N. Y.
Present Business : Physician

Marriage: Date, March 1, 1902. Place, New York, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Julia Delaplaine Williams

Child: Name, Date of Birth,

Anne January 15, 1903

Degree: M.D. Columbia (Coll. Phys. and Surg.) 1887.

After graduating began the study of medicine under the preceptorship of Dr. J. C. Dalton and subsequently matriculated in the College of Physicians and Surgeons from which he took his degree.

"After a competitive examination he received the appointment of interne in the New York Hospital where he was instrumental in organizing the gynecological service to which he devoted one year of his time. He was then appointed chief of clinic in the department of gynecology in the Vanderbilt Clinic and he also acted as assistant gynecologist to the General Memorial Hospital. The practice of gynecology not being congenial to his taste, and having a preference for the science of neurology, he accepted a position at Glen Springs Sanitarium, Watkins, N. Y., in order to perfect himself in this particular branch of the science of medicine. He remained in this institution for two and one-half years and then engaged in private practice in Syracuse where he has obtained a position of prominence." He is also the attending physician to the Women's and Children's Hospital of Syracuse, and the Syracuse Home Association, and neurologist to the Syracuse Free Dispensary. He is a member of the Onondaga County Medical Society, and the Syracuse Academy of Medicine, and was a Fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine.

EDWARD LOVERING

Born April 7, 1865, at Taunton, Mass.

Father's Name: Charles Loughead Lovering

Mother's Maiden Name: Sarah Rebecca Maltby

Present Address: Home, Taunton

Business, 843 Exchange Bldg., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Assistant Treasurer

Name of Firm: Massachusetts Cotton Mills and Merrimack Mfg. Co.

Marriage: Date, January 16, 1890. Place, Taunton

Maiden Name of Wife: Sarah Williams Newbury

After leaving college was agent of the Cohannet mills at Taunton, Mass., until '01. Since the latter date has been with the Merrimack Manufacturing Co. in Boston.

MANTON MAVERICK

Born March 26, '63, at Staten Island, N. Y.

Father's Name: Augustus Maverick

Mother's Maiden Name: Ellen Grover

Present Address: Home, 4150 Vincennes Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Business, 1208 Michigan Avenue

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, January 4, 1905. Place, Chicago, Ill.

Maiden Name of Wife: Genevieve Bunker

Degrees: LL.B., 1888, LL.M., 1889.

Graduated with '85.

'85-'86, principal of high school in Whitefield, N. H.

'86-'89, clerk in War Department, Washington, D. C., and studying law in Columbian University.

'88, received degree of Bachelor of Laws from Columbian University.

'89, received degree of Master of Laws from Columbian University.

'90, clerk of committee in House of Representatives at Washington.

'91-'92, general practice of law in Chicago.

'93 to date, general attorney of the Continental Casualty Company.

JOHN RAY MILLER

Born July 27, 1862, at Mifflinburgh, Pa.

Father's Name: David Hoffman Miller

Mother's Maiden Name: Sara Hoffman

CHARLES HENRY MORRILL

Born November 11, 1861, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: William Bradford Morrill

Mother's Maiden Name: Annie Louisa Edds

Marriage: Date, December 4, 1888. Place, Mansfield, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Cora Chase

'88, graduated at Dartmouth.

'88-'89, principal of Haverhill Academy, Haverhill, Mass.

Since last date has sent in no report.

HENRY WARRINGTON NINDE

Born June 6, 1862, at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Father's Name: Lindley Murray Ninde

Mother's Maiden Name: Bulah Puckett

Present Address: 817 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, December 26, 1889. Place, Xenia, Ohio

Maiden Name of Wife: Laura Munger

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Lindley Murray	April 23, 1892
----------------	----------------

Charles Mather	November 11, 1893
----------------	-------------------

Emily	September 12, 1896
-------	--------------------

Jane	September 9, 1898
------	-------------------

Henry Warrington, Jr.	August 22, 1899
-----------------------	-----------------

Mary	April 1, 1905
------	---------------

March, '87, was admitted to the bar in Fort Wayne, Ind., and has since been practising law there.

'03, spent some time in Hanover, Germany

*WILLIAM HALL NOYES

Born December 26, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Nathan Denison Noyes

Mother's Maiden Name: Adelia Miner Randall

Died April 22, 1901

Left college in the freshman year and did not subsequently communicate with the secretary.

FRANCIS STANLEY PARKER

Born September 1, 1863, at Hong Kong, China

Father's Name: Ebenezer Francis Parker

Mother's Maiden Name: Elizabeth Clapp Stone

Present Address: Home, Bedford, Mass.

Business, 50 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Coal

Name of Firm: Hanson & Parker, Ltd.

Marriage: Date, December 27, 1888. Place, Boston

Maiden Name of Wife : Harriet Amory Anderson
Children : Names, Dates of Birth,
 John Stanley January 15, 1890
 William Amory December 31, 1892

Ever since leaving college has been in the wholesale coal business in Boston.

'89-'98, president of Gay & Parker Co.

Since '98, president of Hanson & Parker, Ltd.

'05, wrote: "Your kind letter of January 16th has just reached me here and I hasten to say that the last three years have brought me little but ill health which has practically compelled me to retire from active business.

"Although I still retain the presidency of Hanson & Parker, Ltd. (wholesale coal merchants) at 50 Congress St., Boston, and of the Marston Coal Co. (retail coal dealers) at 75 State St., my duties in connection with these concerns have been necessarily nominal. My life has principally been spent on our farm at Bedford, Mass., where my brothers and I have given much attention to the raising and training of standard bred trotting horses.

"My eldest son is in the second form at Groton School and my second son (at present at Cloyne House, Newport, R. I.) enters Groton this autumn and this together with my illness makes me feel very old indeed.

Military Record: mustered in July 2, '98, as Second Lieutenant Fifth Massachusetts Infantry Volunteers. Served at Jacksonville, Florida, on staff of Brigadier-General W. A. Bancroft. Mustered out August 20, '98.

GEORGE RICHMOND PARSONS

Born April 10, 1861, at Providence, R. I.

Father's Name : James Hepburn Parsons

Mother's Maiden Name : Ellen Richmond

Present Address : Home, 276 George St., Providence

Business, 49 Westminster St., Providence

Present Business : Manufacturers of Corduroys and Velvets

Name of Firm : Crompton Co.

Marriage: Date, October 23, 1889. Place, Providence

Maiden Name of Wife : Clara Turner Brayton

Child : Name, Date of Birth,

Laura Turner August 3, 1890

Since '85 has been connected with the Crompton Co., Providence, R. I., manufacturers of corduroys and cotton velvets. Elected a member of the City Council in '97 and still in office; has been a worker for good roads in Rhode Island and is striving to obtain rapid transit in Providence.

'05, wrote: "There has been almost nothing of moment to recall in my life these last three years. I am still secretary of the Crompton Co., and the firm still produces corduroys and cotton velvets. I also continue to serve as a member of the Common Council of this city and am now on my seventh consecutive term. I have had the pleasure of serving on a number of important 'special' committees and for the sixth consecutive year have been a member of the 'standing' committee on finance.

"My journeys have been but two: a flying trip out West ending with a drive through the Yellowstone National Park in the summer of '02, and a visit to Jamaica, B. W. I., in the month of April, '03.

"I'm sorry not to have more to tell and realize that I am telling more now than many of my classmates will whose lives produce much of general interest. I regret this keeping quiet when the replies really given to the old stereotyped questions are of so much interest to the rest of us."

ALFRED MEAD POTTER

Born December 20, 1863, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Silas Potter

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline Daniels Allen

Since leaving college has been engaged in business as a trustee in Boston.

WILLIAM HUBLEY POTTER

Born February 23, 1864, at Germantown, Pa.

Father's Name: William Hubley Potter

Mother's Maiden Name: Ellen Fordney

Left college in the sophomore year and has not since communicated with the secretary.

TUDOR WOLCOTT POWERS

Born January 17, 1863, at W. Springfield, Mass.

Father's Name: Henry Powers

Mother's Maiden Name: Julia Maria Wolcott

Present Address: 30 Court St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business: Law

Degree: LL.B., 1898.

'84-'95, went West, travelled, was in business and recovered health.

'95-'98, Harvard Law School.

Since '98, practising law in Boston.

JOSEPH LANGDON QUIMBY

Born October 30, 1859, at No. Sandwich, N. H.

Father's Name: Joseph Hutchins Quimby

Mother's Maiden Name: Nancy Jane Fogg

Left college in the freshman year and has not since communicated with the secretary.

JOHN WALLACE RIDDLE

Born July 12, 1864, at Philadelphia, Pa.

Father's Name: John Wallace Riddle

Mother's Maiden Name: Rebecca Blair McClure

Present Address: 385 Pleasant Ave., St. Paul, Minn.

Present Business: Diplomatic Service

'88-'89, in the Columbia College Law School.

Since '93, has been in the diplomatic service.

The following is the record of his diplomatic appointments:

April 15, '93, Secretary of Legation, Constantinople.

November 4, '01, Secretary of Embassy, St. Petersburg.

September 8, '03, Agent and Consul General, Cairo.

March 8, '05, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Roumania and Servia.

December 19, '06, Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to Russia.

At the time of Riddle's appointment to Russia the following note appeared in the "Boston Transcript":

Like the recent promotion of Henry White to be ambassador to France Mr. Riddle's elevation from the joint mission to Roumania and

Servia at a salary of $7500 to be ambassador to Russia at a salary of $17,500 comes as a reward for long service and conspicuous diplomatic ability. It was while chargé d'affaires of embassy at St. Petersburg during the Kishineff troubles several years ago, that Mr. Riddle achieved his most notable triumph. When the President telegraphed the famous Kishineff petition in the face of the Russian Government's announcement that its ambassador at Washington, Count Cassini, would not receive the petition, Mr. Riddle went to the Russian Foreign Office by appointment to deliver a "message from the President." He first read to Count Lamsdorff the telegram from the President including the petition and then asked when the Russian Government would be pleased to receive it. Of course Count Lamsdorff declined to receive it, but Mr. Riddle had accomplished the President's object of having the petition reach the ear of the Russian minister of foreign affairs. The moral effect was great. At this time Count Cassini confided to friends at Washington that had it not been for the great personal regard cherished throughout the Russian court for Mr. Riddle the relations between the two countries might have been more severely strained. Mr. Riddle at the time received the thanks and congratulations of the President for the consummate skill with which he handled the situation. Mr. Riddle not only speaks Russian fluently but possesses a remarkable knowledge of Russian literature. The late Secretary Hay was wont to refer to him as "our Russian authority."

Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador here, said of Mr. Riddle's appointment: "It will cause more than satisfaction and it will cause general delight in my country. He is one of the most remarkable linguists I have ever known. He speaks five or six languages and his Russian is perfect."

JOHN JONES ROBERTS

Born February 8, 1860, at Rochester, N. Y.

Father's Name: William Jones Roberts

Mother's Maiden Name: Ellen Augusta Hyde

*SAMUEL BLYTHE ROGERS

Born February 14, 1864, at Philadelphia, Pa.

Father's Name: Samuel Blythe Rogers

Mother's Maiden Name: Clara Dupuy

Business: Law

Died May 30, 1893

Samuel Blythe Rogers died from the effects of meningitis May 30, 1893. The following notice appeared in the "New York Tribune":

Mr. Rogers was born in Philadelphia in 1864. He was the son of Samuel B. Rogers, a merchant of that city, and at one time the president of the Planters' Sugar Refining Company of New Orleans. His mother was Clara Dupuy Rogers. Mr. Rogers was educated at Phillips Academy, Andover, and later entered Harvard. He was graduated from the Harvard Law School in 1888, and shortly afterward came to this city and entered the office of Davies & Rapallo, and afterward became associated with Roger Foster. Later he was retained by Davies, Short & Townsend as one of their trial counsel, and he achieved some prominence in elevated road litigation, his arguments in the Court of Appeals winning commendation for him. He was unmarried, and was a member of the Reform and Harvard Clubs and the Bar Association.

EDWARD EVERETT ROSE

Born February 11, 1862, at Stamstead, Can.

Father's Name: George Henry Rose

Mother's Maiden Name: Nancy Bronson Fox

Present Business: Theatrical Manager

Since leaving college has been in the theatrical business. For one season acted in "Held by the Enemy"; later, was stage manager of the Boston Museum, and has more recently managed the Castle Square Theater and the Grand Opera House, both in Boston.

WILLIAM NOBLE ROUNDY

Born February 16, 1865, at Indianapolis, Ind.

Father's Name: Charles Edward Roundy

Mother's Maiden Name: Abby Cady Voorhees

Present Address: 6029 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Graduated with '85.

Engaged in writing, and has published "A Ballad of the White Ship and other Poems."

PERCY WALKER SELBY

Born November 26, 1864, at San Francisco, Cal.

Father's Name: Thomas Henry Selby

Mother's Maiden Name: Henrietta Ellery Sedgwick

Left college in the freshman year and has not since communicated with the Secretary.

CLEVELAND HOUGHTON SMITH

Born May 19, 1865, at Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Father's Name: Josiah Granville Smith

Mother's Maiden Name: Georgia Houghton

Left college in the junior year and has not since communicated with the Secretary.

ARTHUR CURTIS SPRAGUE

Born July 15, 1865, at Newtonville, Mass.

Father's Name: Alfred White Sprague

Mother's Maiden Name: Ellen Amelia Curtis

Present Business, Architect

'83-'84, studying architecture at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Has since been practising his profession in Boston, for several years in the office of W. G. Preston, architect.

WALTER AMES STEBBINS

Born December 28, 1862, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: James Hervey Stebbins

Mother's Maiden Name: Frances Ames Phelps

Left college in the freshman year and has not since communicated with the Secretary.

*JULIUS WARREN STRAUSS

Born June 17, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Philip Strauss

Mother's Maiden Name: Amelia Goldenberg

Died May 9, 1885

Julius Warren Strauss, the second son of Philip and Amelia (Goldenberg) Strauss, was born in Boston, Massachusetts, June 17, 1864, and died May 9, 1885, his sudden death being caused by kidney disease.

Strauss fitted for Harvard at the Boston Latin School, where he made an enviable record, not only in scholarship, but also in deportment. In 1879 he received a prize for Exemplary Conduct and Punctuality, and at the annual exhibition of the school in 1882 he was awarded a third prize for declamation.

In 1882 he entered college, passing "with credit" the examinations in Prescribed Physics and French. His college course was marked by the same excellence in studies that he had shown in his school work, while he still found time to give some attention to athletics.

Strauss was of a genial nature, and was liked by everybody with whom he came in contact, while he made many firm friends among the men in his society, the Everett Athenæum.

J. A. F.

HOWARD TAYLOR

Born November 23, 1865, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: Henry Augustus Taylor

Mother's Maiden Name: Catherine Augusta Osborn

Present Address: Home, 36 West 59th St., New York

Business, 35 Wall St., New York

Present Business: Law

Name of Firm: Taylor & Anderson

Marriage: Date, June 7, 1892. Place, Goshen, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Gertrude Barnard Murray

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Geoffrey Marshall March 21, 1893

Eleanor June 10, 1894

Murray December 2, 1895

'85-'86, reporter on "The New York Tribune."

'86-'89, in the law office of Carter, Hornblower & Byrne.

'89, member of the firm of Hornblower, Byrne & Taylor which later became Hornblower, Byrne, Taylor & Miller. Firm name is now Taylor & Anderson.

'05, wrote: "I should really be only too glad to send you any personal news if I were not leading a life so typically orthodox that I cannot get up a scrap of interesting information. The practice of law in New York City is an occupation of intense private interest, but the only way I could write about it would be to tell you of the cases I had won and to pass over discreetly the cases I had lost. During the winters I am here in town and hard at work. During the summers, when I can't run away for a trip to Europe, I am living in a new house on my father's old farm in Connecticut. Possibly there will be a little of public interest in this latter occurrence, because it is half way between New York and Boston, on the old Boston post-road just before the road crosses the Connecticut River at Middletown. It may be that some of the class will be passing at one time or another in their automobiles. I beg to give notice that any one of them will find in my establishment an excellent 'road house' with good accommodations for the night, and that one and all will receive a warm welcome."

WARD THORON

Born April 23, 1867, at New York, N. Y.

Father's Name: Joseph Thoron

Mother's Maiden Name: Anna Barker Ward

Present Address: Home, 1741 K St. N. W., Washington, D. C.

Business: N. W. cor. Pennsylvania Ave. and 15th St. N. W.

Present Business: Auditor

Name of Firm: American Security and Trust Company

Marriage: Date, November 15, 1893. Place, Washington, D. C.

Maiden Name of Wife: Ellen Warder

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Benjamin Warder April 14, 1897

Louise July 15, 1898

Since leaving college has been engaged in business in Washington.

HORACE PAUL THURLOW

Born September 26, 1864, at Wilkes-Barre, Penn.

Father's Name: Stephen Leonard Thurlow

Mother's Maiden Name: Lydia Mary Goodwin

Left college in the sophomore year and has not since communicated with the Secretary.

HERBERT TIMMINS

Born December 26, 1862, at Milan, Italy

Father's Name: George Henry Timmins

Mother's Maiden Name: Virginia Minonzio

Marriage: Date, February 22, 1887. Place, Boston, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife : Elizabeth Catherine Prescott
Children: Names, Dates of Birth,
 George Herbert February 9, 1888
 Edith February 11, 1891

'89-1900, lived in Groton, Mass.
Since 1900, has been living in London, Eng.

GILBERT TOMPKINS

Born August 10, 1863, at Oakland, Cal.

Father's Name : Edward Tompkins

Mother's Maiden Name : Sarah Haight

Present Address : 42 Mt. Vernon St., Boston, Mass.

Present Business : Music Publisher

After leaving college was manager of the Souther Farm at San Leandro, Cal., and was principally engaged in raising trotting horses.

'06, wrote: "For a dozen years my work has been a curious mixture of music and horses. Its chief end and aim has been the writing and publishing of popular music of at least a reasonable amount of musical respectability; and, in addition, the bringing out and distribution of some new forms of technical work and teaching music for piano.

"Rather a large order for one, unsupported; and a look back seems to undeniably prove the fact that fools rush in where angels fear to tread. Still, there seemed to be no other game worth the playing, with the hand that was held; but to make the chosen work at all possible, it had to be helped out in many queer ways.

"The chief of these has been the developing of the art of controlling gait and action in trotting and pacing horses. This was written about in a special department of 'The Horseman' for nearly three years. Two years in a machine shop and at the forge followed; it is no small matter to get even a modest working knowledge of horse shoes and shoeing.

"Then came six months on the road with technical music and songs, for Chas. W. Thompson & Co., of Boston. A year and a half in several departments of the Oliver Ditson Company followed; and then came the opportunity to complete a musical comedy, 'Happy Medium,' in collaboration with my sister, Juliet Wilbor Tompkins. This we published last April, '06.

"The past summer has been spent on one of the best of the New England stock farms, teaching the young idea to trot without damaging its high-priced legs and feet. It will be music again this winter, D. V."

*FREDERICK LEARNED TORREY

Born October 14, 1862, at Malden, Mass.

Father's Name: Frederick Learned Torrey

Mother's Maiden Name: Harriet Lunt

Died April 12, 1903, at the Westborough Insane Hospital

ROBERT BAXTER UPHAM

Born January 25, 1864, at Boston, Mass.

Father's Name: Jabez Baxter Upham

Mother's Maiden Name: Catherine Bell

Present Address: Home, 490 West End Ave., New York, N. Y.

Business, 62 Liberty St., New York

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, August 6, 1896. Place, Cambridge, Mass.

Maiden Name of Wife: Ruth Brewster Upham

'86 to present, director of the Brandon Italian Marble Co. of Brandon, Vt., and connected with the Trinidad Asphalt Co., making asphalt blocks.

'88 to present, secretary of the International Pavement Co.

'95-'98, agent for the Barber Asphalt Paving Co. in Boston.

'96 to present, director of the New England Mortgage Co.

'97 to present, in the real estate business with Edward Farnham Todd in New York City.

Is a member of the Harvard Club; the New Hampshire Society and the Nassau Boat Club. Has a country place in Claremont, N. H.

HANCKE FREDERICK WAGENER

Born September 14, 1861, at Charleston, S. C.

Father's Name: John Andreas Wagener

Mother's Maiden Name: Elizabeth Wagner

Present Business: Teaching

Marriage: Date, July 6, 1898. Place, Fletcher, N. C.

Maiden Name of Wife: Lucia Chauncey Yeaton

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

William Yeaton July 4, 1901

Friederich Wilhelm May 16, 1904

Graduated with '85.

Is professor of German and French at Charleston College, Charleston, S. C.

EDWARD INGERSOLL WELLS

Born September 9, 1859, at Buffalo, N. Y.

Father's Name: Richard Henry Wells

Mother's Maiden Name: Delia Sherwood

Left college in the freshman year and has not since communicated with the Secretary.

HARRY SUMNER WILLIAMS

Born January 23, 1864, at Taunton, Mass.

Father's Name: Nathan Sumner Williams

Mother's Maiden Name: Caroline Thornton Richmond

Present Address: 15 Overlook Terrace, Yonkers, N. Y.

Present Business: Law

Marriage: Date, July 5, 1890. Place, Lake George, N. Y.

Maiden Name of Wife: Alice Eudora Boswell

Child: Name, Florence Boswell Date of Birth, August 9, 1897

After leaving college, studied law in the office of Jackson & Hubbell, New York City.

'92-'94, practising law in New York.

'94-'06, practising law in Taunton, Mass. Was city solicitor of Taunton in '95.

June '06, left Taunton and is now located in Yonkers, N. Y.

Has served in the city government of Taunton, Mass., and has been counsel for various street railway and other corporations.

'05, wrote: "I am still pursuing the almost uneventful life of a country lawyer. Occasionally my business takes me to the courts of Boston (in the suburbs of Cambridge) when I usually sneak cautiously through Court Street and Scollay Square with a weather eye out for our old acquaintances among the police and cabbies, for the sake of old times. My literary work is chiefly confined to pleadings and briefs and I always count it as a distinct literary success if the justices take any stock in them. My family remains the same except in point of years.

" Best wishes to yourself and the Class, generally."

LEWIS AMASA WOOD

Born November 4, 1862, at Roxbury, Mass.

Father's Name: Virgil Wood

Mother's Maiden Name: Catherine Maria Strong

Business: Stock Broker

Marriage: Date, January 20, 1895. Place, Macon, Ga.

Maiden Name of Wife: Charlie Goodwin Connor

Children: Names, Dates of Birth,

Lewis Amasa, Jr. November 25, 1895

Katherine Strong September 14, 1898

After leaving college was in business in Macon, Ga., until '03 when he moved to Augusta, Ga., where he is in business as a member of the Augusta Stock and Cotton Exchange.

FRANKLIN WYMAN

Born March 8, 1861, at Hillsborough Bridge, N. H.

Father's Name: Stephen Dow Wyman

Mother's Maiden Name: Ursula Rosetta Forsaith

Present Address: Home, 5835 Madison Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Business, 100 Washington St., Chicago

Present Business: Life Insurance Agent

Name of Firm: Berkshire Life Insurance Co.

Marriage: Date, June 23, 1892. Place, Chicago

Maiden Name of Wife: Mary Louise Bouton

'87, in business in New York and Chicago.

'88, agent of the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co. in Chicago.

Since '89, agent of the Berkshire Life Insurance Co. in Chicago.

'05, wrote: "In reply to your letter of January 23d, reminding me that the class report of '06 will soon be due, for myself will say that April 22d I will have completed my sixteenth year with the Illinois Agency of the Berkshire Life Insurance Company, and that January 2, '05, I finished my sixteenth year in life insurance agency work, so I suppose I would now be considered a veteran. I class it one of the noblest of callings, ranking with the ministry and with medicine, and if one will always do his full duty, the opportunities for doing good in this work are very great. I am a member of the Executive Committee of the Life Underwriters' Association of Chicago and was selected by that association as one of its delegates to the National Convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters held at Indianapolis last October. In the autumn of '02, I attended the National Convention of the National Association of Life Underwriters at Cincinnati. Over that convention, my brother, W. D. Wyman, Manager of the Illinois General Agency of the Berkshire Life Insurance Co. presided, as he was president of the National Association that year. For over one year I have been a member of the Hamilton Club of Chicago. For recreation I usually take at least one vacation a year. In the spring two years ago I spent a delightful two weeks traveling over the state of Virginia, accompanied by my wife. Last year I visited Mackinac Island once and the 'Purchase Exposition' at St. Louis twice, and also had the very great pleasure of calling upon our esteemed secretary Dr. Huddleston, at his home in New York in June. To me it appeared he had changed but very little, although I had not seen him for over nineteen years.

"For myself I feel that Providence has been kind to me and mine. I hope to be able to attend the '86 Class Reunion next year upon the occasion of the twentieth anniversary of the graduation of the class, and to meet classmates whom I have not seen for over twenty years.

"In compliance with the request in your letter I have made my class-letter much longer than usual."

WILLIAM FREDERIC ZELLER

Born September 18, 1864, at St. Louis, Mo.

Father's Name: William Zeller

Mother's Maiden Name: Christine Haarstick

Present Address: 25 Broad St., New York, N. Y.

Present Business: Stock Broker

Name of Firm: Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington

After leaving college was in the office of N. K. Fairbank & Co., of St. Louis, dealers in lard.

'89-92, secretary and treasurer of the Carondelet Elevator and Grain Company of St. Louis.

'93-94, traveled abroad.

'94-98, broker in Chicago, member of the firm of Allen, Greer & Zeller.

'99-05, firm was Greer & Zeller.

Is now a member of Bartlett, Frazier & Carrington, brokers, of New York.

ASSOCIATE MEMBERS

GARRETT DROPPERS

Born April 12, 1860, at Milwaukee, Wis.

Father's Name: John Dirk Droppers

Mother's Maiden Name: Gertrude Boyink

Present Address: University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.

Marriage: Date (1) September 11, 1889; (2) September 4, 1897.

Place, (1) Cambridge, Mass.; (2) Cambridge.

Maiden Name of Wife: (1) Cora Augusta Rand (d. August 17, 1896); (2) Jean Tewkesbury Rand

Children: Names,

Seton Rand

Cora Rand

Elizabeth Rand

Dates of Birth,

August 12, 1898

August 3, 1900

January 22, 1904

'86-'87, studying at Harvard.

'87-'88, teacher in the Orange High School, New Jersey.

'88-'89, studying in Berlin.

'89-'98, professor of Political Science at Tokio, Japan.

'98-'06, president of the State University of South Dakota.

Fall of '06, was elected by the Trustees of the University of Chicago to a professorship in the Department of Political Economy.

'05, wrote: "My work during the past three years has been connected with the administration of the State University of South Dakota, and has been for the main part devoid of any exceptional points of interest. There was, it is true, some evidence of ebullition at one time, but it was a teapot affair, and nothing serious resulted. There is a great deal that is going on in this world that does not show on the surface and, indeed, is not spoken of much, which yet in the ordinary motives of people is known to be the 'real thing.' It would take too long to explain just what is the 'real thing' in the circumstances under which I am placed. It does not differ materially from the situation elsewhere. For instance, to-day it is well-known that if you wish to undermine a man in his political career you must not go about it directly by attacking him. Far better to go to work indirectly and attack him on some point which has no connection with his political career. Whether this is true generally, I will not say, but it happens that this is the explanation of the little storm in which I was engaged two years ago. It is an old saying that the commonplace is the really wonderful part of our existence. I find it so myself. The dramatic incidents, from the popular point of view, are evanescent and quickly forgotten. The things worth while are those that occupy us from day to day, and seem to be lacking in dramatic incident.

"The third child in our family, Elizabeth Rand, is now a year old. Other honors or rewards I have neither achieved nor had them thrust upon me."

MALCOLM GRAEME HAUGHTON

Born April 5, 1866, at Staten Island, N. Y.

Father's Name : Malcolm Graeme Haughton

Mother's Maiden Name : Mary Lawrence

Present Address : Home, 86 Mason Bldg., Boston, Mass.

Business, 70 Kilby St., Boston

Present Business : Cotton Buyer and Broker

Name of Firm : Haughton & Co.

'84-'87, apprentice with Abert & Perkins (cotton buyers) Columbus, Miss.

'88-'91, was partner in Abert & Haughton (cotton buyers) Columbus, Miss.

'92, was partner in Haughton & Heard, Rockdale, Tex.

'93, was agent for Ralli Brothers, Bryan, Tex.

'94-'99, was agent for Ralli Brothers, Waco, Tex.

1900-'05, was partner with his father in Haughton & Co., Boston, Mass.

Jan. 4, '06, father died and he formed a co-partnership with his brother, Lawrence Haughton.

*ROLAND HAYWARD

Born March 7, 1865, at Milton, Mass.

Father's Name : Isaac Davenport Hayward

Mother's Maiden Name : Mary Bartlett Vose

Died April 11, 1906

Roland Hayward, a temporary member, died at Milton, April 11, 1906. He was the son of Isaac Davenport and Mary Bartlett Vose Hayward, and was born March 7, 1865, at Milton. Ill health in his senior year prevented him from taking the examination for his degree.

He was for fifteen years a member of the Boston Stock Exchange, and senior partner of the firm of Hayward & Townsend. A few years ago he retired from active business and devoted himself to scientific pursuits. He was an ardent entomologist, and possessed a wonderful collection of beetles and an excellent scientific library. He was a member of the Boston Society of Natural History, which he joined when a boy, and was treasurer of the Cambridge Entomological Club. He had classified several families of beetles, and published several valuable papers upon these subjects, and had another paper almost completed at the time of his death. Hayward has bequeathed his superb collection of beetles (Coleoptera) to the Museum of Comparative Zoölogy at Harvard.

*JAMES ELLIS HUMPHREY

Born August 5, 1862, at Weymouth, Mass.

Father's Name: James Humphrey

Mother's Maiden Name: Susan Cushing

Died August 17, 1897

James Ellis Humphrey, the only son of James and Susan (Cushing) Humphrey, was born in Weymouth, Mass., August 5, 1862, and died of malarial fever at Port Antonio, Jamaica, August 17, 1897.

At the age of sixteen he graduated from the Weymouth High School, and, notwithstanding his youth, he was immediately appointed master of the grammar school at North Weymouth, near his home.

Next followed a business experience in the employ of the Prang Educational Company, and here he was brought in contact with people who stimulated him to further study and to study in scientific lines. One of his vacations was spent in study at the Martha's Vineyard Summer Institute. On his return he fitted up a little laboratory at his home, and every spare moment was devoted to collecting the seaweeds in that most productive place, the Weymouth Fore River, which ran to the sea almost before his father's door.

In the autumn of 1883 he was enrolled as a special student in the Lawrence Scientific School and soon not only took the regular course, but also did the four years of required work in three, receiving at the Commencement in 1886 the degree of Bachelor of Science, summa cum laude.

Immediately after graduation he received an appointment as assistant in botany. When the college year began Professor Goodale was abroad, and so the whole work of organizing the courses and of giving the lectures, as well as conducting the laboratory work, not only in the college, but also in the "Annex," devolved entirely upon Humphrey.

In the summer of 1887 he was appointed instructor in botany, in the University of Indiana. Professor Farlow in his letter recommending him for the place said that in his lectures he would "talk botany and not about botany."

The next year he accepted an appointment in the State Experiment Station at Amherst, Mass., and continued his studies for the doctor's degree. He chose for the subject of his dissertation a group of obscure aquatic fungi known as the Saprolegniaceae and his paper upon these forms published by the American Philosophical Society will long remain a classic. His work upon them is especially noticeable from the fact that in his studies he employed the recent cytological method which, up to that time, had been entirely ignored by American botanists. He received the degree of Doctor of Science from Harvard in 1892.

In January, 1893, Dr. Humphrey resigned his position at the Amherst Station, and later in the same year (1893) he sailed for Europe, and entered the laboratory of Professor Edward Strasburger, at Bonn.

As a mark of honor from the German botanists, he was made a member of the Deutsche Botanische Gesellschaft of Berlin, on the fifteenth of May, 1894.

In the fall of that year (1894), Dr. Humphrey was appointed fellow by courtesy in the Johns Hopkins University. The next year he was made lecturer in botany, and last spring, just before he sailed again to Jamaica, he was advanced to the position of associate professor of botany in this institution.

Besides the regular course of lectures at the University upon the Comparative Morphology of reproduction, he superintended daily laboratory work, and often took part in field excursions.

During the early part of last winter he gave a course of lectures upon the history of botany to a popular audience. The full attendance at these lectures to the very last, where without so much as a map or a diagram, he was able to hold hour after hour from week to week, the attentive interest of his hearers, must testify to his skill in selection and the aptness in mode of presentation of a subject generally considered a dry one among laymen.

In many ways Dr. Humphrey was an ideal man. He was the very soul of purity and honesty. He had high ideals, and was outspoken in his opinions of dishonesty in business or intellectual matters. A piece of slovenly work excited his disgust. He was strong in his friendships and faithful to his friends. He was strongly optimistic—no matter how dark the moment, he could always see blue sky ahead. He was an honest, careful worker, and he thought clearly upon the subject of his studies. He was social, and he enjoyed good society as much as any man could. He had a keen appreciation of humor, and the artistic side of his nature was highly developed.

GEORGE WILLIAM LEIGHTON

Born June 10, 1863, at East Cambridge, Mass.

Father's Name: William Leighton

Mother's Maiden Name: Mary Jane Reed

Present Address : Home, 6518 Kimbark Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Business, 100 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

Present Business : Attorney in Guaranty Department of Chicago Title & Trust Co.

Marriage : Date, October 9, 1894. Place, Indianapolis, Ind.

Maiden Name of Wife : Minnie Elizabeth Haerle

Children: Names,

Dates of Birth,

Frederick William

December 30, 1895

Harold Haerle

March 22, 1901

Mary Elizabeth

June 12, 1903

'86-'87, studying at the École des Beaux Arts in Paris.

'88, took an active interest in establishing the factory of Dayell, Gilman & Leighton Co., manufacturers of table glasswares, Findlay, Ohio, and in this company he continued until '90 as director, chemist and metal worker.

'90-'93, student at the Northwestern University Law School.

January 1, '94, joined the firm of Smith, Babcock & Leighton, which became on May 1, '94, the firm of Babcock & Leighton. Is at present with the Chicago Title & Trust Co.

Is particularly interested in amateur photography.

Is a member of the Salon Club of America; the Chicago Athletic Association and the South Shore Country Club of Chicago.

FRANK BURSLEY TAYLOR

Born November 2, 1860, at Fort Wayne, Ind.

Father's Name : Robert Stewart Taylor

Mother's Maiden Name : Fanny Wright

Present Address : 548 Home Ave., Fort Wayne

Present Business : Geologist, Pleistocene subjects

Marriage : Date, April 24, 1899. Place, Mackinac Island, Mich.

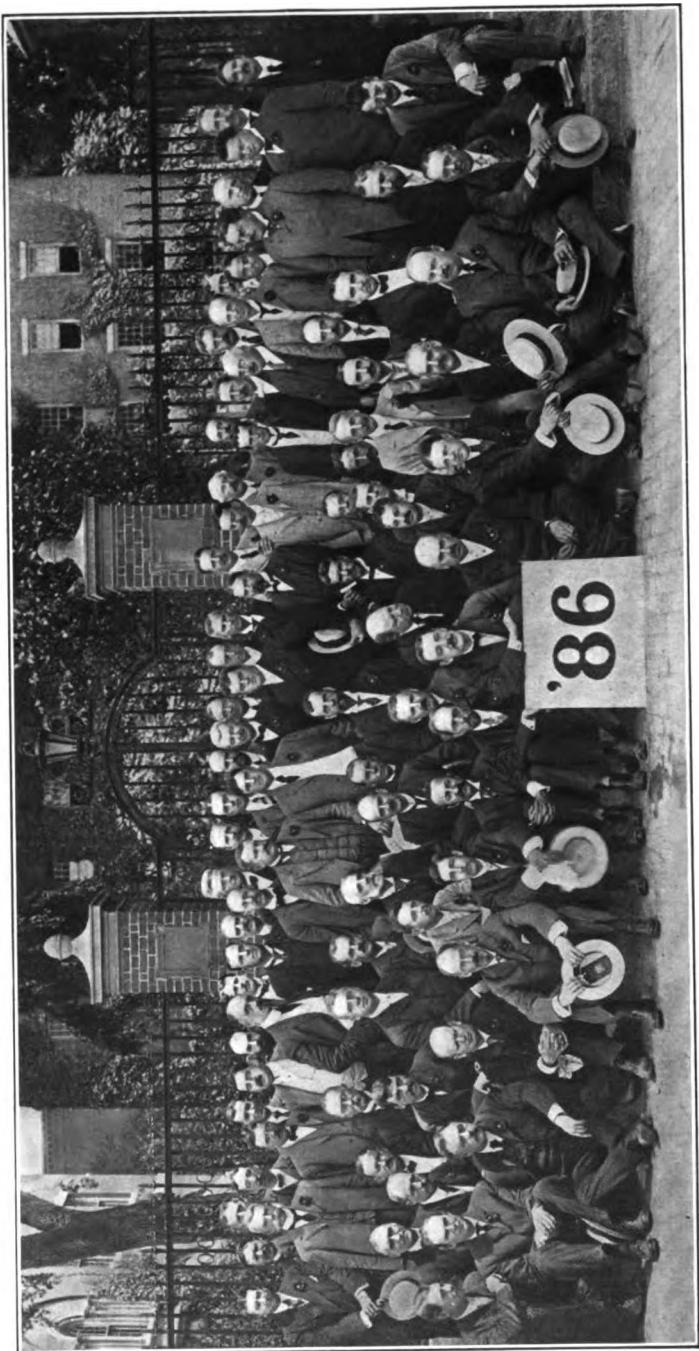

Maiden Name of Wife : Minnetta Ketchum

After leaving college in '86, spent about seven years traveling at health resorts in search of health. About '90 began to spend part of each summer studying glacial and post-glacial geology in the Great Lake region.

'90-1900, published about twenty papers on this subject.

'94, was abroad.

1900, engaged on the Michigan State Geological Survey. Since that time has been a special field assistant in the United States Geological Survey.

Commencement, 1906

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY

In the spring of 1906 a committee was invited by the Class Committee to undertake the charge of the celebration. This Anniversary Committee organized, raised a subscription fund, and on June 5th issued the following circular:

BOSTON, June 5, 1906.

To '86:

Over one hundred and ten members of the class have signified already their intention to be present at our twentieth reunion. Favorable replies are expected from several other men who have not been heard from as yet. The committee feels assured that this reunion will be the pleasantest, as well as the largest, class gathering which '86 has held since graduation.

A few minor changes have been made in the arrangements for the celebration. Your attention is especially called to these changes which are carefully noted below. The programme, corrected to date, is as follows:

SUNDAY, JUNE 24TH, 1906. A memorial service will be held at Trinity Church by '81. The service will be conducted by Rev. John W. Suter, '81, and Rev. George A. Gordon, '81. Rev. Theodore Sedgwick, '86, is also expected to assist.

It is the wish of '81 that this service should be a Harvard service to which Harvard men in Boston that day will come, and especially that those classes having special celebrations will attend.

MONDAY, JUNE 25TH. Day and evening at the Country Club, Brookline. Arrive in time for luncheon, which can be served at the convenience of the members any time they arrive. Afternoon, golf, tennis, and other sports; also five-inning baseball game with '91. ('91 and '96 will also celebrate at the Country Club.) A simple dinner at 7.30. Evening, a band concert, by band hired jointly by '86, '91, and '96.

TUESDAY, JUNE 26TH. Meet at Hotel Somerset at 9.30 A.M. Automobiles to Hamilton, where the class has been invited to spend the day as guests of A. P. Gardner. Return in the afternoon by automobiles in time for the class dinner at the Exchange Club, at 7.30. Gordon Woodbury, toastmaster.

NOTE that the place of meeting will be HOTEL SOMERSET, Commonwealth Avenue, corner of Charlesgate East (not the Touraine); and that the hour of meeting has been changed to 9.30 A.M. The start for Hamilton must be made by 9.45 sharp, and members should be at Hotel Somerset promptly at 9.30, in order to facilitate the seating arrangements. A printed circular, giving the route to Hamilton, will be distributed. This route follows the park system along the beaches as far as possible.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27TH. Commencement, meet at 4 Hollis, in the forenoon. Let the "Outlanders" "see Cambridge." Class group at the '86 gate at noon. Annual business meeting of the Alumni in Harvard Hall at 11 o'clock. Alumni gathering in Memorial Hall, at 2 o'clock.

NOTE that the hour of the meeting of the Alumni Association has been changed to 11 o'clock. This will be an important meeting, at which will be submitted a proposed revision of the Constitution of the Association.

NOTE also that the Pop Concert, as a class affair, has been given up.

INFORMATION BUREAU. A room at Hotel Somerset will be reserved as headquarters and as an information bureau, with a clerk in attendance all day Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

NOTE that headquarters have been changed to HOTEL SOMERSET (not the Touraine). Special rates for '86 men have been arranged at the Somerset as follows:

Double room, with bath, $4.00 per day; double room, without bath, $3.50 per day; single room, with bath, $3.00 per day; single room, without bath, $2.50 per day.

Jewett will communicate directly with the men who have accepted his hospitality at the Mount Ida School.

Send all correspondence to Hood, 99 Bedford Street, Boston.

OLIVER AMES

JOHN H. HUDDLESTON

THOS. TILESTON BALDWIN

GEORGE F. JEWETT

ADAMS D. CLAFLIN

HERBERT LYMAN

FRANK E. DICKERMAN

JOHN M. MERRIAM

WALTER H. EDGERLY

EDWARD H. NICHOLS

E. HAYWARD FERRY

GEORGE L. PEABODY

SEWALL H. FESSENDEN

ODIN B. ROBERTS

PAUL R. FROTHINGHAM

CHARLES H. TYLER

JAMES A. FRYE

GEORGE M. WEED

AUGUSTUS P. GARDNER

ROBERT D. WESTON-SMITH

EDWARD HAMLIN

GORDON WOODBURY

FREDERIC C. HOOD, Chairman

On the first day several attended the special Harvard services at Trinity Church. On the second day about seventy reported to Fessenden at the Country Club, in time for a lunch which was all the jollier for the presence at the Club of the celebrating classes, '91 and '96. Additional '86 men appeared during the afternoon, and supported our athletes vociferously. Captain Churchill of the nine reported as follows:

"As nearly as I can remember these fellows played in the game of soft ball against '96: Chamberlin, c.; Churchill, p.; Cook, Lloyd, W. Clark, Ferry, Pudor, Wheeler, C. R. Brown, Jennings, G. Woodbury, sub., Fred Weld, Scorer.

"I cannot be absolutely sure of all of these. I know that I pitched and that Chamberlin handled my terrific speed and cork-screw curves in a manner worthy of an '86 man. We came to the bat the last half of the ninth inning with the score 11 to 6 against us, but by timely hitting, inspired by the glorious traditions of '86 and driven to desperation in abject fear of what our trainer, the gentle czar 'Nick' would say to us, we made six runs before a single man was put out; thus winning the game in a magnificent burst of speed, happy, though exhausted, that we did not have to lower our colors to the 'Kids' of

'96. Our trainer wept tears of surgical joy on seeing the uphill game his pets put up and urged us one and all to return next year for Post-Graduate work to insure doing up the 'Eli,' as of old!"

In the golf match there were teams of five men each from the classes of '86, '91, and '96 who played three games. Fessenden reported "'86 won three out of the five matches, hole play, 18 holes. The '86 team was composed of F. C. Hood, M. G. Haughton, S. H. Fessenden, W. H. Slocum, and E. S. Hamlin; the first three being the winners."

After dinner all the three celebrating classes found places on the lawn, in front of an improvised stage provided with scenery and received the following program:

HARVARD
'86, '91, '96.
EVENING PROGRAMME,
Brookline Country Club, June 25, 1906.

O JEEZ! O JEEZ!! O JEEZ!!!

All persons having any business to be on the premises, now in the post-prandial joy of fulness; all sports, ferruginous, autochthonous, or pathogenic, will now draw near, and they shall be heard, if they are loud enough.

God save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts from this honorable collection of Indians.

"It is better to sit than to stand up, and better still to lie down."

(Unpublished memoir of Omar Khayyam.)

SIT DOWN!

(Those who want to lie down will find the mint beds ten yards south by east from the eighteenth hole. All mint beds are hazards.)

FIRST CANTER.

The Barnstormer Brothers, all of '91, will present that sterling old favorite

TWELFTH NIGHT,
(or some of it).

This performance, as given by the original cast, furnished the inspiration for that other Elizabethan Drama entitled

TEN NIGHTS IN A BAR-ROOM.
(You can judge for yourself.)

SECOND CANTER.

The only Ventriloquist born in captivity. In the intervals when his stomach is not talking it will perform a danse du ventre.

THIRD CANTER.

Bacchanal Bobby, in his musical Concachinnations.
(The piano abused is a Snickerin'.)

FOURTH CANTER.

HELP! MURDER!! POLICE!!!

After the offenders have given bail, the regular

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES will be conducted.

As a necessary Preliminary the Ancient Lithuanian Rites of the Order of Misery will be performed, and the unwashed washed.

In case of rain, let it rain.

The '86 crew will appear on an allegorical float, singing, "'T is better to have loafed and lost than never to have loafed at all."

A. J. Cumnock, '91, wants to read a paper on "How I reformed football by disfiguring a Yale Eleven."

Is n't Nelsie Perkins a cunnin' little Fellow?

Keep still, Jim Lee; this is the way it goes: — Ninety — Boom — One — Rah — Break your necks — Zim — Rah — Seven — Twelve — Twenty-three — Skidooooo !!

John Hunt, '96, Patient Publisher, announces that he confidently expects to produce something quite new, in pink calf, limited Author's Edition.

We are pleased to learn that George T. Rice, '96, has at last taken out a license as a Giant.

This made a fitting climax to the day and the participation of the three classes in the entertainment, and their final consolidation in the Mystic Society of the Cup, the Link, and the Key, gave just the right touch to the supremest fun-making '86 has known.

For full notes on the exercises the secretary returns thanks to Garceau '91.

Finlay, Garceau, Nichols, Parker, and Wendell, all of '91, gave "Twelfth Night" as only they can. Russell '96 was the ventriloquist, and R. W. Atkinson '91 the prodigy on the piano. Odin Roberts, made up as John Moran, appeared on a steam roller and every one was properly prepared for the Commencement exercises, which began with the reading of the following grand charter:

CARTA SEU REGIMEN.

Omnibus adquos hæ litteræ pervenerint, salutem in Diabolo:

Notum sit quod, Præses, Ærari Præfectus, Consultores Medici, Flagellatores Primi, aliique socii Universitatis Harvardianæ ex Consensu improviso Senatus, qui captus subito sine togis, quæ lingua Anglica Mother Hubbards appellantur, quidvis antiqui permisit, his litteris, sani vero, quod decet post tempus cervisiae hircinæ, dant, tribuunt, donant, assignant enfeoffant Honestis conjunctis Curatoribus, annorum sex et octoginta; unius et nonaginta; sex et nonaginta; heredibus, administratoribus, successoribus, assignatoribus, universis et singulis, in sæcula sæculorum, Amen, videlicet:

Omnes potestates, privilegia, munera, latrocinia, grafta, cincta, snappa, jura a nobis, adhuc habita et possessa, omnibus capacitatibus atque incapacitatibus, munus sine jure asseverandi, sine causa negandi; claves arcanorum Universitatis omniaque asiamenta, pertinentias, mappas, lavatoria ad hæc pertinentia. Præsertimque potestatem privilegiumque tribuendi, in perpetuum tenenda, iis viris qui vobis digni esse videantur, omnes gradus qui honoris causa tribuantur vel cartas ejusdem preti, in corpore gerenda; sed ne falcibus utimini. In cuius rei testimonium huic documento manus nostras posuimus vel notam nostram fecimus, si vobis placet, sigillumque Universitatis Harvardianæ affiximus.

CAROLUS GULIELMUS ELIOTIS, Præses.

DUDLEY A. SARGENT,

nota X ejus.

Datum in Aula University, Numero Quinto, Cantabrigiæ, Anno Domini Millesimo nongentesimo sexto, Universitatis conditæ Ducentesimo septuagesimo.

CHARTER.

To all to whom these presents shall come, GREETING:

Be it known, that we, the President, Treasurer, Medical Advisers,

Head Coaches and other Fellows of Harvard University, by and with the unexpected consent of the Board of Overseers, who, surprised without their Mother Hubbards, consented to any old thing, do hereby, being as nearly in our right mind as we ought to be so soon after the Bock Beer season, give, grant, convey, assign, demise unto, and enfeoff the Honorable, the Joint Committee of the Classes of '86, '91, and '96, their heirs, administrators, successors and assigns, jointly and severally, World without end, Amen, as follows, to wit:

All the powers, privileges, grafts, cinches, snaps, and prerogatives whatsoever by us heretofore held and enjoyed in all capacities and incapacities; the right to assert without justification and to deny without reason; the keys to the arcana of the University, and all the easements, appurtenances, towels, and washboards whatsoever thereunto belonging.

And in particular the power and privilege of conferring, to be held in perpetuam, upon such persons of the male sex as shall by you be deemed worthy thereof, all and sundry Honorary Degrees, or equivalent tags, to be worn on the person. But use no hooks.

In witness, whereof, we have hereunto set our hands or made our marks, as the case may be, and affixed the great seal of Harvard University.

CAROLUS GULIELMUS ELIOTIS, President.
DUDLEY A. SARGENT,
his X mark.

Given at No. 5 University Hall, at Cambridge, in this year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and six, universitate condita CCLXX.

The following degrees were then conferred :

NOMINATIO PROFESSORIS PLUMBARII REI POLITICÆ CHRISTIANÆ.

Vestiti potestate nobis concessa documento plumbeo supra demonstrato in manibus quorundam incognitorum, nos conjuncti curatores, his litteris, facimus nominamusque præsidem. Propter experientiam subterraneam excavandæ limitis Occidentalis curiæ Holworthiensis, pericula item et laborem hoc loco, secundumque scientiam plumbi antiqui aperti occultique, in testimonium etiam his diebus denique castitatis virgineæ animi et copiosi ingeni, quibus potuit se agricolam gerere, acta diurna scribere, in re politica, pecuniaria, musica, sacra, pariter versari, Professorum Plumbarium demeritum, Gordon Woodbury, anni octogesimi sexti, creamus.

APPOINTMENT OF PLUMBER PROFESSOR OF CHRISTIAN POLITICS.

Clothed with the powers conferred upon us by the aforesaid blunt instrument in the hands of some person or persons unknown, we, the joint committee, do hereby constitute and appoint a presiding officer. Recognizing at this late day the virgin purity of his character and the versatility of his genius, which has enabled him to pursue farming, journalism, politics, finance, and sacred music, with equal luck, and by virtue of his subterranean experiences in excavating the West End of Holworthy, his trials and labors therein, and his consequent familiarity with ancient plumbing, both open and occult, we create Gordon Woodbury, '86, Plumber Professor, Demeritus.

Cives honesti, socii fratresque ornatissimi:

Labor ex nobismetipsis eligendi eos qui digni sint honoribus tribuendis nos permultum perturbavit. Multi qui vocati sunt forsitan quoque electi essent. Electio autem maxime facta est quod ii qui hos honores accepturi sunt, absentes se opponere non potuerunt.

Honorable fellow citizens, associates and brothers:

The task of selecting from among ourselves persons worthy of the honors about to be conferred, has been embarrassing. Many who were called might well have been chosen also. The selection was in large measure determined by the fact that the recipients of these distinctions were not present to remonstrate.

AUGUSTUM PEABODY GARDNER:

Carbasorum Ornamentalium Satorem, Postmagistrorum Arbitrum,
Piscium, quæ in Periculo sint, Salvatorem, Apud Portam Castle
Garden (Horti Castrensis) Canem Custodem, Pannorum Divitum
Incensorem, Ad Gradum

Pii Generi
Admisimus.

Upon AUGUSTUS PEABODY GARDNER:

Raiser of Ornamental Vegetables, Occasional Kicker, Arbiter of Postmasterships, Preserver of Imperilled Fish, Watch-dog at the Gate of Castle Garden, Burner of Expensive Awnings, we confer the degree

D. S. L.
(Dutiful Son-in-law.)

GULIELMUM COWPER BOYDEN:

Imperi Occidentalis Dictatorem, Civitatis Ventosæ Facile Principem, Episcoporum Universitatis Factorum, Socium Universalem, Manus Lætæ Fertorem, Ad Gradum

Clamatoris Conlegi Harvardiani
Admisimus.

Upon WILLIAM COWPER BOYDEN:

Dictator of our Western Empire, Universal Mixer, Overseer Maker, Wielder of the Glad Hand, we confer the degree

R. F. H.
(Rooter For Harvard.)

GULIELMUM RANDOLPH HEARST:

Sinapismorum Flavorum Compositorem; Neo Eboraci Prætorem Urbanum, Nondum sed mox; Candidatum Skidoonem, Ter et Viciens; Parvam Vocem Tranquillam Conscientiæ Popularis; Terrā Quassatā Auxilium Primum, Ad Gradum

Pueri Elevatori Artificum miserorum
Admisimus.

Upon WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST:

Compounder of Yellow Mustard Plasters; Mayor of New York, not yet, but soon; Skidoo Candidate Twenty-three Times; the Still Small Voice of Popular Conscience; First Aid to the Earthquaked, we confer the degree

E. B. W. C.
(Elevator Boy for Working Classes.)

JOSEPHUM LEITER:

Josephum hujus Temporis Præsentis, qui in Granaria omne fere Frumentum Ægypti Collegit; Tigrium Adversarium; Lady Mavericks Notatorem, Ad Gradum

Lusoris audacissimi
Admisimus.

Upon JOSEPH LEITER:

The Latter-day Joseph, who gathers almost all the corn of Egypt into granaries; Antagonist of Tigers; Brander of Lady Mavericks, we confer the degree

D. G. S.
(Dead Game Sport.)

JOANNEM JOSEPHUM HIGGINS:

Boulangerum Terræ Mirabilis, Equitem, Insulæ Misericordiæ Hominem Insanum Amentemque, Athletam, Advocatum, Anchoram, Ad Gradum

Joannis Digits Versis
Admisimus.

Upon JOHN JOSEPH HIGGINS:

The Boulanger of Wonderland, the Man on Horseback, the Maniac of Misery Island, Athlete, Advocate, Anchor, we confer the degree

B. U. J.
(Buck-up-Johnny.)

ARTURUM JOSEPHUM GARCEAU:

Cujusque Servum, Tyrannum Benevolum, Alacrem Impigrumque Libellorum Scriptorem, Mercurium Conductorem, Laboratorem Volentem, Ad Gradum

Scribæ Scribarum
Admisimus.

Upon ARTHUR JOSEPH GARCEAU:

Everybody's Choremian, Benevolent Autocrat, Indefatigable Enthusiast, Composer of Circulars, Personal Conductor, Willing Worker we confer the degree

S. S.
(Secretary of Secretaries.)

KENNETH HASTINGS LEWIS:

Chestoferum, Crosum Lucullumque Conjunctos, Celibatum Invitum, Ad Gradum

Feminarum Deliciarum
Admisimus.

Upon KENNETH HASTINGS LEWIS:

Chest bearer, Napoleon of Finance, Reluctant Celibate, we confer
the degree

L. D.

(Ladies' Delight.)

ARTURUM CHENEY TRAIN.

Advocatum Litterarum Peritum, Rerum Inutilium Thesaurum Infallibilem, Ad Gradum

Scelerum Pictorum Historiographi
Admisimus.

Upon ARTHUR CHENEY TRAIN:

Literary Lawyer, Infallible Encyclopædia of Impractical Information, we confer the degree

C. P. C.

(Chronicler of Picturesque Crime.)

EDUARDUM G. KNOBLAUCH:

Dramatis Moralis Scriptorem, Frivolitatis Parisiensis Pictorem,
Pudoris in Rebus Impudicis Inventorem, Gratiarum Litteriarum
Fautorem, Ad Gradum

Infantuli Patris
Admisimus.

Upon EDWARD G. KNOBLAUCH:

Moral Dramatist, Portrayer of Parisian Frivolity, Discovery of Modesty in the Immodest, Advocate of Literary Delicacy, we confer the degree

F. K.

(Father of the Kid.)

Then came the ceremony of the Cup, the Link, and the Key.

Remarks by the Exalted Potentate of the Mystic Order of the Cup and Key (ODIN ROBERTS, '86):

"Five years ago a momentous event took place. To avoid the suspicion of invidious distinctions, we will not assert that the two most illustrious classes that ever graduated from Harvard came into convivial collision, but such was the fact. They marched and counter-marched together, approximately in step with the inspiring strains of a hectic brass band, while the azure firmament cracked into a crazy-quilt pattern and the rock-ribbed backbone of Misery Island heaved beneath their well-rounded feet. There it was that the two Classes of '86 and '91, so inextricably entangled in the meshes of fraternal love that legs and arms were indifferently distinguishable, engendered the secret order of the Cup and Key whose name straightway bellowed from the megaphone of Fame.

"To-night another class craves to be admitted to the Mystic Order, and '96, having been tried, and tried sorely, at the Awful Bar, has been found worthy. One member of the Class of '96 has been discovered to retain the powers of articulation, and we bid him appear to represent his species."

Then T. Garceau, the anointed and chosen representative of the Class of '91 and custodian of the Cup, spoke:

"The Supreme Council of the Cup and Key, whose names, according to the Laws of the Order, are known to no man, has in solemn conclave voted unanimously to admit thereto the Class of '96. The Class of '96, Robbers, Thieves, in hopeful expectation of this action, has chosen a representative, of certified virginity, to receive the accolade, and to unite, in his person, the Class of '96 with '86 and '91, in the bonds of indissoluble brotherhood.

"Neophyte: Stand forth."

[Whereupon the neophyte stood forth.]

"Neophyte, do you, speaking as plenipotentiary for your recumbent associates, desire admission to the Sacred Order of the Cup and Key?"

[The neophyte here made a noise like Toby, the tame walrus.]

"Take then this link and with it join the archaic emblems of our fraternity."

[The neophyte took the aforesaid link, and after assuring himself that it was not a cold storage pretzel, proceeded to fumble the Cup and Key together with it. A passing inspiration enabled him to accomplish his object. His remarks, however, were intelligible to only a few and were not fit for publication.]

The Sublimated Scribe of the Mystic Order then said:

"The triple Plunderbund is sealed. Henceforth its glory shall be bounded on the North by the Aurora Borealis and on the South by the Monroe Doctrine, on the East by the Nebular Hypothesis, and on the West by the [hic] Transit of Venus" (A voice:—"Three times three for Venus"). (One Leiter, '91, who had been provided with a lantern to help him count his feet, here gave an imitation of Diogenes finding an honest man.)

The S. S. continued:

"We assembled this morning six hundred strong, and have been getting stronger every minute. We part as one, united in the Symbol of the Cup, Key, and Link."

In spite of the long excitement of the second day sixty-nine men appeared ready for the automobile ride on the third day, and received the following itinerary:

'86 AUTOMOBILE RIDE

TUESDAY, JUNE 26, 1906

- | Distance
Between
Points | Total
Distance | |
|-------------------------------|-------------------|---|
| | | — |
| | | o o LEAVE HOTEL SOMERSET on Commonwealth Ave. going toward Mass. Ave. Turn left over Harvard Bridge. Follow Mass. Ave. to Central Sq., Cambridge, where turn right into |
| 1.5 | 1.5 | PROSPECT STREET. Follow Prospect Street to Somerville over sharp rise to R. R. bridge Fitchburg Division to Second Street after bridge. Turn right into |
| 1.1 | 2.6 | WASHINGTON STREET. Turn third left, Medford Street, with trolley tracks, bear right at top of rise into Cross Street, which follow to end of Street turning left into Broadway, Somerville. Take 3rd right into |
| 1. | 3.6 | FELLSWAY. (Look out for Motor Bicycle Cops.) Follow Fellsway over Mystic R. R. Bridge taking right hand roadway after leaving bridge. Turn first right into |
| 1. | 4.6 | PARKWAY. Cross three bridges. Cross Broadway, Everett, follow Parkway across Everett Ave. in |

Distance Between Points	Total Distance
-------------------------------	-------------------

- Chelsea bearing left up hill. Follow Parkway across Broadway, Revere, pass by Revere R. R. Station, Eastern division and bearing left a half mile beyond, go over Narrow Gauge R. R. bridge to Revere Beach. (A circle in parkway marks termination for motor vehicles in parkway during summer season.) Turn left rear of buildings following trolley track, turn first left over first bridge into
- 5.6 10.2 SHIRLEY AVE. (Three blocks further on is "Wonderland" where '91 will arrive about four o'clock.) Follow Shirley Avenue to R. R. bridge bearing left over R. R. bridge following trolley tracks on Central Ave. to School St. Turn right around Church on corner into School St., which follow to
- 1.3 11.5 BROADWAY, REVERE. Follow Broadway across Lynn marshes (no Cops) through West Lynn on Western Avenue across R. R. tracks at Lynn Common Station, taking right fork past Lynn Common to City Hall, Lynn. Bear right into
- 4.6 16.1 CENTRAL AVENUE, going past Lynn Station. After crossing R. R. tracks, bear left with trolley tracks, then bear to right on Nahant Street. Follow Nahant Street about three blocks to
- .9 17. OCEAN STREET. (It is well worth while to run to foot of Nahant Street and back about 0.3 of a mile to get the view.) Follow Ocean Street about five blocks turning right into Prescott Place to Lynn shore drive. Turn left on drive, which follow along shore past the monument in Monument Square, Swampscott. Bear to right along Humphrey Street, past King's Beach taking right fork again at the Red Bath-house into
- 1.6 18.6 ORIENT STREET. Follow Orient along shore past Lincoln House on right and Ocean House on left. Orient Street becomes Puritan Road which follow to Humphrey Square. Turn right at Humphrey Square into

- | Distance
Between
Points | Total
Distance | |
|-------------------------------|-------------------|--|
| 1.4 | 20. | ATLANTIC AVE. Follow Atlantic Avenue past Phillips Beach, Beach Bluffs, Preston House through Clifton to Ocean Street near Marblehead where turn left one block, then left again. Follow trolley track across R. R. track at Devereaux Station about 0.3 miles to fork in road where trolley tracks also fork. Take right fork (Salem Street) which follow past Forest River Station and Normal School into |
| 4.4 | 24.4 | LAFAYETTE STREET. Follow Lafayette Street to Essex Street (dangerous crossing of trolley cars at bridge), also dangerous, and sharp right turn into |
| 1.1 | 25.5 | ESSEX STREET, SALEM. Proceed two blocks on Essex Street turn left then past Salem Common, turning left again at Boulder Monument. Two blocks farther on turn right into Bridge Street (signs pointing toward Beverly). Follow Bridge Street across bridge into Beverly, turning right with trolley tracks at end of bridge. Follow trolley tracks along Cabot Street a few blocks, turning right into |
| 1.7 | 27.2 | STONE STREET. (Bad bump one block down Stone Street.) A few blocks down Stone Street turn left into Lothrop Street, which follow to Hale Street. Follow Hale Street a few blocks and bear right into Ober Street. Follow Ober in Neptune Street, at end of which turn sharp right into Hale Street again. Follow Hale Street around right turning and keep on main road past Pride's Crossing to |
| 4.6 | 31.8 | BEVERLY FARMS VILLAGE. Don't turn to right, go straight on to end of road where turn sharp left into Hart Street. Follow Hart into Grapevine Road, and follow Grapevine until trolley tracks appear. Turn right with the trolley tracks, which follow for about a half mile, then turn left at four corners into Miles River Road (also called Hopkins Street). Follow Miles River Road past Myopia Hunt Club grounds on the left crossing Essex branch R. R. at Miles River Station to |

Distance Between Points	Total Distance
-------------------------------	-------------------

Hamilton Centre a half mile further. Turn right into

- 5.2 37. MAIN STREET, HAMILTON. Pass Hamilton Town Hall, and follow Main Street through town. Pass Gardner road about 1.4 miles and Main road bends to left, then to right. As a group of Red Buildings come into view, turn right into first driveway entrance, which is

- 1.7 38.7 ENTRANCE to Gardner's estate.

The most direct road from Gardner's house to Salem is to follow Main Street in Hamilton through Wenham, North Beverly, turning sharp right in Beverly after crossing R. R. (Rockport branch) past Beverly Station to Beverly Bridge.

The most direct road from Salem to Lynn is to follow Lafayette Street to the Normal School, then right to fork in road almost two miles further on, turning left at fork by new State Road through Swampscott.

The time for the start for the return trip will be at the discretion of men in accordance with verbal announcement to be made later. But all should be in Boston in time to meet at the Exchange Club by 7.30 P. M. sharp.

The course was followed more or less closely. On the way out many stopped and were entertained at the Salem Club. On the arrival at the farm in Hamilton all were presented to, and cordially welcomed by, Mrs. Gardner and Miss Constance Gardner. Lunch was served at small tables under a great marquee on the lawn. After the lunch, photographs were taken, and a telegram expressing the enjoyment of the Class was sent to Gardner, who was detained by his duties in Congress. On the return to the city there was a brief stop for a welcome at the Myopia Club. Little spare time was found before the

TWENTIETH ANNUAL CLASS DINNER.

The twentieth annual Class Dinner was held at the Exchange Club, Boston, Tuesday evening, June 26, 1906. General James Albert Frye presided, Hon. Gordon Woodbury acted as Toastmaster, and Courtenay Guild, Esq., was Chorister. A band of three pieces was in attendance. One hundred members of the class were at the tables.

The menu contained the following list of speakers and a few timely "Class Notes":

SPEAKERS

JAMES ALBERT FRYE: Introduction.

JOHN HENRY HUDDLESTON: Class Statistics.

THOMAS TILESTON BALDWIN: Class Facts.

WILLIAM COWPER BOYDEN: What '86 Men are doing to the West.

ROBERT DICKSON WESTON: What the West is doing to '86 Men.

JOHN MCKINSTRY MERRIAM: Wild Politicians I have Known.

HOWARD TAYLOR: '86 to the Bar in New York or Elsewhere.

WILLIAM LORD SMITH: '86 in Persian Harems.

ODIN BARNES ROBERTS: The Masses and the Class.

EDWARD HALL NICHOLS: Harvard Athletics.

AUGUSTUS PEABODY GARDNER: Harvard at Washington.

AUGUSTUS HUGO VOGEL: The Class that made Milwaukee Famous.

CLASS NOTES

The speakers whose names are ostentatiously printed on this programme must be listened to. There will be other speakers whom you will be glad to listen to.

Under the Gardner Immigration bill all immigrants to Hamilton in automobiles are exempted from the payment of a head-tax.

G. Woodbury has promised to be good this time. All his medical stories have been censored.

In 1908 Lamont will stump for the '86 presidential ticket, Hearst and Gardner.

W. L. Smith appears on this occasion by special permission of the Shah of Persia.

Boyden's permanent address is Packington.

Red Men, A. O. H.'s, and other lodges (except Senators) wishing to be reviewed in front of the State House, may engage for that purpose the services of a military gent, with resplendent uniform, by applying to the Adjutant General's office, State House. Office hours, 11 to 12.

The keel of the Twenty-fifth Reunion will be laid to-night.

During the dinner the following telegrams were read :

District Attorney's Office,
Boston, June 26, 1906.

To Odin B. Roberts :

Have summoned before the grand jury Frank E. Dickerman whom I consider the most dangerous character at large. Shall indict him. Don't accept bail. Make him explain himself.

John B. Moran.

Bellyview Hospital,
New York, June 26, 1906.

To John Henry Huddleston :

Have just learned where you are. Don't you dare to give me away again. My tooth is better. Sal Amanda.

Indian Ocean, on board the Dry Dock,
June 26, 1906.

To Admiral Bill Dewey :

If you had used your dock as an anchor in the tug-of-war, '86 would have been sitting on the cleats now.

Boatswain's Mate.

House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C., June 26, 1906.

To Augustus P. Vogel :

Pick up the few pieces left of Hamilton, and give them a decent burial. A. P. Gardner, M. P.

Mayor's Office,
New York, June 26, 1906.

To Hammond Lamont,

Chairman Hearst Democratic Executive Committee :

I accept with gratitude the Presidential nomination accorded me tonight by the '86 Convention. My platform is Earthquakes and Reform. William Randolph Hearst.

New York, June 26, 1906.

To James C. Ayer :

Come back and all will be forgiven. See Herald "Personals" to-morrow. Mamie.

Fitzwilliam, N. H.,
June 26, 1906.

To Thos. Tileston Baldwin:

We have another calf. Come at once and tell us whether to name it Susie or John.
Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Branch Office Standard Oil Company,
Paris, France, June 26, 1906.

To S. H. Fessenden:

Draw on me for any deficit in '86 reunion fund. The amount of gasoline burned and drunk by '86 to-day enables Standard Oil to declare an extra dividend.
John D. Rockefeller.

The Chairman in opening the speech-making said:

Attention, '86! We have with us one of the younger generation, and it gives me great pleasure to project into your midst Captain
Howland Russell, '96, who is loaded—with a speech.

CAPTAIN HOWLAND RUSSELL:

Eighty-six, this is a greater honor than I ever expected in my life.
On my left we have the greatest and most energetic of the executive officers of the militia. [Voice of Frye: "Right!"] Making a right oblique, we have Dr. Nichols, the man who plays ten straight games against the Elis, and wins every game. And, obliquing still to the right, we have Dr. Churchill. [A voice: "What has he done?"] Why should he not be great and grand? He comes from the town of Milton. He is always right, and generally wrong. And now, '86, as a delegate from '96 downstairs, I extend to you my thorough thanks for the class that has been out of Cambridge not twenty, only ten years, and I want to drink to the health of every man here. Now!
[All rose and drank deeply.]

The Chairman: Eighty-six, your chairman appoints this committee to return the visit of '96. I have picked out only those fit for publication, and the delegation will be Roberts, Clafin, and—though of doubtful qualifications—Ayer. The chairman will provide himself with the proper magnum, and depart—removing at the same time the remains of the Envoy Extraordinary from '96.

Captain Russell: I object! I would rather stay here.

The Chairman: Sit down, my little man. [Russell weighing 230 pounds.] And now, while we are at it, I will announce the delegation to visit '66, all ultra respectable young men, namely Lamont, Dick Smith, and Ferry.

[After an interval, more or less hazy, the delegations returned, their respective chairmen reporting as follows:—]

MR. HAMMOND LAMONT:

Gentlemen, in accordance with instructions, we beg to say that we introduced ourselves to '66 as the three most heavily respectable members of this class. We were so instructed by the Chairman, I believe. They simply said that they recognized us, and then they drank our health in our own wine, and sent to the Class of '86 their most cordial greetings and good wishes.

The Chairman: I have just received the following telegram:

To the Secretary, Class of '86:

Return to us our delegate, and we will pay any ransom required, even to bail money.

Class of '96.

Roberts, will you kindly report for the delegation visiting '96?

ODIN BARNES ROBERTS, Esq.:

It was not for your Committee to tell the Class of '96 where they stood! Your Committee was recognized at once as probably the most disreputable aggregation which could have been sent downstairs. The Class of '96 did nothing but cheer and inebriate.

[At this point Roberts sang "The Stein Song," the class joining heartily in the chorus.]

The Chairman: Eighty-six, I would suggest to you chaps at the far end of the room that, insomuch as this is a hard place to be heard in, you would do well to draw toward the head of the table. "Sit closer, friends."

Eighty-six, I wish to say most simply to you fellows that of the few honors that have come my way perhaps the most satisfactory was the one that you dealt to me when you made me the Chairman of your Class Committee, twenty years ago. We were younger then, and we did not know just what each might achieve in later life, so we awarded the class honors blindly. We made our guesses at the future efficiency of the men whom we then made officers of the class, and sometimes we guessed right—and sometimes wrong. Now I would like to admit to you fellows that for twenty years I have held an office in the class which I never deserved, and at the same time to say that the holding of it has been worth not a little to me. But the twenty years have gone, our standards have changed, many things besides have changed,—and I have worn a uniform at least long enough to know that there is such an institution as retirement for length of service, if not for physical disability. [Cries of "Never !"] So to-night I have handed in my resignation to old John Huddleston, with some shade of regret, with full appreciation of the honor which I am relinquishing, but in the absolute conviction that there are men in the class to whom my former place now rightfully belongs. Mind you, I am making no nominations, but I cannot refrain from saying that there are two men in the class to each of whom promotion should come, and I shall mention them in alphabetical order, so that I may not be accused of favoritism. They are the two men who, perhaps, have done the most to make the class what it is to-day, who have done so much to develop the class spirit of '86 since our graduation year,—Tom Baldwin and Fred Hood ! And this is my main reason for insisting that my resignation shall be accepted: that the men who now are doing the work of the class may have what honor the class may be able to bestow. So a vacancy now exists in your class committee, and you have until to-morrow to decide how it shall be filled. [A Voice: "We don't accept your resignation."]

And now, fellows, there is another duty that falls to my share. I don't know that other classes follow the custom, but we always have. I am going to call the roll of the '86 men who no longer are alive, but are with us still, I think, in spirit; and as we listen to the list, and recall the traits of these classmates, fitting each into his old place in the class, I am sure that we may feel that, between those of us who are here and those whose names may serve to bring back their presence, old '86 is truly reunited again after twenty years. If you will rise. [The list of names of deceased members of the class was then read.] Thirty-six in all ! And here 's to the completed class ! [All drank silently to the toast.]

There 's another thing that I would like to say: it has hurt more than you can know not to have been with you during the last two days. But I am serving now with a Harvard Governor who seems to expect work from Harvard men, and at this most inopportune moment the mainstay of my office, a clerk of forty years' service, has found it incumbent upon himself to be among the missing,—thus chaining me to the oar. And even to-morrow I cannot be with you, for when I told my chief that it would be impossible for me to appear with his staff because of the anniversary of the class, he promptly and firmly informed me that that was also his own anniversary, and that neither he, nor I, nor any of the Harvard men serving on the staff, could dodge duty because of a little matter of sentiment. So that shuts me out of our room in the Yard to-morrow, and out of the class group at the gate, for it would be little short of suicide should I venture in my modest uniform among you undisciplined and irreverent civilians. Only please, as a favor, when I, and the Governor, and the Lancers, go past to-morrow—don't make scurrilous remarks at us, or about us!

I observe that through the courtesy and thoughtlessness of Tom Baldwin our remarks are being taken down verbatim,—and you all will recall what already has happened to the class under like circumstances. So before I present another speaker, I shall appoint a board of censors, who will edit all proofs and see to it that the priceless thoughts we utter to-night shall not appear in printed form in such guise as to necessitate their being locked safely away from our families, in the top drawers of our desks. As a committee on blue pencilling, I'll appoint Fred Hood, Fred Atherton, and Tate Phillips, and the proof sheets of our remarks must be submitted to them before midnight tonight, and returned by them, with all corrections and emendations, before six to-morrow morning.

And now there's but one thing left for me to do. You fellows have been patient with me and kind to me, and at times I have thought that I had you almost house-broken, since for twenty years you have stood up like men under my varying exactions,—for all of which I cannot thank you enough. And this is my last official duty, before I step back into the ranks: it is the pleasant duty of presenting one of the dearest chaps of us all, the one who made such a success of our dinner of five years ago, the one to whom I now turn over this dinner for the making of another success,—your Toastmaster, old Gordon Woodbury!

GORDON WOODBURY, Esq.:

Mr. President and Boys: When I first learned what had been the choice of the Committee as toastmaster on this occasion, it made me very sad. I knew it was the twentieth anniversary of our graduation and I knew that in that time a great many changes had taken place.

I knew that some of us had reached considerable fame: some of us had reached considerable wealth; and some of us had not yet attained to any very great degree of either. But from the Class Committee I certainly expected better things. Here, however, was the evidence that the process of time had gradually undermined their intellects. I saw here the gradual approach of paresis; that they should have selected me as their toastmaster is proof positive of decay, and in the emergency I turned to John Huddleston. I asked him if any cure or help for such a condition could be found. He said he knew of none. He said: "Your situation reminds me distinctly of a teacher who told his Sunday-school class the parable of the prodigal son, and anxious to remind them of the attitude of the older brother on that occasion he said, 'Now, there was one person who seemed to have no joy or delight in the felicities of the occasion. He did not seem to share at all in the harmony and the enthusiasm that characterized the meeting. Can any one tell me who it was?' There was no answer. He repeated his question, 'Can any one tell me who it was that did not share in the joy of the occasion?' The smallest boy in the class held up his hand and said, 'The fatted calf.'"

The Chairman: That's all right; that can be printed. O. K. it.

The Toastmaster: I said: "John, you make me think of the fatted calf." But you have given me an added privilege. You have given me the opportunity to say, not for myself alone, but for every one of you here, what I believe has been growing and strengthening and deepening in the hearts of us all these past two days—the feeling that after twenty years we have begun to find one another out. We have begun to learn to know each other better than ever we did before. Twenty years is a long time. It is the best twenty years we have ever had or ever shall have in this world. We seem to me to be standing pretty near the summit, and we can look both ways. When we look forward twenty years it is tolerably clear that a smaller room will contain all of us who participate, but it will take a longer roll to enumerate the list of those who are marked with stars. When we look back twenty years, how warm our hearts grow toward one another! How surely and clearly have these little, petty, idle distinctions that used to separate us years ago, or that we thought used to separate us,—distinctions social and literary, distinctions that rested on money,—how thoroughly and forever they have disappeared, and in their place we have learned one great general distinction, one title to honor that belongs to every man here,—“he is in our class,” and that is all that is necessary. And again, not for myself, but for you all, I want to say that the union that bound us all together and sent us twenty years ago on our various ways through the world continues still, stronger now than ever, and as time goes on will bind us closer and closer together the rest of the journey. I ask you now to fill your glasses and to rise and drink the health of the good class of '86.

[All rose and drank the toast.]

The Chairman : Now, fellows of '86, three times three for the old class.

[The cheers were given heartily.]

The Toastmaster : I have the honor of announcing a delegation from the class of '96.

The Chairman : Admit the delegation.

THE CHAIRMAN OF THE '96 DELEGATION :

Gentlemen, I have to present to you a company of lads only ten years old. On account of their youth and inexperience treat them cautiously and inquire their errand.

The Chairman : Sir, we desire to know the reasons for your presence.

The Delegate : Kindly be seated. We bring the greetings of the youthful class of '96 to this ancient and honorable body of the class of '86. [Cries of “wonderful ! ”] We bring our compliments in the form of these three bottles which, gentlemen, I got from our Chairman, and they were brought down to him and did not get to him, and these are the same bottles your Committee brought down.

The Chairman : What is the matter with them ?

The Delegate : They are just as good as they were when you took them down. Do you throw our goods in our face ?

A Voice : You mean throw our own goods in your face ?

The Delegate : I would draw your attention to the fact that there are only three bottles and they are all corked. If any further evidence of real age were required, it is that these bottles were sent down corked. We find, gentlemen, that as we get along further from our graduation from Harvard, we are getting better acquainted with each other and the class of '96. We are also delighted to find that we are getting better acquainted with the class of '86. [A Voice: "The best class that ever graduated."]

The Delegate: Almost the best.

The Chairman: Mr. Toastmaster, have those bottles been to '96 before?

The Delegate: They have.

The Toastmaster: What have you done with the bottles during the time they have been in your custody?

The Delegate: Gentlemen, there are some very interesting proceedings going on downstairs.

The Chairman: I don't doubt it.

A Member: Are they fit for old men?

The Delegate: Oh, yes. A gentleman down in Texas was struck by a cyclone and hurled two miles. His house fell and the barn was blown to pieces and everything was lost, and a short time after that the pastor came to him and congratulated him on his escape, and told him how many things he had to be thankful for, and said: "Through it all the Lord has been with you." And the Texan replied: "I don't know about that, but if He was, He was going some." Now, gentlemen, the Lord has been with you a short time, and He is going some.

The Chairman: Three times three cheers for '96.

[The cheers were given with great heartiness.]

The Toastmaster: Some years ago just after he left college, the Class Secretary was looking round to see where he would locate. I understand on good authority that he wrote to Wendell Baker and inquired if a young man could live a pious and orderly life in New York on four dollars a week. And the answer came back promptly: "A young man cannot lead anything else but a pious and orderly life in

New York on four dollars a week." He has been there for twenty years. How much a week he has spent, he alone knows, but I will introduce him to you now and he will tell us. The Class Secretary, John Henry Huddleston.

DR. JOHN HENRY HUDDLESTON:

Having had such testimony to my appetite and my godless character, I feel encouraged to speak to you. If there has been any one question put by this or that member of the class to me oftener than any other during these past two days it has been this, "John, who is that man? I ought to know him." "That face looks familiar. What is his name?" There are probably a number here whose faces are perfectly familiar, and whose names are perfectly familiar to every one else in the class, but we have n't all the link which joins the name and the face, and for the purpose of giving you that link now, I am going to read the names which you have written down and ask that each one stand up for a moment when called to identify himself with the name.

[The names of those present were then called by the Secretary.]

There are rewards and penalties and pleasures and difficulties attached to the position of Secretary, and at times I have felt in accord with a sentiment expressed as a foreword by the Secretary of the class which graduated ten years after our own, a sentiment based on a classification in every class. The Secretary said: "There is one class of men who when they receive the Secretary's notice, sit down at once and answer it. If possible, I would present each with a gold medal. There is a second class who, on receiving a second notice after a lapse of six months, find time enough to reply. My thanks to those. There is a third class who reply after three or four appeals, and these are to be congratulated. Finally, there is still another class whom no amount of appeals, printed, written or verbal, can move from a state of inborn modesty which prevents them unfolding the story of their lives to the awaiting and expectant class." In view of this common experience, I think it is an unusual and peculiar good fortune to be able to say that there is only one of those still living who graduated with this class in '86 from whom I have not received some tidings within the time of preparation of this class report. Of that one, Harrison Dike, I should be glad indeed to hear something from any one here.

The class list is made up of three sets of names. Of those who graduated in '86, or who received degrees subsequently as of '86, there are 227 names. Of these who were at one time or other in the class for a time, and who are therefore officially registered with the class, there are 78 names. Of those never recorded in '86 by U. S. but whose friendships were particularly with us, who are our friends as we are theirs, who are always counted with us, who are most welcome always to our meetings and of whom an account will always appear in the class records, there are six names; a total of 311 names. Losses have come to us. Of those who are '86 graduates, 31 have died, leaving 196 living. How ruthlessly this class has been stricken, in the loss of more than thirteen per cent. of its number, you probably all know and lament. Of the 78 temporary members, 11 have gone. Of the 6 associate members, 2 have gone. As the total, then, of living members, including temporary and associate members, we count in '86 now 267 men. From the temporary list word is lacking concerning a somewhat large number. I will read the names of those not reporting and ask that, if any one here can give information concerning any one, he will do so.

[A list of names was then read by the Secretary.]

I see that I am asked to say something about statistics, the query which has come most often being as to the number of bachelors still in the class. Put it the other way. There have been married of the '86 men, 156, about 56 per cent. and of children there are recorded 295 [Applause], of assorted sexes. Of the associate and temporary members there have been recorded as married 48, or 62 per cent., and they have added to the class 94 children. Bradford, whose mind runs in the line of statistics, told me last night that no family was worth counting in which there were not four children. [Cries of "He is quite right." Another cry: "He is a liar."] And I have, therefore, as a matter of record, to recite to you the roll of honor of those families that number four children. William Lothrop Allen. [Applause.] Oliver Ames, William Cowper Boyden, Alanson Bigelow Houghton, Alfred Henry Lloyd, Gilbert Clifford Noble, Thomas Walter Reynolds, Arthur Lincoln Snell, Charles Brooks Stevens, Robert Dickson Weston, William Reynolds Wilson, Edward Clarence Wright, Harrison Grey Blake, Oliver William Bird, John Joseph Brennan, Roland English Hartley, Henry Warrington Ninde.

And those who have done better than might have been expected, those who have five children, are as follows: Seward Cary, John Charles Faulkner, Robert Dumont Foote, John McKinstry Merriam, Frank Bulkeley Smith, Augustus Hugo Vogel, Henry Cutter Holt, John Purinton Fay, Charles Freeman Gilman.

The following have six: Dean Richmond Babbitt, George Balmer Harris, Frank Edward Hurley, Frank Hamilton Underwood, Gordon Woodbury, Sidney Coolidge. The maximum number belongs to an associate member, William Astor Chanler has eight.

General Frye: Please read all above ten. (Laughter.)

In looking over the records of those who answered the circular sent out, the answers have been so uniformly of success, success even when veiled by the modesty of the writer, that one is bound to feel about every member of '86 somewhat as was written in a certain epitaph: "He averaged well for this vicinity." The members of the class of '86 have certainly averaged well for their vicinity. They have been concerned in every kind of success and in every kind of disaster. They have been on Vesuvius in its convulsions, in the person of Scott, and if you wish to hear his experience, you have only to subscribe for the New York Evening Post by sending a check for the proper amount. If you subscribe for the whole of the past year, you will find it somewhere in that volume (see appendix, page 273).

General Frye: What commission do you get?

The Secretary: Three cents a copy. Several of the class were involved in the California disaster, and I am glad to have an opportunity of reading to you something written by two or three of those who were there at that time. One of them was George B. Somers, and he writes as follows (see page 154):

[The letter was received with applause.]

Rudolf Jordan wrote a letter (see page 196) descriptive of the occurrence and the experiences which he had which I will not read because it is so long, but will only note the concluding paragraph: "May our anniversary be a jolly one, and if I do not presume too much I would like to have you toast our State of California with the wish that she may speedily recover from the blow struck at her in the ruin of this city of San Francisco. With best wishes for your welfare and many thanks for your inquiry and with hearty regards to all the class of '86, I am, yours, Rudolf Jordan, Jr. [Loud applause.] A toast was drunk to California and '86 therein.

[The Secretary next read a letter from William Sanford Barnes (see page 18) after which the whole company drank the health of Billy Barnes, "Our Class Marshal," and he was given three cheers.]

It has been the peculiar fortune of '86 to have not merely one but three class babies. I present letters or words of cheer from the three. The first one is from Miss Cary.

Hempstead, Long Island.

Dear Dr. Huddleston:

Thank you for your letter and the pleasure it gave me. I feel very greatly the responsibility and honor of being the daughter of the class of eighty-six.

I have very little to tell you about myself as I have been at boarding-school for the last three years, at Briarcliff, one of the most beautiful schools in the country.

We have had many games of base-ball between ourselves, at the time of the real Harvard and Yale games, the girls who are for Harvard playing together against those girls who are for Yale, and I am happy to say the Harvard girls win nearly every time. I hope this may be a good omen for the real Harvard.

I am looking forward to some fox-hunting in the Genesee Valley this autumn and a little imitation polo on my father's ponies.

I am looking forward especially to seeing the girls of the school this summer. I wish they would take up the Harvard system of perpetuating school friendships.

I hope you will remember me to my numerous class fathers.

Yours sincerely,

Eleanor Cary.

The second is from the Class Boy.

Rochester, N. Y., June 24th, 1906.

My dear Dr. Huddleston:

I regret not having answered your letter before, and trust that it is not yet too late for my reply to be of some interest to you. You doubtless understand that I feel greatly distinguished to be the class boy of such a famous class as '86.

I am sorry to say I never have had much ambition for scholastic attainments, such as I am sure an '86 boy should have, therefore I am not preparing for college. I am much more interested in practical work, such as engineering, construction, etc.

I have decided to start work this summer, and have secured a position on The Buffalo, Lockport, and Rochester Railway, a trolley road being built from Rochester to Buffalo by J. G. White and Company, of New York. Hoping that when you have your fortieth reunion I may have achieved a success worthy of your class boy, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

Gilman C. Perkins.

The third relates to the first born of the class.

June 8th, 1906.

My dear Huddleston:

Your letter of June 5th, addressed to my daughter, has just been received by me. Unfortunately, she is traveling in Europe, where she has been the last year. If she were home, I know she would send to her class fathers all her best wishes for the success of their twentieth anniversary, and she would also express to them a great regret at their tardiness in sending to her the or a class cradle.

With my kind regards, believe me,

Yours very truly,

Robert D. Foote.

The Toastmaster: The other day I got onto a street car and was coming down town when the car stopped to let on a woman who carried a very small baby in her arms. When the conductor came around to collect the fare she handed him a two-dollar bill. He took it in his hand and said: "Is this the smallest you have got?" "Yes," she said, "we have only been married twelve months." From that I got the idea at once that Tommy Baldwin was the smallest we have got, and we ought to hear from him as soon as possible.

THOMAS TILESTON BALDWIN, Esq.:

I should feel some hesitation in speaking to-night, owing to the presence of the stenographer to whom Jim Frye has referred so feelingly, but for the fact that he is subsidized. Nothing I say to-night will be reported.

I have to confess that I am disappointed in John Huddleston's report. John is strong on births, deaths, marriages, and other unessentials, but on important facts about which we want information, he has nothing to say. We want to know all about that glorious victory over '96 in base-ball yesterday; especially whether Gus Vogel's fielding average on third base was .23, and how many runs for '96 Dick Smith forgot to score. We have a right, on such an occasion as this, to expect from the Secretary the official scores of that wonderful galaxy of golf stars from '86 which yesterday afternoon won the class championship over all Harvard classes from 1636 to the present time. We want also to know to what use Huddleston, as a physician, would suggest that the unique loving cups be put, which Woodbury awarded to the victors in the interclass tennis tournament. But I commend our Secretary for his discretion in refraining from mentioning one little thing, namely, the score of the '86 tennis team.

Simply to supplement what John Huddleston has said, I wish to call to your attention a few facts and figures about the class. Take, for example, the relation of '86 to the automobile, which is shown in the following tables:

Number of automobiles owned by members of '86 :	67
" " punctured tires this season :	401
" " " bank accounts :	67
Average rate of speed per hour of Frank Smith's car between Boston and Hamilton :	43.1 miles
Amount of fine which will be paid to-morrow by Ned Hamlin for speeding on Revere Beach Reservation :	$40.00
Increase in price of coal to-morrow :	25 cts. per ton.
Amount of Martini lubricating oil carried in Frank Dicker- man's car at the beginning of the run :	4 qts.
Amount of Martini lubricating oil used on the run :	4 qts.
Number of musicians in the band at the Country Club yesterday, at 2 o'clock :	24
Number of musicians at 4.30 o'clock, counted by Dave Coolidge :	36
Number at 6 o'clock, counted by Gordon Woodbury :	48
Number at 8 o'clock, counted by Major Weld :	67.5
Number at 10.30 o'clock, counted by Will Smith : Count lost.

For the last two days I have noticed Huddleston going about with bundles of mysterious slips of paper in his hands, button-holing members of the class. I wondered what these slips contained, but did n't find out until a few moments ago, when I happened to pick up a few. They were proofs of his class report. I feel it a duty to read these to the class :

Here is one headed

William Cowboy Boyden.

(After some unimportant dates of birth, marriage, etc., the paper goes on to say :)

Shortly after graduation I packed my Puritan conscience in a suitcase and went to Chicago, determined to reform the West. I have succeeded. It is n't generally known, but it is a fact that I wrote "The Jungle." I know every Harvard man west of the Alleghanies; have attended 86 conventions of Harvard Clubs; and, incidentally, I elected Sam Hill.

Alanson Bigelow Houghton.

While in college I wrote such poetry that I had to found a magazine in which to print it. I graduated with the highest honors in pessimism. At the present time poetry is on the bum. Free trade and pessimism, skidoo. The world is not so worse, after all.

Hon. Augustus Peabody Gardner.

Twenty years ago I retired to the bucolic solitude of Essex County to lead the simple life. Recently, however, my fellow husbandmen of Hamilton and the heroic fishermen of Cape Ann, recognizing the need of a Statesman at Washington, elected me to Congress. I point with pride to my record as a Statesman. The hardy fisherman of Gloucester I have protected—with a duty of 100 per cent. Postmasterships are my specialty; any patriot in my district—who votes right—may have one. I have prevented a heartless Congress from depriving the sacred cod-fish of his borax. I shall pass an Immigration bill which will keep Democratic voters out of the country.

Postscript: A Cannon exploded yesterday and hit me. Result almost fatal.

Frederic Clark Hood.

For fifteen years after graduation I devoted myself exclusively to the business of rubbering. Five years ago I retired permanently from business. Since that time I have been a promoter. With all modesty I may say that I have promoted more and better reunions than any man living. For recommendations as to my ability and success I refer, with permission, to any '86 man.

The Reunion this year is a fair sample of my Reunions now in stock; but I can promise confidently that in 1911 I shall be prepared to furnish a line of Twenty-fifth Reunions such as Harvard has never dreamed of. A continuance of your patronage is respectfully solicited.

The Toastmaster: There is a story current that Dick Smith, becoming alarmed as to the condition of affairs in Billy Boyden's bailiwick, went West to examine. His purpose, however, was not announced in advance, but being the most learned man in the class, he chose for his topic the question of whether or not Moses wrote the Pentateuch. At the close of his lecture he asked if there was any one present who desired to ask any question. One of the audience arose and said they had listened with a great deal of instruction and delight and enthusiasm to what he had to say, but they were not quite clear as to whether or not Sodom and Gomorrah were husband and wife. Smith said no, he believed they were not, but they certainly ought to have been. What further he had to state has been reserved for this occasion.

ROBERT DICKSON WESTON, ESQ.:

I thought, Mr. Chairman, you were going to give me my text to speak from. I am sure that when I was put on the programme to speak for what the West had done for '86 men, it was purely by way of jest. I did go West, as your toastmaster has said, and I went West for the first time in my life in order to attend the meeting of the associated Harvard clubs in Chicago. I had heard that there was a West before. I had read the "Oregon Trail" and I had read "The Virginian" and I had read "The Crisis," and I had corresponded with people in the West. I had received letters with the postmarks of various western cities upon them, and I had addressed letters to the West which apparently had reached their destination, but when I got aboard of a Chicago train—[A Voice: "Called Western-Smith"]. In the West I was called "Eastern Smith." For Heaven's sake, don't anticipate. As I was about to say, it was a novel adventure to get aboard a Chicago train and I thought I might have some startling experience. I had heard of the man out West who was traveling with a tame bear. He had to take a train at night and a berth in the sleeping car, and he put his bear in the baggage car and went to bed. In the night about twelve o'clock the conductor came and shook him and said, "See here, your bear is loose somewhere on the train." He said, "Good God," and jumped up and went forward into the baggage car, and sure enough the bear was nowhere to be seen. He and the conductor then went back through the train, passing from one car to another. The curtains were all hanging quiet and still, and no sign of the bear did they find until they got into the last car. When they entered that, they heard a woman's shrill voice cry: "If you were a gentleman, you would at least take off your automobile coat." I felt when I got aboard a Chicago train that I should have some such adventure as that. [A Voice: "Oh, shocking."] You misunderstand me; I thought a bear might get into bed with me.

When we got to Chicago we were greeted at the station in a way in which I wish I could think we would greet a delegation of Chicago men who came here. I don't believe it could be done with the same warmth and heartiness. A group of familiar faces were there on the platform waiting to receive us, and we were royally entertained from the time we landed in Chicago until we left.

The second day, which was a Saturday, we went out to the business meeting of the associated Harvard clubs at the Onwentsia Club in Lake Forest and I don't believe that anything could have exceeded the hospitality of our reception and entertainment. I wish you all had been there. The inspiration of that occasion was something that I shall carry with me to the end of my life—what little there is left of it. Those fellows out there are working for Harvard, working on Harvard questions in a way that is amazing. All the college problems that we shuffle off and leave to others and never trouble ourselves about, they are at work on, writing reports, and listening to them with interest. In the end all that work is going to tell. And, as I say, the enthusiasm of the meeting was splendid.

But the significance of the whole thing to my mind lay in this: I do not believe that I am second to any one in my attachment to New England. In spite of all I saw in Chicago, I would not leave New England. I would not leave the Atlantic Ocean we saw to-day or the New England hills if I could possibly scrape a livelihood out of the rocky soil of Massachusetts. At the same time we have our shortcomings. I wonder how many of you ever saw old William Warren of the Museum in the "Member from Cranberry Centre" when he used to rail at "this here Boston click?" Well, Harvard College has been saddled in a way by a "Boston click" and everything that is done in the West, all this work that is being done by Western men, tends to relieve a situation by which all of us have been more or less oppressed. No one in the West wants to see the character of Harvard as a New England institution,—essentially a New England institution,—changed. At the same time we all want to see the undergraduate life there and the whole of college life broadened. We want our boys who are going there to be brought in contact with men who come from other parts of the country and who take a broader view of things than young men can take who go to school in Boston, Cambridge, or Brookline and then go to Harvard College. When I was coming in from Lake Forest on the Sunday afternoon after this meeting, there was a man in the car who is President of the Minnesota Bar Association. He had been royally entertained at lunch at Lake Forest by Herman Gade, and was in a state of great hilarity. He had spoken at the meeting the day before about the "three-year course" in which brother Boyden is so much interested, and coming in on the train I sat opposite him and told him that I was inclined to agree with his view in regard to that subject. Turning to a friend he asked : "What is the word I want? What is it?" The friend, by a happy inspiration, suggested the word "germ." This hit him, and he clapped me on the knee and exclaimed with delight: "Westinghouse, you are a germ, you will be a germ." He thought that I was coming back to the East and might do something to leaven the lump of prejudice against the "three-year course."

Now that is what every man is, who comes to Harvard College from the West. He is a germ. He leavens the lump of narrowness and provincialism which would otherwise exist here. The most affecting experience of my trip to Chicago was seeing the children of Harvard men at the station in the town of Winnetka, which we passed through when we were going in the train from Chicago out to Lake Forest. There is a large vigorous Harvard settlement there. The train stopped to take the fathers aboard and the children were lined up along the platform waving Harvard flags and decked with Harvard colors. There must have been twenty or twenty-five of them. [A Voice: "Fifty-seven."] There were indeed a great many children and they were all cheering for Harvard and all the boys are coming to Harvard. In imagination one multiplied the number of children at Winnetka by the number of other places represented by Harvard men at the meeting of the associated Harvard clubs scattered over the West. Those children I can tell you were a delightful and encouraging spectacle for any Harvard man—especially for one who has lived here in Boston and who has boys of his own, whom he means to send to Harvard. The Boston boys will meet and know these Illinois boys and get their Boston corners and edges well rubbed off. I, for one, rejoice in that prospect.

The Toastmaster : There is notice of a meeting to be given.

[The Secretary gave notice of a class meeting to be held in 4 Hollis at noon on Commencement Day to act on the resignation of the Chairman of the Class Committee and to elect one or more new members of said Committee.]

The Toastmaster : There is notice also to be given that those who have come too late to get passes for the yard to-morrow can get them at the lodge gate. There is also notice of the alumni meeting to be held at 10.30 to-morrow morning, and of a class photograph to be taken at the '86 gate.

John Merriam has had a very varied and distinguished career, and as he assured me before the dinner began that it would take him only five minutes to tell it, I will call upon him. When he first left college it was understood he was going to become a teacher. He did become a teacher for a time, but changed his occupation. His reasons for the change were not generally known at first, but afterward were discovered. He took a class in English composition and called for compositions on the general subject of man. He read all the compositions through with care and patience, and seemed satisfied with them until he came to the last one, which was as follows: "Man is made up of three parts: first, his head, which contains the brains when there are any; second, the chest, which contains the heart and lungs; and, third, the stomach, which contains the vowels, of which there are five, A, E, I, O, U, and sometimes W and Y." He is here to tell us something of what he has learned of politicians.

JOHN MCKINSTRY MERRIAM, Esq.:

I first learned to-night from the program before me that I am expected to speak upon the topic "Wild Politicians I Have Known." This is a surprise, Mr. Toastmaster, and I am puzzled, as I feel absolutely incompetent to tell my classmates anything about wild politicians. My simple days have been passed, for the most part, in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, where politics, especially our recent politics, as Dickerman knows, are tame. I have never lived with you, Mr. Toastmaster, in New Hampshire, or with Boyden in Chicago, or with Huddleston in New York, and how you could expect me to speak about wild politicians is beyond my comprehension.

But I had thought, if I might depart some from this topic as you have phrased it, that I might give a few words of reminiscence of my service as private secretary of Senator Hoar. Wherever Harvard men meet, it is appropriate to pause and speak a word in his memory, and this is particularly true when the Harvard men are '86 men, for he seemed to have a fondness for our class whenever he wanted a private Secretary. When, for example, he had suffered patiently with me, and the time came for a change, he sent for Gage, and then, after Gage's term of service, he sent for Lunt. Thus for years, members of this class were in daily contact with him in a relationship in which he was always wont to show real affection.

To my mind, Senator Hoar is the noblest statesman which Harvard has produced in his generation. He was the epitome of what Harvard requires in public service, thorough scholarship, love of truth, devotion to principle, manly strength, all consecrated to the service of country.

But this is no time, especially at this late hour, for eulogy, nor indeed for the few personal anecdotes which had occurred to me. Your program calls for other speakers, some of whom, like our friend Taylor, are but rarely present at our reunions, and it is fitting that I content myself with this brief summary, and let my further remarks remain in cold storage, as it were, for a more opportune occasion, possibly for our twenty-fifth anniversary, which is approaching so swiftly.

The Toastmaster: There is a summons here which '86 men have never yet refused, and it is brought to us by a distinguished member of '86. The subject is: "'86 to the Bar in New York or elsewhere," and I call upon Howard Taylor to respond.

HOWARD TAYLOR, ESQ.:

Mr. Toastmaster: I have been now twenty years in New York City and in view of that fact clearly cannot plead innocence. But at the same time I confess that I was surprised at this menu to-night. Here in red ink I find not only the names of the unfortunate speakers and a certain number of subjects assigned to them, but I find also my name with the "Augustus" which I have not recognized for the last eighteen years. I want to say that it stunted my growth, that name. I dropped it as soon as I attained whatever of growth I had. After this whoever wants me to speak, may he please put my name down as Howard Taylor.

You ask me to say something of the bar in New York, but before I turn to that I want to express to you my sense of what a comfortable reunion we are having. We are not in the limelight to-night as our '81 friends. We are in a sort of place where either our realizations have approached our ambitions, or our ambitions have gone down to our realizations. We have passed the feverishness of first youth and are here with our sober second thought.

But I am not like my friend Merriam who can postpone for five years the discussion of my theme. My subject is '86 to the Bar of New York. I have been through the statistics, because that is what I was here for, and I found that there are eight men at the bar who are lawyers. One is Hurley. I tried to look him up and did not find him.

I think that must be because he is over in Brooklyn and has six children. He seems rather well occupied other than in court. My friend Lunt is making a name for himself with the Fidelity Casualty Company. You remember Abbot. He is found on the right side in every public movement. I regret to say that that is the reason why I have not seen much of him. Those of us who are running along with our private practice and do not talk unless we are paid for it, are not always brought in contact with those who speak on the right side of public questions. Abbot is doing a great and good work. You remember Phelps. He is living a quiet life as an estate attorney, fully and highly respected by all who know him. He has committed matrimony. Then you remember W. W. Baldwin. He has not lived in the limelight altogether, but has lived a life of which any Harvard man ought to be proud. He was Third Assistant Secretary of State under Cleveland, and went from the bar. Then, after his term of office expired, went back to it, and no man is making a better place for himself in the class or is more highly honored than Baldwin. Another man, not a lawyer, I will speak of, and that is Lowell Lincoln. He was taken with a mental malady some time since and some of the time he is himself and sometimes he is not. I hope for the best, but the doctors tell me there is not any great probability of general improvement. I am going to ask that Dr. Huddleston send a telegram to him in the name of the class, conveying to him the best wishes of the class of '86 at class dinner assembled, saying how we regret that he is not with us at this time.

Now, this toast of '86 to the Bar of New York naturally brings me to another of our class, and that is Billy Hearst. I don't know whether any of you have seen anything of him. He is far and away the best known of our class, and we ought all so far as we can to indicate that if we are against him we are not so in a dogmatic way. There is one thing, for instance, about Baldwin which we all admire. He is the type of man found in New York, as well as in Boston, who reserves judgment at all times; a type of man that finds good in some things that Hearst has done, as in his work against the trusts. All of our class must reserve judgment on Billy Hearst. We must credit him with some things. His New York Journal brought certain things to the attention of the country. Hearst's papers have been most widely influential in bringing about certain reforms in this country which are going on. While we deprecate the means, deprecate the unfairness and partisanship, let us on the other hand be proud that there has been in our class a man who has been so influential as he has been. On the whole, whatever the side issues may have been, I think you will find in the end that this country is no worse for the attacks on things which up to the date when his papers were started had not been attacked. Now you say I am damning him with faint praise, but I am talking here among my friends and I wanted to talk with you. By and large throughout the country Hearst has wielded a great influence which on the whole is for good. So much for my personal reminiscences.

We shall all be glad to see you in New York. I myself have a little place in the country half-way down between New York and Boston. It is on the old New York and Boston post road, half way between New York and Boston. Don't forget that to-night, if any of you are coming with the sixty-seven automobiles. Let me know in advance whether you are coming for a meal, a night, a week, or a month. I thank you all very much.

The Toastmaster: When I wrote to Will Smith, I asked him to choose his own topic. He has done so. And it is: "'86 in Persian Harems,"—a most interesting subject. But we are not there, we are not in Persian harems, and very few of us ever have been; and the question is why, if he was once there, did he ever leave. George Ade said that the smartest men in the United States come from Indiana, and the smarter they are the sooner they come. Possibly that is the reason Will Smith is here rather than there. But at any rate we will call on him to explain.

DR. WILLIAM LORD SMITH:

There seems to be an impression among my friends that I never saw a Persian harem. It would be too long a story to tell you all I saw and did there, but I am willing to give you a short sketch of it. When I was traveling through southern Persia on a trip around the world a year ago last autumn, I fell in with some aboriginal Persian nomads. They took me in and treated me like a brother. These people are the remnants of the old feudal system. Part of the time they live in their tents and part of the time in their castles. I saw them under both circumstances. I made this interesting study of which Mr. Woodbury has spoken, in the castles. There they live in great luxury. I stopped in the midst of the beautiful garden of one of the Khans, and nearby me was a tent of the chief himself, and in this tent lived his favorite priest and doctor. Now, I found it to be a great advantage throughout the whole East to be a doctor. When I looked into the Persian medical treatment I found it was very simple. These people I visited thought there might be something remarkable in my powers. As a matter of fact, I was more of a hostage than a guest, and they considered that I must remain there until certain of their people got well. As soon as they got well, which they did, fortunately, I left at that time. I used to sit in the doorway of this tent with the Persian doctor on one side and the Persian priest on the other. The patients passed by; we—the Persian priest and I—consulted over the cases; and then I gave them something from my medicine-box. One day one of the young chiefs came and said to me: "We want you to come into the harem to-day and look over some of our women there." I was very much interested, of course, to do this. The rooms are fitted up with beautiful embroideries of silk and very costly Persian rugs. There were about ten women all lined up as I entered, and they ranged anywhere from eighty years up or down to fifteen. These women you see behind the curtains are well worth looking at, and certainly they carry out the best of your ideas of Eastern women. They have beautiful lustrous eyes and olive skin. I will not go further in describing them, but I may say that I went over the list of ten, looked them over as carefully as I could [Cries of "Oh!" "Oh!"], and prescribed for them; and so the game went on. I had to go over the whole line again. [Cries of "Oh!" "Oh!"] And now let me say in conclusion that I simply raised the curtain to give you an idea of what they are like with their clothes on.

The Toastmaster: There is one member of the class who pleads guilty to a very singular experience. It also occurred in a railway train, somewhat as Dick Smith's experience came to him. He got into the car, and was walking along to find a place to sit down when he saw an empty seat beside a very good-looking young lady, and he promptly occupied it. She had a muff in her lap, and one hand in it. He thought he saw a favorable opportunity, and inserted his own hand in the other end of the muff. She turned to him suddenly and said: "Sir, do you realize what you are doing? I could rouse the whole car in a moment. I will give you just three quarters of an hour to take your hand out of that muff." It is needless for me to say who it was. You know immediately that it was Odin Barnes Roberts.

ODIN BARNES ROBERTS:

Mr. Chairman and men of the class of '86: I came to the conclusion the other day that as I had received a perpetual retainer some twenty years ago from the class of '86, it would only be just to give the class some benefit from my professional experience. I have practised as a specialist. You need not be alarmed, although when a specialist is called in it is supposed that the patient is in a critical condition. This class of '86 is certainly a useful institution in many respects, and in many respects it is novel. As a practitioner devoted in large measure to the exposition of the patent statutes of the United States, it occurred to me to inquire and to submit to you an opinion, gratis, as to whether the class of '86 was or was not patentable as an increment to useful knowledge. At the threshold of this inquiry it seems absolutely certain that the class of '86 comes within the protection of the patent statutes. That section of the Revised Statutes of the United States which is the foundation of our patent system, is numbered four thousand, eight hundred, and '86. We can afford to eliminate the 4800. Now, in order to discourage any of my professional brethren, who might be tempted into competition with me, I will assure you that this is a very technical and abstruse question. If this class of '86 is patentable, is it as an art, a machine, a manufacture or a composition of matter? One would say at the outset that it is an art, yes, for to be an '86 man is an art provocative of all arts. And a machine? Probably, for are we not a useful coöordination of moving parts?

As a manufacture? Yes, for we certainly have made ourselves what we are, and I think the judgment of all the monists, established or itinerant, unites in the opinion that we are a composition of matter. The utility of a combination depends on the coöperation of the separate parts. I recall seeing at one time a patent for a combination of a hobby horse and churn, a combination in which the commercialism of the dairy exploited the exuberance of childhood. Now, if that combination had only embraced a teething ring and a refrigerator how much more sublime would have been its cumulative functional performance!

As a people we are averse to manual labor, hence invention. I have heard it stated that necessity is the mother of invention. That is a scandal. Necessity is pure and simple, and has never been guilty of depositing inadvertent offspring upon the doorsteps of the thrifty. Invention must look elsewhere for its parentage and although the evidence is scanty and rather obscure, I believe that laziness and not necessity is responsible for invention. You observe that the Connecticut Yankee has always derived his supreme joy in contriving and setting to work some patient machine which will saw wood, shingle a barn, or set a hen while he employs his leisure moments in the only industrial pursuit that appeals to him, namely, whittling to produce nothing but chips. Never to my knowledge has there been invented a successful washing machine. The result would have been decidedly different if man had to do the washing. It may occur to some of you to ask why, then, has not woman invented a successful washing machine? I would refer the questioner to the Department of Commerce and Labor. Woman has never learned to rest and in that respect is decidedly unlike man. You remember the couplet:

“Man’s labor runs from sun to sun,
But woman’s work is never done.”

That is true. Even a college education cannot teach women to rest. In the elevated condition of modern polite society where we are wont to proclaim the advent of an addition to the population as a triumph of nature over art,—even there woman wastes wantonly her opportunities for leisure. She contrives societies for the stimulation of pernicious activity and misnames them clubs. Now a club is really a place where one can loaf without being criticised for it. That is a real club. Therefore, never expect labor saving inventions by women. Women’s inventions, I regret to state, seem to be not in the direction of trouble saving, but of trouble making, contrivances. I have examined patiently the Official Gazette of the Patent Office for many years and I find there that most of the patents awarded to women for inventions are in the direction of wearing apparel designed to lend a meretricious fullness to the figure, or underwear complicated with dubious conveniences.

On sober reflection, since a patent is a monopoly of only limited duration, I am constrained to render the learned opinion that the class of '86 can hope for no protection or immunity from the patent laws, because our privileges are as perpetual as are our lives. And these privileges, these immunities, have unquestioned utility. What to us is the utility and benefit of the class feeling which we experience and enjoy? By the happy experiences of college life, we learned twenty years ago that among ourselves each man may be and should be judged, not by his inheritance, but by the use he makes of it; not by his fortuitous share of success, but by the nature of the efforts he made to achieve it,—by himself, by his character.

But in the world to which our serene mother Harvard gave us birth, we found other and less kindly surroundings. We found that the masses know little and care little for the individual or his personal merits, but are usually complacently contented to absorb as much as is practicable of the fruit of his service, and judge him by the tangible results which he has won for himself, almost wholly indifferent to the true nature and reason of their being.

The world's way of judging the individual is not our way. We learned the better way. We in the class of '86 stand apart, and have a right to stand apart, and there we can and do stand and preserve the ideals that flourished in the pure academic atmosphere. We create our own tribunal and our own test, a test which satisfies our ideal and fulfils our sense of brotherhood and of genuine equality. If a man is found whole, judged by this standard, he may rest content. Whatever may have been his fate in the world outside, whether he has been successful according to popular standards, or has not filled the measure of success according to those standards; whether he has earned for himself the plaudits of the masses or not; the men of the class of '86 have, each and every one of them, this lasting privilege: Each man knows—that the good cheer of the class of '86 is for him.

The Toastmaster: As to athletics I believe there is not any record comparable to that of our class in baseball. For three of the four years we were in college we provided five of the nine men who won championships at a time when such things were rare in Harvard's athletic history. And of the five, one made the college record in his position. Out of 27 men at the bat in one game he struck out 21. You know whom I mean,—Dr. Nichols.

DR. EDWARD HALL NICHOLS:

The present unsettled condition of athletics in Cambridge has arisen from the unsettled condition of the game of football, due to the evils attending it.

The first step toward changes in the game of football came very early last fall when a gentleman, quite prominent in Washington, directed his interest toward the game. He asked a number of men interested in football and other intercollegiate sports to meet him in Washington. He expressed his own opinion of the game, and asked those gentlemen to express theirs. Some of the men were of the opinion that the game was constantly improving; some believed that the evils were constantly increasing. It was claimed that the rules were adequate to cover all deficiencies in the game, but judging from some of our games late in the season it seems that questions could arise which were not covered by the rules. At the close of the season it became perfectly evident that the public, the educators and the graduates all meant to have some reform made in the game. Harvard appointed a committee to make suggestions to improve the game, and then at a meeting of the Football Rules Committee practically all of the Harvard ideas were adopted, and have been incorporated in the rules for the coming year. Whether these rules will improve the game remains to be seen.

The injuries have been previously excessive, but the injuries are the least of the evils of the game. If parents understand the situation and are willing to have their sons play it seems to me that the question of injury is of minor importance. My own idea, however, can be expressed in some remarks made by my father some years ago when I was caught jumping upon moving cars that were being shunted. I was requested to cease that activity, and was informed that it "cost altogether too much to raise boys to have them ground up under railway cars." I feel the same way about the game of football.

The real evils of the game are due to the prevalence of the spirit that you must win at any cost, you must get there. What to do to correct that spirit seems uncertain. We can make changes in the rules which make dirty work unprofitable however, and I think that next year's rules represent an honest endeavor to attain that end. What they will accomplish is for the future to determine.

Another great evil of the game is the soliciting of prep-school players. Any boy in New England who shows athletic ability at prep-school promptly is surrounded by men who invite him to go to that, this, or the other college. Some of this soliciting is done in a more or less legitimate way: some of it is done by direct payment of money or expenses.

The third evil is the coaching evil. The coaching of college teams may be done either by professionals or by graduates. If it is done by a professional it is his business to win the games; if he cannot, somebody else will take his place. When graduates do the coaching they sometimes do it well and are valuable in various ways, but when a graduate coach is a bad one he is very bad indeed, and his moral influence in some cases has been detestable.

Although the Rules Committee has made an attempt to improve the game, the future of the game still is questionable. President Eliot is opposed to continuation of the game until the rules have been tried out, and some of the governing bodies apparently are very strongly of his opinion. The athletic committee has approved the game for this fall; beyond that no action has been taken. Further action may be taken either by the governing boards or by the athletic committee. At present the game is on trial, and in my opinion if the game fails to come up to the standard this year, so far as Harvard is concerned it probably is its last year.

The evils of the game of football are the same in kind, although greater in degree, as the evils of all the sports: those evils I have mentioned. What can we do to correct them? Personally I am opposed to all coaching either by graduates or by professionals. The games are boys' games, and should stay so. The boys should be compelled to use their own brains and initiative, and the sport should no longer be a contest between older men who ought to be in better business. The boys should have first-class medical supervision, but the conduct and the play of the sports should be left entirely to them.

Unless some diminution of the present evil can be brought about, it is my opinion that before many years we will see an end put to inter-collegiate sports, and see only intracollegiate sports carried on. That would be in my opinion a distinct misfortune in many ways, although it may be necessary in order to obviate the evils of intercollegiate sports which have become excessive.

The Toastmaster: I call on the Chorister.

[The Chorister sang a song written for the occasion, to the air "Everybody Works but Father," the class joining in the chorus.

The Toastmaster: There seems to be a misprint on the list of speakers. On the last announcement it ought to be not "the class that made Milwaukee famous," but "the man that made Milwaukee famous." And I now have the pleasure of introducing to you Augustus Hugo Vogel.

MR. AUGUSTUS HUGO VOGL:

Mr. Toastmaster and Classmates: I have been supporting our victorious '86 Nine of the Country Club this afternoon, and lost my voice in consequence. I played third base in the absence of Phillips, who should have been there to take my place. The result is that my voice is not in a very fit condition to reply at length at the present time. The hour is so late that I simply wish to express the sincere thanks of the Outlanders for all the kind attention shown us by the Boston men, and especially the Committee, who have had charge of the arrangements. We wish we could reciprocate your kindness in some form, and trust that you will follow Weston-Smith's example and attend some of our Associate Harvard Club Reunions, to enable us to keep in closer touch with you. I extend a most hearty invitation to you to visit us, and trust we shall all have the pleasure of meeting again at our twenty-fifth reunion, and that you may be blessed with health and prosperity in the meantime. I thank you for your attention.

The Toastmaster: When we started on the list of speakers and got down to the toast of "What '86 Men are doing to the West," Billy Boyden came along and said he would rather not tell. I asked if it was not fit to print, and he said confidentially, "It is not, but if you wait till everybody else is out of the way and open all of the windows, possibly I will tell you part of it"; and so I did not call on him in his proper order, but left him till the last, not because he is the least, but he is the greatest.

WILLIAM COWPER BOYDEN, ESQ.:

Fellows: If our Toastmaster had as much character as we might reasonably expect after his twenty years' struggle with the verities and realities, it would not have permitted him to call on me at all. I regret to say, that in all these years, his main acquisition seems to have been his nerve.

I want you to understand that I was consulted yesterday afternoon in regard to this evening's program. Every one agreed that there was one thing which the class would not stand, and that was another speech from me on, "Harvard in the West." The Committee was agreed that Gus Vogel ought to speak for the western contingent, and he has done it well; he forgot, however, to tell you about himself. He is not only the efficient head of one of the largest businesses in the West, but he stands for all that is best socially, commercially, and politically in his native State. As President of the Municipal Voters' League of Milwaukee he has done more than any other one man to purify the politics of his home city.

Your Committee has heard that Dick Smith had traveled west of the Hudson for the first time in May, and had extended his journey even to Chicago to the last meeting of the Associated Harvard Clubs. They felt that this experience qualified him to respond to my well-worn toast of "Harvard in the West." I told them that I was resigned to this; that our fellows in Chicago when they heard that this was his first venture into the wild and woolly had said,—"Down with Weston-Smith. His name is Easton-Smith," but when they heard his good stories they all said,—"He is all right; he shall be Weston-Smith," and now that he has covered the West so gracefully and appreciatively there only remains for Easton-Boyden to speak on the East.

I really do this very gladly for there is just one thing I must say: I am resolved that so long as my lamp holds out to burn I shall never miss another Reunion. The older I grow and the more I know of them, the more I am impressed with the '86 men of Boston. There may be a better crowd somewhere, but there is no record of it. I feel with my friend Vogel that we are under the very greatest obligations to the Reunion Committee from Boston. Every Outlander present rejoices that it has been his privilege to participate in the splendid entertainment which you Boston men have furnished, and to drink again from the never failing fountains of Class friendships and College loyalty.

I have one other suggestion to make before I sit down. It may not be known to all of you that our classmate Walter Edgerly is seriously ill. Those of us who know him best, know that he is one of the bravest and sweetest men in the class. In college days we enjoyed his fine voice in the Glee Club. He was one of the men who made '86 the greatest baseball class that ever came out of Harvard. Since graduation he has had a fine and successful career. I was delighted to hear yesterday from one of the Boston men that he is one of the most popular men on State Street. I saw him yesterday morning and he felt deeply grieved that he is not able to be with us. We miss his beautiful voice in song and his cheery laugh. I suggest that we send this message to him:

WALTER H. EDGERLY,

27 Bellevue Street, Longwood, Boston.

Your Classmates at dinner assembled unanimously send you affectionate greetings, sincere sympathy, and their hopes for your speedy recovery.

GORDON WOODBURY,
Toastmaster.

The Toastmaster: Not that there is any need of it, but as a mark of respect and affection, I bid you all to rise.

[Thereupon the whole assembly rose to its feet.]

The Secretary: The Toastmaster will forward the telegram in accordance with your unanimous vote. There is another of whom Howard Taylor spoke—and to whom our thoughts must also sadly turn at this moment, Lowell Lincoln. To him, too, the Toastmaster will send a telegram of our greeting, sympathy and affection. And now at the close of the dinner, once more we give the three cheers for the good year that bound us together.

[Three hearty cheers were given for the class of '86. Then "Fair Harvard" was sung, and at 12.40 the assembly broke up.]

The fourth day was the usual Commencement made eventful however by a formal class meeting, and by a successful class photograph.

CLASS MEETING

A meeting of '86 called by the Class Committee, was held at 4 Hollis on Commencement Day, June 27, 1906, at 12.30 P.M. In the absence of the Chairman of the Class Committee, the Secretary presided, and announced that the meeting was called to take action on the resignation of the Chairman of the Class Committee, and to elect additional members of the Class Committee. The following business was transacted :

Voted: That the resignation of the Chairman of the Class Committee be accepted with the sincere regrets of the class, and the Secretary be instructed to express the hearty thanks of '86 for the long years of service that the Chairman has given.

Voted: That the Class Committee be increased in membership to seven.

On the nomination of Gordon Woodbury, W. C. Boyden was unanimously elected member of the Class Committee.

The following nominations were made for the vacancies: Messrs. S. H. Fessenden, A. D. Clafin, F. B. Mallory, E. H. Nichols, G. L. Peabody, O. B. Roberts and G. Woodbury. Of these Messrs. F. B. Mallory and G. Woodbury withdrew their names.

Voted: That the vacancies be filled by a mail ballot held at the earliest date. Meeting adjourned at 1 P.M.

J. H. HUDDLESTON, Secretary.

The mail ballot resulted in the election of E. H. Nichols and O. B. Roberts.

The celebration of the Twentieth Anniversary is over, but its memory lasts.

THOMAS TILESTON BALDWIN
IN ACCOUNT WITH '86 TWENTIETH REUNION FUND.

DR.	CR.
To 69 subscriptions from members of the class in Boston and vicinity	$1,350 00
Balance from subscription dinner of Reunion Com- mittee,	10 40
Balance, due from Class Fund,	219 79
	<hr/>
	$1,580 19
	<hr/>
	$1,580 19

December 6th, 1906.

Boston, December 12, 1906.

The above statement, and the following account of Receipts and Expenditures, have been examined and approved by each member of the Class Committee, and they have authorized the payment to me out of the Class Fund of the balance of $219.79.

THOS. TILESTON BALDWIN.

'86 TWENTIETH REUNION EXPENSES.

CLASS DINNER:

Exchange Club, dinners,	$254 00
" " wines and liquors,	181 95
" " cigars,	24 00
" " piano,	5 00
W. B. Wright, stenographer,	35 00
A. M. Kanrich, musicians,	20 00
O. Ditson Company, music,	3 38
G. H. Ellis Company, printing song-book,	36 75
Heintzmann Press, " menu,	19 00
J. Andrew & Son, plates for song-book cover,	3 83
Tips,	10 00
Telegraph messenger & telegrams,	2 00

	$594 91

COMMENCEMENT SPREAD:

Harvard Union, Luncheon,	$ 76 04
S. Q. Cochran & Company, drinks,	21 93
Bartlett, cigars,	4 00
Tips,	4 00

	$105 97

COUNTRY CLUB DAY:

Country Club, restaurant,	$273 50
" " bar,	104 15
" " cigars,	27 04
" " stable,	29 50
" " golf & tennis,	3 80
" " ½ use of house,	16 66
" " ½ expense band & stage,	24 05
R. H. Hallowell, ½ band,	84 00
M. O. Simons, ½ calcium lights,	4 00
" " ½ prize cup,	5 00
" " ½ theatrical supplies,	2 70
prize cup,	14 50

	$588 90

HAMILTON TRIP:

Linscott Motor Company, automobile hire,	$ 75 00
S. Woodbury & Company, printing itinerary,	10 00
Printing and postals,	2 00

	$ 87 00

GENERAL EXPENSES:

J. L. Fairbanks, printing,	$ 29 75
S. Woodbury & Company, printing,	9 00
Louis K. Brown, "	1 75
Postage and envelopes,	10 50
S. B. Kidder, typewriting,	4 00
Gill & Company, placards,	6 60
Boston Herald, Class notices,	18 00
" Transcript, " "	9 38
" Advertiser, " "	7 50
J. Harriott, badges,	45 00
Cobb, Bates & Yerxa, cigars,	11 25
Pinkus, cigarettes,	27 50
Hotel Somerset, expenses room, etc.,	13 10
H. W. Tupper, Class group photograph,	1 75
J. Andrew & Son, half-tone plate, Class group,	8 33
	<hr/>
	203 41
	<hr/>
	$1,580 19

CLASS FUND

JOHN HUDDLESTON, SECRETARY, IN ACCOUNT WITH THE CLASS OF 1886

Dr.	Cr.
To cash paid to Class Fund from paid subscriptions
Contributions from other sources
Class Day, $1,474 85	$5,986 00
Gate Fund, 307 04
Other Payments 539 98
	2,321 87
	90 42
Interest from subscribers to fund
" " 5% bonds (June 30, 1896, to Jan. 1, 1905)	213 50
Interest from banks
" " Suffolk $896 38
" " Provident 408 19
" " Five Cent 715 84
" " Union Dime 171 46
	2,191 87

By cash paid for Class Expenses
Before May 1, 1898 (date of last statement)	$3,817 85
May 1, 1898 to Jan. 1, 1901, 693 76
Jan. 1, 1901 to Jan. 1, 1902, (Reunion) 1,526 12
" 1, 1902 " " 1, 1904, 395 82
" 1, 1904 " July 1, 1907, 862 70

	$7,236 25
Cash in Five Cent Savings Bank, Boston,
" " Suffolk " " "	1,715 84
" " Union Dime " " New York, 1,396 38
" " Astor Trust Co. " " " 171 46
	282 73

	$10,802 66

APPENDIX

Portions of two letters contributed by Samuel Mathewson Scott to the New York Evening Post, April 26th and 28th, 1906

POMPEII'S PANIC REVIVED

TURMOIL AND MIGHTY TERROR LAID HOLD UPON THE LAUGHTER-LOVING NEAPOLITANS WHEN THE SLUMBERING VESUVIUS STIRRED — HEADLONG FLIGHT AND MUCH PRAYING

NAPLES, April 9.—If you have ever made the journey from Naples to Pompeii, you will remember passing through a lovely country where every inch of the soil was carefully and laboriously turned to use and profit and where the vineyards crept high up the mountain side, even among the back ridges of former lava flows. Everywhere you saw the country people cheerfully toiling, tending the vines, irrigating with the old-fashioned water-wheel, planting and transplanting and busy from morning till night.

All that fair region is now a dreary wilderness ablaze with streams of lava or covered deeply under a mantle of volcanic ash, the same reddish purple ash in which you saw the excavators at Pompeii working.

While you walked the streets of that silent city and saw the smoke curl lazily over Vesuvius, you may have tried to picture to yourself something of the horror of the August days so long ago when the deluge of palpable darkness overwhelmed those gay streets and buried them alike from the face of the sun and from the memory of man for centuries to come.

But the ghastliest nightmare of your fancy did little justice to the reality, as I well know from what we have seen during the past week.

You may know your guidebook Pompeii from gate to gate, but you know nothing of its real life, if you have not also studied with sympathetic eyes, not only the Naples of Via Caracciolo and the Villa Nazionale, but the Naples of the tortuous Vicos and the old-time Piazzas where the people hive and swarm, for in them you will find the scenes and sounds, the very soul of dead Pompeii. The people are the same; in noisy groups the boys are gambling by the wall, over every doorway is one of the countless charms against the evil eye.

The spirit that prompted some troubled mortal to light the candle before that shrine on the street corner is the same that moved his Pompeian ancestor to lay an offering of cakes and wine before the Garden God. That little dark cupboard in the wall where the reflected sunlight flickers on the wine bottles, is it not the counterpart of the wineshops of the buried city — the scales with which that fruitseller is weighing her wares, the brazier on which that woman is cooking the family breakfast, might they not have come out of the great Museum—and the restless multi-colored crowd, is it not a reanimation of one of the Frescoes? Therefore, is it not safe to say that the scenes we have witnessed during the last few days are in all respects like those enacted nearly 2,000 years ago?

For months Vesuvius has been active. Last February lava flowed from fissures near the summit and glowed for weeks—while the pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night rose ever from the awesome crater. But the disturbances that culminated in the present eruption may be said to have commenced on Wednesday, April 4. The morning of that day was unusually fair for the weather had been very unsettled, and the mountain itself seemed as peaceful as the sky. That afternoon, however, as I was walking on the Corso Vittorio Emanuele in the upper part of the city, I saw that the mountain had begun to stir again. The smoke rose in heavy black gusts, and, drifting seaward, seemed to drop in showers as it trailed away.

That night a light rain of ashes fell over Naples; it hissed like sleet against the windows, yet it penetrated every cranny, like the finest powder. It turned the colorful city to a violet gray. The morning papers spoke of new fissures only 800 metres above the sea, from which lava was flowing on the side toward Pompeii, but the streams were not very serious. It was more to be regretted that the wind was driving the dust laden air directly over the course of the Campo di Marte where the third meeting of race week was to be held, and, indeed, society did suffer considerably, for the royal liveries and the gay coaches that thronged the Via Caracciolo that afternoon after the races were woefully besprinkled. Society had been similarly inconvenienced one day in August in the year of our Lord 79.

ERUPTION SCREENED BY MIST.

From Thursday night till Saturday morning the eruptive activity was incessant, but it was entirely hidden from us in Naples; a dun mist screened the mountain and obscured the sky, and ash showers fell at intervals—extremely uncomfortable but not very alarming.

We heard of fresh outbreaks on the other side of the mountain. The lava streams were increasing, and one of them was so close to the little village of Boscotrecase over toward Pompeii that the people had taken alarm and had persuaded the parish priest to allow them to carry the miracle-working image of St. Anne in procession toward the approaching lava, over which her power had always prevailed. But the lava still advanced through the vineyards, and many of the country people about Boscotrecase and Torre Annunziata were preparing to leave their homes. On Saturday morning, however, St. Anne asserted herself, and the flow of lava was miraculously stopped before it reached the confines of the town. The news spread rapidly. Those who had left their homes returned, those who had packed their belongings preparatory to flight unpacked them, for St. Anne had triumphed over the mountain, and all danger was past—at least upon the mountain sides. It was of small consequence that away up at the summit liquid lava slopped over the rim, like water from a full bowl carelessly shaken, that the observatory and Funicular Railway were rapidly becoming things of the past, that the crater's walls were crumbling, and that another shower of ashes was beginning to fall over Naples from the invisible mountain—St. Anne had saved Boscotrecase.

Then came the night of terror. About eight o'clock streaks of fire shot through the black veil that hid the mountain, with rumblings as of distant thunder. Louder and more violent grew the explosions, the houses trembled, strange gusts of wind swept the streets and rattled the windows. Fear increased with the tumult. About midnight a strong earthquake shook Naples—and then came panic. In every quarter of the city the people rushed from their houses as if by one impulse, and thronged the open spaces. Weeping, shrieking, praying, they formed processions and lighted candles before the images of the saints, cowering at every reverberation from the mountain, quivering with the very earth itself; for to physical fear was added the terror born of their inherited instinct to endow with human attributes the forces of Nature—that fear that is stronger than the fear of death, the fear of the wrath of God.

What happened on the mountain is beyond the power of words. Suddenly the cone collapsed and set loose floods of lava. As the fiery streams descended it seemed as if the volcano had been riven from summit to base. Terrific electrical discharges added to the roar of the explosions within the crater. At each explosion a column of blazing projectiles shot thousands of feet into the air. The mountain sides heaved like waves with the earthquakes.

ST. ANNE FORGOTTEN.

St. Anne and her miracles were forgotten. With one accord, from every village and hamlet the people fled—whither they cared not, anywhere away from that terrible mountain.

I was early abroad the next morning. A sickly sunlight filtered through the mists that screened Vesuvius. Only an occasional rumble came from behind the veil, but everywhere the fear that was upon Naples revealed itself. In every doorway and at every corner candles burned before the images of favorite saints, processions of weeping women with dishevelled hair and pale men with uncovered heads passed through the squalid streets holding up great crosses with the emblems of the Passion toward the inexorable invisible mountain. In the Piazza San Ferdinando and upon the steps of the Opera, I saw the first groups of fugitives.

I hurried to Portici on the side of the bay nearest the mountain. There upon the great highway that runs along the sea, mid whirlwinds of choking dust, came the march of the fleeing country people. In thousands and thousands they poured along, with swollen, frightened eyes and dust-stained cheeks, staggering under the burdens that represented the little all they had been able to gather up, carrying their children, leading the blind, aiding the lame and the old; tortured and exhausted animals struggled with overladen carts; while ever and anon over the babel of cries that rose from the mighty throng could be heard the roar of the unseen mountain.

It was thus they must have fled from Pompeii and from many a later eruption, it was thus they must often have hurried in the Middle Ages when the alarm bell rang beyond Sorrento and the guns of the forts at Ischia told of the coming of the dreaded pirates.

Not towards Naples only, but to Castellammare, in the other direction, and by sea in every form of craft that floats, the people were flying from the terror that lay behind the cloud. They say over 100,000 people left their homes that night.

On the great highway stands a statue to commemorate one of the numerous occasions on which St. Gennaro, the patron of Naples, saved the city from the mountain; before this image crowds knelt and candles blazed. As I returned to town I again met the processions. It was Palm Sunday. Every church and every chapel was packed with weeping worshippers. No day this to neglect observances, my brothers.

Toward evening the dust veil settled a little, and for the first time we were able to see the mountain. Above it, towering seemingly to the very zenith, more awesome and more threatening than all the lightnings and convulsions that had gone before, rose the black dome-topped column of smoke and ashes to which Pliny first gave the name it still bears—the Pine Tree of Vesuvius.—Heavy as the folds of a velvet curtain, involved as a swarm of torpid serpents, rolling in labored convolutions as great gusts shot through it from the crater, it hung above the city, its blackness tinged to menacing red by the rays of the setting sun.

I went out about eight o'clock. It was terribly dark. Silently, chokingly, blindingly the ashes were coming down thicker than any snowstorm, covering the world with blackness and muffing every sound. All night the mountain roared, the earth shook. All night the uncanny storm continued. Is it strange that a terror unspeakable fell upon the people, and that the scenes of the night before were repeated in tenfold agony? This was the rain that had overwhelmed Pompeii and upon the mountain villages it was falling as it fell then, mingled with stones and rocks in some places to a depth of twelve to fifteen feet.

We do not yet know what havoc it has wrought. The wildest rumors are abroad of death and utter destruction, but it is certain that more than half the Vesuvian district has been laid hopelessly waste, and that it will be many a day before the mountainsides smile again with vineyards and gardens.

This morning the blessed north wind rose and slowly, slowly drove the darkness seaward. Again the mountain was visible, and while the pine tree had diminished, a pall denser, blacker than the deepest thundercloud blotted out Capri and Sorrento, while down the mountain slopes trailed the dreadful hail. The sea that is wont to sparkle in nameless greens and blues and purples had the tawny hues of a river in flood. As if smothered under its thick cloak of ashes, Naples, the noisy, the bustling, the gay—Naples was a soundless city.

Perhaps the worst is over. All day great belchings from the crater have tossed the pine tree higher, but the outbursts seem less piquant and less strong, and the trailing showers have almost ceased.

And now the sky is clear and blue; the great smoke column floats like a peaceful cloud of pearly gray, while Naples sleeps like an enchanted city under the gentle moonlight.

WHEN THE FEAR CAME TO NAPLES

SCENES WHICH GAVE THE IMPRESSION OF A DUST-COVERED INFERO— THE FRANTIC MULTITUDES FOLLOWING THE IMAGES OF SAINTS—HOW VESUVIUS'S ERUPTION WILL AFFECT AMERICA

NAPLES, April 11.—The calmer reports of yesterday gave us sufficient data upon which to form an idea of the general character of the eruption. During the cataclysm of Saturday night two main streams of lava issued from the broken cone on the eastern side of Vesuvius. The larger one to the westward flowed directly down the mountain and overwhelmed Boscorecase. Here it divided into two streams which continued their course almost to the sea. One of these streams stopped at the very outskirts of Torre Annunziata, which lies upon the shores of the bay. So far as I can gather, this main stream was about half a mile wide, and several yards in thickness. The other main stream, to the eastward, was less extensive, and checked its course just above Pompeii.

These streams swept over vineyards, houses, and gardens, choked the country roads, and buried forever everything that lay in their path. But the damage they caused is as nothing compared with the havoc wrought by the fall of ashes that succeeded them. This deluge, made up of volcanic dust, sand, stones, and rocks—its exact composition depending upon the distance of the locality from the summit, as the heavier elements naturally fall nearer the crater—has poured down incessantly since Sunday, and covers all the land from the sea to the top of the mountain, and from Naples and Portici, three quarters of the way southward, around the volcano.

It extends for many square miles, and varies in thickness from a few inches, at the edges of the zone, to many yards in the central portions. By its sheer weight it has crushed out of existence the towns of Ottaviano and S. Giuseppe, in the former of which the church collapsed upon a crowd of frightened worshippers, burying and injuring several hundreds.

THE SILENTLY DESCENDING DUST.

All night long the dust descended silently, finer than the finest powder. When I opened my shutters this morning, I felt as if I had been magically transported, for the city seemed enveloped in the familiar yellow fog of London, but instead of the old, black smudge, came the sift, sift, sift, of the all-pervading ashes.

It seems impossible to convey any impression of the aspect of the city, similes are so hopelessly wanting. Over everything lies a violet-colored mantle nearly two inches thick, and of incredible weight. It covers not only roofs and cornices and balconies, but the very house fronts themselves; it carpets streets and pavements, and stifles every sound, it smothers gardens, trees, and flowers—it is everywhere. Like what? Like snow? That is all our experience suggests, but snow has life and sparkle, and this is dull and dead. Snow brings its happy memories; this is a thing of fear—appalling for its very strangeness.

I made my way to the Piazza Cavour, which adjoins the National Museum at the head of the Via Roma—for here is the real Naples. Warned by the catastrophe of yesterday, the people were clearing roofs and balconies, piling the dust in heaps in the streets, and the air was thick to suffocation. No gay colors now in Naples. Streets and houses, garments, features, hair were all a uniform gray. Yesterday the fugitives seemed to have vanished among the labyrinthian alleys; to-day they were everywhere dragging themselves wearily, hopelessly through the unfamiliar city or telling their tales of horror to groups but too eager to listen.

And the fear that was on the people! For every candle that burned on Sunday a hundred burned to-day. In vicos and avenues, in lanes and thoroughfares, at every wayside shrine in Naples, men, women, and children knelt in very dust and ashes, hoarsely pleading and praying. Up the Via Roma, out of the twisted alleys into the Strada Foria came numberless processions in which the people in thousands, blinded, choked, saturated with dust, bore candles before every form of sacred emblem or image, and sang and prayed and muttered. It was like a mediæval picture of the Day of Wrath.

I found myself by the walls of the Botanical Garden; they would be a relief. At the entrance an attendant was clearing the stairway with something of the languor of despair. I asked if I might enter. He shrugged his shoulders and looked at me as only a Neapolitan can. I might carry off the gardens for all he cared.

A GHOSTLY GRAY GARDEN.

It was a garden of the Land of Twilight, ghostly gray. The air was motionless. Walks, lawns, and beds, each twig and leaf, each palm tree frond was covered thick with dust. The lizards traced strange tracks along the ways. If a bird rustled in the branches gray showers fell heavily. The weirdest inventions of pantomime stagecraft never produced anything like it. Had Dante seen it he would have added another circle to his Inferno. I began to realize more clearly the magnitude of the misfortune that had befallen unhappy Naples and her fair Campagna. Had this been snow it would have vanished when the sun came into his own again. What human power is to remove all these accumulations? Rain does not wash it away, water only hardens it. On the large streets where vehicles circulate, it can in time be gathered together and carted away, but in this strange city there are hundreds of miles of alleys that no cart can penetrate, of gradinos or stepped foot paths, running over every hill. It is hard enough to keep them even passable in the best of times; who is to clear them now, and how is it to be done? Here it is only a matter of inches; what of the places where it is three or four feet deep?

I went on through the vicos to the Strada dei Tribunali, the oldest street in Naples. Everywhere the same sights, saints, candles, praying groups, and dust, dust, dust. When I reached the Strada del Duomo there was a great tumult. It was the procession of St. Gennaro, the patron of the city. Headed by priests in vestments and guarded by a dozen or twenty armed carabinieri, the bust of the saint was borne along before a singing, shouting rabble. Woe to the man who remained covered there, his hat was snatched from his head with curses. In the great Corso Umberto Primo more processions, then at noon before many of the churches, favorite images were brought out and shown to the eager crowds amid scenes that are indescribable and inconceivable.

One feature of this great calamity closely touches America; it must greatly increase emigration. But the people who will go are not the driftwood of the city's slums, they will be those from the countryside, a people patiently laborious and exceptionally skilled in agriculture and kitchen gardening. If they could be sent to fruit-growing regions of the United States where the climate is similar to their own they would make invaluable laborers. It will be a criminal waste if they are allowed to remain in the slums of the great cities or are put at work digging, delving, and street cleaning, the usual lot of the poor Italian emigrant. It will not do to scatter them, for they are a gregarious people and love their kind. Establish them in small communities in the districts where their special qualities can be utilized and they will speedily prove a blessing to the land. This is the best form of charity that could be offered to them.

Portion of a "Journal" contributed to the Class Report by George Edwin Howes.

At a meeting of the Managing Committee of the School at Athens held in New York in May, 1900, I was invited to accept for the year 1902-'03, the position as Professor of the Greek language and Literature at the School of Classical Studies at Athens. My acceptance of this position depended upon the possibility of obtaining leave of absence from the University, which the President and the Board of Trustees were kind enough to grant me. The appointment to this position is regularly made two or three years in advance, so that a man may make such college and family arrangements as absence for a year makes necessary.

Toward the end of June in 1902 I sailed from Boston for Liverpool with my family consisting of my wife, my son who was nearly thirteen years old, and my little girl of seven. We landed in Liverpool on the eventful Fourth of July, and started at once for London, breaking our journey for a few days at Chester, that quaint old cathedral town, at Stratford-on-Avon, and at Oxford. We were in London between two and three weeks, during which I spent most of the available part of each day in the British Museum studying the archaeological remains that the museum is so fortunate as to possess, giving special attention to the reading of inscriptions.

The last of July we left London for Paris by the way of New Haven and Dieppe. The channel was fairly smooth and the passage was so short that we arrived on the French shore without any appreciable loss of any sort. We spent a day or two at Dieppe, which is somewhat of a watering place, and then went on to Rouen, where we delayed a little, both to get an idea of the peasant life and to listen to the traditions about the Maid of Orleans. We hastened on to Paris, however, and were soon settled in a comfortable pension in the Latin Quarter. Here I devoted most of my time to the study of French, less from the point of view of literature and more from that of conversation. I exchanged lessons with three or four Frenchmen each day, for they were as eager to speak English as I was to try French. The Opera House and the Comédie Française were both open, and so we had an opportunity to hear the best of music and to see Coquelin the younger give many of Molière's plays. My wife was improving the opportunity to continue her study of vocal music, for she found a very good instructor in Paris. Of course, we visited all the most noted places, but I will not weary you with an enumeration of them.

The last of August I left my family in Paris and started for Cologne, whence I took the steamer up the Rhine to Mainz. From here it is only a few miles to Heidelberg, in Germany. I wanted to get a little glimpse of the University town, even if the University itself was closed. Here at Heidelberg I took my coffee and roll in the morning with my window opening upon Heidelberg Castle, one of the most interesting ruins of its kind in Germany. Although I had intended to return to Paris and take from there a fresh start, the trip up the Rhine had been so impressively beautiful that I was unwilling to be the only member of my family to enjoy it; so my family came up to Cologne, where I met them and we took the Rhine trip together.

From Heidelberg we crossed into Switzerland and then over into Italy, making a short stop at Milan and then on to Venice. The Campanile had fallen a few weeks before, and the ruined piles of stone and mortar had not been wholly removed. This was our first trip to Venice and so far our only one, and it remained as one of our bright dreams. If ever we cross the ocean again Venice will be one of the first places that we shall hurry to.

From Venice we hurried on to Trieste, to take the steamer for Greece. We were fortunate enough to meet on the steamer Professor Richardson, the director of the School at Athens, together with several members of the school; so we had the best possible chance to become well acquainted before reaching land again. We touched the Italian shore at Brindisi long enough for me to go ashore at midnight for a few minutes and buy a few pounds of luscious Italian grapes which we afterwards found, much to our comfort, duplicated in Greece.

Our next port was Santa Quaranta, a harbor of the Turks; and here we had our first glimpse of Oriental life. A company of Turks was just riding up from the harbor on the way to the interior of Thessaly, spread out in long line with their bright costumes. In the harbor were two or three Greek coasting steamers with all that we found afterwards was implied in that term.

After a stay of only an hour or two we weighed anchor again and made for Corfu, the Corcyra of the ancients. Corfu is one of the pleasantest summer places for the Greeks and the King has, I believe, a garden here. We had an hour on shore, and I spent that time trying to find the tomb of a classical friend of mine who died six hundred years or so B.C.

I had my first experience in attempting to use Greek as a living language. Much to my disgust, the natives did n't know good Greek when they heard it. One of the most intelligent looking made a sign to me to indicate that he would show me the object of my search. After following him for fifteen minutes or so I found myself, not at my friend's tomb, but at the entrance to the Royal Villa. Again had Greek intelligence suffered in my estimation! I retraced my steps hastily and by scurrying around up and down the lanes —I must say this to save my self-respect — I found at last the tomb of my long-lost friend, paid my belated respects, photographed his last resting place, and returned to the steamer triumphant. A few minutes later we were steaming out of the harbor and sailing to the south again. Soon we passed the shore where Odysseus is said to have landed when he met Nausicaa (for the ancients identified Corcyra with the land of the Phæcians); and there is pointed out to us the very rock which represents petrified the ship in which Odysseus was carried home to Ithaca from the Phæcians, for Poseidon in his wrath changed the ship to stone.

Next morning, though late and belated, we were in Patras, a city of forty thousand people, the landing place for all those that are bound for Athens who do not care to coast around Peloponnesus. Here were many strange sights : some of the men in short skirts, for in Greece, as Professor Mahaffy says, it is the men that wear the petticoats ; priests with their brimless stove-pipe hats ; peasants driving their turkeys through the streets, and many other strange sights.

Just before noon we took the train for Athens, one hundred and forty miles away. And here again everything new ! Here beside the railroad were growing the olive and the fig tree, the grape and the currant. And back from the road and across the Gulf of Corinth mountains everywhere, and Parnassus and Helicon which, in our boyhood days, we thought were merely on the map and nowhere else ! About two-thirds of the distance from Patras to Athens is Corinth, where our American School has been excavating for a number of years. Just beyond we cross by a bridge the canal, which makes now in fact, what it was in early times in myth, an island of southern Greece,—Pelops' Island. Nero began the canal in 67 A.D.; but there were a few delays, as often happens in the digging of canals, so that it was not finished until 1893.

We reached Athens a little after 7 P.M., a distance of one hundred and forty miles in seven hours and a half ! As the railway station is in a most dismal part of the city, we were fortunate to arrive in the dark, so as not to see Athens first under disadvantageous conditions.

I shall not attempt to describe Athens. It would take too long, and after all I could not bring before you the picture, unless you have seen it with your own eyes, and in that case the vision will remain for you for all time. There is such an intermingling of the picturesque present and the historic past. And the past is just as vivid as the present. It is almost a trite saying that the Acropolis with its temples looks to the visitor just as he has seen it in his books.

We reached Athens September 26 and settled at once in a comfortable pension which is under the united care of a Greek and his English wife. The official opening of the "School" began October 1, but the curriculum for the first month was planned to be largely an itinerary. In fact, on October 3 we started for a ten days' trip into the middle part of Northern Greece. We sailed—or rather steamed—from the Piraeus out by the southern side of historic Salamis, through the Corinthian Canal, across the Gulf of Corinth to Itea, the modern seaport nearest to ancient Delphi. We were late in landing and so had to make our way up the ascent in the dark, the ladies on donkeyback, and the men trundling their bicycles. There is no hotel, and accommodations are rather limited. There were n't beds enough for our party; so my son and I slept on the floor. At 6 o'clock the next morning I had to get up to rest myself.

We went out for an early morning walk, and here we were close by the Fountain of Castalia ! We spent the day visiting the sites just excavated by the French and viewing the remains of treasuries, temples, gymnasium, and so on.

The next day we journeyed on, the women on donkeys, the men with bicycles; the bicycles sometimes carrying the men and fully as often the men carrying the bicycles. We passed at the foot of Parnassus, along the very path where—the story goes—Oedipus killed his father, Laius, and where a modern monument bears witness to the fight against brigands fifty years ago. The night we spent at a semi-private house in a small village. A cursory examination of my bed showed that it was composed of boxes without any springs or upholstery of any kind. Still I slept. Not so all my companions! For the reason thereof I will refer you to the opening verses in the Clouds of Aristophanes, either in the original or in a translation. It is probable that the flora and the fauna of Greece have not changed much in the past twenty-three hundred years.

On the next morning we turned towards the south-east and were soon in the level plain in north-western Boeotia on the memorable battle-ground of Chaeroneia, where Philip of Macedon, with Alexander, his son, fighting his first battle, by his victory over the Athenians and Thebans brought Greece under his absolute sway. When we passed that way, the Greeks were just re-constructing a foundation to restore to its original position the marble lion erected as a memorial of the fallen heroes. The original lion was on the ground, in two portions. The Greek official in charge of this work of restoration had just found a mile or so away in the plain a tumulus, which excavation proved to contain ashes and bits of bones, probably of some of the men that were killed in this very battle over twenty-two hundred years ago.

But we must hasten. Farther on we saw the cotton-pickers at work, and in one of the large towns cotton and woolen mills in operation. Next we came to Thebes, where Antigone, Epaminondas, and Pindar streets reminded us that we were—for the classical student—on holy ground. But here our unreasonable ideas of sanitation and cleanliness received a shock. We spent two days and two nights here and in the vicinity, visiting Platæa, Thespiae and Leuctra, which are only a few miles from Thebes. Our nights were not wholly restful and our meals tasted better to us in the dim light of early morning and evening than when the glare of the mid-day showed the unnatural color of dish and of waiters' hands.

From Thebes we travelled on towards the east of Boeotia and a journey of only nineteen miles brought us to the bridge connecting Boeotia and Eubœa, and we found ourselves in Chalcis, a town of ten thousand people, and one of the most attractive settlements of Greece. Just to the south-east a few miles lies Eretria, where the American School at Athens excavated the theatre a few years ago.

We finished this, our first trip, by a fourteen-hour steamer ride, which brought us to anchor at the Piræus at 1:30 A.M., several hours late. We had telegraphed from Chalcis to our pension to have our dinner saved for us. So, at 3 o'clock in the morning, we sat down to our dinner of the evening before. It is perhaps unnecessary to add that we then turned day into night.

After a few days spent in resting and in digesting our previous trip, we started off again, this time for Thessaly, with the Vale of Tempe and the monasteries as objective points. We were a party of ten, half of them women. Again we started from the Piræus by steamer. We sailed up through the Strait of Euripus, past Chalcis again, on through the Gulf of Eubœa, round the northern end of the island, up the Gulf of Pagasæ to the modern town of Volo. We made the distance, two hundred and nineteen miles, in nineteen hours, including a delay of three hours at Chalcis. Here again the names of the streets take us back to antiquity. We read on the sign-boards Iolcus St., Jason St., Argonaut St., and so on. For hotels our choice lay between Hotel Minerva and Hotel de France. We selected the latter. Our dinner menu was printed both in French and in modern Greek. As I was hungry, I took my chance with the French. I ordered lamb cutlet and was served with veal. This looked like a reflection upon my French, but the friend beside me who gave his order—in French—for lamb cutlet, drew a piece of beefsteak. Later, I ordered grapes and apples, and received a melon.

An engine and cars of the English toy variety—but not of the English speed—carried us up to Larissa, where we stayed at the Hotel d' Angleterre, called hotel by courtesy run mad. As our trip to the Vale of Tempe meant about fifty miles, an equally hard day's journey for those who rode in carriages and for those that used bicycles, we took an early start at 7 A.M. It was a beautiful, crisp, October morning, and one might have imagined himself back among the hills of New England, so clear was the air and so quiet. Only the occasional song of a bird and the distant voice of the ploughman broke the stillness. The Vale of Tempe is one of the most beautiful places in Greece. The road winds in and out, following the course of the Peneius River, now apparently blocked by a rock that seems to come right to the river's edge, now finding just room enough to squeeze between cliff and stream. The nomads were wandering here and there with all their goods, men riding, women walking, children and hens tied to the backs of the donkeys. We took our lunch in a grove of plane trees. Just beyond was a bridge across the river which took us almost to the Macedonian frontier. It was the time of the trouble in Macedonia, and we did not learn until afterwards that the Director of the School, who had his daughter with him, had conferred with the chief of police at Larissa, so that we were under police protection that day. However, we saw nothing to indicate that the place was not perfectly safe for everybody. We reached our inn between 6 and 7 o'clock, and the cyclometer registered forty-eight miles.

Our next day's trip was a forty-mile bicycle ride towards the western part of Thessaly, over one of the best roads of Greece. We reached the railroad station at Trikkala in time to take the afternoon train for Kalambaka, the starting point for the Meteora Monasteries. These monasteries are perched separately upon pinnacles of rock that are separated from one another by deep chasms. Most of them are absolutely inaccessible except by such primitive contrivances as the monks still employ—a rope ladder swaying in the wind, a net let down by a long rope, wound and unwound by a hand windlass. We, however, went to the Monastery of St. Stephen, which is easily reached by a mountain path and separated from the world only by a drawbridge. This is the richest of the monasteries and it owns a great deal of the land round about. There are seven or eight monks there. After about two hours of preparation they served us with a supper of stewed lamb, roast lamb, macaroni and cheese, with quince for dessert.

The monastery bells calling the monks to devotion waked us at 4.30 o'clock. An hour later we rose. The monks make no charge for entertaining guests, but they expect a deposit of money in their box. When our leader made the deposit for the party, one of the monks opened the box and counted the money, to make sure that there was no misunderstanding. Just as the sun was rising, we set out on our descent. And surely nothing could be more entrancing! It was one of the glories of a lifetime. The magnificent scenery of mountain and valley, the unique sight of these monastic rooks' nests, the tinkling of the bells on the goats grazing in the distance! Well, we had to return to earth again, take the prosaic steam cars and go back to Volo. Here we spent another beautiful day in climbing Mount Pelican, whence is a glorious view out into the Thracian Sea, with famous Mount Athos rising out of the water in the distance as a sugar-loaf. But we did not pile Ossa on Pelion, for even our time had its limits.

And so at noon on the eighth day out from Athens we started back from Volo. As we reached the northern end of Euboea we took our Herodotus and read the account of the Battle of Artemisium, which was fought in these waters. When this was finished, some of us were ready to go below. We reached Athens just before noon of the next day.

Again a few days for recuperation, when another trip was announced, this time for Argos, Nauplia, Epidaurus, Tiryns, and Mycenæ. The account of this I will abridge very materially, partly because I find myself spinning this story out to an abominable length, and partly because this short trip is more often included in the itinerary of the tourist.

We left Athens by train at 6.30 in the morning and reached our destination, Nauplia, at 1.30 P. M. Nauplia was probably the port of Tiryns in prehistoric times. To-day it is a town of about six thousand people. It has one of the best harbors in Greece.

The next day we took the train for Tiryns, only two and one half miles away. The acropolis of Tiryns was low and not very large. However, many of the walls, both outer and partition, are standing, in part. After a few hours' investigation we went on to Argos, where we visited the ruins of the theatre and climbed the Acropolis, nearly a thousand feet high, on which are the ruins of a mediæval castle.

We were scheduled for Mycenæ the next day, and we followed the schedule, in spite of the weather, which was very lowering. Mycenæ, with its Lion Gateway, and excavated tombs, is still very impressive in its ruins. Besides, it is in a wild sort of country right at the edge of the mountains. Those of us that went on bicycles had a fifteen-mile ride back to Nauplia in a pouring rain. And such sights as we were. The peculiarity of Greek peasant costume came to my rescue and saved me from staying abed until my clothes should dry. My wife made a fustinella out of her black skirt, and with this, surmounted by a golf cape and a Tam o'Shanter, I felt like a cross between a Scotch Highlander and a Greek countryman, but I made my way into the dining-room of the hotel with such sang froid, that the Greeks that were present kept even their smiles to themselves.

Epidaurus, which we visited the next day, is at present notable especially for the fact that it has the best preserved ruins of the ancient Greek theatre. The whole circle of the orchestra, with its defining boundary, and most of the seats, are still in situ.

We were back in Athens again after a five-days' trip. Tuesday, November 4, the work of the School began in earnest. Professor Richardson, the Director, gave weekly lectures on ancient sculpture in the museum of Athens. Dr. Heermance, the Secretary, gave occasional lectures and readings on architecture, and I gave a weekly lecture on epigraphy. Besides, many of the members of the School were regular attendants at the lectures given by Dr. Wilhelm, of the Austrian School on Attic inscriptions, and at the lectures of Dr. Doerpfeld of the German School on Athenian topography and architecture. For several months our time was taken up with the routine work of the School and with visiting the many points of interest in and around ancient and modern Athens. When the weather was unusually favorable we would interrupt our schedule occasionally for a day or two to visit such historic places as Ægina, Salamis, Megara, Corinth, Eleusis, Laurium, Phyle, and so on.

As we were spending our winter in Athens in teaching and studying, we made our social life very simple. We exchanged amenities with the representatives of the various schools and had our own simple gatherings. The Director of the School and his wife, Professor and Mrs. Richardson, invited all of the members of the School, at frequent intervals, to spend an evening with them. And my wife and I were "at home" every Saturday evening to the students, when music, reading, and games made us forget that we were thousands of miles from home. For Thanksgiving Day we gave our landlady instructions as to the proper arrangements for a New England Thanksgiving dinner, and we had our friends in to share with us the turkey with mince pie and all the other "fixin's" (barring cranberry sauce). On Christmas Eve we had our own little Christmas Tree, which we had cut ourselves a few days before on Mt. Pentelicus.

Still we did not remain wholly isolated from the world about us. We dined with Madame Schliemann, the widow of the famous archæologist and excavator,—and a beautiful and charming woman she is. We attended a birthday party of the Director of the German School, Dr. Doerpfeld, on December 26, and found ourselves right in the midst of the German Christmas festivities. We took dinner with our newly appointed Minister to Greece and his wife. We met informally King George and his sons. And, of course, we attended the Court Ball, which I must not take the time to describe.

We meant to witness as many of the native official ceremonies and meetings as possible. We saw the decorations in the streets and the grand military and court parade when Prince Nicholas arrived with his bride, Helen. We attended the opening session of Parliament, when the innocent throwing of an inkstand by one irate member at another nearly precipitated a miniature riot. However, no more dangerous weapons were used than umbrellas. We walked up and down Hermes Street on the afternoon preceding the Greek New Year—which is thirteen days behind ours—when everybody pelted the passers-by with confetti. We were present at the impressive religious ceremonies in the Greek Epiphany, when the priests bless for the year the water that is in the reservoir. In spite of this ceremony, however, there is a run of typhoid fever every little while among the Greeks from the use of this same water; for a part, at least, of the aqueduct used is probably nearly eighteen hundred years old. This blessing of the waters used to be observed at the seashore, where a cross was thrown out to become the property of the diver who secured it. The keen rivalry developed, however, produced too many murders; so, the practice had to be given up.

I dressed up in my frock coat and silk hat, to attend the church service held on New Year's day, when all the royal family are present. My clothes stood me in good stead. After the preliminary service was over, everybody was removed from the reserved space in front except the foreign ministers, the Greek officials, and the gentleman with the frock coat and silk hat. The royal family included the king and the queen, the crown prince—Constantine—and the crown princess, Prince George of Crete, Prince Nicholas and Princess Helen, Prince Andreas, Prince Christopher, and the two young sons of the crown prince. All except the king crossed themselves during the service, and at its conclusion they all kissed the cross and withdrew from the church.

Well, these will have to stand as examples of things that we saw. I can't take the time or space to describe everything.

Toward the last of January it looked like a good spell of weather. So we started for a ten-days' trip into Peloponnesus. We left on the 6 A.M. train, went past Eleusis, Megara, Corinth, Argos, up into Arcadia, where we passed above the snow-line, then down grade to Kalamata at the coast of Messenia. We had gone through winter weather and had come out again into late spring. We spent a day climbing to the top of Mt. Ithome and visiting the ruins of Messene, where are some of the best preserved walls in Greece. Then we tried the well nigh impossible. We tried to bicycle through the sands and swamps and over the mountains. We did the trick, but when we arrived in "Sandy Pylos" the Greeks were amazed until I explained to them that it was n't the bicycles that had carried us but we that had carried the bicycles. We visited all of the points of interest about Pylos, where Nestor lived of yore. We wandered up and down the Island of Sphacteria, where the demagogue Cleon won renown by his success over the Spartans in the Peloponnesian War. We sailed and rowed in the Bay of Pylos, where the allied fleet in 1827 annihilated the Turkish fleet. Here is history arranged in strata!

From Pylos we had a beautiful bicycle ride of forty miles up hill and down, though I had only one pedal left for use. Then we decided on a three-days' tramp which should take us up into the heart of the mountains, by the famous temple of Bassae, and over to Olympia. We had a chance to become acquainted with the wilder aspects of Greek scenery, and with the simpler side of Greek life. We spent one night at the house of a village priest and another at a very primitive inn, where the squawking of a hen soon after our arrival was prophetic of our chicken supper. We reached Olympia on the afternoon of our third day's tramp. There we found a really good, small hotel, where we decided to put up. The next day a runner for a rival hostelry insisted on our reading the recommendations left at his inn by fellow countrymen of ours. We were not persuaded, however, even by such striking testimonials as the following: "Bread stale, air fresh." "Food bad, what there was of it. No matches, no butter, bread sour. Salt good. Don't ask for three eggs." "Paid seven drachmas per day. 'Ex nilo nihil fit.'"

To describe Olympia would take a book. I shall not attempt it. To sit under the pines on the hill just above the ruins, hear the wind sighing through the trees, look down upon the picturesque valley with the river winding in and out, is to conjure up the scenes of over twenty centuries ago when the flower of Greece gathered here in varied competition. A day spent amid the ruins gives an opportunity to reconstruct, in imagination, the setting of temple, stadium, gymnasium, palestra, and so on.

Another day saw us back in Athens, ready to continue the routine of work. This was broken again in early March when I undertook to be dragoman for a party from the School, of which the most important element consisted of seven ladies. We made our usual early morning start in the train for Peloponnesus. By 4 o'clock in the afternoon we were in Tripolitza of Arcadia. In spite of rain we visited the battle-field of Mantinea, a dead level plain.

On the morning of the third day we started by carriage and bicycle for Sparta, thirty-seven miles away. The day was not eventful, though crowded with glorious sights of mountain and valley. On the way we passed wagonloads of Greeks bound north to take the steamer for America. We were told that from that eparchy alone twelve thousand Greeks had gone to our country. Late in the afternoon we came into Sparta, which nestles at the base of Mt. Taygetus, in a beautiful situation. And, contrary to my preconceived idea, we found the land most fertile, with olive trees and orchard groves in profusion. We spent a few days here, though Sparta is not rich in antiquities. We were waiting, however, for good weather for the hard part of the trip, which was a thirty-five or forty-mile donkey ride through the famous Langada Gorge. And a magnificent ride it is! The scenery is Swiss-like in its grandeur. And the light and shade upon the mountains are beautiful. Late in the afternoon we reached the highest point in the Pass, four thousand two hundred and fifty feet high, just at the snow-line at this time of year. Just before dark we came to a village where primitive accommodations are provided, and where we spent the night with considerable comfort, though the floor was a little hard.

The next day saw us started early and, after a steep descent followed by a corresponding ascent, we came to the top of a ridge where, with the Greeks of old, though under different circumstances and place, there burst from us the exclamation, "The Sea, the Sea!" Stretching below us, a few miles in the distance, was the sea with our old friend Kalamata beside it.

Here our party began to separate. Some went back to Athens by train, some continued on, partly by train and partly by wagon, to Megalopolis and Andritsæna, where we had some new experiences due to the primitiveness of the accommodations. But these I must pass over in silence. We all reached Athens in due course of time. Immediately one of the members of the School and I planned for a three-days' trip to Thermopylæ.

We took the steamer at the Piræus in the early evening and landed at Styliada, in Thessaly, late the next afternoon. It was a two-hour trip through the mud on bicycles to our night's stopping-place, Lamia, though it was only nine miles away.

The next morning we left the hotel at 6.15 o'clock, and had a fine ride on level ground for the first seven miles, when we reached the Sperchius River. Just beyond we passed a mill driven by warm water that comes down through a mediæval aqueduct. A little farther, to the right, is a hill which has been identified as the mound on which the Spartan Band under Leonidas was finally annihilated by the Persians. Again we are on historic ground. But the configuration of the land has changed here very greatly. The narrow Pass is no longer a pass. There is made land extending for several miles now between the mountain and the sea. The "Hot Springs," however, are still here, and the beetling crags above; and the path over the mountains by which the Greeks were betrayed is used, in part, by travellers coming to Thermopylæ from the neighborhood of Delphi. A few miles beyond Thermopylæ my friend broke the fork of his bicycle, and we had thirty miles to ride and walk with only one wheel serviceable. We made the distance, however, caught our night boat and were back in Athens early the next evening.

Our season in Athens was now fast drawing to a close. There was one delightful excursion more that we had planned, a cruise among the islands of the Ægean Sea under the leadership of Professor Ernest Gardner of Scuden University. We started on April 1st—and the trip was no joke, either. We sailed again from the Piræus. We were scheduled to leave at 10 A.M., but through some delay in our papers—well, it might just as well be that as anything else—we were kept at anchor until nearly 4 P.M. And then—oh, but it was rough! One after another succumbed, and we were relieved—that is, those that had not gotten relief sooner—when we came to anchor in smooth water in the harbor of Laurium. After we had turned in for the night, the boat started again. In the early morning we were at anchor off Delos. After breakfast we visited the ruins, which the French had in part excavated, bringing to light not only temples but pillared dwelling-houses. We saw the lake on whose shores Apollo and Artemis were born. We climbed the mountain, not very high, from which at least nine islands are visible to the naked eye, all noted in Greek story.

The next morning we sailed to Melos and inspected the ruins recently excavated by the British School. Not far from our landing-place was found the "Venus of Milo." After a few hours' stay we went on board and headed for Thera, some sixty miles distant. This we reached in the afternoon. Thera is a volcanic island with beautiful blacks and yellows and reds. The centre is the crater. The cliffs rise sheer from the coast. To reach the town you climb a winding, slippery, paved road. The houses, as regularly in the islands of the Ægean, are a white, a dazzling white, with the bright Southern sun. We slept on board the boat, and while we slept we sailed.

At 6 o'clock in the morning we found ourselves nearing Candia, Crete. Crete is Oriental in its aspect. The men were clad either in the baggy trousers of the islanders or in the skirts and turbans of the Turks. Only a few women were to be seen, and they were either old or had their faces veiled—sometimes, perhaps, both. Just outside of Candia we visited the wonderful excavations made by Mr. Evans of England. He has brought to light the palace of old King Minos—or of some king equally old—and has even found (so he says) the labyrinth where the Minotaur was kept. Mr. Evans received us most hospitably and showed us all over the ruins. But we must hasten on.

We made another stop in Crete at a small place where the English were excavating, and we spent a few hours in Rhodes, where we were met at the dock by a motley throng of Turks, Jews, Greeks, and negroes. From Rhodes we sailed up the coast of Asia Minor a little beyond ancient Mile-tus. Here we went ashore and took horses for a ride into the interior, to visit Priene, where the Germans had excavated recently. The women in the party were put in the center of our train, while a guard of four natives went on in advance. For we were told that this was a bad district. As we drew near to one of the settlements, all the natives, men and women, lined up to see us pass. At Priene, perhaps the most interesting ruin was that of a gymnasium. Here we could see where the boys had scratched up the walls with marks and caricatures, very likely of their teachers. Here, too, one boy, to mark his proprietorship, had scratched the words, "This place belongs to Herodotus, son of Herodotus."

We had intended to go back to our steamer for the night, but a storm of rain and wind had come up. So we decided to risk a night on Turkish soil, though our passports did not provide for this. Thirty-five of us were stowed away in two small houses, four sleeping in a room about seven feet by ten. The next morning we continued our ride through the fertile valley of the Maeander until we reached the railroad station, where we took the train for Smyrna. A telegram had been sent to the British consul at Smyrna, to explain our presence on Turkish soil, and to ask him to smooth over with the Turkish officials the difficulties in the situation. The consul boarded the train at Ephesus and assured us that all would be forgiven if we should leave Smyrna before sunset. It was doubtful to us, however, if our steamer would arrive in Smyrna in time for us to comply. When we reached Smyrna, we saw companies of Turkish soldiers marching along the streets to the harbor where two transports were waiting for them. We were told that there had been an uprising in Albania, and that these soldiers were ordered off at once. Our steamer did not come in to Smyrna until 7 o'clock, too late for us to leave at sunset. So there was red tape and palaver, and it was midnight before we received permission to leave—or thought that we had. But at our next port of entry, Mytilene, our captain had to pay a fine of sixty dollars for having left Smyrna at night without permission. It was months before the British authorities succeeded in squeezing that money out again from the miserly Turk.

From Smyrna we sailed up to the Troad, took donkeys once more and set foot on Sacred Troy. Here Schliemann had dug on the correct site, but had gone too low in his excavation for the Troy of Priam. It was left for Dr. Doerpfeld to bring to light the ruins of the Homeric Troy, the Troy of the Iliad. But here again the story becomes too long. We sailed back to Mytilene, where the party divided somewhat, as a half dozen of us were going on to Constantinople. There we spent a most enjoyable week, taking in the regular sights, the "Whirling Dervishes," the "Howling Dervishes," the howling dogs, the "Selambils" of the Sultan, and so on. But, as this is outside the world of modern Greece, to which I am limiting myself, I must not stop to describe our experiences.

It was April 20th when I reached Athens again, and the next two weeks and a half were busy with the last things, visits to the places omitted and re-visits to those of greatest interest. On the 8th of May we turned our faces once more towards the western world, though it was to be several weeks more before we reached home. We came by boat to Sicily, where we spent twelve days in visiting the places of greatest interest, both of ancient and modern times. And we did not omit that modern paradise, Taormina, to which our hearts go back so many times. A week in Naples and vicinity, two weeks in Rome, a week in Florence,—all giving but the merest glimpses—and we found ourselves speeding for Genoa, where we took our steamer the last of June, bound for Boston by the way of the Azores. We reached home July 13, 1903. And I will close this dragging letter—with your permission—with the closing words of my "Journal."

By 9.45 we had reached Cambridge, and had ended our trip of one year and eighteen days, with no serious illness or accident, but with many incidents more or less exciting, and with experiences which we shall live over and over again in the years to come. And here endeth a "Journal," begun with some enthusiasm, continued with interest, but concluded only as a discipline and as a test of perseverance. I am glad that I persevered, but gladder still that the perseverance in this particular matter is no more needed.

DEATHS

1 Selwyn Lewis Harding	January 7, 1887
2 Raymond Rodgers Belmont	January 31, 1887
3 Charles Henry Minot	November 30, 1887
4 Charles Abbot Wilson	August 28, 1888
5 Thomas Parker Sanborn	March 2, 1889
6 Fred Theodore Lincoln	May 17, 1889
7 Charles Lewis Mills	June 7, 1890
8 Cornelius Conway Felton	August 20, 1890
9 Hugh Thompson Dickey	March 11, 1891
10 Arthur Deloraine Corey	August 17, 1891
11 Joseph Edward Sinnott	July 21, 1892
12 Herbert Tufts Allen	December 21, 1892
13 Percy Hayes Taylor	May 22, 1893
14 Adolph Thurnauer Scholle	December 10, 1894
15 Frank Anthony Luques	August 8, 1895
16 Sumner Dow Richardson	August 24, 1895
17 Henry Augustus Richards	October 8, 1895
18 Henry Cowles Miller	February 22, 1896
19 Henry Morton Ayars	April 3, 1896
20 Edmund Nathaniel Snyder	October 1, 1896
21 William Dade Brewer	October 23, 1898
22 Robert Wortley Hogg	October 30, 1899
23 Charles Cutter Burnett	January 17, 1900
24 Lewis Pierce Frost	March 11, 1900
25 John Caspar Adams	July 13, 1900
26 John Henry Rathbone	November 16, 1900
27 Henry Edward Salisbury	July 14, 1902
28 Samuel Cleaves Jones	October 30, 1903
29 Thomas Walter Reynolds	June 2, 1905
30 Dean Richmond Babbitt	June 21, 1905
31 Charles Estus Lamb	August 23, 1905
32 Frank Hamilton Underwood	April 3, 1906
33 Lowell Lincoln	September 19, 1906

34	Walter Howard Edgerly	October 9, 1906
35	Henry Waters Magill	December 11, 1906
36	Stiles Gannett Wells	February 18, 1907

1	Julius Warren Strauss	May 9, 1885
2	Edward Jewett Hall	April, 1890
3	Samuel Blythe Rogers	May 30, 1893
4	James Ellis Humphrey	August 17, 1897
5	George Herbert Fisk	May, 1898
6	Samuel Aldrich Crozer	August 23, 1898
7	William Hall Noyes	April 22, 1901
8	Robert Rawson Grayson	July 26, 1901
9	John Wheeler Bemis	November 25, 1902
10	William Henry Cole	April 8, 1903
11	Frederick Learned Torrey	April 12, 1903
12	Joseph Bluxome Chadbourn	October 24, 1903
13	Roland Hayward	April 11, 1906

OCCUPATIONS

- Law*—E. V. Abbot, Babcock, T. T. Baldwin, W. W. Baldwin, Barnes, Barton, Beal, Bolster, Boyden, Codman, Dickerman, Frost, Gage, Gardner, Gleason, Hight, Hill, Hurley, Kimball, Lapeyre, Lee, Lunt, Merriam, Miller, J. N. Palmer, Peirce, Phelps, Pope, E. Richards, Roberts, Rogers, F. B. Smith, Tyler, Ward, Washburn, Webster, G. M. Weed, G. S. Weed, Weston, Winthrop, G. Woodbury, Wright, J. P. Fay, Hunt, R. W. Jennings, Maverick, Ninde, Powers, H. Taylor, Upham, Wagener, Williams, Leighton.
- Medicine*—Ayer, Churchill, W. F. Clark, Coggeshall, Cook, Day, Gibson, Griffin, Huddleston, Kenison, Leonard, Mallory, Nichols, F. S. Palmer, Payne, Pinckard, Pratt, Pudor, W. L. Smith, S. R. Snow, Somers, J. M. Thompson, Whitman, Wilbur, Wilson, P. Allen, Blake, Brennan, Buckler, Graham, Harding, Hartley, Hurd, Locke.
- Teaching*—B. R. Abbott, E. H. Abbott, Campbell, Carpenter, Cushman, I. W. Fay, Gray, Gunnison, Haley, Henshaw, Hobson, Howes, Jewett, Lloyd, Osgood, T. W. Richards, M. W. Richardson, Santayana, Shea, Stone, von Klenze, Waterman, Wheeler, G. R. White, Winter.
- Business*—H. S. Abbot, W. L. Allen, Austin, Baker, Bradley, Bryant, Cammann, Chamberlain, Cobb, Dewey, J. C. Faulkner, Fechheimer, Fletcher, Hamlin, Harrison, Hood, Houghton, E. B. Jennings, Mygatt, Overton, Porter, Rankin, Rowse, Scott, Simmons, C. B. Stevens, Vogel, G. W. Woodbury, Balcomb, Bird, Bright, Buley, S. Coolidge, Gill, Gilman, Hitchcock, Jor-
- dan, Krumbhaar, Lovering, Parker, Parsons, Thoron, Wood, Wyman, Haughton.
- Church*—Frothingham, Hutchins, Macdonald, Oxnard, Sedgwick, Snell.
- Writing*—Cooper, Morton, R. K. Snow, G. Bradford, Roundy.
- Architecture*—D. H. Coolidge, Dwight, Kendall, Holt, Sprague.
- Music*—Cabot, Henry, G. B. Stevens, Tompkins.
- Journalism*—H. T. Chase, Fullerton, Hurd, Lamont, C. M. Thompson, Hearst, Libby.
- Mining*—C. A. Brown, McKim, Penrose.
- Engineering*—Bruner, C. W. Smith.
- Banking and Brokerage*—D. C. Clark, Ferry, Foote, Bigelow, Borland, Fessenden, Harris, P. S. Howe, Holliday, Moors, Peabody, Perkins, Phillips, Slocum, Zeller.
- Diplomatic Service*—Riddle.
- Stage*—McAllister, Rose, Lander.
- Army*—Frye, Judson.
- Chemistry*—F. W. Smith, Weld.
- Geology*—F. B. Taylor.
- Farming*—Carnochan, H. K. Richardson, Ennis.
- Electricity*—C. R. Brown, Clafin, Fish.
- Trustees*—H. W. Abbot, Ames, Atherton, G. G. Bradford, Fisk, W. H. Howe.
- Drugs*—Fraser.
- Printing and Publishing*—Collins, Noble.

DIRECTORY BY STATES

California

Los Angeles — Holliday.
Los Gatos — F. W. Smith.
San Francisco — Barnes, Somers,
Hartley, Jordan.

Colorado

Colorado Springs — Penrose.
Denver — Pope.

Connecticut

Greenwich — Cammann.
New Preston — Babbitt.

District of Columbia

Washington — Shea, Webster,
Thoron.

Illinois

Chicago — Babcock, Boyden, Bradley, Churchill, Cobb, Lee, Pinckard, von Klenze, Maverick, Roundy, Wyman, Droppers, Leighton.
Decatur — Ennis.
Evanston — Roundy.

Indiana

Fort Wayne — Ninde, F. B. Taylor.

Kansas

Topeka — H. T. Chase.

Louisiana

New Orleans — Lapeyre.

Maine

Lewiston — Hutchins.
Portland — Hight, Pudor, Libby.

Massachusetts

Bedford — Hosmer, Parker.
Boston — Allen, Ames, Atherton, Austin, T. T. Baldwin, Beal, Black, Bolster, G. G. Bradford, Bullard, Cabot, Codman, Coggeshall, D. H. Coolidge, Dewey, Dickerman, Dwight, Fessenden, Fisk, Fraser, Frothingham, Frye, Gardner, Gleason, Guild, Hamlin, Harris, Hood, P. S. Howe, C. O. Hurd, Kendall, Kimball, Longfellow, Lyman, Mallory, Merriam, Moors, Morton, Nichols, J. N. Palmer, Payne, Peabody, C. W. Smith,

W. L. Smith, R. K. Snow, Stone, J. M. Thompson, Tyler, G. M. Weed, Weston, G. W. Woodbury, S. Coolidge, Harding, Haughton, Holt, Hunt, Lovering, Parker, Powers, Tompkins.
Brighton — M. W. Richardson.

Brookline — Hood, Mason.

Cambridge — Osgood, T. W. Richards, C. M. Thompson, Santayana, C. W. Smith, Winter.
Concord — S. Coolidge, Macdonald.

Dedham — C. R. Brown, S. Chase, Roberts.

Fairhaven — Gray.

Fall River — E. B. Jennings, Wilbur.

Fitchburg — Snell.

Framingham — C. A. Brown, Kendall.

Gloucester — G. B. Stevens, G. W. Woodbury,

Hamilton — Gardner.

Haverhill — Porter.

Hingham — Chamberlain.

Holbrook — Hurd.

Hyde Park — J. W. Richardson.

Littleton — Weld.

Lowell — W. H. Howe, C. B. Stevens.

Lynn — Fish.

Middleton — H. K. Richardson.

New Bedford — Pratt.

Newton — Clafin, Dewey, P. S. Howe, Oxnard, J. N. Palmer, Phillips, G. M. Weed, Gilman, Jewett.

Plymouth — Washburn.

Roxbury — Waterman.

Salem — Balcomb.

Watertown — Fletcher.

Wellesley Hills — White, G. Bradford.

Wellington Hill — Gunnison.

West Gardner — Black.

Williamstown — G. E. Howes.

Winchester — Holt.

Woburn — Henshaw, Blake.

Wollaston — Henry.

Worcester — W. T. Clark, Gage, Hill, F. B. Smith, Brennan.

Yarmouthport — H. W. Abbot.

DIRECTORY BY STATES (Continued)

- Mexico
Sonora — McKim
- Michigan
Ann Arbor — Lloyd.
- Minnesota
St. Paul — Sedgwick, Wheeler,
 Riddle.
- Missouri
Kansas City — Ward, Wright.
St. Louis — Kenison, E. Richards,
 Rowse.
- Nevada
Reno — Cushman.
- New Hampshire
Concord — Day.
Keene — A. Faulkner, J. C. Faulkner.
Manchester — Simmons, G. Woodbury.
- New Jersey
Lakehurst — Griffin.
Morristown — Foote.
Perth Amboy — Fletcher.
- New York
Brooklyn — Fay, Hobson.
Buffalo — Cary.
Corning — Houghton.
Dobbs Ferry — McClure.
Hempstead — (L. I.) — Bird.
Jamestown — C. G. H. Stephens.
Jamaica — (L. I.) — Hurley.
Mount Morris — Littauer.
New City — Carnochan.
New York — E. V. Abbot, H. S. Abbot, B. R. Abbott, Ayer, Baker, W. W. Baldwin, Barton, Borland, Bryant, Cammann, Carpenter, D. C. Clark, Ferry, Gibson, Gill, Huddleston, Lamont, Latham, Lunt, Mc-
- Allister, Mygatt, Noble, F. S. Palmer, Phelps, E. Richards, Rogers, Scott, Winthrop, P. Allen, Chanler, Hearst, H. Taylor, Upham, Zeller.
Plattsburg — G. S. Weed.
Rochester — Cook, Perkins, S. R. Snow.
Syracuse — Buley, Krumhaar, Locke.
Yonkers — Cooper, Noble, Williams.
- Ohio
Cincinnati — Collins, Fechheimer, Harrison.
Cleveland — Miller.
- Oregon
Eugene — Campbell.
- Pennsylvania
Philadelphia — Leonard, Peirce, Wilson, Graham.
Pittsburg — Rankin.
- Rhode Island
Providence — Bigelow, Parsons.
- South Carolina
Charleston — Frost, Wagener.
- Tennessee
Nashville — Overton.
- Wisconsin
Milwaukee — Vogel, Bright, Judson.
- France
Paris — Fullerton, Whitman.
- Hawaii
Honolulu — Bruner.
- Italy
Florence — Loeser.
- Nova Scotia
Wolfville — Haley.

ADDRESSES

The Secretary should be notified at once of any change in address.

- Abbot, E. V.
45 Cedar St., New York, N. Y.
- Abbot, H. S.
59 Liberty St., New York, N. Y.
- Abbot, H. W.
Yarmouthport, Mass.
- Abbott, B. R.
27 West 44th St., New York, N. Y.
- Allen, W. L.
85 South St., Boston, Mass.
- Ames, O.
96 Ames Bldg., Boston, Mass.
- Atherton, F. W.
144 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.
- Austin, F. B.
102 North St., Boston, Mass.
- Ayer, Dr. J. C.
31 West 36th St., New York, N. Y.
- Babbitt, E. H.
New Preston, Conn.
- Babcock, C. S.
204 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.
- Baker, W.
15 Dey St., New York, N. Y.
- Baldwin, T. T.
53 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Baldwin, W. W.
11 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
- Barnes, W. S.
Crocker Bldg., San Francisco, Cal.
- Barton, W. K.
141 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
- Beal, B. A.
60 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Bigelow, C. F.
Box 1535, Providence, R. I.
- Black, R. W.
14 Park Square, Boston, Mass.
- Bolster, P. G.
161 Devonshire St., Boston, Mass.
- Borland, W. G.
114 East 36th St., New York, N. Y.
- Boyden, W. C.
107 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.
- Bradford, G. G.
40 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Bradley, J. D.
247 Monadnock Block, Chicago, Ill.
- Brown, C. A.
Framingham, Mass.
- Brown, C. R.
147 Court St., Boston, Mass.
- Bruner, W. W.
Honolulu, Hawaii.
- Bryant, G. B.
16 East 70th St., New York, N. Y.
- Bullard, F.
3 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.
- Cabot, T. H.
232 Newbury St., Boston, Mass.
- Cammann, H. L.
83 Worth St., New York, N. Y.
- Campbell, P. L.
Eugene, Ore.
- Carnochan, G. M.
New City, Rockland Co., N. Y.
- Carpenter, G. R.
Columbia University, New York, N. Y.
- Cary, S.
615 Delaware Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.
- Chamberlain, D. C.
35 Hersey St., Hingham, Mass.
- Chase, H. T.
927 King St., Topeka, Kan.
- Chase, S.
Box 297, Dedham, Mass.
- Churchill, Dr. F. S.
439 N. State St., Chicago, Ill.
- Claflin, A. D.
Newton Center, Mass.

ADDRESSES (Continued)

- Clark, D. C.
51 Wall St., New York, N. Y.
- Clark, Dr. W. T.
61 Pearl St., Worcester, Mass.
- Cobb, G. W.
107 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.
- Codman, E. D.
27 Kilby St., Boston, Mass.
- Coggeshall, Dr. F.
541 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.
- Collins, C.
414 Howe St., Cincinnati, O.
- Cook, Dr. R. G.
242 Alexander St., Rochester, N. Y.
- Coolidge, D. H.
Tremont Bldg., Boston, Mass.
- Cooper, F. T.
36 Hamilton Ave., Yonkers, N. Y.
- Cushman, L. W.
Reno, Nev.
- Day, Dr. A. K.
11 South St., Concord, N. H.
- Dewey, W. R.
34 Oliver St., Boston, Mass.
- Dickerman, F. E.
18 Tremont St., Boston, Mass.
- Dwight, H. H.
Care G. M. Weed, 113 Devonshire St.,
Boston, Mass.
- Faulkner, A.
Keene, N. H.
- Faulkner, J. C.
Keene, N. H.
- Fay, I. W.
357 Ocean Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.
- Fechheimer, S. M.
820 Sycamore St., Cincinnati, O.
- Ferry, E. H.
Hanover National Bank, New York, N. Y.
- Fessenden, S. H.
50 Congress St., Boston, Mass.
- Fisk, F. D.
15 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Fletcher, C. R.
1 High St., Perth Amboy, N. J.
- Foote, R. D.
72 South St., Morristown, N. J.
- Fraser, H. E.
110 Meridian St., East Boston, Mass.
- Frost, F. R.
7 Broad St., Charleston, S. C.
- Frothingham, P. R.
294 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.
- Frye, J. A.
Box 1612, Boston, Mass.
- Fullerton, W. M.
2 Chaussee d'Antin, Paris, France.
- Gage, T. H.
314 Main St., Worcester, Mass.
- Gardner, A. P.
Hamilton, Mass.
- Gibson, Dr. C. L.
8 East 58th St., New York, N. Y.
- Gleason, A. A.
60 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Gray, E. B.
Fair Haven, Mass.
- Griffin, Dr. H. A.
Pine Tree Inn, Lakehurst, N. J.
- Guild, C.
26 Mount Vernon St., Boston, Mass.
- Gunnison, B.
23 Duke St., Mattapan, Wellington
Hill, Mass.
- Haley, F. R.
Wolfville, N. S.
- Hamlin, E. E.
30 Congress St., Boston, Mass.
- Harris, G. B.
84 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Harrison, C. L.
First National Bank Bldg., Cincinnati, O.
- Henry, B. C.
92 Brook St., Wollaston, Mass.
- Henshaw, H. A.
129 Salem St., Woburn, Mass.
- Hight, L. L.
36 Exchange St., Portland, Me.
- Hill, B. T.
314 Main St., Worcester, Mass.
- Hobson, G. P. F.
195 Kingston Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.
- Holiday, W. H.
Angelus Hotel, Los Angeles, Cal.

ADDRESSES (Continued)

- Hood, F. C.
99 Bedford St., Boston, Mass.
- Houghton, A. B.
Corning, N. Y.
- Howe, P. S.
50 Congress St., Boston, Mass.
- Howe, W. H.
315 Sumner St., Lowell, Mass.
- Howes, G. E.
Williamstown, Mass.
- Huddleston, Dr. J. H.
145 West 78th St., New York, N. Y.
- Hurd, C. O.
244 Washington St., Boston, Mass.
- Hurley, F. E.
350 Fulton St., Jamaica, N. Y.
- Hutchins, H. B.
Lewiston, Me.
- Jennings, E. B.
547 High St., Fall River, Mass.
- Jewett, G. F.
Newton, Mass.
- Kendall, F. A.
53 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Kenison, Dr. N. S.
413 Commercial Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.
- Kimball, M. M.
23 Central St., Boston, Mass.
- Lamont, H.
20 Vesey St., New York, N. Y.
- Lapeyre G. F.
1021 Hibernia Bldg., New Orleans, La.
- Latham, M. S.
128 East 34th St., New York, N. Y.
- Lee, E. T.
107 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.
- Leonard, Dr. C. L.
112 S. 20th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
- Littauer, W.
Mount Morris, N. Y.
- Lloyd, A. H.
Ann Arbor, Mich.
- Loeser, C. A.
11 Via Lambertesca, Florence, Italy.
- Longfellow, R. K.
Tremont, Bldg., Boston, Mass.
- Lunt, E. C.
97 Cedar St., New York, N. Y.
- Lyman, H.
26 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass.
- McAllister, H.
Lambs' Club, 128 West 44th St., New York, N. Y.
- McClure, J. F.
Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.
- McKim, M.
Care Rev. J. L. McKim, Milford, Del.
- Macdonald, L. B.
Concord, Mass.
- Mallory, Dr. F. B.
Harvard Medical School, Boston, Mass.
- Mason, A. G.
107 University Road, Brookline, Mass.
- Merriam, J. M.
99 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Miller, W. H.
88 Handy St., Cleveland, O.
- Moors, F. J.
111 Devonshire St., Boston, Mass.
- Morton, J.
Puritan Club, Boston, Mass.
- Mygatt, O. A.
15 East 32nd St., New York, N. Y.
- Nichols, Dr. E. H.
294 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass.
- Noble, G. C.
31 West 15th St., New York, N. Y.
- Osgood, W. F.
74 Avon Hill St., Cambridge, Mass.
- Overton, J. M.
Station B., Nashville, Tenn.
- Oxnard, H. E.
40 Bridge St., Newton, Mass.
- Palmer, Dr. F. S.
602 West 146th St., New York, N. Y.
- Palmer, J. N.
50 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Payne, Dr. J. H.
New Algonquin Club, Boston, Mass.
- Peabody, G. L.
44 State St., Boston, Mass.

ADDRESSES (Continued)

- Peirce, W. G.
708 Commonwealth Bldg., 12th &
Chestnut Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.
- Penrose, S.
Colorado Springs, Colo.
- Perkins, G. N.
Box 382, Rochester, N. Y.
- Phelps, L. J.
34 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.
- Phillips, W. B.
50 Congress St., Boston, Mass.
- Pinckard, Dr. C. P.
Columbus Memorial Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
- Pope, H.
University Club, Denver, Colo.
- Porter, C. D.
14 Maple Ave., Haverhill, Mass.
- Pratt, Dr. C. A.
60 Orchard St., New Bedford, Mass.
- Pudor, Dr. G. A.
134 Free St., Portland, Me.
- Rankin, E. E.
602 Park Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.
- Richards, E.
25 Broad St., New York, N. Y.
- Richards, T. W.
15 Follen St., Cambridge, Mass.
- Richardson, J. W.
29 Pine St., Hyde Park, Mass.
- Richardson, M. W.
67 Brookdale Road, Brighton, Mass.
- Roberts, O. B.
High St., Dedham, Mass.
- Rogers, R. F.
45 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
- Rowse, E. C.
518 Fullerton Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.
- Santayana, G.
75 Monmouth St., Cambridge, Mass.
- Scott, S. M.
488 St. Nicholas Ave., New York, N. Y.
- Sedgwick, T.
563 Portland Ave., St. Paul, Minn.
- Shea, D. W.
Catholic University, Washington, D. C.
- Simmons, W. W.
Manchester, N. H.
- Slocum, W. H.
15 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Smith, C. W.
120 Milk St., Boston, Mass.
- Smith, F. B.
314 Main St., Worcester, Mass.
- Smith, F. W.
Los Gatos, Cal.
- Smith, Dr. W. L.
397 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass.
- Snell, A. L.
Fitchburg, Mass.
- Snow, R. K.
27 Newbury St., Boston, Mass.
- Snow, Dr. S. R.
267 Alexander St., Rochester, N. Y.
- Somers, Dr. G. B.
2662 Vallejo St., San Francisco, Cal.
- Stephens, C. G. H.
117 East 6th St., Jamestown, N. Y.
- Stevens, C. B.
403 Andover St., Lowell, Mass.
- Stevens, G. B.
16 Bellevue Ave., Gloucester, Mass.
- Stone, W. A.
Care Merrill, Oldham & Co., 35 Congress St., Boston, Mass.
- Thompson, C. M.
128 Brattle St., Cambridge, Mass.
- Thompson, Dr. J. M.
134 Huntington Ave., Boston, Mass.
- Tyler, C. H.
77 Ames Bldg., Boston, Mass.
- Vogel, A. H.
2629 Clybourn St., Milwaukee, Wis.
- von Klenze, C.
University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.
- Ward, H. C.
Bank of Commerce Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.
- Washburn, J. B.
Plymouth, Mass.
- Waterman, W. B.
41 Waumbec St., Roxbury, Mass.
- Webster, W. G.
1540 17th St., N. W., Washington, D.C.
- Weed, G. M.
113 Devonshire St., Boston, Mass.

ADDRESSES (Continued)

- Weed, G. S.
Moer's Block, Plattsburg, N. Y.
- Weld, F. C.
CareAveryChemicalCo., Littleton, Mass.
- Weston, R. D.
70 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Wheeler, C. N. B.
25 North Dale St., St. Paul, Minn.
- White, G. R.
Wellesley Hills, Mass.
- Whitman, Dr. C. C.
20 Rue de Lubeck, Paris, France.
- Wilbur, H. G.
292 North Main St., Fall River, Mass.
- Wilson, Dr. W. R.
1709 Spruce St., Philadelphia, Pa.
- Winter, I. L.
Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.
- Winthrop, G. L.
Lenox, Mass.
- Woodbury, G.
48 Hanover St., Manchester, N. H.
- Woodbury, G. W.
3 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass.
- Wright, E. C.
309 Fidelity Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.
-
- Allen, Dr. P.
3 East 48th St., New York, N. Y.
- Balcomb, C. S.
8 Ocean Ave., Salem, Mass.
- Bird, O. W.
Hempstead, Long Island, N. Y.
- Blake, Dr. H. G.
512 Main St., Woburn, Mass.
- Bradford, G.
Wellesley Hills, Mass.
- Brennan, Dr. J. J.
20 Portland St., Worcester, Mass.
- Bright, E.
309 East Water St., Milwaukee, Wis.
- Buckler, Dr. T. H.
1201 St. Paul St., Baltimore, Md.
- Buley, J. E.
Weiting Block, Syracuse, N. Y.
- Chanler, W. A.
120 Broadway, New York, N. Y.
- Coolidge, S.
Lowell Bleachery Co., Lowell, Mass.
- Ennis, W. S.
Decatur, Ill.
- Fish, W. C.
Lynn, Mass.
- Gill, E. M.
140 5th Ave., New York, N. Y.
- Graham, Dr. E. E.
1713 Spruce St., Philadelphia, Pa.
- Harding, Dr. G. F.
419 Boylston St., Boston, Mass.
- Hartley, Dr. R. E.
697 Haight St., San Francisco, Cal.
- Hearst, W. R.
New York Journal, New York, N. Y.
- Holt, H. C.
15 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.
- Hosmer, E. H.
Bedford, Mass.
- Hunt, T.
70 State St., Boston, Mass.
- Hurd, Dr. G. P.
Box 628, Holbrook, Mass.
- Jordan, R.
2563 Washington St., San Francisco, Cal.
- Judson, W. V.
Federal Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis.
- Krumbhaar, L.
Care Solvay Process Co., Syracuse, N. Y.
- Libby, C. T.
193 Federal St., Portland, Me.
- Locke, Dr. H. G.
517 East Genesee St., Syracuse, N. Y.
- Lovering, E.
843 Exchange Bldg., Boston, Mass.
- Maverick, M.
1208 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.
- Ninde, H. W.
817 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne, Ind.
- Parker, F. S.
50 Congress St., Boston, Mass.
- Parsons, G. R.
49 Westminster St., Providence, R. I.

ADDRESSES (Continued)

- Powers, T. W.
30 Court St., Boston, Mass.
- Riddle, J. W.
385 Pleasant Ave., St. Paul, Minn.
- Roundy, W. N.
6029 Ellis Ave., Chicago, Ill.
- Taylor, H.
35 Wall St., New York, N. Y.
- Thoron, W.
1741 K St., N. W., Washington, D. C.
- Tompkins, G.
42 Mt. Vernon St., Boston, Mass.
- Upham, R. B.
62 Liberty St., New York, N. Y.
- Williams, H. S.
15 Overlook Terrace, Yonkers, N. Y.
- Wyman, F.
100 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.
- Zeller, W. F.
25 Broad St., New York, N. Y.
-
- Droppers, G.
University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.
- Haughton, N. G.
70 Kilby St., Boston, Mass.
- Leighton, G. W.
100 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.
- Taylor F. T.
548 Home Ave., Fort Wayne, Ind

At the Class Dinner in June, 1907, Odin Roberts made the following irreverent and evidently incorrect remark: "The class has produced one notable and epoch making invention, a noiseless explosive of great power, Dr. John H. Huddleston, who goes off, but makes no report."

2735 118

Digitized by CJOOGC

S-2244-107-200-246